Merle Lutz, manager of the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce, believes that the summer of 1980 will be one of the best Northern Michigan has ever experienced. It is nice to encounter such unfettered optimism when most of the eonomic news is so grim.

Of course, so much depends on the weather. Personally, I'm betting on a real humdinger of a summer. Winter has been mild and Lake Michigan's ice is disappering faster than usual. Gardeners are beginning to turn over their soil and the first summery day is only a daffodil away.

COST-CUTTING fever is beginning to afflict all levels of government. Jimmy Carter announces budget cuts both this year and next; the City of Charlevoix trims one mill from its annual levy; Charlevoix Township decides to ask for only one mill to replace the two which expire this year.

This month we will discover whether members of the Charelvoix County Board of Commissioners are among the victims of cost-cutting fever. Will the board continue to levy the statutory limit of 15 mills? Or, in light of recent whopping increases in assessments, will it retrench to 14 mills or even 13?

You can be sure that units supported by the county levy will continue to ask for their full share of the 15 mills. But wouldn't it be nice if the board — for once — said "no" and sent the budget-makers back to their computers?

Nuclear power: Safe and economical

Letters

Editor:

The great deal of attention given the nuclear debate in your newspaper has prompted me to write with a side of the story seldom discussed, that is, what energy options are available to this nation?

First, how much energy does this country need? Current energy usage is the equivalent of 14.4 billion barrels of oil per year. This is expected to rise to 19.8 billion barrels of oil per year by the year 2000. The State of Michigan requires about 4% of this energy.

There are currently three viable non-nuclear options available to this country: coal, oil, and natural gas. Let's look at these options individually. First, coal, which presently accounts for much of the electricity generated in this country. True this country has large reserves of coal, but along with coal use comes acid runoffs into streams, acid rains which damages agricultural crops and forests, soot which contains up to four times the radioactivity a nuclear plant is allowed to emit, plus death from mine accidents, black lung, railroad accidents, etc.

Next, oil. Anyone wishing to know the problems with oil need only fill up their gas tanks; plus the supply is questionable and under foreign control.

That leaves natural gas. Although natural gas does indeed offer a possible solution, its use for such things as heating homes, heat treating metals, making fertilizers and many other chemical uses makes it too valuable to burn at approximately one-third efficiency to generate electricity.

In addition to the above problems is the "greenhouse" effect suggesting carbon dioxide released by burning fossil fuels will cause the Earth's atmosphere to heat up possibly melting some of the polar icecaps and causing flooding.

"Alternate" energy sources – solar, wind, hydro and geothermal – offer some additional energy potential but present prospects are not good. (Note: these are really "supplemental", not alternate sources.) It shall be quite awhile before these systems can be brought on-line on a large scale even with large amounts of developmental money.

That leaves nuclear or conservation. It is this author's opinion that conservation will only occur as prices increase (not a very popular idea). Further it is questionable how much conservation will aid our energy picture. Therefore if we want jobs, televisions, dishwashers, heated homes, etc., it seems that our best option is nuclear power. In 1979, 11.5% of this nation's electrical energy was produced by nuclear power which amounts to over 16,800,000,000 gallon of oil.

In the Charlevoix area this debate centers around the Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant. I want to state that I work at Big Rock Point and would hate to see this plant closed, not because my job depends on it, but because it closes a valuable option to this area and to the country. I'm glad that Big Rock Point could assist to supply safe, economical nuclear power.

Q/A Property Taxes

This is the fourth in a series of articles on the general property tax law and its reference to the ever increasing assessments of property, taxes and true cash values.

This week we shall talk about State Equalized Value (SEV). What is equalized value? Understanding exactly what is meant by State Equalized Value seems to be difficult for many taxpayers. In the last article we talked about the state system of property taxation and in Charlevoix County we have 18 different units involved in setting the assessed value of property located within their jurisdiction. Charlevoix County has 3 cities and 15 townships. It is evident that there will be a difference in the approach to value that the different assessors might use. Consequently, there are differences in the assessed value that individual assessors place on like parcels of property.

State law requires, therefore, that a factor must be applied to total assessed value of each taxing unit in order to bring them up to 50 percent of true cash value and 50 percent of true cash value is known as the State Equalized Value, (SEV).

Remember how we discussed that the County Equalization Department made studies to determine what share of county total each unit of government carried within the county? Well, the State Tax Commission has the responsibility of ensuring that each county in the State of Michigan carries its fair share of value. The state accomplishes this by auditing the county's studies as well as performing studies of their own to check what the county does. If the county equalizes at one value which is known as County Equalized Value and the state agrees that the county commissioners have set the correct level they should be–then the State Equalized Value and the County Equalized Value are the same. However, if the state determines the county is below what they find, then they add to the total of the county. This creates an equalization factor to multiply assessments by to bring the unit of government up to the required level and to maintain equity amongst taxpayers.

The County Board of Commissioners is required to submit their Equalization Report to the State Tax Commission each year for approval. The County Equalization Report is a recap from the equalization studies done in the county each year. Periodically (yearly) the State Tax Commission spot checks parcels of property within township and/or city and determines the necessary amount to be used to bring the total assessed value of the county to the state equalized value. This amount that is added or deducted is pro-rated back to the different taxing units by the percent of county total that the commissioners established for each township and city at the equalization session in April. Remember the commissioners have created equity between the units of government within the county–therefore if the state adds to total county, it is placed on each unit by the percent of total that the county commissioners determined each unit carried.

In the final analyses the State Tax Commission determines what factor must be used by each local taxing unit to equalize the valuations. Now, while we are becoming increasingly aware of the burden property tax is placing on taxpayers, remember the assessor, the board of review, the Equalization department, the County Board of Commissioners, as well as the State Tax Commission have the same laws to follow. And it was the people through the constitution and their legislatures that created these laws. While it is easy to take your wrath out on the local authorities, it does not change the law and in time you lose efficient, capable people who are trying to comply with the laws that you set down for them to follow...Answer to the dilemma seems to be to work toward changing the law if that is what the people desire. Later on we will discuss this a little more, when we get into discussing taxes themselves. In the next article there will be an illustration to further help you understand the relationship between assessed value and state equalized value and how state equalized value creates equity for a tax base and ultimately taxes..

Public Affairs Director clarifies letter on radiation

Editor:

I'd like to offer some clarification to a letter to the editor (March 12, 1980) concerning radiation. The letter failed to state that the dose rates mentioned and their effects relate to acute exposures.

A radiation dose of less than 50 rems to humans shows no effects. (A rem is a measure of the amount of biological damage caused by the absorption of radiation energy by man). From 50 to 100 rems, a clinical examination would show a lowered blood count for both red and white cells.

A dose of 200 rems might cause death in weakened individuals. A dose of 500 rems would be lethal to 50 percent of an exposed population within 30 days. A dose of 1,000 rems would be lethal to all of an exposed population if that dose were received in a short period (an hour or less). However, a dose of 1,000 rems spread over a week or greater time span would probably not even be noticeable to healthy individuals.

A person would have to absorb about 100 to 200 rems in a matter of an hour or less to produce a visible effect. At that dose a person would have noticeable tiredness, nausea, possible vomiting, and a lowering of blood cell counts after a few days.

In addition to acute effects long term effects may occur. The long-term effect is that there will be one chance or less of a cancer death per 10,000 persons for each rem of exposure they each receive. The risk of cancer without radiation exposure is 1,600 chances per 10,000 persons. Thus, the 200 rem exposure discussed above would raise the risk of that individual from 1,600 per 10,000 to a risk of 1,800 per 10,000.

In perspective, normal background radiation we are all exposed to is about a tenth of a rem per year (the natural background radiation from our houses, the ground and all the things around us accounts for about 0.1 rem). If you lived at a nuclear plant site boundary and stayed around the house all 24 hours of the day, the most you could receive would be an extra 0.008 rems per year. If you lived a mile away, you would not be likely to receive more than 0.0006 rems a year. If you lived more than five miles away there would be no effect.

What does [illegible] rems mean? A chest x ray generally exposes a person to 0.0[illegible] rems of radiation. Flying twice across the country on a jet means about 0.004 rems of exposure. If you live in a brick or concrete house, you're exposed to about 0.045 rems per year. In a stone house, it would be about [illegible] rems and in a wood house about [illegible].

The point of all these numbers simply is that standards are set so that radiation from nuclear power plants is no greater than the normal variation between groups of individuals. This means it is just about statistically negligible and produces no undue risk to the health and safety of the public. (Standard setting bodies include the Federal Radiation Council, the International Commission on Radiological Protection and various groups from the United Nations. Members of these groups do not necessarily represent the views of the government or the nuclear power industry. They are scientists, doctors and other professionally trained individuals). In contrast to low limits for nuclear power plants, other radiation users such as hospitals and industries are limited to a higher value for the public of 500 millirems per year.

In closing, in some parts of India and Brazil constant "background" radiation reaches as high as 3 rems per year. To put that figure in perspective, the average person in the United States receives about 0.15 rems–including medical procedures–of radiation in a year.

That means that many persons in Brazil and India are receiving up to 20 times as much "natural" radiation each year as persons in this country.

Sincerely,
Phil Loomis
Public Affairs Director

Letter on nuclear power used false and twisted in formation

Dear Readers:

I am writing this letter because I am concerned about the false and twisted information about nuclear energy that is constantly being presented to the public by a few people. Some of this information is purposely intended to arouse and alarm the reader into believing what is not true, or else to support a cause. It concerns me because the average person does not have the time or resources to obtain or investigate correct information and, therefore, relies on the general news media. Chicken Little got all her friends in the barnyard needlessly alarmed, and look what happened! Her friends did not take time to get the facts but the fox knew better.

A recent letter to the editor by John O'Neill II is typical of the type that has twisted information and is written so as to needlessly arouse the public. The article started out by printing the names of some highly respected people and was then followed by a quotation which led one to believe it came from them, but actually came from "Time Bomb" (doesn't that one sound authoritative??). The article also twisted the reader to trust the [illegible] when it quoted the President of Consumers Power Company. The item was concluded with "Imagine...he (Mr. Selby) is asking the victims to cut their throat". Well, dear readers, it is "imagination" and is not even applicable nor was it even implied by the president. This kind of imagination is not the truth.

The repeated information about exposure to any radiation can be fatal, is again typical of an alarming approach. The clue here is the word "can". There is absolutely no place on this planet or solar system that is free from radiation. Yet, life was created and continues. It is pure "hog wash" to assume that any radiation causes genetic mutation or sterility as was mentioned in a letter a few weeks ago. If that was so, how does life exist as it is today? The answer lies in the amount and length of time it was received.

I do not want to sound pessimistic, but as soon as any type of life begins, it is already starting to die. If it is a human being, it will average out to die 60-70 years later. During that time, the human will receive constant radiation that will total more than the figures quoted by those who say it causes "death, sterility, or mutations". Therefore, it is obvious that there is threshold limit that the body can withstand. (This is evident when one gets a sunburn verses a suntan.) These threshold limits were experimented with, calculated and set by scientists and authorities, and not by average, ordinary individuals. Industry, including hospitals, manufacturers, etc., then abide by a set of standards that are deemed acceptable by these authorities. If everyone died or was mutilated when they received a diagnostic x-ray, how long would we continue to give x-rays? Therefore, dear readers, do not be led to believe the unsound.

Big Rock is not an unsafe plant, nor is there any intention to make it less safe. It is staffed and operated by some of the nation's top skilled, trained, educated individuals; some of whom are tested and licensed by the federal government. These people have families, children, relations and loved ones and if they know of anything that is unsafe, it is addressed properly.

In this world of billions of people, there are bound to be differences of opinion about topics. But, on the other hand, if we let only opinions affect the outcome of all our daily and worldly activities without reason or logic, then the "fox" is going to get us. The late John F. Kennedy once said, "too often we take pleasure in opinion, without the discomfort of thought." The citizens of Charlevoix had to make a decision when Medusa made a proposal awhile back. The decision had to be based on logic and facts and not based on "flapping and squawking around the barnyard," from those on either side of the issue.

There are individuals who are trying to alarm the area citizens into believing that Big Rock is a threat to the community and society. I do not want to bore you with quotes and statistics, but any threat (real or anticipated) and is practically immeasurable. The facts and data are available for anyone interested. Then, after one obtains that information, it has to be compared to other daily routine activities in this society, which are also available. Statements that Big Rock is a threat has no basis unless it is compared with something else that everyone can understand.

A complete falacy that keeps arising is that there would be "martyrs" at Big Rock if there was a "Three Mile Island accident". Big Rock's control room is designed, and always has been, for safe personnel occupation at any time. Repeated statements saying that the control room would have to be abandoned is just not so (whether it was an equal percentage of the amount that was released at Three Mile Island, or a 100% release at Big Rock). The NRC knows this, and to imply that they know anything else while they continue to permit unsafe operation, is misleading.

I, too, am a concerned citizen and, at times, I am very opinionated. But if a decision has to be made that will or could affect the health, safety and welfare of the people, the decision has to be based on facts. Dear Readers, what I am trying to say is that if any decisions, whether local, political, legislative, etc. have to be made, we have to give it some thought and not be persuaded by false "barnyard" alarms.

Josh Billings, a 19th-century American humorist once said, "The trouble with most folks isn't so much their ignorance, as knowing so many things that ain't so." I find that applicable many times, and I will be the first to admit that I am not exempt.

Sincerely,

Meet Charlevoix

By Peg Ohle

Ethel Wiesinger is one of Charlevoix's best known senior citizens. This week the Courier talks with her – a little bit about this and a little bit about that.

Q. You started the German conversation club, didn't you?

A. Yes, and it's amazing that most of the members have never been to Germany although they are of German descent. They remember their grandparents and when we use certain German words, they will remember and say, "My grandmother – or grandfather – used to say that." It's interesting to see people call back the past. We are all alike. We do not forget our roots. It gives us insight into human beings. We have about 30 people in the club, and now they've formed a class in German in the evening school at the college in Petoskey.

Q. You are head of the book sale for the Women's Club, right?

A. Oh, yes. It's a most interesting activity. I sit for weeks arranging the books for the sale. Do you know I can judge the people by the books they bring in. And we get so many lovely books. Last year we got the whole library from a home in Grand Rapids. It took two trucks to bring them up. There were a lot of very good books, including religious books, and they sold right away. There's a university professor from Ohio who comes up every year especially for the sale. He buys cartons of books for the university. We took-in $800 at the sale last year. It takes time and effort but it's worth every bit of it. The money is used for Indian scholarships and we make donations to the hospital, to the park stage, and to help buy winter clothes for the underprivilged.

Q. What other things interest you?

A. I do needlepoint and play bridge regularly with three other ladies. I like to entertain and cook, especially Chinese dinners. But most important to me is reading. I read only worthwhile books – not love stories or mysteries. Right now I'm reading about Kissinger's years as Secretary of State.

Q. Where did you grow up?

A. I was born and grew up in a little town in the Karpathian Mountains of Austria. I went to school there, too. We studied hard. School hours were from 8 to 12 and 2 to 4, even for six-year-olds. We studied all kinds of subjects – botany, geology, geography, physics, drawing, calligraphy, handwork, religion. There were three main religions in Austria then. Mostly there were Catholics but there were also Protestants and Jews. Twice a week, a priest, a minister, and a professor came to school to teach the Bible to the students of their faith. We studied it from beginning to end. I don't why we can't do that here now. Also, I firmly believe that in the United States, the ability of children is underestimated. I remember the poetry we learned–you wouldn't believe it. School was an institution of learning, and to live up to it, we dressed up. We could not go to school looking sloppy. I would never have thought of going to school without polished shoes and gloves.

Q. We know you spent many years in China. How did that come about?

A. I went to China with my parents in 1910 to visit a sister whose husband was in the diplomatic corps there. That's when I met my husband. He was in the export-import business. We lived in Shanghai most of the time but we traveled back and forth all over Europe. Sometimes my husband would send me on business trips alone. I remember one of those trips. It was November, 1924 and I was in Batavia, Java. The governor had invited a group of us to the palace for a special occasion. That occasion turned out to be the arrival of the first fleet of airplanes ever to land in Java. You never saw such excitement. Speaking of China, I like to remember that when the Standard Oil Company first made oil available to the Chinese people, my husband provided the lamps. Remember the book, "Oil for the Lamps of China"?

Q. Where did you live after you left China?

A. In Beverly Hills, California, near all the movie stars. I lived there until I came here in 1967. My daughter, Edith, married a Detroit man, Julius Gilbert, and they had a summer home in Charlevoix for many years. Now, of course, they live here all the time. I have another daughter, too, Dr Margaret Wiesinger. She's at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale, Illinois. I don't know what you call her field, really, but she examines locations for shopping centers – population, economic conditions, and so on.

Q. You've had an interesting life, haven't you?

A. Yes, and sometimes at night when I can't sleep I think about a lot of things. About all the traveling we did, the coming and going. And I think about how in my day girls grew up to do needlepoint, play the piano, be hostesses and wives and mothers. I remember that in school we used to sing about the Kaiser. Why can't our school children sing about America?

Q. What are some of your present-day concerns?

A. I'm concerned about America. It used to be a melting pot but now each ethnic group seems to be banding together for their own purposes. Like the Croatians setting off bombs in New York City. And I'm concerned about the Middle East. I've written several letters to Sadat. He's the only one you can write to, the only sensible man. I've received many lovely letters in return. I don't know that Sadat sees my letters but I like to think that maybe some of my suggestions can help with the problem.

WRC offers classes

Personal growth, parenting and consumer education classes will be offered through the Petoskey Women's Resource Center Special Needs Program in seven week segments starting April 17.

The classes will be held at the Big Brothers-Big Sisters headquarters in Charlevoix from 9 a.m. until noon.

Registration will be handled at the first session or by phone 347-3973 (extension 205). The program is available at no cost and child care will be provided on location.

Harper joins staff

FM station expected to make debut in May

Northern Michigan's new, high powered FM radio station, WKHQ, is expected to make its debut in May, according to New Broadcasting Corporation President Tim Moore.

The 100,000 watt station will be located at [illegible] on the FM dial.

Moore said the format for WKHQ will be entirely different from that of the corporation's AM station, WVOY.

"They are two separate radio stations," Moore said. "WKHQ will be an entirely different product."

WKHQ will be a blend of rock stereo and contemporary music, Moore said. To program the new station, Moore has announced the hiring of Bob Harper, a nationally known radio personality. Harper will be director of programming.

"I feel like we've just signed Roger Stauback," Moore said after Harper agreed to join the corporation's management team. "He is the ultimate contemporary programmer, a great on-air talent, and a tremendous person."

Harper will join WKHQ in early May after completing a year as director of contemporary services for TM Programming in Dallas, where he worked with Moore, consulting over 300 radio stations across the United States.

Harper's credentials read like a Who's Who in broadcasting. Originally from Allentown, Pa., Harper moved to major circles quickly. He did pogramming and air work at WKQV in Pittsburgh and WSAI in Cincinnati. He worked with ABC radio to develop the ABC owned and operated FM stations "rock-in-stereo" concept. He took over Capitol Cities Broadcasting (owners of WJR) WKBW in Buffalo when it was poorly rated and downtrending and promptly turned that 50,000 watt station into one of the country's best adult pop stations today. He was credited with reversing the course at WGCL in Cleveland. He was selected by one of the industry's top research groups, Frank Magid Company, to head broadcast consultation. And in July he agreed to head the consulting for the TM contemporary stations.

"Bob did a fantastic job for us in Dallas. He completely streamlined our stereo rock format and immediately improved its already strong ratings performance across the country," Moore said. "Bob has a tremendous feel for how to grab and audience and hold it. He may be the best contemporary music mind in radio! I'm really proud to have him as a member of our management team and I'm very pleased personally because we're good friends."

Moore added that Harper will continue to consult for TM and, in fact, will probably even pick the music for the TM stereo rock format from the Charlevoix studio.

"Bob and I want to continue consulting radio stations, but want to start with our own. We're looking forward to joining forces again to make WKHQ a dominant, well regarded radio facility," Moore said.

On to the state fair ...

Of the nine high school students who entered projects, eight received honors. Todd Culver, Bill Mosher, Willie Ranger and Mike Zednicek captured first place ribbons; Steve Rozema and Kevin Purvis won second place ribbons; and Fred Mielke and Steve Cooper received honoreble mention ribbons.

Of the 25 middle school students entered in the competition, five won ribbons. Frank Bernadyn took first place in wood turning, Lyle Klieber took second place in general woodworking, Robbie Schlappi took third place in general woodworking and an honorable mention in wood turning, Garrett Cooper took fifth place in general woodworking, and Mike Donnelly took an honorable mention in general woodworking.

Buzz Balmer and Dick Reed

Weathervane Inn to re-open

The Weathervane Inn Restaurant, closed since Jan. 1, will re-open for business May 1.

The restaurant will be under new ownership. Birmingham attorney Buzz Balmer and his brother-in-law, Dick Reed, have purchased the restaurant from Dick Aull.

"I've always been interested in this area," said Balmer, who owned the Steinhaus in Petoskey for four years. "I think there is a lot of challenge and opportunity here.

"This is a well known restaurant. It has a class reputation. And it has a class location."

Balmer, 37, has been an attorney since 1967. He has managed several restaurants and, at present, owns a party store. Reed, 35, is self-employed, serving primarily as a consultant in the data processing field.

"My business background compliments his (Buzz) law expertise," Reed said of the partnership.

The new owners plan a few subtle changes at the restaurant. According to Balmer, the menu will accent fish - like whitefish, trout and salmon - rather than seafood. Good California wines will be emphasized, too, Reed said. Balmer added that the carpeting and lighting in the main dining room and Pine River room will be changed to "tie-in" with the nautical atmosphere of the channel.

Jim Dahlka will be the chef. Dahlka has several years of experience in food preparation, including a stint with the Ford Motor Company (chef in the executive private dining room), Balmer said.

"We will strive for consistency, good service and a menu that is appealing to everyone," Balmer said. "And if we are efficient and friendly, the place will sell itself."

Balmer said the restaurant will be open "seven days a week year 'round."

Several individuals and food service establishments recently participated in a Food Managers Course held at the Holiday Inn of Petoskey. Elaine Underhill and Ruth Hausler of Boyne City Schools; Virginia Smith of Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District; [illegible] of Duffy's of Charlevoix; Flora Chabrier of Grandvue Medical Care Facility; Thomas Mooradian of Harbour Inn; Jerry Mercier of Country Star Restaurant; Lori Kopecki of Fireside Inn; Richard Simon of Giant Super Market; Linda and Sue Gardner of Kentucky Fried Chicken; Glen Aurand of Holiday Inn; John Spray of State of Michigan Corrections Camp Program; Vic Beck, Jr. of Vic's of Petoskey; Don Walker and Timothy Hayner of Hayner's Motel, Inc.; Ed Park of Harbour Inn; Verna Swanson and Elizabeth Meadows of Charlevoix Public Schools; James Daunter of Petoskey Area Vocational Center; Hollyann M. Brown of Petoskey High School Vocational Ed; John McPhillips of Texan of Petoskey; Dave Phillips of Grey Gables Inn; and Gail Stormzand of Northern Michigan Hospitals, Inc.

If you take a trip to Traverse City this summer, expect to encounter some road work on US-31.

Bids to resurface 2.2 miles of US-31 from one mile north of the south county (Antrim) line, north to Elk River, will be accepted in Lansing on Wednesday, April 16.

The project, which will also include the addition of bituminous shoulders and the repairing of pavement joints, is expected to cost $400,000. The completion date is projected for August.

APR

Common Sense, the Census, and Illegal Immigration.

Our national census is scheduled to be taken in April. It is the aim of the Census Bureau to count everyone in the United States. That makes good common sense.

However, the Census Bureau wants to include all illegal immigrants in the official count. And that total, including illegal immigrants, will be used to determine how many representatives each state will have in Congress. That's not good common sense.

To include illegal immigrants in that total count would give them representation in Congress and would deny millions of Americans their right to be properly represented in Congress through the next 10 years.

No one knows how many illegal immigrants there are in this country. Estimates by the Immigration and Naturalization Service have ranged from 4 million to 12 million. If only 8 million are counted in the census, it could take representatives away from 13 states and add to those of 6 other states. That's not good common sense.

Until we decide how to deal with illegal immigration, the least we can do is to prevent it from distorting the House of Representatives.

America always has offered almost unlimited opportunities for immigrants who left homelands where there was overpopulation or persecution. We provided them with a higher standard of living, freedom, jobs—a fresh start in life.

Prior to the 1920's, when there were almost no restrictions on immigration, America received about one million immigrants per year. During the last 10 years, America has again been receiving about one million per year. The difference is that in those earlier years, virtually all immigrants entered the U.S. legally. Since 1970, most of them have entered illegally.

Gasoline and power shortages, soaring relief rolls and high unemployment are among the many signs that we are already stretching our limited resources. Continued illegal immigration further complicates this problem. That's not good common sense.

Consider unemployment. Secretary of Labor F. Ray Marshall says, "There is a surplus of people vying with illegal immigrants for jobs in short supply." Noting that one of the lowest estimates of illegal workers in the United States is 4,000,000, Marshall states, "If only half, or 2 million of them are in jobs that would otherwise be held by U.S. workers, eliminating that displacement would bring unemployment down to 3.7%, which is below the 4% full employment target of the Humphrey-Hawkins Act." He adds, moreover, that "the real tragedy of this displacement falls on the most vulnerable people in our society: minority teenagers, women who head families and older workers." FAIR agrees.

FAIR, the Federation for American Immigration Reform, has sued the Census Bureau to require that the count of illegal immigrants be made separate from the count of citizens and legal resident aliens. The Justice Department has replied that, under the Constitution, illegal immigrants could be allowed to vote for Congress and for the President. That's not good common sense.

The FAIR suit, joined by 2 Senators and 24 U.S. Congressmen, is now before the Supreme Court. In addition, Congressional supporters of the suit have introduced legislation in both the Senate and the House of Representatives to require the Census to exclude illegal immigrants from the figures used to reapportion Congress.

If you, as a concerned citizen, are troubled by this situation, it makes good common sense to mark the appropriate box below.

'A Tribute to His Master'

Huybrechts to perform music of Flor Peters

'A Tribute to His Master' will be presented by August Huybrechts on Monday, April 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the First Congregational Church. This special program presented by Huybrechts, organist and choirmaster of St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey, is in conjunction with the newly formed Bridge Branch of the Cherry Capital Area Chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Huybrechts began playing service masses in Stabroek, Belgium at St. Catherine's Church when he was 10 years old. He was appointed organist of the church at the age of 14. Subsequent study with Flor Peeters, organist, teacher and composer, as well as director of the Royal Flemish Conservatory and member of the Royal Academy of Belgium resulted in his graduating with excellence. Huybrechts came to Petoskey from Belgium in March of [illegible].

Huybrechts serves as organist-choirmaster at the St. Francis Xavier Church of Petoskey, as well as teaching organ and piano and composing music. He was formerly the organ instructor at the Interlochen Arts Academy.

Huybrechts is well qualified to present the music of Peeters for he studied with him for more than six years after World War II. Peeters, with his compositions and organ presentations influenced all organists and Roman Catholic Churches around the world. Huybrechts has claimed that Peeters had "flawless technique with perfect control and discipline." In commenting of his personal attitude, Huybrechts has said that Peeters "always talked calmly and yet with great authority."

For the program at Charlevoix on April 14, six compositions written by Peeters will be featured. Members of the American Guild of Organists will be sharing Huybrechts on the pipe organ. Huybrechts will discuss the life and works of Peeters and present the Symphonic Fantasy. Fran Tollas of Charlevoix will sing "Aubade" with Flemish text by Jozef Simons and also Peeters' "Lord's Prayer". Wayne Wyrembelski of St. Mary's Cathedral in Gaylord will present Abdyrrede and the Aricao from the Concerto for Organ. George Mulder of Interlochen will present the Aria for organ by Peeters. There is no admission charge for the program. Everyone is cordially invited.

Enrichment seminar scheduled this week

A Personal and Family Enrichment Seminar is scheduled this week, April 11 and 12, at the Community Church of God, 202 W. Hurlbut Street, in Charlevoix, according to Pastor Walter G. Hastings. The guest leader will be Dr. David New, pastor-counselor from Midland. Sessions are scheduled for 7-9:30 p.m., Friday and 9:30 a.m.-3 p.m. Saturday.

Dr. New, currently pastor at the East Ashman Church of God, has traveled extensively throughout the United States and many foreign countries as a lecturer, family life seminar leader and evangelist. He has pastored churches in California, Indiana, and Oregon, and has served as administrator of a California child care and family counseling center. Dr. New is a graduate of Anderson College and its Graduate School of Theology, in Anderson, Indiana, and received his PhD in 1972 from the California Graduate School of Theology.

A former research chemist, Dr. New has been an active leader on both the local and national church scene. His ministry has produced numerous articles, lectures, plays, regular radio programming and extensive curriculum writings.

Areas covered in this week's seminar include the Biblical Basis for Love, Sex, and Marriage; Appreciating Our Uniqueness (Self Respect and healthy self images); Interpersonal Communication Skills; Conflict Resolution; Parenting, with guidelines for single parents and grandparents.

The community is invited to the seminar sessions. Nursery care is provided at all services. Call the church office at 547-2875 for information regarding registration.

LeLeche League to meet

The Charlevoix LaLeche League will meet at 110 W. Hurlbut Avenue at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday, April 15.

If you or any member of your family is awaiting a new arrival, this month's meeting should be of interest to you. The topic to be discussed is entitled "The Family and the Breastfed Baby".

The informal discussion will center on how to manage the first hectic weeks with emphasis on the entire family as well as timely tips for both mother and baby.

Anyone wishing more information may call Jenny Bellairs at [illegible].

Rev. John Bell and his wife.

Rev. Bell to deliver 3 prophetic messages

The Rev. John Bell, former pastor of the Eastport Baptist Church, will return to the church on three Sunday evenings in April to deliver three prophetic messages.

On Sunday evening, April 13, at 7 p.m., he will speak on the subject, "Prophetic Signs on the Earth"

On Sunday evening, April 20, the subject will be "Prophetic Signs in Outer Space".

On Sunday evening, April 27, he will speak on the subject, "Prophetic Signs and Their Effects on People".

The Rev. Bell has been a pastor for over 38 years. He is a former instructor of Prophecy, Theology, and the Book of Revelation at the Northern Michigan Bible Fellowship in Gaylord. At the present time, he is engaged in Bible Conference work and pulpit supply to the churches of the Grand Traverse area.

Everyone is invited to attend the three Sunday evening sessions to hear what are called "unique messages."

United Methodist Women plan luncheon, bazaar

The United Methodist Women of Charlevoix will have a spring salad/casserole luncheon, bake sale and mini-bazaar at the church dining room, 105 State Street, Thursday, April 17, according to Mrs. Don Leonard, general chairman.

Serving will begin at 11 a.m. and continue until 1:30 p.m.

A wide variety of casseroles and salads, rolls, dessert and a choice of beverage will be offered. Tickets will be $2.50 for adults and $2 for Senior Citizens.

There will also be a sale of home-baked foods as well as a mini-bazaar, Mrs. Leonard said. Mrs. Jill Washburn will be in charge of these.

Mrs. Coy Groves will be in charge of the dining room and Mrs. Lee Moerland and Mrs. Eldred Ostrum the kitchen.

Dan Iannotti joins Real Estate Place

Iannotti has lived in Charlevoix for several years, and deals with all aspects of real estate, specializing in commercial and [illegible].

Iannotti built and operated Schuss Mountain at Mancelona. He brought to northern Michigan one of its first land development programs, including condominium and single family dwellings that encompass the resort's 14 [illegible].

Obituaries

BERNHARD ALM

Funeral services for Bernhard T. Alm, M.D., 72, retired Petoskey physician, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home here Thursday. The Rev. Donald Merrill of the United Methodist Church in Petoskey officiated. Interment was in [illegible] cemetery.

Dr. Alm died Monday at the Veterans Hospital in Battle Creek where he had been a patient for three years.

Dr. Alm was born in Chicago Nov. 24, 1917. He was educated at Galesburg, Ill., and received his medical education at Michigan State University and Wayne State University. He interned at Receiving Hospital in Detroit.

During World War II, Dr. Alm served with the U.S. Army Air Force as a flight surgeon. Among his assignments were medical inspecter with the North Africa Wing of the Air Transport Command and assistant surgeon with the same command; commanding officer of an Air Force Hospital at Bangor, Me., and at Selfridge Air Force Base; wing commander, 106th Medical Wing; general officers staff, First Bomber Command, Langley Field, Va.; general officers staff, Anti-Submarine Command, New York City; served on the national promotions board for majors in Washington, D.C. and as medical director of the U.S. Air Force Hospital at Peterson Air Force Base, Colorado Springs, Colo. He also served at Bethesda Naval Hospital and at Kincheloe Air Force Base Hospital.

Dr. Alm retired as a Colonel in 1946 and came to Petoskey where he took over the practice of the late Dr. W.H. Mast. He was on the staff of Lockwood-General Hospital and at one time served as Chief-of-Staff of Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital. He had also served as city physician in Petoskey for many years, resigning in 1972 because of ill health.

Dr. Alm began his career in the military on Jan. 21, 1932, when he enlisted in the National Guard from which he retired Nov. 24, 1967, after serving 35 years. He returned to Petoskey to resume his medical practice until forced to retire because of failing health.

Dr. Alm was a member of the United Methodist Church, the Northern Michigan Medical Society of which he was a past president; Michigan State Medical Society; Florida State Medical Society; the American Academy of Family Physicians; the National Selective Service Board; the National Rifle Association; the Veteran of Foreign Wars; the Ivanhoe Commandry No. 41, Traverse City; Durand Lodge No. 344, F. & A.M., and the B.P.O.E. of Petoskey.

Dr. Alm was a member of the board of the American Heart Association in Broward County, Fla., and was a member of the National Retired Officers Association.

While living in Detroit he was a member of the Fisher Body Medical Department and medical director of Gleaners Life Insurance Co. of Detroit.

He is survived by his wife, the former Marie Blanchard, whom he married June 25, 1965, a son, Bernhard T. Alm, Jr., of Petoskey; two daughters, Adrienne Marie of Grand Rapids and Julienne Margaret of Petoskey and a sister, Edna Lucille Tolman of Lansing.

GLENN GILL

Private funeral services for a former resident, Glenn B Gill, 68, who died Saturday at St. Joseph's Hospital in Phoenix, Ariz., following a long illness, were held Tuesday at [illegible] Funeral Home in Phoenix. Burial was in a Phoenix cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix April 9, 1911, Mr. Gill lived here until the mid-1930's when he made his home in Sheboygan, Wis., until moving to Phoenix in the mid-1960's.

Surviving are his wife, Olivia; two daughters, Mrs. Shirley N. Schlegel and Mrs. Karen K. The new home of the Bergmann Center

Bergmann Center acquires new home

Bergmann Center of Charlevoix will have a new home in the next few months.

The center, which provides employment and training for mentally and physically handicapped residents of the area, has purchased the former Charlevoix Chemical Co. building on [illegible].

The present facility at 201 East Garfield Street has reached its full capacity for usefulness and will be sold, according to Ken Brill, program [illegible].

Bergmann Center is a non-profit organization incorporated in 1962 as the Charlevoix Association for Retarded Children. It was renamed the Bergmann Center in 1973 in honor of Lillian Bergmann, who was a driving force in the establishment and [illegible].

At the present time, 25 employees work five days a week from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the center. They do subcontract work for Weather Shield Sports Equipment, Inc., Hoskins Manufacturing Co., Lexalite Corporation, Freedman Artcraft, and [illegible], all Charlevoix industries. They are paid bi-weekly on the basis of their productivity. Many "graduates" of Bergmann Center have been able to enter the competitive labor market because of the center's good [illegible].

Extensive remodeling is needed to convert the Charlevoix Chemical Co. building into a work activity center that [illegible]. An improvement fund has been [illegible] the work and the work will progress in steps as money [illegible].

Bergmann Center will appreciate any donations of money, materials, or talent for the remodeling job. Already planned is a benefit sponsored by the I.O.O.F. Lodge, from which Bergmann will receive 90 percent of the proceeds.

Basic support of Bergmann Center comes from the Michigan Department of Mental Health through the Northern Michigan Community Mental Health Services Board and the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. The center is accredited by the Commission on Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities.

Serving on the six-member staff, in addition to Brill, are Jessie Cunningham, Jean Mort, Helen Denny, [illegible].

Opposed to expansion

Irwin 'dubious' of nuclear power

"If you want my honest opinion, I'm dubious of nuclear power. Nuclear power is a source of power that we have to keep in check. Instead of expanding, I think we should improve what we have. Assure safety. We should also work to resolve the disposal problem. Until we find a solution to that problem, we're playing with fire."

Whether his constituents agree or [illegible] took a stand on the nuclear power issue Friday. Irwin, who spent his Easter break touring the 37th district, met with Charlevoix area residents at the Fireside Inn to discuss nuclear power. Several plant employees from Big Rock and anti-nuclear activists were in attendance.

"I am not a proponent of pursuing aggressively at this time nuclear power as our panacea in solving the energy ills of America," Irwin said. "I think we should closely scrutinize it. We ought to be assessing the economic, environmental and - most importantly - the safety questions of nuclear power in light of the new era we are embarking [illegible]."

"I don't want to shut the door on nuclear power entirely," he added. "Because, in a sense, we are over a barrel."

"We need a balanced, comprehensive energy program," he said. "The sun is a priority with me, although I don't think we can use that as a primary source."

"The difference between renewable and non-renewable energy is the difference in my position. That energy which is renewable has my full support. The area of solar is one. Look at the forest industry! The potential is great."

Irwin admitted, however, the government has done "very little" to advance alternative sources of energy.

Mitch Irwin

"For a long time oil and gas were reasonably priced," he said. "Then we [illegible]."

Irwin also stressed conservation.

"By far the No. 1 priority of this country should be conservation," he said. "We can save a minimum of 25 percent in every household - and possibly upwards to 50 percent - by using some practical conservation methods."

One of Irwin's primary concerns - regarding nuclear power - is the lack of a disposal site for waste. He emphasized that Michigan has a responsibility for exploring the waste problem - since the state produces nuclear waste - but that Michigan has not been selected as a "dumping ground."

Irwin said he still opposes an increase in the spent fuel storage capacity at Big Rock.

"For an experimental plant that is one of the oldest in the country and that may have some serious safety questions - that the NRC has brought to light - I don't think we ought to be promoting a major expansion. I want to make it clear, though, that I'm not advocating we close the plant [illegible]."

Irwin said the meeting in Charlevoix [illegible].

"I learned that the two sides (of the issue) often times react to emotion and rhetoric as opposed to any conciliatory discussion on facts and often times the facts can be misrepresented or not fully understood because of a lack of communication," he said. "I think it's important to cool the rhetoric and get down to factual presentations."

Irwin asked that Big Rock Public Affairs Director Phil Loomis meet with representatives of the Concerned Citizens for Charlevoix to hold more [illegible].

"I think others like this would be a benefit," Loomis said. "And it would be a good opportunity for us to find out a little more about each other."

'Challenge' gaining momentum

The "Charlevoix Challenge" festival over the Memorial Day weekend is gaining momentum, according to David Fowler, one of the organizers of [illegible].

The latest challenge comes from Betty Vordenberg of Oden, who is setting up a duplicate bridge tournament with "teams" from Petoskey, Cheboygan, Traverse City, and Charlevoix participating. The event will be held Friday evening, May 24, at a location to be announced later. Anyone having a suitable location for [illegible] at 547-9314. Also, any group wishing to challenge the other bridge players may do so by contacting Ms. Vordenberg at 547-7761.

The Charlevoix Jaycees have had good response to their challenge to a tug-of-war competition with four opponents already lined up, Fowler reports. Dan Alder is handling the tug-[illegible] may be reached at 547-9971 to accept challenges.

The golf tournament is now definite. It will be an 18-hole affair, and further details may be obtained from Joe Etienne at 547-2461.

The tennis tournament, which was described last week as being a "40 and over Doubles Event", should have been called a "40 and over Men's Doubles Event". It will be held on Sunday and Monday, May 25 and 26, under the direction of Gunnar Lundteigen, 547-[illegible].

The whole weekend is being called a "fun-raising" experience rather than a "fund-raising" venture because of the many fun events that are planned.

Fewer trips planned

Boat services starts to Beaver Island

The Beaver Island Boat Co. opened its scheduled runs between Charlevoix and St. James on Monday, two days later than last year, according to Lawrence McDonough, business manager.

McDonough also reports that because of increased costs of labor and fuel, coupled with the general economic climate, 45 trips have been dropped for the 1980 season.

He said each round-trip to the island now costs $900, making cost-cutting steps mandatory.

"The company has the mail contract and that should be a source of income," McDonough said, even though contract rates have not kept pace with inflation.

The reduced schedule calls for the Beaver Islander to make only one trip a day during the summer, with two trips on Saturday. Other years the boat made two trips a day during the busiest part of the summer.

The smaller South Shore will make only one trip to the island a week — on Fridays during July and August — carrying both passengers and freight. The South Shore formerly made about 70 trips a season.

McDonough said additional trips will be scheduled if the need arises.

[illegible] McDonough had reported that reservations were down 30 percent from one year ago. However, reservations have been coming in more rapidly and are now down only 10 percent.

"Things are looking better for us, but not as good as they might," he said.

He blamed the smaller number of reservations on uncertainty over employment and energy.

"People are uneasy about so many things these days," he said. "We hope things will level off before our big season begins."

To compensate for increased operating costs, the company has raised passenger and vehicle rates by approximately 10 percent and freight rates by 20 percent.

In preparation for the opening of the season, the Beaver Islander, with Capt. Russell Green at the wheel, was scheduled to leave Charlevoix at 12:30 p.m. today for St. James which will be its base of operations for the present. During the remainder of April, the boat will make round trips to the mainland on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

During May, the Beaver Islander will make weekly trips to Charlevoix except on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Beginning June 1, the boat will operate daily and on June 21 will move its base of operations to Charlevoix, leaving the mainland at 8:30 a.m. and returning at 5 p.m.

During July and August, the boat will make one trip a day, except on saturday when it will leave Charlevoix at 8:30 a.m. and again at 2:30 p.m.

During September and October, the boat will operate every day but Tuesday, with St. James as its base of operations. The schedule calls for four weekly trips in November and three weekly trips in December. The season will end shortly after Christmas.

McDonough has announced his retirement as business manager this summer. He is staying on the job to help his replacement Eric Kammerman, learn the ropes. President of the company is [illegible] of St. James.

For assistance in case of emergency

Invalids asked to contact sheriff's department

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is issuing a second plea for the names of persons who reside within a 10-mile radius of the Big Rock nuclear plant who would be unable to evacuate themselves in the event of an emergency at the plant.

In issuing the plea, Sheriff George T. Lasater said, "This does not mean there will be an emergency. We want to be prepared in case there is one. All we are trying to do is locate residents who might need assistance should it become necessary to evacuate them. This list would also serve during any natural disaster such as a tornado or blizzards such as we experienced in 1978."

When Charlevoix area residents were asked earlier this year to call the sheriff's department with the names of those who might need assistance in an emergency, only seven persons responded.

"We know there are more than that" Lasater said. "We just want to know where these people are so they can be contacted and made aware of the assistance that is available to them."

Lasater said that arrangements have been made to transport these people via chartered bus, ambulance or private vehicle, as the need requires, to the Grandvue Medical Care Facility where there are facilities to care for them until they can be returned to their homes.

It has become necessary for Charlevoix County to organize an evacuation plan on orders from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission. The Sheriff's Department is cooperating with Emergency Services in establishing an area wide alarm system as well as the evacuation of persons needing assistance in an emergency.

"This is being done for your protection. It is part of an overall plan for the entire area. You are not being singled out because you have a handicap or an infirmity. We are just being practical when we say we want to know where you are and to let you know how we propose to help you in the case of an emergency, natural or man-made," Lasater said.

Lasater said that any person who is handicapped or who has an infirmity resulting from a stroke, injury, arthritis, illness or age should feel free to ask to have his or her name added to the list that is being compiled.

Letters of instruction on what to expect and what will be expected of you will then be mailed to all those on the list. When necessary, a personal contact will be made to clarify any instructions not understood, Lasater said.

"Those of us at Emergency Services and the Sheriff's Department feel that it is better to be prepared and never have to use the plan than to be unprepared and create panic should this ever become a reality," Earl Muma, director of Emergency Services, and Laster said.

What lies within a 10-mile radius of the Big Rock Point Plant?

All of Hayes Township where the plant is located, all of Charlevoix Township and the City of Charlevoix, the northern fringes of Norwood, Marion and Eveline townships and the western section of Resort Township in Emmet county.

Call 547-4461 with the name, address and telephone number of anyone you might know who falls in this category.

Cancer crusade kick-off April 30

The Charlevoix County Chapter of the American Cancer Society will hold its annual cancer crusade kickoff get-together, Wednesday, April 30, at 1 p.m. at Boyne Mountain's Deer Lake Beech House between Boyne City and Boyne Falls.

All cancer crusade volunteers and anyone interested in participating in the crusade are urged to attend.

Dr. Mitchell Carey of East Jordan will be the featured speaker and two films, "You Make A Difference" and "Special Days" will also be shown.

Vivian Woodcock of Boyne City, this year's crusade chairman reports: "The purpose of our crusade is two-fold: we want to help save people's lives by teaching them about cancer, and we hope these same people will play a part in saving the lives of others through their support of American Cancer Society programs with contributions"

Crusade volunteers will distribute "You Do Make a Difference", a pamphlet which emphasizes cancer's seven warning signals, during the crusade which will take place during the month of May in Charlevoix County.

"Nearly one-third of all cancer patients survive the disease," Mrs Woodcock said, "but through early detection and treatment the ACS estimates 50 percent could be saved. That's why we consider our crusade a vital service to residents in Charlevoix County." Anyone desiring further information about the crusade may call Mrs. Woodcock at [illegible].

Illinois company gets bid on band uniforms

The Charlevoix High School marching band will be stepping out in new uniforms come September now that the Charlevoix Band Boosters uniform selection committee has accepted a bid and made a choice of styles.

The uniforms will be purchased from DeMoulin Brothers of Illinois, who submitted the low bid. The bid also included garment bags and rainwear, Michael Filkins, band director said.

The decision on the style was made after the selection committee narrowed the bids to DeMoulin Brothers from whom the present uniforms were purchased.

The uniforms will be in the traditional maroon and white. A sample is being made so it can be shown next month.

The committee with the fund-raising chairman, David Fowler, Mrs. Merle Plagge, Mrs. Frank North, Mrs. Norman Cook and Mrs. Richard Krueger made the decision after meeting with other adults and students.

The major part of the fund raising projects scheduled for May 26 when the band uniform fund benefits from the visit of the S.S. Medusa Challenger's visit to Charlevoix.

Correction

A story that appeared in last week's Courier said that Buzz Balmer and Dick Reed had purchased the Weathervane Inn. According to Dick Aull, Balmer and Reed are the "prospective owners" but as of yet "no money has changed hands."

Aull said the restaurant will re-open May 1 under his ownership.

DIAMONDS. THE GROOM'S CHOICE

When the right person comes along, you'll know it. I'm sure you've heard that saying before, and, if you're ready to seek your engagement, you can personally vouch for the truth of it.

How about "When the right diamond comes along, you'll know it." Have you heard that one? Well, if you have, DON'T BELIEVE IT! Because it takes more than human insight to judge a diamond. It takes a trained eye and gemological know how to understand what's what with diamonds. You should seek the help of a gemologically trained jeweler.

If you're in the market for a diamond engagement ring, you should seek out a jeweler who can explain diamond quality to you and present you with your alternatives. American Gem Society jewelers are well educated in this respect and will be happy to show you your diamond under magnification or graphically illustrate the effect Cutting, Color, Clarity and Carat weight have on diamond value.

At Reusch Jewelry we distribute consumer information brochures to our customers which explain these Four C's of diamond value. Our trained staff makes sure that our customers understand exactly what they're buying. We know how important this is, especially when buying as meaningful an item as an engagement ring.

Interlochen director to conduct CHS bands

The Charlevoix High School bands will present a concert at the high school gymnasium at 7:30 p.m. Monday under the direction of Michael Filkins.

Bruce Galbraith, director of the Interlochen Arts Academy and vice president of the Interlochen Center for the Arts, will be here as a guest conductor.

The Concert Band will present Minuet and Country Dance, Gordon; Little Grieg Suite, Grieg, and Bolero for Band, Osser.

The Symphonic Band has selected for presentation Emblem of Unity, Richards; Grainger's Irish Tune from County Derry; Military Symphony in F, Gossec, with Mr. Galbraith as guest conductor; Analogue, Leckrone, and Festivo, Nehlybel.

The program is open to the public.

Artists deadline nears

May 10. That's the deadline for artists in the Charlevoix area to submit slides of their work to the Detroit Institute of Arts and its "Michigan Artists 80-81" competition.

Four regionals will be held in the state with Charlevoix artists participating in the central region.

Open to all mediums - traditional oil paintings to new video art forms to crafts - "Michigan Artists 80-81" is the largest juried art exhibition ever held in the state, organizers say. Over 10,000 artists are expected to compete.

The central region competition will be highlighted by an exhibition Sept. 14 through Oct. 17, containing works by those artists surviving the initial judging coming up shortly after the May 10 deadline.

The regional exhibitions will be topped by an all-state show at the Detroit Institute of Arts Sept. 15 through Nov. 8, 1981. Treated as a major exhibition, a catalogue featuring the selected artists and their works will be published.

More information can be obtained from local art organizations.

Q/A Property Taxes

This is the fifth in a series of articles on the general property tax law and its reference to the ever increasing assessments of property, taxes and true cash values.

●

This week we are going to use an illustration to further help you understand the relationship between assessed value and state equalized value and how state equalized value creates equity for a tax base and this is used to compute your tax [redacted].

A home having a true cash value (TCV) of $20,000 would have a state equalized value (SEV) of $10,000. (The 10,000 representing 50 percent of true cash value). Assuming that a local assessor assessed such property at $5,000 than a factor of 2.00 would be set for this taxing unit. When the assessment of $5,000 if multiplied by this factor of 2.00 it would bring it up to the required level of 10,000. (SEV).

The following illustration may help to show how the equalizing factor is applied in order to equalize the tax paid on a like parcel of property in three different taxing units. In this illustration it is assumed that each taxing unit is using a different percentage of true cash value in arriving at assessed valuations. It is also assumed that all taxing units (townships and cities) are located within the boundaries of the [redacted].

1. True Cash Value	$20,000	$20,000	$20,000
2. Percentage of TCV used for assessed valuation by assessor	50%	33⅓%	25%
3. Assessed Valuation (By Assessor)	10,000	6,667	5,000
4. State Equalized Factor	1.00	1.50	2.00
5. State Equalized Valuation (50% of TCV)	10,000	10,000	10,000
6. Total Millage based on SEV (including allocated and voted millage)	40 Mills	40 Mills	40 Mills
7. Actual tax spread (line 5, the SEV x line 6 the tax rate)	$400.00	$400.00	$400.00

From this illustration it may be noted that if assessors use the same guideline for arriving at TCV for all parcels of property within their taxing unit, the factor established by the State Tax Commission will apply equally to all parcels. This should be true even though the assessor may arrive at a true cash value which may be higher than or lower than that computed by the State Tax Commission.

Now we know what SEV means on the notice of assessment change that we received in early March. We also know what the factor of 1.00 or the factor 2.00, or the factor 1.35 or more, means. The real increase or decrease that a taxpayer receives in tax base is between their SEV each year. There are times when an assessment might not change for 3 years or more and when the assessment is increased to 50 percent of TCV, people get very upset when they consider the percent of increase in their assessment change and they can't imagine that there could be such a whopping increase in one year. There really isn't, if the assessor hasn't been keeping the assessments up to 50 percent of true cash value as required. If the unit has received a factor of more than 1.00 in prior years, the factor keeps getting higher as long as values are raising in an area, and as long as the assessor doesn't change his assessments.

Remember it is the market that is creating values. The courts have ruled that true cash value and market value are synonymous in the valuation and assessment of property for tax purposes and is to be used as the standard and not merely as a guideline. The assessor and Equalization Department and county commissioners, as well as the State Tax Commission, are measuring those historical sales, but they are certainly not creating value.

Your next question might be, than who is creating value or market? Let's explore the question for a moment. Who buys and sells property? In talking with some of the people in the assessing profession, they said they constantly hear such remarks as, "people with lots of money come up into this area and buy property at ridiculous prices." Interesting! Who is asking these so called ridiculous prices. Is it the realtors in the area? Surely they have a lot of input into prices. Is it the people who live here that follow the bent of human nature and want the very most they can get for their property? Or is it the person moving into the area that wants to find a decent place to live and has to pay top dollar because that is all that is available? Sounds like this gets into the theory of supply and demand. After a while those "ridiculous" sales, become [redacted].

The next statement that is also heard by the assessing profession is that "the assessors, Equalization Department, State Tax Commission shouldn't use sales to establish value?" Why??? You mean the people in the assessing profession shouldn't follow the law and work within the Constitution statutes that the people voted for? We hardly believe that the people would want unprofessional people working for them and exercising their own personal views, instead of what the people set down for them to follow and the people provided the laws that were enacted. Have you ever stopped to consider that if there were no taxes that most people probably would not care what their property's market value is, nor their state equalized value, except perhaps the higher the better. Just where do taxes come from? Who decides what taxes are going to be levied and how much the taxpayer is going to pay? Where do my tax dollars go? Did the tax limitation amendment help cut my taxes. The tax limitation amendment was better known as Headlee to most people. We will discuss just how this did affect your tax dollar in one of the future articles.

Series planned for seniors

A series of art and craft exhibits and programs - to be held in conjunction with the lunch program at Charlevoix High School - will be provided for senior citizens in Charlevoix County.

Tenatively, five exhibits and programs are scheduled.

April 22-24 - Woodcarvers Exhibit

April 29 - "Hard Times" stories to be written by senior citizens (entries must be turned in at the high school lunch room by April 23).

May 13-15 - Hand Work Exhibit (knitting, leather work, etc. - entries must be submitted by May 6)

May 20-22 - Photo Exhibit featuring [redacted].

Senior citizens who need transportation to the high school for the exhibits and programs should contact [redacted].

Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative to participate in joint study

A joint feasibility study toward a cooperative venture in power co-generation has been announced by Clyde L. Johnson, executive vice president and general manager of Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative, Inc., of Boyne City, and John L. Ham, vice president and general manager, Packaging, Corporation of America, Filer City.

The two companies have agreed to study the feasibility of a waste-wood fired electric generating plant which would be located on Packaging Corporation's property adjacent to its paper mill at Filer City.

Under the terms of the proposal, Northern Electric would build the power plant with PCA supplying wood wastes from its paper mill's wood processing system. In return, PCA would utilize the power plant's exhaust steam in its paper making process.

According to Johnson, electricity generated by this plant would be fed to Michigan's interconnected electric power grid to help offset the growing demand for electrical power.

The current proposal envisions a power plant which would produce 30 to 50 megawatts of electricity. Packaging Corporation's use of the exhaust steam from the generating turbines would eliminate the need for expensive and wasteful cooling towers and condenser and would provide a much more efficient use of the primary waste-wood fuel.

Present target date for completion of the feasibility study is late this year.

Nuclear power issue should be put to a vote

Letters

Editor:

When electricity was first being used there were a lot of people who were afraid of it, but even so it was developed to the point where it is today. Would the handful of fearful nuclear protestors be willing to give up the use of electricity? Yet people are killed every year in "electrical accidents."

When the Ford car first went on the streets, people said it should be outlawed – "we'll all be killed." There are 40,000 people killed every year by the descendants of the first automobile.

Do the protestors of nuclear energy walk out to Big Rock or drive horses to get there to demonstrate their ignorance?

I live about three miles from Big Rock and have no fear of it. In the 20 or more years of the development of nuclear energy not one single person [redacted].

The "terrible" Three Mile Island "disaster" didn't kill anyone. The media scared the area people into [redacted].

The question of development should probably be put to a vote like it was in Sweden where they are going ahead full-speed into the future.

Sincerely,
[redacted]

Thanks for the fine service

[redacted]

I would like to publicly thank Mrs. Anita Wimmer for the fine service she has given to Charlevoix. I am referring to the running of the Michigan Public Beach House in recent years and before that the stand at Depot Beach.

Wherever she is things are a little cleaner, a little nicer, a little better. It is wonderful to be able to buy good quality at a fair price and under clean [redacted].

While I am signing only my own name, I know I am speaking for the many summer and permanent residents who have patronized her.

Thank you, Anita!

Why not mail census back?

[redacted] we filled it in and mailed it back promptly in the enclosed prepaid envelope. In the instruction booklet, we were told that "If the form is not mailed back, a census taker would be sent out to assist you. However, it would save time and your taxpayer dollars to fill out the form yourself and mail it back."

I'm curious to know why these simple, uncomplicated instructions were not carried out in Charlevoix. Why were the residents told to fill out the form, keep it in a safe place and wait for a census taker to pick it up and check it? Why was this door-to-door canvas necessary? Who authorized it? And where did the money come from to pay these canvas workers? I understand the minimum wage for this [redacted].

It strikes me as being a very costly and unnecessary expenditure—since most people are quite capable of filling out the form or could request assistance if they needed it—and a very gross invasion of personal privacy.

[redacted]
(Mrs. Wm. Ratigan)

Editor:

Wonder why Michigan (according to the news media) is "one of the few States" where citizens must hold their 1980 Census forms to be picked up, rather than mailing them in?

They can't read (without stumbling)

They can't write (without [redacted])

They can't add (without a computer)

Big Rock more than a building

It's with interest that I read and hear of wishes by a minority that Big Rock be shut down. My interest is piqued even further when offers are made to help plant workers find other employment.

Let's keep in mind that employees are here for a number of reasons, among them: they like their jobs (it is safe or they wouldn't be here); they like the area; they were born and raised here; and importantly, they are working to provide electrical [redacted].

Longtime residents and businessmen tell of the good Big Rock did for the area when it became operational in 1962. It is still doing good for the area, and the employees are doing good for the area. They are not only receiving benefits from the area, but they are also adding to it.

Approximately 30 percent of the plant personnel are involved in community activities: civic clubs; church functions; United Way; government; chamber of commerce; Little League president; sports booster president, and Big Brothers-Big Sisters to name just a few. Fifteen employees have been at the plant since 1962. The 15 original employees presently at the plant, in total, have 48 children. In contrast to "hazardous" and "adverse conditions" implied through "...dangers of low level radiation", one gentleman at the plant is the father of 10 children...two former plant superintendents each have 12 children.

Big Rock's annual payroll for 108 employees (plus more than 40 Burns Security personnel) is about three and a half million dollars. Property taxes paid to Hayes Township in 1979 amounted to $504,580.60.

We also have numerous people visit the area to conduct business with Big Rock. Included are Nuclear Regulatory Commission personnel; company traveling repair crews. General Electric Company; Exxon Corporation; Southwest Research Corporation; and Catalytic Corporation, among others. Virtually all our supplies are purchased locally, and a great deal of work is locally [redacted].

In one recent 15 month period, 1300 persons visited the plant for business purposes. It's estimated they spent a [redacted] the area.

The point is...Big Rock is more than just a domed building along the shore of Lake Michigan. It's people who, while working hard to provide a clean and safe form of electrical energy, are also working to help make the area the nice place in which it is to live.

Speaking on crime - hand bag stolen

On Wednesday April 2, I was at the Boyne City Middle School as a guest speaker showing slides of Japan to a class. I was talking to the class about the fact that Japan has the lowest crime rate in the world and that it is safe to walk at night in Tokyo or anywhere in Japan without any fear of being mugged or anything of this sort. I was quoting from Paul Harvey's comment that Japan does not tolerate crime. I further explained that Japanese people have tremendous pride in their homes, schools, communities, companies (where they work) and the nation.

The tragedy and the irony of the morning was that when I was ready to leave, to my utmost dismay, I discovered that my hand bag was [redacted].

I am writing this letter to you now because I want to appeal to the students and the parents of the Boyne City Middle School and the citizens of Boyne City to please be on the look out for my brown leather hand bag. There were many personal things inside of my hand bag such as my driver's license, I.D. cards, a pair of prescription sun glasses, etc., that have no value to anyone but myself. I am really heart sick. I do not expect to have the cash returned but I earnestly hope and pray [redacted] and return it to the school or to the police station.

A favorite Sundew story

Although the official transfer papers have not been signed at this writing, it appears certain that the Coast Guard [redacted] port — Duluth, Minn. — this summer.

But regardless of the reason, there will be few dry eyes in Charlevoix the day the Sundew leaves, because a lot of [redacted].

Has anyone kept track of how many Coast Guardsmen assigned to the Sundew have married Charlevoix girls during the past 22 years? I doubt it, but their number is legion. Or how many former Sundew crewmen and their families have made Charlevoix their last port-of-call after their tours of duty [redacted]?

The Sundew has been an important "watermark" in the life of Charlevoix and we are proud to have been her home port for so many years. Whenever the Coast Guard holds open house, we swagger along her decks like pirates who have just seized the flagship of the Gold Fleet. We'll miss the tantalizing aromas of her galley, the glitter of the bright work in her pilot house and the aura of the open sea that clings like barnacles to her buoy deck.

[redacted] the whole town every time he docked [redacted] or Round Lake, he would proceed full [redacted] intersection of Bridge and Clinton streets. Just as pedestrian began to scatter, he'd bring her about hard to starboard and slip her into her berth as quiet as a water spider.

Another skipper liked to make a wide arc through Round Lake to give him a clean shot at the channel. He would back up almost to the marinas on the south shore, before reversing the [redacted] Tom Loeb's dock that a nervous deckhand dropped anchor to stop the ship.

But the Sundew was always a friend [redacted] themselves in a pinch. I remember one winter before the advent of the snowmobile when a group of sports [redacted] ice of Lake Charlevoix off Ferry Beach. One of the events was to be a motorcycle race on the ice and [redacted] help clear a track.

[redacted] Scout were hard at work moving snow when, Crack! Drost scrambled to safety but the poor Scout sank into 20 feet of frigid water.

The vehicle would have had to stay [redacted] broke a path to the spot the next day and Don Meggison went over the side in his wet suit to hook a cable to the axle. [redacted] rest and Drost's Scout was back in [redacted].

And who can forget that dreadful [redacted] Sundew arrived in Charlevoix, when word spread that the freighter Carl D. Bradley had sunk in the vicinity of the [redacted] to the scene through mountainous seas and raging winds to search for [redacted].

Of the 35 men aboard, only two survived. [redacted]

Meet Charlevoix

Jim Knight is a junior at Charlevoix High School and participates in many school activities. In addition, he devotes many hours to his church, the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene, especially the Teen Bible Quiz Team of the church. This week the Courier talks with Jim about his [redacted].

●

Q. Do you participate in any sports in high school?
A. I'm on the football team – play center and defensive tackle.
Q. Any other activities?
A. I play trombone in the band.
Q. What else takes up your time?
A. I'm a stockboy at Olesons, and there's the Teen Bible Quiz Team at church. The team came in third in the Michigan District in Grand Rapids last week.
Q. Is there further competition for you?
A. Yes. I received the second place individual award so I'll be going to Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee, Ill. to compete in the 10-team midwest regional quiz.
Q. How does the Bible Quiz work?
A. Each year they select a book of the Bible for study. This year it's the Book of Acts. There are 75 verses from the Book of Acts that we have to memorize, and we're supposed to [redacted] be asked any one of the 75 verses in the contest. The people doing the quizzing start the quotation with a couple of words [redacted].
Q. How long are the verses?
A. They vary. They may be only 10 or 11 words, and then they could be three or four lines. The ultimate would be to [redacted] each chapter.
Q. How do you train for a quiz?
A. It takes a lot of drill. This is my fifth year, but it's the first year I've ever done much good. I've studied six hours a week every week since September.
Q. Why do you spend all this time training and participating in the quizzes?
A. Because it's a chance to meet people in other cities of the same age and who go to the same church I do. And it helps me with my school study habits, especially memorizing. It's improved my study habits.
Q. How many are there on a quiz team?
A. There are four of us, Bryan Steelman, Andre Fiedler, my sister Sue Knight, and myself. My mother is the coach. She's worked with us every Sunday and Wednesday night at 6 p.m. [redacted].
Q. Your father is minister at the church. Is it difficult being a "minister's kid"?
A. No, I'm proud of it. The kids at school sometimes give me a hard time but I take it all in fun. As far as doing things is [redacted] it – if He would do it – then it's O.K. Of course, our church is [redacted].
Q. You seem to enjoy your church.
A. I do. I enjoy going to church. I sing in church and in a quartet when all four of us are at home. I'm also president of our young people's group, Nazarene Youth International.
Q. What do you want to do "when you grow up", as we say?
A. I want to study medicine – I'd like to go into general practice. Right now, I have two schools in mind – Olivet Nazarene College in Kankakee and the University of [redacted].
Q. How long have you lived in Charlevoix?
A. Three years. We came here from Colorado Springs at the end of my eighth grade, so I entered high school as a freshman. Before that we lived in Detroit and State Line, [redacted].
Q. We know you have a sister, Sue. Are there other brothers and sisters?
A. I have two brothers, too. Edward is 11 and David is nine.
Q. How do you spend any spare time you might have?
A. I like to play golf and to hunt and fish.
Q. What happens if you do well in the quiz at Olivet?
A. The top winners will go to Kansas City in June for international competition. By the way, I'd like to thank all the people in the church for their support this year.

'No Contract-No Work,' NMEA announces

Charlevoix school officials need not worry, but the possibility of [redacted]

A "No Contract-No Work" position for September of 1980 has been adopted by the Northern Michigan Education Association according to David Rosendale, a Traverse City teacher who serves as president for the teacher regional bargaining [redacted].

The NMEA, representing 33 teacher unions and approximately [redacted] of its bargaining associations vote internally to support a "No Contract-No Work" stance if settlements are not reached by the [redacted].

"It was a unanimous vote at the NMEA General Assembly and we have no reason to suspect anything but total and united support for this concept within our locals," Rosendale reported.

The 9 NMEA units bargaining new agreements this summer will be Benzie County Central, Boyne Falls, Buckley, East Jordan, Frankfort, Mackinaw City, Mancelona, Pine River, and Posen.

The NMEA Assembly also voted to adopt certain minimum contract standards including double-digit salary increases which reflect the Consumer Price Index, and fully-paid health insurance.

"Two NMEA locals withheld services last fall until they reached tentative agreements with their school boards. Those units which returned without agreements soon found that their boards of education were not terribly anxious to come to an equitable agreement; the impetus simply is not there once the teachers return to class. Thus, we are hopeful with this NMEA stance being taken early in the bargaining season, we will experience a summer of meaningful and productive bargaining with 9 equitable settlements reached before the first day of school," Rosendale said.

Richardson said the change in location was prompted by the firm's need for more space.

"We felt a strong need to provide the comfortable kind of atmosphere where we, as consultants, can offer the same kind of confidential, professional problem-solving approach to the real estate business as our clients would expect when they seek the services of their doctor, lawyer, C.P.A., banker or insurance agent."

In addition to Richardson and Suzik as principal brokers, the firm's staff associates include Linda Scherer, Dan Iannotti, and Lynda Bolduc. A fourth associate, Thomas Bickersteth of Financial Services, Inc. is a registered financial adviser and licensed to handle real estate through The Real Estate Place.

Sail-making

Multi-colored strips of nylon are spread out on the floor. In a matter of minutes the strips, all precisioned cut, will be sewn together. A spinnaker, regarded as the showpiece of any sail boat, starts to take shape.

Although it still snows every now and then in Charlevoix, hard core sailors are starting to turn their attention to the upcoming sailing season.

This is a busy time of year for Gary Gleason and Pat Dilworth at Spinnaker City, one of the few sail making businesses in the State of Michigan. There is a lot of work to be done. A lot of customers to satisfy.

Two teams with inexperience

17 out for softball

The Charlevoix High School girls softball team will launch its 1980 season this week when they travel to East Jordan for a game at 4 p.m.

"The weather has kept us inside most of the time though we have had some good practice sessions. However, there is a limit to what you can do. The outfield, particularly, is suffering from lack of practice. We should have a strong infield on defense. But other than that there isn't much I can say" she said.

"We are a young team. We haven't a senior returning though we do have three out for the first time. We only have four starters back from last season and we're going to have a lot of tough competition. Girls elsewhere play in women's softball league during the summer and have had a lot of experience. Our girls lack that experience. But we'll be in there competing every minute", she added.

The four starters Coach Gengle mentioned are Brenda Buchanan, Teresa Noirot, and Melinda Klooster, all juniors, and Holly Taber, a sophomore. Klooster and Taber are pitchers.

Others who played last season but who were not starters are juniors Shari Jones and Sue Smith, and sophomores Colleen LaBlance, a pitcher, and Margo Smith, Mel Kerridge, a junior, who was sidelined last year because of an injury, will also be returning to the squad.

Other candidates include three seniors who are out for the first time, Debbie Resch, Tami Noirot and Vicki Rhine; two juniors, Doretta Anderson and Becky Withoeft and three freshmen Bridget Noirot, Connie Borths and Kim Bolduc.

Wright rebuilding

The Charlevoix Rayder tennis team, coached by Chuck Wright, will open its 1980 schedule this week with the first two games of a league schedule.

Sixteen candidates are out for the team. However, there are only four regulars from last year returning.

"We are young. We are inexperienced. However, within a year I think we can be in contention for the regional title as we were last season. It will mean hard work and dedication on the part of everyone if we are to accomplish this," Wright said.

Returnees are Dennis Morgridge, No. 3 singles and Jeff Morgridge, No. 4 singles, last season, and John Grooters a member of the No. 1 doubles team and Rick Rajewski, No. 3 doubles. These four are expected to be the nucleus for the 1980 squad which will open against East Jordan here on Wednesday and play at Boyne City on Thursday.

Other strong contenders are Shelly Knight, a freshman, Andy Schaefer, a sophomore, and Paul Hoffman, a junior, who are in line for a chance in the singles.

The doubles field is wide open, Wright said. Contenders for assignments are freshmen, Pete Cockfield and Pete Dunkleberg, and juniors Lou Kline, Patrice Staley and Kris Lignell.

Charlevoix placed second in the Michigan-Huron Shores conference standings, won the Class C-D regional tournament and placed sixth in the state in Class C-D circles in 1979.

The following Ordinance was unanimously adopted by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix at their regular meeting on April 7, 1980:

ORDINANCE NO. 379
Cross Connection Control Ordinance

An Ordinance to amend the code of the city of Charlevoix by adding a new section, which shall be designated as Section 2.65 of Chapter 23 of Title II of the Code of the City of Charlevoix.

An Ordinance regulating cross connections with the public water supply system, i.e., a connection or arrangement of piping or appurtenances through which water of questionable quality, wastes or other contaminants can enter the public water supply system.

Be it ordained by the council of the City of Charlevoix, State of Michigan:

Section 1. That the city adopts by reference the Water Supply Cross Connection rules of the Michigan Department of Public Health being R325.431 to R325.440 of the Michigan Administrative Code.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Charlevoix Water Department to cause inspections to be made of all properties served by the public water supply, where cross connections with the public water supply is deemed possible. The frequency of inspections and reinspections based on potential health hazards involved shall be as established by the Charlevoix Water Utility and as approved by the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Section 3. That the representative of the Charlevoix Water Department shall have the right to enter at any reasonable time any property served by a connection to the public water supply system of the City of Charlevoix for the purpose of inspecting the piping system or systems thereof for cross connections. On request the owner, lessees or occupants of any property so served shall furnish to the inspection agency any pertinent information regarding the piping system or systems on such property. The refusal of such information or refusal of access, when requested, shall be deemed evidence of the presence of cross connections.

Section 4. That the Charlevoix Water Utility is hereby authorized and directed to discontinue water service after reasonable notice to any property wherein any connection in violation of this ordinance exists, and to take such precautionary measures deemed necessary to eliminate any danger of contamination of the public water supply system. Water service to such property shall not be restored until the cross connection(s) has been eliminated in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 5. That the potable water supply made available on the properties served by the public water supply shall be protected from possible contamination as specified by this ordinance and by the state and Charlevoix County plumbing code. Any water outlet which could be used for potable or domestic purposes and which is not supplied by the potable system must be labled in a conspicuous manner as:

Water Unsafe
for Drinking

Section 6. That this ordinance does not supercede the state plumbing code.

Section 7. That any person or customer found guilty of violation any of the provisions of this ordinance, or any written order of the Charlevoix Water Department in pursuance thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less the $25.00 nor more than $500.00 for each violation. Each day upon which a violation of the provisions of this act shall occur shall be deemed a separate and additional violation for the purpose of this ordinance.

Rev. Bell to deliver 3 prophetic messages

The Rev. John Bell, former pastor of the Eastport Baptist Church, will return to the church on three Sunday evenings in April to deliver three prophetic messages.

On Sunday evening, April 13, at 7 p.m., he will speak on the subject, "Prophetic Signs on the Earth".

On Sunday evening, April 20, at 7 p.m., the subject will be "Prophetic Signs in Outer Space".

On Sunday evening, April 27, at 7 p.m. he will speak on the subject, "Prophetic Signs and Their Effects on People".

The Rev. Bell has been a pastor for over 38 years. He is a former instructor of Prophecy, Theology, and the Book of Revelation at the Northern Michigan Bible Fellowship in Gaylord. At the present time, he is engaged in Bible Conference work and pulpit supply to the churches of the Grand Traverse area

Everyone is invited to attend the three Sunday evening sessions to hear what are called "unique messages."

PUBLIC NOTICE

The following Resolution was unanimously adopted by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix at their regular Council meeting on April 7, 1980.

RESOLUTION NO. 80-4-2

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix is responsible for the efficient operation of the Water and Sewer Systems and is further responsible for the financial position of the Water Supply System Fund and the Sewage Disposal Fund and must adjust the rates from time to time.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, in addition to the Water and Sewer Rates as they now exist an additional Service Charge of one dollar ($1.00) for Water Service and two dollars ($2.00) for Sewer Service shall be added monthly to each commercial, industrial and residential dwelling unit receiving such service; and,

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, knowing this additional charge may be a burden on certain senior citizens receiving such service, that upon annual application to the City Treasurer, any qualifying senior citizen, 65 years of age or older, whose annual household income is $10,000.00 or less, and who resides in their home for six months or more per year, shall be exempt from the additional Water and Sewer Service Charges.

This Resolution shall take immediate effect.

Anniversaries

Mr. & Mrs. Holland

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Holland of Central Lake celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sunday, March 30, with an open house hosted by their three children

The party was held at the V.F.W. Hall in Central Lake, which was decorated with gold bells and garlands and a picture board containing many family pictures

The Hollands' daughter, Nancy Lou Elliott and her husband, Jim; son Bud Holland and wife, Donna; and son Donald and wife, Jane, arranged the party. Also participating were the couple's eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren

Many friends added to the festivities. Wanda Bell Rogers furnished a cholocate anniversary cake and Mabel Walkins baked a white anniversary cake. Ruth Loper and her children furnished the music and sang all afternoon.

Nelson Holland and Margaret McElroy were married Feb. 26, 1930 at the home of his sister and her husband, Florence and Frank Novotny, in Charlevoix by the Rev. W. H. Rauch. Their attendants were Vivian and Raymond Cross of Charlevoix, now of California.

The Hollands lived in Ellsworth four years before moving to Central Lake. He retired in 1972 after working with the C&O Railroad for 43 years

GETTING THEM TO WORK FOR NOTHING IS.

The big reason why United Way can do so much for so many is that a lot of big hearted Americans contribute countless millions of hours every year. Free of charge. Volunteers do everything from collecting money to deciding how it will be used in their local communities. So administrative costs are low, and more can be spent on needed services.

A Public Hearing was held regarding the proposed Cross Connection Control Ordinance.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood that the following Ordinance be adopted.

Ordinance No. 379

An Ordinance to amend the code of the City of Charlevoix by adding a new sect which shall be designated as Section 2.66 of Chapter 23 of Title II of the Code of the City of Charlevoix.

An Ordinance regulating cross connections with the public water supply system, i.e., a connection or arrangement of piping or appurtenances through which water of question quality, wastes or other contaminants can enter the public water supply system.

Be it ordained by the council of the City of Charlevoix, State of Michigan:

Section 1. That the City adopts by reference the Water Supply Cross Connection rules of the Michigan Department of Public Health being R325.431 to R325.440 of the Michigan Administrative Code.

Section 2. That it shall be the duty of the Charlevoix Water Department to cause inspections to be made of all properties served by the public water supply where cross connections with the public water supply is deemed possible. The frequency of inspections and reinspections based on potential health hazards involved shall be as established by the Charlevoix Water Utility and as approved by the Michigan Department of Public Health.

Section 3. That the representative of the Charlevoix Water Department shall have the right to enter at any reasonable time any property served by a connection to the public water supply system of the City of Charlevoix for the purpose of inspecting the piping system or systems thereof for cross connections. On request, the owner, lessees or occupants of any property so served shall furnish to the inspection agency any pertinent information regarding the piping system or systems on such property. The refusal of such information or refusal of access, when requested, shall be deemed evidence of the presence of cross connections.

Section 4. That the Charlevoix Water Utility is hereby authorized and directed to discontinue water service after reasonable notice to any property wherein any connection in violation of this ordinance exists, and to take such precautionary measures deemed necessary to eliminate any danger of contamination of the public water supply system. Water service to such property shall not be restored until the cross connection(s) has been eliminated in compliance with the provisions of this ordinance.

Section 5. That the potable water supply made available on the properties served by the public water supply shall be protected from possible contamination as specified by this ordinance and by the state and Charlevoix County plumbing code. Any water outlet which could be used for potable or domestic purposes and which is not supplied by the potable system must be labled in a conspicuous manner as:

Water Unsafe

Section 6. That this ordinance does not supercede the state plumbing code.

Section 7. That any person or customer found guilty of violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance, or any written order of the Charlevoix Water Department in pursuance thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than $25.00 nor more than $500.00 for each violation. Each day upon which a violation of the provisions of this act shall occur shall be deemed a separate and additional violation for the purpose of this ordinance.

Ordinance was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned to the Board of Appeals.

Following the Board of Appeals meeting, roll call of the Council was again taken with all Council members being present.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Timms and Ralph Hamilton be reappointed to the Charlevoix Housing Commission for a term of five years.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Roloff to approve a new contract for City Recreation Director Dwight Boss for a two year period at an annual salary of $7 080.00.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Muma to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated March 24, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council tabled any action regarding a Site Plan as submitted by the Weather Inn for the addition of a deck until such time as a complete design showing the elevation the proposed project and its proximity to the walk along the channel is presented to Council.

Council tabled any approval of proposed Michigan Week Festivities scheduled May 23-26, 1980 pending further information. Informal approval was given, however, to the proposed Medusa Challenger walk through and a Battle of the Bands at Ferry Beach, two of the proposed events.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter to allow the Charlevoix Area Marine Dealers the use of East Park and those boat slips adjacent to East Park for a Boat Show to be held on May 17 and 18, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

RESOLUTION 80-4-1

WHEREAS, THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN (Herein called the "Local Issuing Agency") is undertaking the development and/or operation of one or more urban renewal, low-rent housing or redevelopment project and may engage in such undertakings in [illegible] contracts (which contracts and any contract in substitution thereof, together with any supplements thereto or amendments or waivers of any provisions thereof, are herein called the "Contract") with the United States of America (herein called the "Government") provided for a loan by the Government to the Local Issuing Agency for financing the urban renewal, low-rent housing or redevelopment project(s) described in the Contract and herein called the "Project"; and

WHEREAS, the Local Issuing Agency proposes to obtain loans from others than the Government in anticipation of the delivery of notes to the Government, which loans shall be evidenced by negotiable short term notes of the Local Issuing Agency (herein called "Project Notes"); and

WHEREAS, the Local Issuing Agency proposed to issue Project Notes [illegible]

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the Local Issuing Agency as follows:

Section 1. For the purpose of providing funds to pay expenses incurred or to be incurred pursuant to the Contract or to refund, renew or extend its outstanding Notes issued in connection therewith, the Local Issuing Agency hereby determines to issue its Project Notes for purchase by the public from time to time in amounts which shall not exceed the aggregate loan amount or the Actual Development Cost specified in the Contract, as the case may be. Such Project Notes shall be in such principal amounts, bears such interest rates, be dated and mature, all as prescribed in this Resolution.

Section 2. a. The City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to advertise from time to time the public sale of Project Notes of the Local Issuing Agency by causing the publication of a Notice of Sale thereof in a newspaper pursuant to State Law, if required, and in The Daily Bond Buyer, a financial newspaper published in the City of New York, New York. The Notice of Sale for publication locally shall be substantially in the form of HUD-9001, which is incorporated herein by reference. The Notice of Sale to be published in the Daily Bond Buyer may be included in a consolidated Notice of Sale. Each Notice of Sale shall be published at intervals in accordance with a schedule of advertising arranged in cooperation with the Government. Each separate issue of Project Notes advertised for sale shall be numbered in consecutive series.

b. Each proposal submitted for all or a part of any series of Project Notes shall be in substantially the form of HUD-9002, which is incorporated herein by reference, and is hereby approved by the Local Issuing Agency.

Section 3. a. The Chairman of the Charlevoix Housing Commission is hereby authorized and directed on each date specified in a duly published advertisement of the Notice of Sale for a service of Project Notes and at the time and place mentioned therein to receive, open and review all proposals received for the purchase of Project Notes. Upon completion of the review, the contents of all proposals shall be communicated by telephone to the Government with a recommendation for award.

b. The Chairman of the Charlevoix Housing Commission after receiving Government approval of a recommended award is hereby authorized and directed on behalf of the Local Issuing Agency to award the Project Notes at the lowest interest rate or rates not in excess of the percentage rate per annum specified in the Contract or under State Law offered in the proposals without reference to premiums, Provided, however, that as among proposals specifying the same lowest interest rate, awards shall be made on the basis of the highest premium per dollar principal amount of the Notes specified in such proposals. The Chairman shall promptly notify each successful bidder by telegram of the principal amount of Project [illegible]

Section 4. Each of the Project Notes of the Local Issuing Agency shall be in substantially the form of HUD-9010, which is incorporated herein by reference. Each series of Project Notes shall bear a date not later than the date on which they are to be delivered to the purchaser and shall mature within a term of not to exceed 18 months from their date. Each series of Project Notes shall bear interest at the rate or rates per annum fixed in the proposal or proposals accepted for the purchase of such Notes, shall be issued in such denominations, and both principal and interest thereof shall be payable at such incorporated bank having trust powers or incorporated trust company as the purchaser designates in his proposal, and shall be secured by a "Requisition Agreement" in substantially the form of HUD-9003, which is incorporated herein by reference, to be entered into between the Local Issuing Agency and the Government.

Section 5. Each of the Project Notes issued in a series which has been awarded shall be executed in the name of the Local Issuing Agency by the manual or facsimile signature of the Mayor or Deputy Mayor and the City Clerk is authorized and directed to date and to cause the seal of the Local Issuing Agency to be impressed, imprinted or reproduced thereon and to attest such sealing, and the aforesaid officers shall take all other actions necessary to complete delivery of any Project Notes which have been awarded.

Section 6. Each Requisition Agreement securing one or more series of Project Notes shall be executed in the name of the Local Issuing Agency by the manual or facsimile signature of the Mayor or Deputy Mayor and the City Clerk is authorized and directed to cause the seal of the Local Issuing Agency to be impressed, imprinted or reproduced [illegible]

Section 7. The City Treasurer is authorized and directed to deliver the Project Notes by signing and promptly sending after acceptance of each proposal a letter to each paying agent for such Project Notes in substantially the form of HUD-9004, which is incorporated herein by reference, and to transmit there - with (a) the Project Notes for which the addressee is the paying agent for delivery and payment and (b) a signature certificate and receipt, in accordance with the terms of the letter, and to take such other actions as may be required to complete the delivery transaction in accordance with the terms of the letter to the paying agent.

Section 8. The Mayor, City Clerk, and City Treasurer are authorized [illegible] of the Project Notes herein authorized to be issued from time to time.

Section 9. For the punctual payment of the principal of and interest on each series of Project Notes, the Local Issuing Agency expressly and irrevocably promises to pay any sums which may be received from the Government pursuant to the Requisition Agreement relating to such series of Project Notes and each such Requisition Agreement when executed by the Government is declared to be and is hereby assigned by the Local Issuing Agency for the benefit of the holder or holders from time to time of such series of Project Notes. All contributions, funds and amounts authorized or required by the Contract to be applied to the payment of Project Loan Notes (referred to in the Contract as "Project Temporary Loan Obligations", "Advance Notes" or "Permanent Notes") as issued in connection with the Project are irrevocably pledged to secure the payment of the principal of and interest to maturity on each series of Project Notes. Such pledge and the lien created thereby shall cease and terminate as to any series of Project Notes when monies or investment securities convertible into cash not later than the maturity date of such Notes sufficient and for the purpose of paying the principal and interest to maturity on such Notes, are deposited with the paying agent or agents for such Notes.

Section 10. The City Treasurer is authorized and directed to pay (a) to the Government such amount of such funds to the Local Issuing Agency as may be available for such purpose and as may be necessary to pay the principal of and interest on obligations of the Local Issuing Agency then held by the Government which may be refunded in part by any one or more series of Project Notes and (b) to the paying agent or agents of any then outstanding series of Project Notes, to the Government for transmittal to said paying agent or agents, such amount of funds to the Local Issuing Agency as may be available for such purpose and as may be necessary to pay the principal of and interest on such Project Notes which are refunded in part by succeeding issues of Project Notes.

Section 11. The Local Issuing Agency hereby covenants with the holders from time to time any Project Notes issued under this resolution that it will not amend this resolution in any way which would limit or alter the rights of such holders under Section 9 hereof or otherwise impair the rights and remedies of such holders until such Project Notes, together with interest thereon, and all costs, expenses and damages in connection with any action or proceedings by or on behalf of such holders are fully met and discharged.

Section 12. This Resolution shall take effect immediately.

Newspapers combine efforts for this section

This special section on Private Property Week is a cooperative effort of Charlevoix County's two weekly newspapers, the Charlevoix Courier and the Charlevoix County Press.

Even though the two newspapers are owned by different companies, they decided they could put out a bigger, better and more complete section by working together. We hope you enjoy it.

News stories for the section were written by Barbara Cruden and Dianne Murray of the Press and Dennis Chase and Peg Ohle of the Courier.

What's new? Find out at Home Show

What's new around the house? The fifth annual Home Show is coming this weekend April 18 through 20, with new ideas from all over Michigan.

"If it's for the house, outside or inside, we've got it," is the way Dick Meyers describes the upcoming displays at the show. The home show will fill the Emmet County Road Commission Garage on U.S. 31 in Petoskey.

Meyers, store manager at Kit Carson Lumber in Charlevoix, is this year's chairman of the show, put on every year by the Little Traverse Association of Home Builders. The 100-member organization is a branch of the Michigan chapter of the national association. Interested in maintaining ethical practices and acting as a business liaison with government agencies, the association covers Charlevoix, Emmet, and Cheboygan counties.

Meyers is enthusiastic about new furniture displays coming up for the show. Three or four kitchen cabinet firms will be offering all the latest in style and efficiency. Land developers, plumbing [illegible] experts in insulation—the show will be a gold mine of ideas and information.

Admission will be the same old uninflated one dollar as in other years, Meyer says. And there will be prizes every day, totalling $2,500, and a micro-oven grand prize, he says.

RE/MAX is coming!

Home buyers turn to land contracts

By [illegible]

With mortgage rates so high, buyers and sellers are turning to land contracts, Farmers Home Administration loans and other government loans.

The alternative means of financing have taken up most of the slack created by tight mortgage money as the number of recorded real estate sales dropped by only 6.5 percent in the first two months of 1980, compared to the first two months of 1979.

"What is becoming prominent this year is, rather than people going through banks for financing, homes are being bought and sold with land contracts," said Realtor Richard Lobenherz of Ski and Shore Properties of Charlevoix.

"Thank God for land contracts," said associate realtor Bill Morrow of Charlevoix Properties of Boyne City. Morrow said he's been involved in almost a half-million dollars in sales in the past six months, and all have been land contract deals.

Home sales haven't decreased much the past year, both Realtors and lenders say, because as Orval J. Hicks, vice-president of the mortgage loan department said: "A good Realtor will know where else to look if his client can't pay the going interest rate on bank loans--because there are other loan opportunities out there."

"Mortgage money is very, very tight. We're not quoting rates until the deal closes," said Elaine Martin, assistant vice-president of First State Bank of Charlevoix.

The mortgage rate has been changing month by month and banks are admitting they're just about out of money to loan.

"We don't have any money (for home loans) right now. We're virtually not mortgaging any homes now," said Hicks.

Hicks said state bank has been "out of the mortgage lending business for about three or four months. We're just servicing those loans we have out now."

Mortgage interest rates a year ago fluctuated between 10 and 12 percent. Now it varies from 16.5 to 22 percent, although most lenders don't want to publicly state their rates because it is changing so often.

The mortgage lenders who are making loans have had to take steps to make borrowing more difficult.

They are short of funds mainly because record high interest rates are available elsewhere, such as money market certificates, to investors who used to deposit money in savings accounts. Money market certificates pay an interest rate of approximately 14 percent while savings account interest rates are less than six percent.

Associate realtor Bill Morrow of Charlevoix Properties of Boyne City: "Thank God for land contracts."

Since lenders have to pay higher rates to savers, they also have to charge higher rates to borrowers. Much higher down-payments are also required. In addition, many lenders will loan only to existing customers or on houses on which they already hold the mortgage, leaving borrowers with little choice about whom they deal with.

Hicks described his bank's loan priorities--if the money is available: "First we'll loan to customers of the bank, then non-customers, then people wanting loans on second homes and then construction loans," he said. The lowest priority are builders who want to build a "spec" house, --build the home first and then go looking for a buyer, Hicks said.

Chuck McDowell, chairman of Northwestern State Bank with Charlevoix County offices in East Jordan, Boyne City and Boyne Falls, agreed that the requirements for loans applications are stricter than past years.

"The only applications we're taking are from (existing) customers or potential deposit customers," McDowell said.

The mortgage loan rate is a little lower at Northwestern--between 16½ and 17 percent, McDowell said, depending on the age and cost of the home. A minimum down payment of 30 percent is required to qualify for the mortgage loan.

When Realtor Marilyn Roberts of Boyne Country Realty in Boyne City was asked about how people are reacting to present mortgage interest rates, she said, "They scream!"

Even though home sales have been relatively good in the county, Roberts said she has not gone through a bank to mortgage a home for six months.

"People can't afford bank financing. With the mortgage rates so high, people are thinking twice about buying a home through the bank," she said.

Mortgage money drops 40%

Approximately $4.1 million worth of mortgages were transcribed during January and February, 1979, compared to almost $2.4 million in January and February, 1980, approximately a 40 percent drop.

There were less than half the number of mortgage loans during the first two months of this year than in the same period last year.

There were 27 less mortgage loans in Charlevoix County in January, 1980, than in January, 1979. The number of loans decreased from 52 in January, 1979 to 25 in January, 1980. Total mortgage amount decreased $979,352 between the same time period. [illegible] compared to 1979, dropping 60 mortgages to 30 mortgages. Total mortgage amount decrease from $2,275,179 to $1,648,044.

Land contracts, which real estate agents and bankers say is how the majority of homes are being sold, increased only three during the first two months of this year compared to January and February, 1979.

In January, 1980, there were 36 land contract transactions compared to 40 during the same month of 1979.

Land contract sales increased seven from 28 in February, 1979, to 35 in the same month of 1980.

All figures are according to Northern Michigan Abstract & Title Company.

Your Home. It takes more than just a house to make a home. And, most homeowners policies only cover the contents of a home to Actual Cash Value (replacement cost minus depreciation from time and usage). ACV coverage can help against major losses, but it can be a great deal different than replacement cost.

Now, through Citizens Insurance Company of America, you can add Replacement Cost Coverage for Personal Property to you Citizens homeowners policy, and insure your contents to full replacement cost just as you do your house.

Condominiums: A second home

By Peg [illegible]

CON-DO-MIN-IUM..."a: joint dominion, esp: joint sovereignty by two or more nations b: a government operating under joint rule. 2: a politically dependent territory under condominium. 3: individual ownership of a unit in a multi-unit structure (as an apartment building); also, a unit so owned."–Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary, [illegible]

What's the significance of this definition? Perhaps none of it has any interest to the average reader except the last part referring to ownership of a unit in a building.

Just when the word "condominium" came to describe a form of home ownership is not clear, but that part of the definition did not appear in the 1963 edition of Webster's New College Dictionary.

Looking back, the casual observer would probably say that, just like the definition, condominiums simply began to appear in the area in the last decade. Now, condominium buildings, large and small, dominate the shorelines of Lake Michigan and Round Lake in Charlevoix. The two completed condominium complexes in Boyne City will soon be joined by others to change the shoreline of Lake Charlevoix in that city.

Why condominiums as places to live? Records show that the first ones to be built, in Arizona, California, Florida, and other places in the sunbelt, were built for retirement homes. The advantages of condominium living for older people are many. Central maintenance takes over the responsibilities of grass-cutting, snow-removal, window-washing, and other household chores. Occupants own their living quarters so they can remodel and decorate them as they choose, just as they did the single family home many of them left. There is a sense of security in a condominium. Occupants know there are other persons around them who are also owners, not renters, who care about the property. Also, most condominiums have security systems so that if an occupant chooses to leave the condominium for a long period of time, he has a sense of security knowing that someone is looking after the property.

In citing the above advantages of condominium living for retired people, Charlevoix realtor George Richardson notes that in Charlevoix County most condominiums are used as second homes – resort homes.

"They tend to be built on good pieces of property – on water, golf courses, ski hills. By joining together this way, people can afford the second home when they couldn't afford a second individual home," Richardson explains.

"Just imagine what it would be like if all the Charlevoix condominium owners were buyers for lots on Lake Charlevoix. It's better to have the density of condominiums."

Resort condominiums, of course, furnish the same freedom from maintenance and security worries as do retirement condominiums, and in addition they can include such amenities as swimming pools and tennis courts that the younger market cares for.

"It's simple to get into a condominium deal. The groundwork has all been done. You don't have the worries about deeds, easements, and such things. Then, if you want to sell, the market is easier. You have a number of units of similar character that can be compared. This provides stability in price."

A third and emerging group of condominium owners is the average family using them as permanent homes. "This

Realtors set standards for their profession

Behind the stylized white R on the black square you see in real estate ads is a world of know-how and responsibility. Locally the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors is the voice of this world, including as it does the Realtors in the area.

The local board, a member of the state and national boards, acts as "a force for good" according to Justice Frankenthaler of the New York Supreme Court. Frankenthaler compares it to the American Bar Association for lawyers in establishing standards of conduct for a profession.

Other facets of membership keep realtors busy improving their service. This year's president of the two-county board, Martin Bieganowski of Boyne City, is well-known for his cry "Educate!" This means much more to Bieganowski than convincing everyone that the word Realtor is not pronounced Reel-a-tor, but Ree-al-tor. (Try it!)

Bieganowski's on-going interest is in the continual upgrading of Realtor knowledge in financing, zoning, appraisal, development, and so on. An informal type of education should go on between realtors and their clients, adds Bieganowski. Conscientious Realtors will help property owners become better informed as they work together in the buying and selling processes.

In addition, board members are on call to speak to service groups or schools on any aspect of the real estate business.

The board is concerned with the significance of the word "Realtor." While real estate salespeople are licensed by the state and work in a Realtor's office for three years for their broker's license, the designation of Realtor is meant to indicate membership in the board and to commitment to the ethical code and to furthering knowledgeability.

Thus the esteemed R in the black square is not automatically any broker's. Even Webster's Dictionary says the word "Realtor" must be spelled with a capital R, and it only applies to "a real estate agent who is a member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards."

Private property owners have a watchdog in the Board of Realtors. Bieganowski says that of the 5,000 or so bills considered by the two-year state legislature, around 10 percent affect real estate. The board scrutinizes such measures as they go through committees. They try to see that they are both fair and practical. The Headlee tax limitation act, wetlands, and now high mortgage interest rates have received such scrutiny.

Bieganowski comments on those interest rates. "We really feel government spending has promoted the rise in interest rates." He voices satisfaction in federal budget-balancing.

Realtors sit on planning and zoning boards. Zoning is a guide for the future, Bieganowski notes. Private property needs the protection of intelligent

Realtors are interested in the overall effects of decisions in zoning or in sales. What will such decisions do to neighboring property values? What will they do to the community as a whole? How will any negative factors balance out with the positive? As citizens as well as business people, Realtors are affected by what affects everyone else.

While the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors deals in many such abstractions, they also do some very concrete things. Coming up soon is their annual house renovation project. Last year for Private Property Week they chose one house from each county in need of repair and provided the owners with the muscle and materials (some donated by local hardware-paint stores) needed to fix the place up good as new. This concrete evidence of concern was done for homeowners who could not afford to do it themselves.

But the board is not a monolithic organization. Realtors are as individual as anyone else. For example real estate sales commissions are not set by the board, and not all board members participate in the Multiple Listing Service.

What is multiple listing? "From the buyer's point of view," says Bieganowski, "it's one-stop shopping." Each listing obtained by one of the Realtors if filed with the MLS secretary. Every Realtor member has access to these listings. This gives the seller of peoperty - and the buyer - about 175 Realtors working for him or her - powerful exposure.

The advice of Realtors is worth asking for. You don't even pay for it if you don't purchase the property. On the other hand some Realtors are also in the business as consultants. It is not necessary to make a purchase or sale through the Realtor who has served in a consulting capacity.

The rigors of the Realtors' code of ethics makes some 24 demands on Realtors, ranging from accuracy in advertising to the restriction against undisclosed Realtor interest in the property in question.

Officers of the board of directors of the Antrim-Charlevoix Realtors are Bieganowski, president; Hank Hood, vice-president; Rick Lobenherz, secretary; and Mark Kowalske, treasurer. Directors are Ardoth Kessler, George Laufersky, Linda Cran, Tom Balganorth and Stuart Merillat.

Small, energy efficient homes the new trend

With inflation galloping onward at 18 percent more and more people who are building homes are designing them to be small and energy efficient.

"Most of the new homes have one to two bedrooms," said Howard Carson, Charlevoix County building inspector. "Three and four bedroom homes are rare. The spare bedroom is becoming a thing of the past.

"A lot of people stop by the office to find out what the minimum requirements (square footage) are. Small homes are the trend now."

According to Carson, energy conservation is also a key element in new home construction. Carson said that most new homes are well insulated, equipped with wood burning stoves and have fewer and smaller windows. Some even have solar panels. The big movement, though, is to wood.

"A lot of people are turning to wood. I would say that half of those who built last year put in wood stoves," Carson said.

Some are using it as strictly a back-up source of heat, while others depend on it as their primary source.

"I know on Beaver Island it's the primary source," Carson said. "They use electric as a back-up. Electric is cheaper than oil on the Island."

As an example of how many people are turning to wood, the Michigan Department of Natural Resource (DNR) office in Boyne City issued approximately 150 wood cutting permits during the first two days of April. Reportedly, the DNR office at Indian River issued over [illegible].

With the heavy emphasis on wood, Carson said it is "very important" that stoves are properly installed.

In particular, he cautioned those people who are converting the use of their chimney from oil or gas to wood to make sure it is checked "thoroughly."

"I think if you were to ask local fire officials they would 75 percent of the fires this winter were caused by wood stoves."

●

When installing a stove, the Michigan State Police ask that you keep the following tips in mind.

1) Make sure that the manufacturer has had that particular stove design tested by a nationally recognized, independent testing laboratory. Look for the test on the stove.

The label should state the distances the stove should be separated from combustible walls and floors. The chimney size and type should also be indicated. The manufacturer's installation directions should be followed.

2) If the stove is not labeled, make sure there is at least a six inch air space beneath and 36 or more inches of air space to a wall.

3) Make sure the installation of stoves are in accordance with the building code.

4) Users should be cautioned to tend the stove properly; never let it overheat; never leave the stove unattended and [illegible]

Remodeling becomes much more practical

By [redacted]

A man's (or woman's) home is his (or her) castle, it was said of old. Some of our castles today are of minimum dimensions, but they are, nonetheless, little kingdoms where we arrange, decorate and even structure things as near to the way we want as we understand--and afford

Private Property Week, April 13-19, underlines this in a world where private property generally continues to be a question mark. Here in Charlevoix County, private property struggles with increasing taxes and mortgage interest rates. People are turning to a variety of alternatives to having a new three-bedroom house built on a vacant lot in town

Not many personal changes can be wrought in a mobile home, but plainly it is more affordable than a new house. As years go by, a roof may be built over it, extended to walls, sometimes replacing the chrysalis within

Companies who will ship a house in varying degrees of pre-fabrication, are, of course, making a dent in the demand for housing

Increasingly favored is remodeling an older home, gone to seed for lack of funds. Or take the case of Mike Burr and Russ Thomas of East Jordan. For a bargain price they bought a house charred by fire, but still sound, and used their handyman skills to renovate it.

For know-how, they asked lots of questions. For time, they used weekends over the winter: For help, they had their wives and children. Bonnie Thomas says they all painted, cleaned, lugged things, and helped in everything

The result was a house that looks like new inside and is an investment, for the two families. Besides that, they rented it quickly and put a roof over some more heads.

Steve Middaugh of Spaulding-Middaugh Builders of East Jordan says when you remodel, and that includes adding on, you do have to see how it ties into the appearance of the whole structure.

"I would consider the possible uses in connection with energy," he adds. "I'd pay special attention to the south side of the building," making use of "solar gain" from bay windows, for example, or solar air-circulators or solar hot water installations, all simple and useful even in northern Michigan

Providing the handyman (and handywoman) la- [redacted] Jordan were, from left, [redacted] Bonnie Thomas. Bonnie's husband Russ isn't pictured, but also helped on the project.

Middaugh believes today there is enough information on solar benefits to make it worthwhile to remodel a house for that reason alone

He adds, however, "As yet there are only certain builders that are concerned with these advantages."

He thinks anybody planning on remodeling should read up on alternatives. Book stores are a good place to go. Then one is informed enough to start asking questions

He advises the do-it-yourselfer to get as much information as possible to avoid mistakes. People who do it themselves can save on some materials. They can be ingenious about forms of recycling.

Remodeling has many aspects. One is preservation. The area has many large houses built with the extra care typical of the late 1800s and early 1900s.

East Jordan has, according to historian George Secord, an usual quota of these places, some of them modified with contemporary siding and some have been somewhat changed inside

All owners have their own ideas about what is worth keeping, but Secord believes enough familiarity with the architectural excellencies of the past will save them for future generations and certainly add to the variety and quality in a town. It's nice to keep the original exterior lines, Secord says.

trend has accelerated in the last two or three years, especially in the metropolitan areas," Richardson says.

One proposed condominium development recently approved by the City of Charlevoix is Marina Bluffs, located on the bluff between Hampton Village and Ferry Avenue overlooking Lake Charlevoix. Richardson is one of the principals in this development and sees it as appealing especially to people buying condominiums as permanent homes.

"It will consist of 18 units on four and a half acres of ground. The Charlevoix Code permits as many as 15 units per acre," Richardson added. The time table for starting this development depends on the end financing market outlook in the next six to 8 months, he says.

Another condominium project recently approved is The Boathouse (formerly the Browe Marina). It will consist of 16 units but no time table for starting or completing has been announced.

The Lake House, overlooking Lake Michigan from the end of the Pine River Channel, is almost ready for occupancy, adding six more units to the already 200-plus condominium units in Charlevoix.

Richardson notes that these condominiums serve a special purpose for persons who come to Charlevoix just for weekends and would otherwise rent a motel room.

While there has not been as much condominium growth in Boyne City as there has been in Charlevoix, the picture will change if plans presently on the books materialize.

At the present time, the Boyne Ridge Condominiums are becoming popular as permanent homes for families of all ages. On the other hand, The Landings, located on the shores of Lake Charlevoix on the north side of town, are used exclusively as resort homes.

It looks as if the long-planned development of the Tannery property on the south side of Boyne City will begin this summer. The developers will start with only 10 or 12 condominium units as a prelude to an ultimate 100 units within the next few years.

Arch Wright, chief executive officer of Lakewood Savings & Loan in Boyne City, who also has a financial interest in the property formerly owned by the Boyne City Railroad, says there are plans for condominium development on that property.

Wright envisions building the type of condominiums that local people could use as permanent homes. Like Richardson, he believes there is a definite move toward condominiums as permanent homes.

"We will probably also have condominium shop space with living space condominiums above the shops. These can be used by individual persons or small families who don't need much room, Wright said.

As a loan agent, Wright indicated he would just as soon make a loan to condominium developers as home owners. As far as rates are concerned, he says he is "confident rates will come back down and some type of normalcy will return.

"The Federal Reserve is trying to break the back of inflation and it's tough medicine but it's beginning to help."

Wright, who also spent 20 years in the building industry, is concerned about the effect of high interest rates on the building industry, which is the largest industry in the country. He said he had read that the bankruptcy rate in the building industry is equal to 10 Chrysler Companies, and that 60 percent of building trades people in the Detroit area are now laid off.

Marian and Basil Mackay, who live south of East Jordan, are among many delighting in the log homes built by Bohemian settlers. Some of these places still stand because of the giant logs and the four-square skill of their builders.

The Mackays say the way to become intrigued is to step into one of the abandoned old homes (if you can find one) and see by candlelight the huge beams overhead.

While the logs themselves are a form of insulation, the owners often added wallpapering, and continued to paper over the paper as the years went by, increasing the insulation.

A modern solution to preservation and insulation of one of these old home is to add a second roof and also to build outside around the walls of the original log home, remove the layers of wall paper inside, and enjoy the beautiful beams and walls from inside.

Mackay speaks of double hardwood floors and other such beauties in these early homes. Some flooring may need to be taken up and put down again more tightly as the years may have shrunk the flooring enough to leave cracks between the boards.

How do you keep the feeling of an old place? You have to have the feeling, Mackay emphasizes. Then you will put old things together. Buy an old building that has fallen apart—not the land, just the building. Use the old wood and hardware from that to repair or extend the home you are working on.

She adds, "You can't be too persnickety" about 16-inch centers and modern standard window sizes. "You have to take advantage of what was there," she emphasizes, "and go along with it."

She recalls attending the private ceremonies a family had on the centennial of the log home built by their forebears. Pictures were laid out on every table; stories were told. "It was so nice," Mackay says. They were the story of a castle, the history of a little kingdom.

Building

Carson described the building climate in the Charlevoix area as "not bad."

"I think '78 and '79 were good years and so far '80 has been so different."

Carson added that there would probably be "more additions than new homes" in 1980.

If a person wants to build a home, several permits are required. First of all, a zoning permit must be secured from the city or township zoning administrator to make sure the zoning ordinance is complied with. A health permit from District Health Department No. 3 is also needed if no city sewer or water is available to the site. A soil erosion permit is required if the new home will be within 500 feet of a lake or stream or if more than one acre of earth is to be disturbed. And a building permit is necessary in order to start building.

Once all of that is taken care of, construction can begin. Only two permits are needed once construction has started - a plumbing permit and an electrical permit. In Charlevoix County, state officials issue the plumbing permit and Don Anderson, the county electrical inspector, issues the electrical permit. Applications for a plumbing permit can be obtained at the Charlevoix County of Building Inspection or with most contractors.

During construction, the building and electrical inspectors will inspect the home about three times. The building inspector will check the footings, the rough-in and the finished product while the electrical inspector will check the temporary power line to the home, the rough-in and the finished product. Both Carson and Anderson are trained to reverse roles so Anderson, for instance, could check the footings as well as the temporary electric in one stop, thus saving Carson a trip to that residence. It saves time and money, Carson said.

"The big thing is that people know about permits," Carson said. "The first step is to go to your zoning administrator."

Carson's duty is to review the plans to make sure they meet code. The code book he administers from - as do most county building inspectors - is BOCA (Building Officials Code Administration). This code sets the minimum standards for building. The state and county have the option of raising these standards. The Michigan Energy Code must also be adhered to.

Carson noted that although most of the construction work is done by contractors, a lot of homeowners "are doing their own." He said his office is willing to work with anyone who needs or wants assistance.

"We'll bend over backwards to help people," he said.

The Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection issued construction permits totaling $10,867,335 in 1979.

All told, 686 permits were issued last year, compared to 677 in 1978. The total cost of construction was down almost $5 million, however, primarily due to the large expansion project at the Medusa Cement Co. (permit issued in 1978). Residential construction dropped slightly. Permits were issued for 143 new homes in 1979, compared to 172 in 1978.

Large construction projects started in Charlevoix County during 1979 included: May Street Apartment, Charlevoix, $1,020,000; Belvedere Apartments, Charlevoix, $440,000; Lake Michigan Terraces, Charlevoix, $413,000; Glen's Market, East Jordan, $350,000; Fochtman Motor, Charlevoix, $250,000; First National Bank, Wilson, $206,000; Barden Lumber, Boyne City, $100,000; Grandvue Medical Care Facility, Marion, $94,000; Northwestern State Bank, Boyne Falls, $85,000; and Norm Brumm Studio, Norwood, $85,000.

The difference between a condo and co-op

Of every seven new apartments, one is either a co-operative or a condominium. In an age where slang and shortened words are in frequent use, it is easy to be confused with the meanings of these two types of permanent housing, say The Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants. One of the fundamental differences between the two, is that in a "condo" individuals take title to their units while in a "co-op," an individual has stock ownership in a corporation which owns and runs the building. The "co-op" person has the right of occupancy to a specific unit.

Condominiums are treated like a separate parcel of real estate, separately taxed and assessed while in a co-operative, an individual pays his or her share of taxes on the project in a monthly carrying charge. This means any charge not paid by one co-op owner must eventually be paid by the others.

Voting privileges also differ. Usually in a condo, an individual owner's vote in managing the financial or other affairs of the complex is proportionate to the size of his or her unit. In a co-op each individual has one vote, regardless of the unit's size.

In most cases, a condominium owner can sell his apartment more freely than the owner of a co-operative apartment, who must have the purchaser approved by the board of directors. Also, say the CPAs, under the mortgage that blankets an entire co-op complex, a prospective buyer sometimes must have cash to assume the seller's share of unpaid debt. This is opposed to the would-be condo buyer who can more easily get a mortgage to finance his or her purchase.

An important distinction to know between owning a condominium apartment and owning a share in a co-op, is if other condo owners default or if the entire complex fails, the individual is not held financially responsible. This is known as limited liability, and becomes the individual mortgage lenders' problem, not yours. This is not true in a co-op. If one or more other occupants default, then the remaining people must make up the losses.

Three years on the job and he's voted "Realtor Associate of the Year" by the Antrim-Charlevoix Board of Realtors. That's Robert C. Winters of Ski and Shore Properties Boyne City.

Maybe it's because he has such a quantity of referrals that 70 percent of his sales are now based on advertising done for him informally by satisfied customers.

Certainly a Realtor Associate of the Year has to have taken advantage of one-day and three-day seminars put on by Realtor boards in the various states. This is the way Realtors become educated in their profession and keep up-dated

And Winters is active in board committee work. For example, he is on the grievance committee, the Multiple Listing Service committee, and is chairman of the Make-America-Beautiful committee, which annually paints and repairs a home in the county

Winters is busy, too, outside the office. A member of the Methodist Church and the Lions Club, and just recently, of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, he also served on the Boyne City Board of Review.

Bob Winters

That Winters likes his work is clear. He came to Boyne City after encountering Bob Wachter in a restaurant near Carp Lake, where the Winters lived. Wachter, then associated with Ski and Shore, told Winters if he liked to sell, he should go into real estate.

"This whole business is serving people," says Winters, and adds for the benefit of any young person coming along, you get paid in proportion to what you do. For anyone wondering whether or not to go into real estate work he says, "If they're a positive-thinking person, it's about as unlimited an opportunity as a person can pick "

It should be noted here, Winters in three years has twice made the million-dollar club in sales.

Board approves millage issues for June 9 ballot

The Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night gave its approval to two millage issues that will appear on ballots in the June 9 School election.

The first is for the renewal of 12.5 mills for operating purposes which expired in 1979. The second is for a 1.7 mill levy to underwrite the cost of putting a new roof on the high school building.

The election resolution relating to the millage issues also placed the names of four candidates on the ballot with two to be elected for terms of four years.

In other action, the board approved the payment on the bonds dated Aug. 1, 1979 in the amount of $54,370 to the City National Bank of Detroit; the leasing of the Ironton School Building to the Char-Em Intermediate School District and approved an increase in the price of milk from 6¢ to 8¢ effective May 1. Approval was also given the Speech team for overnight trips.

In approving the millage renewal proposition of 12.5 mills, it was explained that final valuation figures for the school district are not available at this time. However, it is expected to be approximately $125.5 million. The 12.5 mill levy on this amount would result in an 11.3 percent increase over the 1979 levy. However, until more accurate valuation figures are available, the amount that would be levied to meet budget needs cannot be determined. At this point, however, it is hoped that the levy can be held to a 10.8 percent increase, Vincent Olach, business manager said.

It was emphasized that the millage is a renewal rather than a request for additional millage. It was also emphasized that only millage to meet budget needs would be levied. Every effort to keep the levy below 12.5 mills will be made, Olach said.

The 12.5 mill levy would be $12.50 on each $1,000 of valuation.

The second millage proposal, 1.7 mills for one year or $1.70 per $1,000 valuation, would be used to underwrite the cost of a new roof for the high school.

Olach said that representatives from two companies had examined the existing roof which is now 21 years old and found that the insulation is wet and that a complete new roof is needed or the metal supports would become damaged. At the present time the damage to the metal is confined to the area of the eaves.

Two types of roofing are available, an asbestos or Fresco Board with an R-4 insulation factor which would cost approximately $1.00 per square foot or require a millage levy of 1.2 mills. It carries no guarantee.

The second, Trocal, is a membrane type roof with an R-8 insulation factor and a 10 year guarantee. This would cost approximately $2.52 per square foot and has the 10 year guarantee.

The entire roof would have to be removed to the base metal deck.

Olach said that with the present roof, plaster is being lost, it is damaging the wiring and is beyond patching.

Approval was given to ask for 1.7 mills for one year for the Trocal roof.

The board agreed to forward the Band Boosters $[illegible] so that 90 new band uniforms and a drum major uniform could be ordered at this time. The amount will be added to the $[illegible] the Band Boosters had raised to date. With the full amount it is possible to obtain a sizeable discount. The amount includes not only the cost of the uniforms but necessary accessories such as garment bags, rain gera, gloves, spats, dickies and ties. The Band Boosters expect to raise the funds during the upcoming Charlevoix Challenge but were given two years to repay the funds.

During the forthcoming election, punch card voting will be utilized. The school will lease the equipment from the city.

The board agreed to lease the Ironton School building to the Char-Em Intermediate School district for its use with the understanding that the renter will underwrite the cost of furnace and roof needs in amount of $10-$15,000. The building is to be leased for $1 per year for 10 years.

The price of milk was increased from six to eight cents per half pint. This marks the first increase in the price of milk in four years. The increase will not alter the price of the Type A hot lunch.

The election resolution also named Olach as Chief Election Official; Edna Miller, Billie Smith, Irene Cellner, Helen Zeitler, Maureen LaBlance, Sonja Martin, Frances Ward, Faye Alger and Hazel Murray election inspectors and Roberta Whitley as an alternate.

Heard a report from the Professional Study Committee given by Carol Elliott that included a recommendation that the reading program be continued through the seventh and eighth grades, more inservice training, discipline and that the math, reading and gifting and talented programs be continued.

Thomas Carey, president of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors and Dr. Reed Freidinger of the medical staff, turned the ceremonial first shovels of dirt at the Charlevoix Area Hospitals ground breaking ceremonies Monday morning. The construction on the hospital's renovation and expansion project, which will expand out-patient services such as X-ray, Lab and Emergency Room and see the construction of a new wing, will be in full swing this spring. Taking part in the ground breaking ceremonies was the hospitals Board of Directors and Administrator Richard Krueger.

Snow making machine to be put to use

City to extend water to ski hill

It's entirley possible - and probable - that the ski season at Mt. McSauba will start sooner and end later next winter.

The Charlevoix City Council Monday night agreed to extend a water line to the ski hill. A snow making machine has been purchased - through private and public donation - so that artificial snow can be manufactured as long as water is available.

The city plans to tap into the Charlevoix Township water line to bring city water to the site. Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud said he could forsee no problem with that arrangement, although it is expected to come before the Charlevoix Township Board for approval. The city is presently supplying water to the north side of the township on a temporary basis.

It is expected to cost the city about $3,300 to extend the water line. City Manager Jim Brinker said the work could be completed before the start of the ski season.

"This would not only improve (ski) conditions it would prolong the season," said Tom Erber, who attended the council meeting to voice his support for an extension of the water line.

Josh Barnes echoed Erber's sentiment, adding that there would be a "dramatic increase" in the number of skiers using Mt. McSauba, particularly in the earlier months of the season [illegible].

"We've already spent $55,000 on Mt. McSauba," said Councilman Jeff Porter. "If it is only going to take $3,300 to finish it, why not?"

Only Councilman Bob Timms objected.

"I'm still not convinced that this is a viable project," he said.

Mayor Sam Supernaw and Councilman Ivan Whitley were absent.

Council also awarded D & K Leasing, Inc. of McBain the contract to extend the city sewer line along 960 feet of Stover Road from the United Tool Craft property to May Street. In addition, a 180 foot strip from United Tool Craft north will also be included in the project.

Twelve companies bid on the project. D & K Leasing submitted the low bid of $27,415.50.

Other bids included: B.H. Sargent, $31,726; Bowers-Vaughan Construction, $34,308; C.H. Smith Excavating, $35,958.97; C-Land Excavating, $50,008.31; Guthrie Construction, $34,770; Hodgkiss & Douma, $49,685.75; M & M Excavating, $45,520; Manthei Development, $27,847; Norm's Excavating, $38,987.12; W.A. Porter, $27,805; Bartlett Excavating, $33,025.

In other action, council:

- Approved a site plan for the Dairy Barn - an ice cream, fast food business - on US-31 South.
- Tabled a request from the Weathervane Inn to erect a deck (on the lower level) along the Pine River Channel.
- Proclaimed May 1 as Law Day.
- Agreed to participate in an MPPA study of lo-head hydro units. The city's cost will depend on how many cities participate. The estimated cost is between $2,000-$4,000.
- Passed a resolution honoring Steve Kantola, a Charlevoix High School grad, and the Eastern Michigan University forensics team, who will be trying to win their fifth consecutive national title next week.
- Authorized City Manager Jim Brinker to take bids on a new dump truck.
- Agreed to spend $2,000 on a new engine for the city's vacuum truck.

'Broadway'

The 1980 Youth Art Exhibit

Melissa Mosher of Charlevoix holds an invitation -- she designed -- to the 1980 Youth Art Exhibit at North Central Michigan College. The exhibit, which will feature the art work of students from 33 area schools, will be held next week. For more see page 7.

Clean-up May 5-9

The City of Charlevoix will conduct a "spring clean-up" from Monday, May 5 to Friday, May 9.

City residents wishing to have their trash collected by city workers must place it by the curb in front of their home on the same day of the week as their garbage pick-up. If you want containers returned mark "SAVE" on them. Large objects do not have to be placed in containers. Brush and tree limbs must be cut into four foot lengths for "easy loading" and must be separated from the other rubbish.

On Saturday, April 26 the Lions Club of Charlevoix will be canvasing the area selling heavy duty 30 gallon trash bags for "spring clean-up" week. The Lions Club will also have a booth in East Park open from noon-4 p.m. on Saturday where bags will be available.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to support several Lions' projects.

Moving-kits available

If you're one of the estimated 38 million persons who plan to change residences this year, you should begin notifying everyone who regularly sends you mail at least one full month before you move.

That's the advice of Charlevoix Postmaster Joe Schwartzfisher, who suggests you file change-of-address forms with your post office and send them to correspondents and publishers.

The postal service offers free change-of-address kits to make it easier to notify everyone. Available in post offices and from letter carriers, the kits include postcards to alert the postmaster and for mailing to department stores, friends and relatives, utility companies, banks, newspapers and magazine publishers, and others who you do business with.

"Too often people who are moving wait until the last minute to notify their correspondents," Schwartzfisher said. "The result is they add up to several days to their first class mail delivery because it must be forwarded to the new address."

Those who fail to give publishers at least a month advance notice must either pay additional postage for forwarding, if desired, or wait several weeks before the publisher changes the address. That means, Schwartzfisher said, customers may miss one or more issues of their favorite magazine.

"Customers should also remember to include their account number when notifying stores and banks and to send their old address labels to publishers," Schwartzfisher added. "And for all correspondence, remember to include your new zip code."

Selling Your House by Gene Steele

TAX TIP IF YOU SELL FOR A PROFIT

Normally, taxpayers who sell their home for a substantial profit face a heavy tax load. But this burden can be avoided if you buy another home that costs as much or more than the sales price of the old one within a specified time. The profit from the sale is not included in your taxable income.

The second home must be bought and occupied within a period ending 18 months after the sale. A 2 year period is permitted when building a new home. This tax deferment applies only to the sale of a home which is the family's main residence.

When figuring the amount of gain for which tax may be postponed you may deduct for fix up expenses if they were accomplished within 90 days prior to the sale and paid for no later than 30 days after the sale. Check with your accountant or the IRS on details if this matter affects you. It could be well worth your while.

At age 55 you qualify for the big bonanza - a one time $100,000 exclusion of capital gain from the sale of your principle residence. This latest change is retroactive to July 26, 1978.

Marchers needed

March of Dimes campaign May 5-7

The Northern Chapter March of Dimes "Mothers March" in Charlevoix, Boyne City and Petoskey will take place on May 5, 6, and 7. The marchers will be knocking on doors and asking for support to fight birth defects. Charlevoix will hold a coffee day headed by Anne Georg.

Supplies will be handed out in Charlevoix and Petoskey at the kick-off with speakers from the area. The film "Woman Child" will be shown.

Monies collected in the last year have gone to Northern Michigan Hospital, Charlevoix Hospital, patients assistance, teaching materials for the hospitals and films and literature for the schools. In June the March of Dimes will help sponsor a Fetal Alcohol Syndrome Conference for professionals and non professionals.

There is still a need for marchers in all areas. If anyone is interested call Bev Starmer 547-1716 or Kay Chase 547-5147.

Officers honored

Communications and Security Office Lyle Anthony was selected for the award by the Selection Committee prior to his death. It was presented to his wife and cited Office Anthony for "his 10 years of loyal and dedicated service to the residents of Charlevoix County."

The citation further reads: "Officer Anthony was a methodical and efficient officer who performed his duties in a professional manner. Lyle's dry sense of humor and his gentle manner made him very popular with his fellow officers and the inmates of the Charlevoix County Jail."

Deputy Sheriff Roger Moses was presented an award for "his professionalism and devotion to duty as a deputy sheriff for the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department."

Moses' citation reads: "Besides his law enforcement duties with the department, he is also designated as officer in charge of all patrol units, making sure that all units are properly maintained. His expertise in this area has saved the county numerous dollars on repair bills and maintenace costs."

Ronald Moore is a school psychologist with the Intermediate School District and lives in Charlevoix Township.

Richard Baker is a lieutenant in charge of training of Burns Security Guards at Big Rock Nuclear Plant. He also lives in Charlevoix Township.

HOT WATER FOR A SONG.

A DIME, TO BE EXACT.

And that's about 15 gallons of water.

cooking meals, running small appliances, and warming the water for countless baths and showers. Electricity - especially when you use it wisely - is still a very good buy.

Baking a turkey for 5 hours in an electric oven today costs only about [illegible] cents. Drying a load of clothes in an electric dryer runs you about 13½ cents.

Yes, the cost of energy as a whole has increased in recent years. But there are still forms of energy that, in relation to all the other costs of living, serve us well and at reasonable expense.

At Consumers Power, we wanted you to know that electricity is one of them. And that we're trying to keep it that way.

CHS juniors to attend Boys State

Seven juniors at Charlevoix High School will be attending the 43rd annual American Legion Wolverine Boys' State June 11-18 at Michigan State University.

Bill Mosher, Scott Davis, Mike Zednicek, Jeff Drury, Paul Hoffman, Rick Rajewski and Jim Baillargeon were selected on the basis of 1) leadership 2) awareness of government 3) mental alertness 4) vigor, enthusiasm and responsibility and 5) ability to get along with others. Frank Kauffman was selected as an alternate.

The American Legion Wolverine Boys' State is a program for the young citizens of America. Its purpose is to emphasize the importance of government, stimulate a lasting interest in government, and enlarge the understanding of governmental processes.

Boys' State is not a schoolroom activity and is not meant to take the place of civics or government courses. The basic learning method is that of actual participation in political and governmental processes. It is structured so that participants may be put into actual practice classroom theories of American goverment.

Once at MSU, the students (1,150 altogether) will be assigned to a city and to one of two mythical political parties - the Federalist and Nationalist. The 51st state, with mythical city and county political subdivisions, will function for a period of seven days. The basic laws of the State of Michigan and its Constitution form the basis for political activities. The convention system will be used throughout Boys' State to nominate candidates for city, county and state offices.

Students will be able to run for any office from the three accepted divisions of government - Judicial, Legislative and Executive. The Boys' State governor, with the approval of the state senate, will make appointments to fill various positions to correspond as much s possible to actual Michigan government.

City and county government offices, both partisan and non-partisan, will be available for "would-be" office holders to learn about government.

Twelve Charlevoix Middle School students will compete Saturday in the 1980 Region II Mathematics Competition at Alpena High School.

The competition, sponsored by the Michigan Council of Teachers of Mathematics, will attract nearly 400 students from northern Michigan. Charlevoix students who will participate include: Rhonda Buchanan, Dan Buday, Karyn Mayhew and David Umler, eighth grade; Andrew Brumm, Tom Graf, Richard Wurst and James Young, seventh grade; Kristine Austin, Jason Brindel, Holly Edger and Carol Ormsby, sixth grade.

At Saturday's regional, students will compete with others in their grade level by taking a one hour test. The winners of the regional will be announced at an awards ceremony later that day with the top 25 scorers at each grade level qualifying for state competition at Central Michigan University.

The 12 Charlevoix students represent the top four math students in sixth, seventh and eighth grades. A qualifying exam was held in February to determine the top students.

Opinion

Our Opinion

Nurses deserve credit for effort

There is a need - not only in the State of Michigan but in the 49 other states as well - for nurses. The news is the same no matter where you look.

"Nurse shortage here critical," read a headline in the Tucson, Arizona paper. "Nation faces major shortage of qualified nurses," a newspaper in Norwalk, Connecticut announced. "Shortage of nurses hurts Central Ohio," a Columbus, Ohio paper reported.

In Michigan, conservative estimates put the need at 6,000 nurses by 1982, although that number could conceivably go as high as 24,000, according to the Michigan Hospital Association.

For those of us living in Charlevoix, we should feel fortunate that this shortage does not exist at the Charlevoix Area Hospital. We should also count our lucky stars that we have a hard working and dedicated staff at the hospital.

The nursing staff is made up of 35 RNS, 10 LPNS and 20 nurses aides, both male and female. They are a dedicated group who care deeply about the quality of medical care, the patients and the hospital. Proof of that dedication is spelled out by the unusual low rate of turnover in the nursing staff. The national average for turnover among nurses is 25 percent. At Charlevoix Area Hospital the turnover is less than 10 percent and there is a WAITING LIST of qualified nurses seeking staff positions.

What is particularly noteworthy about the nursing staff is their ability to work together as a close knit unit. The nursing staff members support each other and take personal interest in their work. It's not unusual to see a member of the staff stop for an extra minute to listen to a patient's concern, hold a worried hand or reassure someone's family members.

There is also a low nurse-patient ratio at the hospital, which means good nursing care for each patient and a lot of job satisfaction for the staff. The nurses at the hospital are encouraged to treat the "whole" patient, and not just the patient's medical problem. As a result, that added effort and interest has given the hospital a reputation for excellent nursing care.

The nurses, too, have created a positive atmosphere at the hospital, where patients know that people really care about them. Patients have found that they can talk with the nurses, that the nurses will help them with their fears and anxieties, and that the nurses take special pride in their work.

The nursing staff puts a considerable amount of time into professional education and efforts to constantly improve the quality of medical care they deliver. At staff meetings and in-service sessions the nurses share experiences and ideas for improvement as well as learn the latest techniques and innovations in medicine.

The nurses at the Charlevoix Area Hospital also give a lot to the hospital. They are among the hospital's biggest boosters. During the fund raising campaign they not only gave directly out of their paychecks, but they helped raise a lot of money, too. And they continue to raise funds for improvements and equipment through such projects as the cookbook and pre-Christmas luncheon-bazaar.

Good health care is vital in any community. It's important to have a hard working and dedicated nursing staff in order to provide that good care. And we have a lot to be thankful for.

Q/A Property Taxes

TAXES, TAXES, TAXES...Where do they come from and where do they go?

In the first article we discussed the fact that the authority of government to tax arises out of the Constitution which was established and approved by the citizens of Michigan. The provisions of the Constitution are extended by the legislature, and are administered by the executive agencies.

Article 9, Section 3 of the Constitution stated "The legislature shall provide for the uniform general ad valoem taxation or real and tangible personal property not exempt by law,..."

Article 9, Section 6, of the constitution of the state of Michigan makes the provision for the 15 mill limitation. "Except as otherwise provided in this constitution, the total amount of general ad valorem taxes imposed upon real and tangible personal property for all purposes in any one year shall not exceed 15 mills on each dollar of the assessed valuation of property as finally equalized.

The same section 6 reads on..."Under procedures provided by law, which shall guarantee the right of initiative, separate tax limitations for any county and for the townships and for school districts therein, the aggregate of which shall not exceed 18 mills on each dollar of such valuation, may be adopted and thereafter altered by the vote of a majority of the qualified electors of such voting thereon, in lieu of the limitation hereinbefore established. These limitation may be increased to an aggregate of not to exceed 50 mills on each dollar of valuation for a period of not to exceed 20 years at any one time, if approved by a majority of the electors, qualified under Section 6, of Article 2 of this constitution, voting on the question."

Here we are discussing mills...What is a mill? Webster's define a mill as a money of account of the United States having the value of 1/10 of a cent. So whenever a mill is referred to, it means they are using mills to measure your tax dollars. For figuring tax dollars it is used like this. (.001 x $1,000 equalized value equals $1.00 taxes)

What does ad valorem mean? Well it means – literally, according to the value. I am told you need to use these Latin words to make it sound official. Now we understand anyway, that taxes are levied according to value and there is a standard way to compute these tax dollars, so the layman and/or laywoman can easily figure their tax dollar or what an upcoming election could mean in their tax bill.

I ask people their concept or understanding of the 15 mill limitation, I received a myriad of answers. Therefore we are going to dwell on this and hopefully help you understand the 15 mill limitation that your constitution set forth.

This constitutional millage is the 15 mills that you voted to freeze in Charlevoix County in November of 1978 for four years. The people approved of the millage being divided in the following manner: County 4.70, schools 9.10 townships 1.00, and intermediate school district .20 for a total of 15 mills.

This was approved by the voters to be frozen for four years, therefore in 1982 this approval for the frozen millage will expire and the people can revote to freeze it or it will automatically return as a function of the county tax allocation board of the county. Did you realize that the county tax allocation board is not a function controlled by county government? We'll continue next week along these same lines...Till then!

Board of Directors salutes nursing staff

Editor:

On behalf of the Board of Directors of Charlevoix Area Hospital, I want to bring to the public's attention the fact that this is Michigan's Nurses Week. At Charlevoix Area Hospital we feel especially blessed to have an extraordinary nursing team. The 35 Registered Nurses, 10 Licensed Practical Nurses and 20 nurses aides deserve a great deal of credit for the professionalism and special caring they give to patients at our community hospital.

Each one of our nursing staff approaches his or her work with skill and personal dedication. Because of our nurses' personal interest in both the patients and our hospital, Charlevoix Area Hospital has earned a reputation for excellence in providing health care and continues to receive [illegible] accreditation from the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals.

Thanks to the nursing staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital our hospital is known for its special atmosphere where patients are treated as whole people, where the staff takes time to care about each individual, their emotional and physical health.

And our hospital has benefited from our nurses unusual dedication. We recognize that they have worked hard to help hold down hospital costs, sometimes making personal sacrifices, such as changing shifts to eliminate overtime costs. The nursing staff has worked hard to enable our hospital to realize our current renovation and building program, through numerous funds raising activities. And now they are happily managing with the inconveniences caused during the period of construction.

The Board of Directors asks the people of our area to join us in saluting the wonderful work of the nursing staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Sincerely,
Thomas Carey
President
Charlevoix Area Hospitals

City should provide for facilities to meet code

Editor:

After reading Mrs. Raider's letter regarding The Michigan Beach House, and the fine food and service rendered by Anita Wimmer, I would like to add, that as a part-time summer resident, I feel it is up to the City of Charlevoix, as owner of the Beach House, to provide Mrs. Wimmer the facilities which will meet the city's own code, so that she can continue to serve us all in her [illegible].

Thank you,

Yours truly,

'Challenge' in conflict with Memorial Day

Editor:

Memorial Day, also known as Decoration Day, is a patriotic holiday in the United States of America. It is the only day of the year set aside for the sole purpose of honoring those American servicemen and women who gave their lives for this country. Originally, Memorial Day honored men who had died in the Civil War. It now honors those who died in the Spanish American War, World War I, World War II, the Korean War and the War in Vietnam.

Now there is a "Charlevoix Challenge" festival planned for Memorial Day weekend. Activities are planned for Memorial Day itself. This is in direct conflict with the purpose of the day.

I am sure any Veteran's organization in the City of Charlevoix would be more than happy to contribute to any worthy cause. However, there is a Michigan Week and also Venetian Festival at which time these activities can be scheduled. Many organizations use these times for their fund (or fun) raising programs. Also, at these times, it would not detract from the dignity and honor of Memorial Day.

Nurses recognized for extra special care

Editor:

April 28 through May 3, 1980 is Michigan Nurses Week. The Northern tri-County District of the Michigan Nurses Association asked all the health care agencies in the Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet county areas, which nurses in their employ went out of their way to give quality care. The nurses named who gave extra special care were:

Ann Bodnick - Emmet County Care Facility

[illegible] - Lockwood-MacDonald Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals, Inc.

Charlene Hutchinson - Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals, Inc.

Eleanor Knight - Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals, Inc.

[illegible] - District #3 Health Department

Audrey Smallwood - Lockwood-MacDonald Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals, Inc.

Nuclear safety record superior to others

Editor:

I have been reading the many letters a few individuals have written to you and your readers concerning nuclear power and its threat to human life. I can't help but wonder what type of reasoning is being used to come up with the opinion that nuclear power should be stopped. There are many essential factors which must be considered in order to make a reasonably sound judgement such as costs, benefits, risks, dependability, time and alternatives just to mention a few. Historically people oppose new and mystifying advancements until they are properly educated or have seen satisfactory results for a period of time. This has been true for gasoline, cars, airplanes, electricity and many others, yet where would we be today without them.

In a recent publication a writer said that John Selby (President of Consumers Power Co.) in his own words indicated that Big Rock was not as safe as it could be, and I agree. The point here is that nothing can be absolutely safe. No one can say his car, house, yard or anything else is as safe as it could be either. There is a limit to what extent is practical when considering risk analysis.

Statistically industry spends more money to save a life than most communities are willing to spend. Consumers Power Co. has spent millions of dollars to upgrade Big Rock to meet the new and everchanging N.R.C guidelines. Many of the changes have been to cope with the "Just in case" type situation. In other words the changes don't enhance the operation of the plant, but were designed to cope with abnormal conditions if other failures were to occur. To better illustrate this, suppose you had to operate your home under a regulatory body that could prevent you from living in your home unless you met their requirements and they deemed it safe. Since a home fire is known to be a threat to life the agency requires you to install a sprinkler system throughout your home. A later study shows that many home fires are started by electrical faults which could render your water pump inoperable. The agency then requires you to install a separate power line to your pump. At still a later date, they say "just in case the fire occurs during a power outage you have to install a gasoline driven generator. The prospects could go on and on including pump failure, line breaks, flooding etc. As you can see each addition made your house more fire safe, but soon you would be bankrupt or you're going to say "is it worth it?"

We all value life and are willing to spend any amount to actually save a life or lives. But when it comes to the "just in case" situations there [illegible].

The nuclear industry is faced with this type of problem each day of operation and the costs are mounting for the industry, taxpayers and ratepayers.

We all risk our lives and the lives of our loved ones everyday in many ways. The most significant risk is probably the family car where thousands are killed every year. Yet we accept these risks as a way of life.

There are a few individuals who would like to keep finding these "just in case" situations in an effort to stop nuclear power, all at the expense of our country and everyone living here. It's difficult to understand how so few people can have so great an influence in a country that's supposed to function for the majority. High costs for insignificant changes only adds fuel to inflation which is a major concern for all of us.

It's time the silent majority spoke out to preserve our country as a leader, its energy supply and our standard of living. I'm sure we can find more effective ways to spend money to protect life, since the nuclear industry's safety record around the world is superior to other energy supplying industries.

Mayor Young backs down

I see by the papers that Mayor Coleman Young has backed down on his request for hefty raises for his top aides, including his "social companion" Joyce Garrett, director of the city's Public Information Department.

The mayor had asked for the high level raises after freezing the pay of most city workers and laying off hundreds of policemen and firemen in a money-saving move.

Of course, Coleman Young's fellow Detroiters, who have been harder hit than the rest of us by the recession, flew into a towering rage and the mayor's telephone rang off the hook. Some of the callers reportedly were so irate they wanted to know what they could do to have the mayor impeached.

In backing down, Mayor Young said he still believes the raises are justified, but that they aren't worth losing the whole budget over. He pointed out that the pay hikes would come to only $57,000 in a budget of $1.5 billion.

"I was afraid it would obscure the real issue," Young is quoted as saying. "The issue is this city is facing a $128 million deficit."

Don't try to follow the mayor's reasoning, because you might get dizzy and fall off your chair. If the city is so hard-pressed, why did the mayor ask for raises for his upper echelon in the first place?

At the very least, the request showed a callous disregard for the thousands of Detroit auto workers who are now on indefinite layoff and additional thousands of residents who are having a hard time paying their city taxes.

I wonder who advised the mayor to make such a politically inept move?

The mayor, of course, is angry with the press for what he calls a "cheap shot" in making such a to-do about the pay raises. Mrs. Garrett probably received the most publicity, since her salary would have risen from $40,100 to $47,000.

If the press is indeed responsible for the mayor's about face, reporters covering city hall should take a bow. This is what a free and unfettered press is all about.

It's nice to see cosmetic surgery taking place in the 100 block of Bridge Street just south of the bridge – particularly in these days when construction of any kind is a rarity.

A new facade reminiscent of the mansard rooflines of Europe is being added to several shops in keeping with the city's "French Fishing Village" motif.

The addition will give a uniformity to the 100 block which has been missing Lo! these many years.

I, for one, wish GOP presidential candidate John Anderson of Illinois would decide whether or not to run as an independent — now that Ronald Reagan virtually has the GOP nomination in the bag.

Like many voters, I can't see the nation foundering another four years under Jimmy Carter and I don't believe Teddy Kennedy really has what it takes to run the White House.

Of course, I believe Anderson's proposed 50-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax is an abomination — but you must remember he made that suggestion before inflation hit an annual rate of 18 percent and before the recession began in earnest.

I think if Anderson would swing through some of the less-populated regions of the country, he would find a wealth of support he could draw on in November. In a country of 220 million-plus people, there must be someone better equipped to run the country than Jimmy, Teddy or Reagan. It could be Johnnie.

Meet Charlevoix

Bill Jackson recently took over the job of financial services manager for the Charlevoix Area Hospital. This week the Courier introduces him to the community.

Q. When did you come to Charlevoix?
A. I came the end of October and my family moved here the week before Christmas. We came from Lapeer, where I worked for the Lapeer County General Hospital.
Q. What are you duties at the Charlevoix Hospital?
A. I'm in charge of accounting, including general ledger, payroll, patient billing, receivables.
Q. You have a computer system, don't you?
A. Yes. We do most of our work on the computer. We can even extract demographic information on the computer.
Q. How many employees are on your payroll?
A. We have 140 employees. About 100 of them are full time.
Q. It seems as if a lot of babies are being born in the hospital. How many were there last year?
A. We had 263 newborns during the year ending March 31. Obstetrics account for about 12 percent of our patients.
Q. Then what category do most of your patients fall into?
A. About 80 percent are general medical-surgical patients.
Q. What is your rate of occupancy?
A. We've been running about 60 percent.
Q. The hospital is about to start an expansion program. What will that consist of?
A. We're going to add 15 thousand to 16 thousand square feet. The new space will provide a business office, storage rooms, emergency room, and part of a medical-surgical area.
Q. When are you going to have the groundbreaking?
A. It should be soon. I understand the Board of Directors have been talking about it.
Q. How long will the work take?
A. They estimate a year and a half to two years.
Q. Have you always been in the hospital accounting field?
A. No. I graduated from Michigan State in 1973 with a degree in business administration. Then I worked for a public accounting firm for three years. After I became a CPA I went to Lapeer.
Q. Hospital accounting is a specialty, isn't it?
A. It is because of the regulations of Medicare and Medicaid. For instance, we don't just bill the patient. If a person is covered by Medicare, we bill Medicare direct. They don't pay us for that individual patient but instead send us a voucher saying that patient and others have been cleared through the system. Then we receive a check from them about every two weeks covering several patients.
Q. How many of your patients are covered by Medicaid?
A. About 80 percent of them are covered by Medicare, Medicaid, or Blue Cross or both. Less than 10 percent of them are Medicaid patients.
Q. What do you do when you're not working?
A. This winter I've been cutting a lot of wood. We live on 10 acres off of Richardson Road. We were heating with propane and after spending $190 in five weeks, we bought a woodburning stove.
Q. Any hobbies?
A. I like to bowl and to read.
Q. How many in your family?
A. My wife, Sharon, and I have two children. Dan is four and [illegible].
Q. Do you like Charlevoix?
A. We were excited about our move up here and we haven't been disappointed. I hope I can stay here the rest of my life.

Train rides planned

For young people who have never had a ride on a railroad train and for older people who have fond memories of trips by rail, Michigan Northern Railway has a special treat.

In celebration of National Transportation Week, Michigan Northern will offer free half-hour train rides from the Petoskey City Park on Friday, May 16, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m.

This is the fourth year in a row the normally freight-only carrier has given the free rides. Last year, more than 15,000 people turned out for rides in Rockford, Big Rapids, Cadillac, Kalaska, and Petoskey.

Another state title for speech team?

The Charlevoix High School speech team qualified in six events at the regional level at Mt. Pleasant Saturday to advance to state competition at Ann Arbor May 3.

Charlevoix was among 28 schools entered in the regional meet and was among three who qualified in six events. The others were Gaylord and Ithaca. Those persons placing among the top three in each event qualified for advancement to the state level. Those who placed fourth will be alternates.

Coach Connie Ford said that Charlevoix, the defending Class C-D state champion, has a good chance of winning another title.

The winners and their respective events follow:

John Grooters placed first in story-telling with a perfect score for the third time this year. This is the third year he has qualified for state competition.

Sheri Cook took top honors in the serious category with a near perfect score. This is her second year of qualifying. Shari Barnes received a fourth place and will be an alternate.

Carla Sizemore placed first in radio news to qualify for the second year. Bob Best placed second in this event.

Martha Staley placed third in 9-19 grade oratory and Kathy Pidek third in humorous to earn berths on the team that will be going to Ann Arbor.

The multiple entry, a collection of satirical material by Woody Allen, Evelyn Waugh and Mark Twain entitled "Death" placed fourth and will be an alternate in state competition. Members of the cast are Jack Carlson, Pat Camerelli, Carolyn Loper, Tami Noirot, Cindy Engler, Jim Gleason and Paul Stangis.

Others who were entered and the event in which they participated include: Kristy Mathews, open oratory; Kelly Mathews, 9-10 oratory and a dramatic duo composed of James Boggs and Patti Cook who presented a cutting from "My Fair Lady".

This Teen Bible Quiz Team from the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene recently won the third place trophy at the District Bible Quiz in Grand Rapids. Members of the team are Jim Knight and Bryan Steelman in rear and Andra Fiedler and Sue Knight in front. Jim Knight also received the second place individual award.

Sports

Rayders trip Sault Ste. Marie, 7-5

First baseman Jim Buchanan cracked a three run homer Friday afternoon to propel Charlevoix past Sault Ste. Marie, 7-5, in the Rayders first baseball game of the season.

Charlevoix scored its seven runs on just three hits. Jerry Sladek in relief of Mike Loper picked up the win. The Rayders will travel to Central Lake Tuesday.

Charlevoix returns 11 lettermen this season - Jack Carlson, Scott Morgan, Phil Morrison, Bob Russell, Sladek, Buchanan, Loper, Scott Kelly, Roxy VanLoo, Kirk Heckendorn and Mike Zednicek. Brian Carson, Jeff Greene, Mark Morgan, Dave Milligan, Kurt Puffpaff, Chris Putman, Ken Speigl, Jon Spieles and Jim Zeitler are newcomers to the roster.

Last season Charlevoix finished 10-8 overall and 4-4 in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference. Coach Pete Spieles has six of his top seven hitters back. VanLoo led the team in hitting a year ago with a .392 batting average. Buchanan, a sophomore, was second at .370, followed by Carlson .387, Russell .350, Morgan .333, and Morrison .288. Heckendorn, Loper, Morgan and Sladek will do most of the pitching this season. A year ago Heckendorn was 3-0 with a 1.26 earned run average, Loper 1-4 (1.30 era), Morgan 4-3 (2.62 era) and Sladek 3-1 (3.28 era).

Sports Boosters to meet

An important meeting of the Charlevoix Sports Boosters will be held at the high school study hall at 7 p.m. Thursday Dale Burge, Athletic Director, has announced.

On the agenda will be the election of officers, a discussion regarding the proposed press box-storage building at Kipke field, the senior awards banquet and several other issues relating to the sports program in the Charlevoix schools.

All persons interested in any phase of the program are encouraged to attend. Charlevoix offers 12 different sports programs.

Jim Buchanan avoids tag at first.

Netters upend county rivals

Coach Chuck Wright said his young team played well in the opener Wednesday against East Jordan and improved on that performance against Boyne City on Thursday.

In singles competition Wednesday: Dennis Morgridge (C) defeated Tom Zoulek 6-0 and 6-2; Jeff Morgridge (C) defeated Ricardo Adad 3-6, 6-4 and 6-4, Shelly Knight (C) defeated Bob Morrows 6-0, 4-6 and 6-0; and Tom Rosenthal (EJ) defeated Andy Schaefer 1-6, 6-1 and 6-3.

In doubles: John Grooters and Rick Rajewski (C) defeated Kevin Dietrich and Duane Carpenter 6-4 and 6-3; Dan Goebel and Steve Drenth (EJ) defeated Paul Hoffman and Pete Dunkleberg 6-3 and 7-5; and Kris Lignell and Patrice Staley (C) defeated Lynne Hawkins and Karen Seelye 6-0 and 6-3

In singles competition Thursday: Jeff Morgridge (C) defeated Ken Kruzell 6-0, 5-7 and 6-3; Knight (C) defeated Corey Knight 6-0 and 6-0; Mike Neuman (BC) defeated Schaefer 6-1 and 6-1; and Kerry Kruzell (BC) defeated Staley 6-1 and 6-1.

In doubles competition: Grooters and Rajewski (C) defeated Gil Redmer and Marty Neuman 6-1 and 6-1; Hoffman and Dunkleberg (C) defeated Dave Mettig and Tom Bajko 6-1 and 6-3; Lignell and Pete Cockfield (C) defeated Nancy Lentz and Mike Hoffman 6-4 and 7-5

FATHER, IT'S GOOD TO BE HOME AGAIN!
I'VE LIVED A FULL AND EXHILARATING LIFE THESE PAST 23 YEARS....A LIFE BUILT ON THE FOND MEMORIES OF A CHILDHOOD SPENT HERE UNDER THE PROTECTIVE AND LOVING SURROUNDINGS PROVIDED BY YOU AND DEAR MOTHER..
AN ADOLESCENCE OVERFLOWING WITH PARENTAL LOVE AND UNDERSTANDING AT EVERY EVENTFUL TURN OF MY YOUNG LIFE FROM BIRTH, THRU THE TRIALS AND TRIBULATIONS OF MY EARLY SCHOOLING AND....
THEN, ON THE THRESHOLD OF MATURITY, YOU LET ME SPREAD MY WINGS AFTER GRADUATION AND ENJOY THE INDIVIDUAL FREEDOM OF ATTENDING THE UNIVERSITY...
THERE I WAS ABLE TO BASK IN THE INTELLECTUAL ENVIRONMENT THAT INTRODUCED ME TO SOCRATES, PLATO, HOMER AND ARISTOTLE...
AND THE INCOMPARABLE EXPERIENCE OF BEING ABLE TO EXPAND MY SOCIAL GRACES THROUGH A CLOSE ASSOCIATION WITH MY PEERS ON CAMPUS...
FOUR YEARS... AND THEN I WAS PREPARED FOR THE WORLD! THE COVETED SHEEPSKIN TUCKED NEATLY UNDER MY ARM. YOU THEN CONSENTED TO SENDING ME TO EUROPE TO VISIT AND VIEW THE VAST ASSEMBLAGE OF HISTORIC PLACES I HAD LONGED TO SEE....
AND ON TO THE FAR EAST TO LIVE FOR A BRIEF BUT AWE-INSPIRING PERIOD OF MEDITATION AND THOUGHT-PROVOKING MOMENTS WITH THE AGELESS THINKERS OF THAT GREAT CULTURE.
AND NOW, AFTER THESE ENUMERABLE PERSONAL ENCOUNTERS WITH ALL PHASES OF EDUCATIONAL, SOCIAL AND SPIRITUAL LIFE, I'VE MADE THE COMPLETE CIRCLE.... RETURNING HERE TO WHERE IT ALL BEGAN...
NOW, AFTER BEING FORTUNATE ENOUGH TO CONQUER THE DOUBTS AND ANXIETIES OF THE SEEMINGLY UNQUENCHABLE CURIOSTIES OF YOUTH, WHAT LIES AHEAD FOR ME NOW? DOES THE SEARCH CONTINUE?
WHERE DO I LOOK NOW, FATHER, FOR THE UNKNOWN HORIZONS THAT STRETCH AIMLESSLY ACROSS MY FUTURE?
HOW ABOUT THE HELP-WANTED COLUMNS OF TODAY'S PAPER?

Deadline extended

The Detroit Institute of Arts has extended its deadline for artists who plan to enter the "Michigan Artists 80-81" competition.

The deadline is now May 23. By that time, Charlevoix area artists should have their entry form, entry fee and slides representative of their work into the Art Institute of Detroit.

Bill and Bonnie Staffel

Bonnie Staffel to address conference

Bonnie Staffel, who has been a professional potter for over 30 years and who has operated a studio near Charlevoix with her husband, Bill, since 1966, will be one of three speakers at the 21st Annual Upper Peninsula Crafts and Native Industries Exhibit and Conference.

The exhibit and conference will be held Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Walker Cisler Center, Lake Superior State College, Sault Ste. Marie, Michigan.

Aarre Lahti, Professor Emeritus, University of Michigan, School of Architecture and Design, and Monica Murphy, Sault College, Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario Canada, will be the other speakers.

Mrs. Staffel, who received her training at the Toledo Museum of Art and Cranbrook, has her work represented in many museums and private collections in the United States. She will show slides of her work and demonstrate design techniques on the potters' wheel.

This conference is sponsored by the Upper Peninsula Crafts Council and will also have a number of crafts exhibits such as "The Best of the Fourth", a city-wide craft exhibit at the Sault. In celebration of National Library Week and Bayliss Library 75th Birthday, 100 crafts books will be on display from the state library. The Sault Crafts Association, Algoma Weavers' Guild and the Sault Potters' Guild will host "House in the Park Display," Saturday, Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario, from 8 to 10 p.m. Area studios will be open for visitation on Sunday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. During the day of the conference, many displays of creative and native industry crafts will be shown at the Walker Cisler Center.

The public is invited to attend.

Thirty-three schools to participate in art exhibit at NCMC

Students from 33 schools in Charlevoix and Emmet counties will exhibit their art next week at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey.

The art exhibit is sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

The exhibit will be open from 1-5 p.m. and from 7-9 p.m. Sunday, April 27 until Saturday, May 3. Arrangements can be made for large groups to attend the exhibit at other hours by calling the Crooked Tree Arts Council at 347-3973.

Fifteen works of arts were selected from each of the 33 schools. All public and parochial schools as well as Montessori and Developmental Needs schools in the two counties will be represented. Age groups represented will vary from pre-schoolers to high schoolers.

"This is not a competition," said Mrs. William Dreyer of Charlevoix, a co-chairman of the exhibit. "It is what the name implies, an exhibit of the work of students of all ages in all our schools.

"Its purpose is to give encouragement to those students who have displayed artistic talent."

Four-year-old Melissa Mosher, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Mosher of Charlevoix, did the art work for the invitations to the exhibit. Alison Latham, 5, formerly of Petoskey, did the poster publicizing the event.

Harvey Pittel trio in concert Saturday

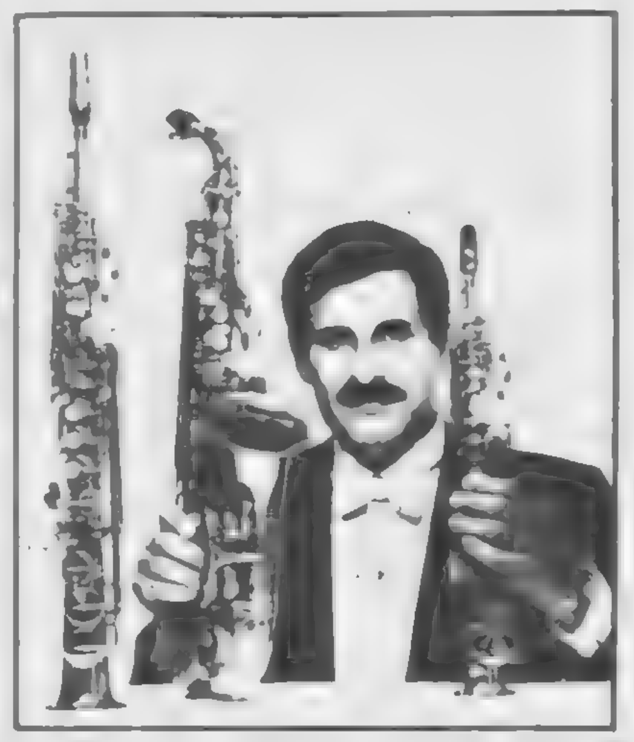
The Northern Michigan Community Concert Association will present its final concert of the season on Saturday with the appearance of the Harvey Pittel trio.

The concert will start at 8:30 p.m. in the Petoskey Middle School auditorium.

Pittel, considered one of the world's finest concert saxophonist, has formed this chamber ensemble unique in both its instrumentation and its repertoire. They will perform music ranging from Bach to Ellington to Villa-Lobos and others.

Memberships for next season's concert series will be on sale during May. The featured artists and dates will be announced at the annual kick-off dinner at The Perry Davis Hotel on Monday, May 5, where all campaign workers will be honored. Anyone who would like to volunteer to help should call Margo Todd at 347-8443.

Innovative ideas for next year's season will be announced at the kick-off dinner, including a low-cost price for family membership, regardless of number of children.



Band in Trout Festival

The Charlevoix High School Marching band, complete with majorettes and the flag and rifle corps will travel to Kalkaska Saturday, April 26, to participate in the annual Trout Festival at Kalkaska their director, Michael Filkins, has announced.

The band will march in the Trout Festival parade at 2 p.m.

50 students in festival at Gaylord

Fifty Charlevoix Middle School band students, entered in 32 events, will participate in the District II Junior High Division of the Solo and Ensemble Festival at Gaylord Saturday their director, Michael Filkins, has announced.

This is the largest group that Charlevoix has ever sent to a Junior High Division of the Solo and Ensemble Festival [illegible].

GEMWISE

MORE DIAMOND FOR YOUR MONEY

If you've ever seen a fine, large diamond, you probably experienced [illegible] most people do. We jewelers never get over that sensation no matter how many diamonds we encounter.

Unfortunately, fine large diamonds are out of the price range of many people. There is, however, a beautiful alternative which we recommend highly -- the multiple diamond setting!

Since fine diamonds are more rare in large sizes, the per carat price is higher. An alternative to a large stone is a group of small diamonds which produces a remarkable "cumulative effect." As a matter of fact, some people prefer this unique, glittery sparkle.

Small diamonds have been used for many years to enhance the beauty of a colored stone. But more and more people are becoming aware of the way diamonds can compliment each other as well.

Some popular uses of diamond groupings are clusters set into rings, earrings and pendants, paved surfaces of tiny diamonds (such as watch faces or flat bracelet surfaces) and rows of diamonds in eternity rings, chokers and bracelets.

By opting for this diamond grouping alternative, you can get more total carat weight for less money. For instance, a group of small diamonds totaling one carat would almost always cost less than a one carat single diamond of equal quality.

Come into Reusch Jewelers for a first hand look at this phenomenon. We think you'll be pleasantly surprised.

'Born Again': The story of a presidential aide who found Christ

The powerful and true motion picture "Born Again" will be shown at the Community Church of God Sunday, April 27 at 7 p.m., according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, pastor.

"Born Again" is the story of a man who found Christ. Chuck Colson's move to the White House in 1969 was the crowning achievement of a career in business and government marked by a string of brilliant successes. Colson was the youngest company officer in the Marine Corps and the youngest administrative assistant in the U.S. Senate. He was the head of a law firm that represented some of the giants of American corporate life, but nothing gave him as much satisfaction as his appointment to the position of special counsel to the president.

Not long after joining President Nixon's staff, he was given an office next to the president and counted among those closest to this country's most powerful man. It was Colson's strategy that brought Nixon the largest landslide in history in the 1972 presidential election. But in the midst of the heady power of the president's inner circle, the seeds of destruction that would eventually pull down the elite were planted.

"Born Again", is a film that faithfully recreates the sense of power and corruption that haunted the Oval Office during Nixon's reign. It explores the meetings where Haldeman, Erlichman, Kissinger and Colson helped the president make decisions that would seal the fate of the nation.

As Watergate unfolds, the film brilliantly turns its focus from public affairs to the inner turmoil of a man caught up in a center of the controversy. With a searching sensitivity – heightened by Dean Jones portrait of Colson – "Born Again" recaptures the anxiety and overwhelming sense of loss that Nixon's "hatchet man" experienced as he was stripped of power.

Trying to escape the mounting media pressure and growing accusations of involvement, Colson resigns and returns to his law firm. But the inexorable vice of Watergate continues to tighten as Colson is linked to the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

This is the point where "Born Again" parts company with all those other films that chronicle the rise and fall of political leaders. For this is the point where the sovereignty of God becomes the major theme of this film. On a business trip to New England, hoping to get away from the crowd of reporters tht trail him all over the capital, Colson is confronted for the first time with the claims of Jesus Christ. And, in the movie's most moving scene, Chuck Colson, alone in his car, prays to receive his Lord and Savior.

With Jesus now at the center of his life, Colson finds the strength to face the inevitable trial and a prison sentence of one to three years. The movie dramatically demonstrates the healing power of Christ as Colson is united in Christian fellowship with some of his worst political enemies. Former Senator Howard Hughes, playing himself, gives a touching performance that testifies to God's unlimited power.

Perhaps the prison scenes, which cover a good portion of the 80 minute film, are the most encouraging and insightful of the entire movie. They give new meaning to the scripture "In everything give thanks" as those months when Colson had to learn to thank God for taking him from the heights of power and placing him in the dark, dank confines of a lonely Alabama prison are relived.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF INTENT TO PERFORM FLOOD ELEVATION STUDY IN THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX

The Federal Flood Insurance and Hazard Mitigation Agency (FIHM) of the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development announced today that under authority of the National Flood Insurance Act of 1968 (P.L. 90-448), as amended, and the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 (P.L. 93-234), it will fund a detailed study of the flood hazard areas in the City of Charlevoix.

The study will be performed by the U.S. Army Engineer District, Detroit.

The purpose of this study is to examine and evaluate the flood hazard areas in the community which are developed or which are likely to be developed and to determine flood elevations for those areas. Flood elevations will be used by the community to carry out the flood plain management objectives of the National Flood Insurance Program. They will also be used as the basis for determining the appropriate flood insurance premium rates applicable for new buildings and their contents, as well as determining the rates to be used for the second layer of insurance on existing buildings and contents.

This announcement is intended to notify all interested persons of the commencement of this study so that they may have an opportunity to submit any relevant facts and technical data concerning local flood hazards for consideration in the course of this study. Such information should be furnished to U.S. Army Engineer District, Detroit, P.O. Box 1027, Detroit, Michigan 48231, ATTN: NCEED-PB or Mr. James Bricker, City Manager, City of Charlevoix, 201 State Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Michigan State Housing Development Authority

ATTENTION: Realtors/Property Managers

The Michigan State Housing Development Authority is seeking a local Property Manager and/or Realtor who is interested in contracting with the Authority to administer the Section 8 Existing Housing Program. Obituaries

MARCIA RABY

Funeral services for Mrs. Gordon (Marcia C.) Raby, 59, of Bay Shore, who died Saturday at Little Traverse Hospital, were held Tuesday morning at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. James W. Larsen of Boyne City officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Born in Detroit, Oct. 20, 1920, the former Marcia C. Adams was graduated from Lincoln Park High School and Wayne State University. She taught at Bay Shore and the Detroit schools for 20 years before retiring and coming to Bay Shore in 1972. She was employed at Northern Michigan Hospitals from 1973 until the time of her death. She had also been associated with her aunt, the late Clara Ross, in the operation of the Shintangle, an inn and night club at Bay Shore from the 1920's until the late 1940's. She was National Junior Vice President of the Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War 1861-65 and the Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Greg (Dena) Brown of Bay Shore and Sara of Lincoln Park and a grand-daughter, Camille Cooper of Presque Isle.

VELMA GIBB

Memorial services for Mrs. Velma Clemons Gibb, 73, of Lansing and Charlevoix, who died April 16 in Lansing, were held Saturday at the Plymouth Congregational Church in Lansing. The Rev. Dr. Robert J.L. Williams officiated.

The former Velma Phillips was born in Michigan in 1906 and was a graduate of Lansing Central High School and the Chicago Conservatory of Music. She had also attended Michigan State University. Mrs. Gibb was the widow of James Gibb. She had been a piano teacher in Lansing for many years. She had been a summer visitor here for more than 10 years at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Barbara C. Bump.

Besides her daughter, Mrs. Bump, she is survived by a son, Robert M. Clemons of Bedford, N.Y.; two grandsons; a brother, Cecil Phillips of Harrison and a sister, Mrs. Ted Lundberg of Lansing.

The family suggests memorials in her name to the Plymouth Congregational Church in Lansing or the American Cancer Society.

The Estes-Ledley Funeral Home in Lansing was in charge of arrangements.

WARREN PHILLIPS

Funeral services for a former resident Warren C. Phillips, 63, of Grand Rapids, who died April 16 at Blodgett Memorial Medical Center were held Friday at Reyers North Valley Funeral Chapel in Grand Rapids. Dr. Dewey A. Peterson of the Second Congregational Church officiated. Interment was in Washington Park Memorial Gardens.

Born at Leelanau Oct. 31, 1917, Mr. Phillips came to Charlevoix with his parents as a boy. He was graduated from the Charlevoix High School and during World War II served in the Armed Forces. On June 29, 1940, he was married to the former Virginia Lindsay at Boyne City. He was a retired employee of Lear-Siegler, Inc. He was a member of Grand River Lodge No. 34, F. & A.M. and of Saladin Temple Shrine.

Besides his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Dennis (Toni) Funk of Grand Rapids and Miss Terrie Phillips of Paoli, Pa.; five grandchildren; three sisters, Mrs. Marshall (Laurel) O'Neill of Sault Ste. Marie, Mrs. Alwin (Gladys) Sangster and Mrs. Wallace (Leone) Burrell of Cheboygan and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Ann Leonard of Grand Rapids.

For those who wish, memorials may be made to the Michigan Cancer Foundation.

CHARLOTTE INKSTER

Memorial services for Mrs. Charlotte Inkster, 90, who died Wednesday, April 16 at the Vista Grande Villa retirement home in Jackson, will be held Sunday at the United Methodist Church in Syracuse, N.Y.

A native of Charlevoix, Mrs. Inkster was born Jan. 19, 1890. She lived in Charlevoix until her family moved to Flint. She attended Kalamazoo Normal College and taught in public schools for 12 years. She married Frederick Inkster Feb. 9, 1929. They lived in Syracuse, N.Y. Mr. Inkster died in 1973. In 1976, Mrs. Inkster moved to Vista Grande Villa.

MILDRED ORCUTT

Funeral services for Mrs. Darwin (Mildred H.) Orcutt, 75, who died unexpectedly at her home in Ellsworth Tuesday, were held Friday at the Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Jordan. The Rev. Kenneth Hagen officiated. Interment was in Maple Grove Cemetery in Elk Rapids.

Born in Elk Rapids May 8, 1904, the former Mildred H. Martinsen was married to Mr. Orcutt at East Jordan on June 4, 1924. They lived briefly in East Jordan and Detroit and in Elk Rapids for 20 years before coming to Ellsworth in 1944 to make their home. She was a member of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in East Jordan and its Women's Guild, the Ellsworth Senior Citizens' Club and Ellsworth Hobby Club.

She is survived by her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Harold (Helen) Tetter and Mrs. Glenn (Arla) Woodcock, both of Traverse City; four grandchildren; two great-grandchildren and a brother, Ralph Martinsen of Dimondale.

The family suggests memorials to the Michigan Heart Fund.

The Hastings Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

WARREN SCHOALS

Funeral services for Warren Delbert Schoals, a former Charlevoix resident, were held Tuesday, April 8 at the McDougal Chapel in Laingsburg.

Mr. Schoals, 79, died Saturday, April 5 at St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids.

Mr. Schoals was a former employee of the Motor Wheel Corporation from 1934-45. From 1945-48 he operated a 500 acre farm in Alba. In 1948, Mr. Schoals moved to Charlevoix. He farmed here from 1948-59 and from 1957-59 he also worked at the Belvedere Golf Course. He later moved to Laingsburg where he also farmed.

Mr. Schoals was born March 18, 1901 in Victor Township, Clinton County to Edward and Anna Smith Shoals. On Nov. 6, 1933 he married Charlotte Crowell in Indiana.

Surviving are his wife, Charlotte; one daughter, Mrs. Rosemary Ann Mann of Cedar Springs; two sons, Stanley Durwood of Texas and Warren Richard of Los Angeles; 10 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Why a new roof?

In six weeks, Charlevoix School District voters will be asked by the Board of Education to approve a 1.7 mill tax levy for one year to put a new roof on the high school. Why is a new roof needed?

That question was put to Vince Olach, business manager of the school district.

The present high school was constructed in 1959, 21 years ago. At that time, the standard build-up roof was used. Since, extensive patching and repairs have been made to [illegible].

The roof, Olach explained, consists of steel decking, Fresco board for insulation and built-up asphalt covering for protection. This type of roof, he said, expands/contracts from one inch to 1½ inches as outside temperatures vary. This expansion and contraction causes the asphalt to withdraw from the flashings and produces cracks and splits throughout the entire roof. Water then enters through these cracks and splits and causes the roof to "blister" or "bubble" and the insulation becomes soaked, thus losing its effectiveness.

Over the years these "blisters" were removed and patched, cracks were filled and flashings repaired. However, not all the cracks and splits, because of their small size, were immediately discovered and would rupture, causing leaks before they were found. This caused the water to be absorbed by the Fresco board insulation to a point where it is "totally ineffective." Added to that, he said, the continuous moisture has caused some deterioration of the steel decking and, if it is not corrected, will cause damage to ceilings and electrical wiring.

Two roofing contractors have checked the roof at different times and both agree that at this point the present roof can no longer be patched or repaired, and must be removed to the decking. The decking must then be repaired and new insulation installed before a new roof can be put on the building.

The current plan is to remove the existing roof, repair the damaged decking and install Thermax insulation and cover with a Trocal roof. This would double the insulation value of Fresco board, Olach said. He added that Trocal is a poly vinyl panel that is chemically welded to a trocal metal flashing and held in place by a gravel layer thus providing a waterproof envelope over the entire building. Trocal does not crack or split, does not blister or bubble and carries a 10 year guarantee. Trocal, he explained is made to expand and contract and, because it is loosely laid, would not be damaged should the structure move.

Olach said trocal roof consists of a stretchable sheet that covers the entire roof continuously from edge to edge. It is not adhered to in any layer. The vapor barrier, insulation and roof membrane are all laid loosely. Trocal is seamed into a homogeneous skin which is fastened to the deck only at the roof edges and roof interruptions. This creates a one-piece loose membrane over the entire surface of the roof which gives as the structure moves. Every seam and every point where water might enter is sealed with the same material as the roof itself, dissolved in a solvent which then cures to become an integral part of the roof.

The cost of a trocal roof is approximately 70 cents more a square foot than the conventional asphalt/asbestos built-up roof. However, it provides twice the insulation, has a 10-year guarantee and requires minimal maintenance and care in addition to offering more and better protection for the building and its contents, he said.

School to conduct survey

What do you think of the Charlevoix School System?

For the second year residents of the Charlevoix School District will be polled at random beginning Thursday and given an opportunity to comment on numerous issues relating to the schools and their operation.

The survey will be conducted by the Professional Studies Committee composed of administrators, teachers and school board members in order to obtain community input regarding schools.

"Unless you tell us what you think, we have no way of knowing. This has proven the most feasible way to obtain answers," a member of the committee said.

The questions in this year's survey will, in many instances, relate to information received earlier and others will touch on issues suggested by those [illegible] in 1979.

"It is important that we have community input. Sometimes we at the schools are so close we do not see the situation as a parent or interested person might. Attitudes change. We want to keep abreast of them. This is another reason for the survey," the spokesman continued.

The Professional Studies Committee plans to continue its survey over a period of five years in order to follow the trends in thinking about the schools.

Many of the ideas offered as a result of last year's survey have already been incorporated into the program and others will be as soon as the opportunity arises, according to Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren, who is also a member of the committee as well.

Five hundred names have been selected at random from registered voters lists in the city and townships that comprise the Charlevoix School District. A corps of more than 20 volunteers will begin Thursday and continue making calls until a minimum of 250 responses have been obtained before the survey is completed.

It's official. The City of Charlevoix now owns a 5.57 acre parcel of land near the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. The title to the land, which will be used for senior citizen housing, was acquired by the city Friday. Here, Marge Dinwiddie (left), Ralph Shapton, Ralph McRae and Ralph Hamilton (on the right) pose with Bill and Bonnie Steffens after the deal was completed. The Steffens along with Deano and Joyce Davenport and George and Linda Hamilton sold the property to the city for $105,000. The city has obtained federal money for the project. The land is considered centrally located in the city.

CG confirms Sundew's departure

The U.S. Coast Guard has confirmed that the Cutter Sundew will be reassigned to Duluth, Minn., this summer.

A new 140 foot ice breaking tug - the Neah Bay - will replace the Sundew and its 36 man crew. The Neah Bay has a crew of 17.

The 9th Coast Guard District Office in Cleveland also announced that the Cutter Mesquite, presently stationed in Duluth, will be reassigned to Galveston, Texas, to replace the Cutter Blackthorn, which collided with a tanker in Tampa Bay earlier this year and sank.

The 120 foot tugs Raritan, berthed at Cleveland, and Arundel, berthed at Buffalo, will remain in service until another buoy tender is assigned to Lake Michigan in the summer of 1981. Both ships had been scheduled for decommissioning.

The reassignments are expected to take place between July 1 and Sept. 30. However, both the Sunde and Mesquite are due for shipyard time before the [illegible].

Kennedy garners support

Ted Kennedy garnered 12 of 20 votes in the Charlevoix County Democratic Caucus held Saturday at City Hall.

President Jimmy Carter received [illegible] votes. Six were uncommitted.

The reason Kennedy did so well in Charlevoix, according to local Democrats, was because of the sluggish economy. There had been no concerted drive in the county for either candidate.

Charlevoix County will eight votes at the 11th District convention Saturday at Manistique. The county's vote will be distributed proportionately at the district convention.

Glenn Bronson of Boyne City will attend the convention. The 11th District will send seven delegates to the national convention in New York.

On Sunday

NOVA plans rally at Big Rock

The march to the plant - and the subsequent protest - has been organized to focus attention on the "insufficient shielding" at Big Rock and the "laxety of the NRC" in dealing with the matter.

"The unshielded containment at Big Rock is insufficient to contain gamma rays," a spokesperson for NOVA (Northern Voices Allied) said. "Big Rock is currently operating without minimal safety shielding and has requested the NRC (Nuclear Regulatory Commission) to defer necessary modifications until at least 1981."

According to NOVA, the sponsor of the protest, a prayer service will be conducted at 8 a.m. Sunday in East Park in downtown Charlevoix. Afterwards, the group will meet at the city golf course at 10 a.m. and march along US-31 North past Big Rock to Elzinga Park for a rally. Marchers will be carrying dolls to represent the "endangered children of tomorrow." The dolls will be tagged with the "diseases low radiation inflicts upon us," the spokesperson added. Helen LaTarte, Sister Ardeth Platte, Ron Jump and Pam Weiner are expected to address the gathering at the park.

Following the rally, those persons who have completed civil disobedience training will walk to the plant entrance and ask for permission to meet with plant operators so they can explain their reasons for wanting Big Rock closed.

According to the spokesperson, if the request is refused the group plans to block the access road. Arrests are likely, the spokesperson added.

Approximately 70 persons have been attending training courses in civil disobedience.

"Civil disobedience is the product of a personal commitment to end the silent violence of nuclear power," the NOVA spokesperson said.

The Concerned Citizens for the Charlevoix Area will not "actively participate" in the civil disobedience, according to Christa-Marie.

"We are supporting the march and symbolic action ... and will participate in the rally," she said. "Because the Concerned Citizens pursue the legal intervention we cannot at this time afford the arrest or court proceeding. It is for this reason only that we will not be part of the civil disobedience action."

The Concerned Citizens for the Charlevoix Area has intervened in the plant's request to expand fuel rod storage. A decision on that request is expected later this year.

Meanwhile, Lexalite - which is a neighbor of Big Rock - is inviting pro-nuclear marchers and supporters to a luncheon in the parking lot from 1-3 p.m. Hot dogs, coffee and soft drinks will be served.

"We support nuclear power, as no country can remain free, strong and healthy without an adequate supply of reasonably priced energy," Josh Barnes, president of Lexalite, said. "Nuclear power is no longer just a theory, it works. And it has shown itself to be safe and efficient. There are no viable alternatives.

"We also have an ulterior motive," Barnes explained. "If Big Rock were shut down, we would probably soon see a fossil fired generating plant on the same site. Even if it were fired by the cleanest of the fossil fuels, natural gas, it would emit 100 times more radiation than the nuclear fuel cycle. A rather unpleasant neighbor."

Ferry open

The Ironton Ferry has officially opened, according to Fred Welch of the Charlevoix County Road Commission.

The ferry opened for the season at 6 a.m. today (Wednesday).

Beaver Island students heading south

Country music is "a big thing" on Beaver Island these days. So take a guess where 15 students from the Beaver Island Community School are headed on their class trip?

It's known throughout the country as "Music City, USA." In fact, more than half of the nation's records are made there, along with an increasing number of motion pictures and network television productions.

"Nashville (Tennessee) was a near unanimous choice," said Barb Nakowski in a telephone interview recently. "The students picked Toronto a distant second."

The students - juniors and seniors - will leave for Nashville on Wednesday, May 7, and return a week later. Fred Annand, who has a summer residence on the island, will drive the students and chaperones to Nashville in his motor coach.

"All we have to pay for is the gas," Mrs. Nakowski said.

The group will stay at a campground just outside of Nashville. The motor coach, incidentally, is equipped with a kitchenette and bathroom, so the campers will not really be "roughing it."

Of course, there will be a lot of sights to see once in Nashville. The students plan to visit Opryland, the botanical gardens and the museums, for starters.

"I think we'll be so busy that we're not going to see everything we plan to," Mrs. Nakowski said.

The juniors and seniors take a trip together every other year. Last year (as juniors) the senior class raised over $1,000 (car washes, bake sales, etc) for the trip. The money was put into a savings account while this year's junior class worked to raise funds for the trip.

Trips are also planned for some of the other grades at the school. Freshmen and sophomores will be taking a camping trip on the island to learn more about the environment while eighth graders will be visiting the Mackinac Island Community School "to see what it's like on the other island."

Selling Your House by Gene Steele

INTEREST DOWN - COST UP

Are you waiting until interest rates drop before you buy a home? Do you think that this will save you money? The home you have your eye on will cost you more in monthly payments two years from now -- even if the interest rate drops one percent.

For example, take a home that costs $80 000. With a 20% down payment and financed with a 25 year 12% mortgage the monthly payment would be $704.64. But two years from now if the price rose at 8% per year, the now $80 000 home would likely cost $93,312. If the interest rate decreased to 11%, not only would the down payment be $2 662 more, but the monthly payment would increase to $770.39. If the interest rate stayed at 12% the payment would come to $821.90.

So, it's obvious that the overall value of the home not the interest makes the biggest impact on your monthly payment. Since there is no indication of property values decreasing, the moral of the story is... Buy now or pay more later

SOMETIMES IT'S HARD TO LOVE LAWYERS

Let's face it most people only see lawyers when they're in trouble and in no mood to love anyone. And what's said on television and in the newspapers about the law and lawyers doesn't help either

Maybe that's part of the reason why over 50 million Americans have never consulted a lawyer. And an additional 50 million have seen one only once in their lifetime. For these people America's unique justice system is probably not working as well as it should

That's what we will be talking about on May 1 during the yearly celebration of Law Day. From one end of the country to the other leaders from all walks of life will seek to dramatize what the law is and how lawyers can help to make it work for you

Unfortunately, there are no miracle drugs in the law. Complex human problems defy easy solutions. But lawyers as a group have hundreds of years of experience in making our world a safer fairer and more protected place in which to live

That's worth celebrating, and we intend to do just that on Law Day. Won't you join us? Granted that sometimes it's hard to love lawyers, but knowing them can make it downright easy

Directories to be distributed May 10

The latest edition of one of the world's best read books is on its way to Charlevoix and Emmet County residents

Michigan Bell's 1980-81 Charlevoix County-Emmet County telephone directory, to be distributed to customers beginning May 10, is one of 2,500 the nationwide Bell System publishes annually, according to E.W. (Mike) Reid, Michigan Bell local manager.

Besides containing telephone numbers, Reid said the new directory also has a good deal of consumer information designed to save customers money.

"The customer guide pages in the front of the directory, for instance, contain information on the most economic times to place long distance calls, and other tips on reducing phone bills," he said.

Scattered throughout the Yellow Pages, Reid added, are numerous consumer tips such as how to reduce home heating costs and how to determine shopping bargains.

There are more than 150 million phone books in American homes and offices, according to Reid, including some five million in Michigan.

Nationwide, those directories will be consulted some 34 billion times this year, he said.

Laurie Burkey takes 3rd at 'Sculramics '80'

Those attending "Sculramics '80" were Laurie Burkey, Bob Bolt, Natalie Hahn, Valerie Miller and Karen Taylor.

"Sculramics '80" included exhibits, lectures and demonstrations by CMU art faculty members. Areas covered were the potter's wheel, bronze casting, sculpture, ceramics and raku.

Works by the students were displayed at CMU's Creative Arts Gallery. Senior Laurie Burkey's soft sculpture placed third in the competition out of 56 entries.

Senate Bill affects nearly 2,000 residents

Action by Congress on Senate Bill 1309 is of interest to some 466 families representing 1,176 people in Charlevoix County.

The bill would provide additional funding for food stamps for the years 1980 and 1981. Present funding is expected to run out by June 1 because of the high demand for food stamps during recent months.

The Charlevoix County Department of Social Services reports that of the 466 families in the county who receive food stamps, 383 also receive other assistance, leaving 83 families who depend upon food stamps for their sole financial supplement.

Statewide, some 325 Michigan families with over 800,000 members receive food stamps, according to the State Department of Social Services. In 197,000 of these families, food stamps are the only form of public assistance received.

State Social Services Director John T. Dempsey has urged the Michigan delegation in Congress to vote for Senate Bill 1309, noting that "If the federal food stamp program goes under, even for a short period, we as a state must pick up the slack. In all good conscience, we cannot allow anyone to go hungry. Where such funding will come from given the increasing economic strain on Michigan's own budget, I cannot determine, but the need for food must be met."

Hospital administrator - planner, executive

The rush of construction at Charlevoix Area Hospital this spring is the result of planning begun in 1974.

Krueger, who came to Charlevoix Area Hospital in 1971 from F.A. Bell Memorial Hospital in Ishpeming, recently agreed to talk about the scope of administrating a community hospital.

Krueger is the chief executive officer of the hospital – a $3 million dollar business – the major goal of which is to meet the health needs of this area. It is the administrator's job to see the hospital remains financially sound while meeting that goal.

Yet balancing health care needs with financial realities is but one aspect of an administrator's job.

Krueger, who holds a degree in business administration from the University of Wisconsin, observed that hospital administrators must work simultaneously at the level of long range planning and immediate problem solving

"In smaller hospitals, basically every department head reports to the administrator," he explained

Government regulations, which are always being changed, also require attention.

"The administrator must have a working knowledge of state and federal regulations while the department heads must be fully aware of all pertinent regulations for their department," Krueger explained.

In a community hospital the administrator is also the personnel director. He must organize his staff so the hospital runs smoothly

Communication between people is a key element.

An administrator trys to "surround himself with talented people who have innovative ideas and then support their ideas," Krueger continued

The current expansion project is the result of such good [illegible].

"The lab was overtaxed as far back as 1975," the administrator recalls.

"We need more equipment but we don't know where to put it," was a statement he heard regularly

Since 1975 Krueger and his staff have worked, almost daily, with architects and the board of directors, determining the shape of the new project.

Selecting a fund raising firm again required careful planning. Krueger spent long hours on the phone assessing other administrator's experiences.

Regular meetings must be held with staff, medical staff, committees, and the board of directors to solve immediate problems and continue planning. The hospital administration must continually evaluate and improve the hospital's work, and make decisions on such questions as what new equipment to purchase

"For every piece of equipment or new service we must decide if it is the type of service our hospital can perform in a continuing high quality manner, if it can be justified financially, and if it is appropriate for this hospital to provide," the administrator observed

The building project was born at a time when trends in medicine were changing significantly. New thinking emphasized shorter hospital stays with increased reliance on out-patient care – all in an effort to hold down hospital costs

With the completion of the coronary care and intensive care units in 1972, several new physicians joined the hospital staff, thanks to a major recruiting drive conducted by the administrator, the board of directors and members of the community

The combination of an enlarged medical staff and increased out-patient care added urgency to renovation plans

Financing the project, however, was a major question. Working through the Michigan Hospital-Finance Authority, in Lansing, Krueger learned of a potential 5 percent interest loan from Farmers Home Administration

Looking back from the vantage point of today's interest rates, Krueger reflects, "If FHA had not come through we may not have been able to continue the building project"

Meanwhile, the administrator has just completed a reorganization of departments into groupings under managers, with an eye to more effective communication and operation

Richard Krueger

Q/A Property Taxes

In our last article we had mentioned the county tax allocation board at the conclusion of the article, let's pick up from there.

The county tax allocation board of a county was provided for under Public Act 62 of [illegible] and has been amended since. The name of this act [illegible] the "Property Tax Limitation Act". The legislation enacted provided for the following members on the county tax allocation board

1. The chairman of the finance or ways and means committee of the county board of commissioners
2. The county Treasurer
3. The intermediate school district superintendent or his representative
4. a member of a school board of a school district in the county [illegible] 12 grades of school who shall be selected by the judge of probate of the county this changes in areas having a greater population
5. a resident of a municipality within the county who shall be selected by the judge of probate of the county this changes in areas having a greater population
6. a member not officially connected with or employed by any local or county unit, who shall be selected by the board of county commissioners
7. a member who shall be a township supervisor and who shall be selected by the township supervisors in the county or a majority thereof
8. a member of a school board from 1 of the 3 smallest K-12 school districts in the county.

This constitutes an eight member board to review the budgets of the units of government that would be getting a portion of the 15 mills. The board is required to examine the budgets and statements of local units which are filed with it and the board shall determine the tax rates, exclusive of debt service tax rates, which are required pursuant to its proposed budget.

The board shall approve minimum tax rates as follows: county 3 mills, school districts 4 mills, townships 1 mill, intermediate school districts .10 mill and community college districts .25 mill. Charlevoix County does not have a community college district. This is a total aggregate of 8.10 mills and the county tax allocation board is left dividing up the difference of the 6.90 mills. The difficult part of this method was that none of the units of government knew what to plan on for their budgets and all the units of government showed a need greater than the millage allowed would cover. When the people voted to freeze the millage [illegible] as mentioned earlier, it increased efficient planning for the various units and saved the taxpayers money, as the allocation board was paid for their services.

This 15 mills we have been discussing is a part of the total millage that is levied for the taxes [illegible] of the millage is voted by the people also.

For the purposes of illustration let's look at the total millage in Charlevoix Township. We will use the 1979 maximum mill rate.

County tax
Allocated	4.70	From the 15 mills – voted constitution
Grandvue	1.00	Voted by the people
Total	5.70
Township Tax
Allocated	1.00	From the 15 mills
Operational	2.00	Voted by the people of Charlevoix Township
Total for township	3.00
Charlevoix School
Tax
Allocated	9.10	From 15 mills
Operational	16.75	Voted by the people
Debt Retirement	2.40	Voted by the people
Total for school	28.25
Chx-Em Intermediate School District
Allocated	.20	From 15 mills
Special Education	1.00	Voted by the people
Total for I.S.D.	1.20
Grand Total	38.15

The 38.15 mills was the maximum millage authorized to be levied for 1979 in Charlevoix Township. It appears people do control millage and people do control taxes. The above total millage was not the final millage that was levied. The reason is the tax limitation amendment that the people voted for to keep taxes from rising more than the Consumer Price index. We will talk about this issue next week. Where do taxes come from? It appears they are derived from NEED. How many dollars are needed to operate the city? How many dollars are needed to keep the township functioning and the services that the people want? How many dollars are needed to run county government? You say there is waste in government? Is there really? Or is it that you are tired of paying ever increasing taxes and there seems no end in sight? It is so easy to say that money is spent foolishly. Or that the schools didn't need this or that. Or that the city could have used the money for better purposes. But unless you become involved and really investigate the matter, it is only your opinion that it is wasted. Thank Heavens we still have a right to our opinion. And we all are very much aware of a waste of taxpayers money, especially at the federal level and even the state level. But the local level you people still have some control, you still can play a function in local government and know what is happening in the schools. You still have a right to voice your concerns and get answers to your questions. Be very careful to keep your local control. It is important. Next week we will talk about the Tax Limitation Amendment and how it did affect your tax dollars. Is it really working?

Charles Broneck (center), plant manager at Medusa, presents a $10,000 check to Pat Hawley (right) honorary co-chairman of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Fund Drive as Richard Krueger (left), hospital administrator, looks on. Medusa pledged $75,000 to the hospital's expansion and renovation project. This $10,000 check brings Medusa's total contribution to date to $46,000.

Two honored for bowling achievements

Bergmann Center residents bowl at the Paul Bunyan Bowling Lanes from September to March. The scores are computed to determine an average for each participant. Ms. Cunningham had the highest average, scoring 102 per game. Collins led all male bowlers with a 165 average.

The two received trophies for their achievements at a banquet held recently at the Country Star Restaurant in Boyne City. All participants received bowling pins as mementos.

Collins and Ms. Cunninghan will be two of the Bergmann Center's 11 participants in the track and field regional Special Olympics May 9 at Traverse City. Also competing will be Wanda Mousseau, Evelyn Thompson, Judy Fisher, Patsy Zoulek, Patty Hewitt, Sue Felo, Charles Hiltz, Jack McDaniel and David McCarthy.

The top finishers in each event will qualify for the state meet June 5-7 at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant.

The Bergmann Center's Spring Dance will be held Thursday, May 22 at the Charlevoix High School cafeteria. Jasper and the Tagalongs will provide the music. Dale Martin will accompany the band on the drums. There is no charge and the public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

CP stockholder disenchanted with nuclear power

Letters

On April 9, 1980, the Charlevoix Courier editorial page was pretty much taken up by letters from Consumers Power representatives. I'd like to identify myself as a Consumers Power stockholder who doesn't agree with many of their opinions. I was especially concerned about the third letter from the senior maintenance engineer at Big Rock. I wonder how his "Chicken Little and the Fox" stories would go over with the people who live within a 5 mile radius of the Three Mile Nuclear plant in Pennsylvania?

My wife and I live on the shore of Lake Michigan, about 2½ miles, as a gull flys across the water, to the Big Rock nuclear plant.

I first became disenchanted with the use of nuclear power for the manufacturing of electric energy after reading the May 2, 1979 Charlevoix Courier. This issue reported the results of a tour of inspection of Big Rock by Senator Mitch Irwin and two reporters, after the plant had been closed down when a leak had developed in the coolant system.

Some of the comments which were reported to have been made by Charles Axtell (Plant Health Physicist) and Ed McNamara (a training officer at the Big Rock facility) interested me then, and they still concern me.

Big Rock uses 84 fuel* bundles at a time (* Nuclear fuel, uranium oxide) They must be replaced every three years, and are done so on an annual rotating basis.

The spent fuel, still radioactive, but no longer useful for the plants fission process, must be stored about 1000 years, according to Axtell. The spent fuel's most toxic radioactive elements are Strontium [illegible]

"After 1000 years in salt mines the radio activity would be about the same as it was in the natural state, as it was when mined," Axtell stated.

But he acknowledged that even then he wouldn't let his children play with it, that it was still very dangerous.

Big Rock is currently applying to the NRC to expand its fuel storage capacity on site. They are asking to expand from 194 bundles to 415, which they say can safely be done by storing the bundles closer together. They do not think that overheating will be a problem.

Axtell said that after storage at Big Rock, fuel is shipped out to be reprocessed. This practice is now suspended because of President Carter's moratorium on breeder reactors. Big Rock's last shipment of spent fuel was in 1973.

In the May 16, 1979 issue of the Charlevoix Courier, an article appeared on page 11: "On May 7, 1979 the Charlevoix Council passed a resolution [illegible] It resolved that the City of Charlevoix request that Governor Milliken hold public hearings on the health and safety factors of the Big Rock Nuclear Plant and insist that the plant be kept out of operation until such time that it's safety is assured."

On December 5, 1979, a public hearing, conducted by the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board of the Nuclear Regulatory Committee, of Washington DC, was held in Petoskey. Many people from various towns and cities in the northern part of the lower peninsula made statements at the hearing, in which they told what they thought of Consumer Power's request for expanded nuclear waste fuel storage. Following is part of a statement which I made at that hearing:

At first, we thought you, or someone in Washington, would find a safe way to ship these waste fuel rods to the southwest New Mexico salt beds, or some other safe place. But, now we're hearing that no one wants this nuclear garbage. That all the nuclear waste dumps have been shut down.

So now we're being asked by the Consumers Power Company to continue living down shore from this pile of toxic waste, while they continue to add to the pile.

"We don't understand what we're living by, and nobody else, including you people of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission seem to understand the full meaning of that toxic spent fuel waste that is building up out there in the woods, along the shore of Lake Michigan. Or, at least, if you, or anyone does know, you're not publicly explaining the meaning of this toxic waste."

I further stated: "I believe, that if you can't find safe storage for this spent fuel, away from the Big Rock Plant, and away from Lake Michigan, and deep in a salt mine, hopefully back in the state it was originally mined from, then you should no longer allow the Big Rock Nuclear plant to function."

Now, four months after the Atomic Safety Hearing, and one year after the inspection tour of Senator Mitch Irwin, and one year after the resolution by the Charlevoix Council, as far as I know, we've had no report from our Governor Milliken regarding the health and safety of Big Rock Nuclear plant. There has been no resolution of the request by Consumers Power to expand it's fuel storage capacity.

It looks as though the Big Rock nuclear plant is caught in a tight spot of not being able to find a place to get rid of a seven year old pile of nuclear spent fuel.

So, what it finally comes to is that I've listened to Consumers Power officials for years, when they told me nuclear power was a good and safe investment. Right up to April of 1979, I listened. Now, I don't want any further convincing by Consumers Power people. Now, I want only to listen to the state and federal government people who are inspecting the Big Rock nuclear plant, and have them assure me that those 194 bundles of spent fuel are safe and healthy to live near.

Please, top managers of Consumers Power, whoever you are, wherever you are, don't ask us to live by more than 194 bundles of that toxic waste stuff that you've built up out there at Big Rock. And, please don't encourage your employees to continue their campaign to make your neighbors in the surrounding communities feel guilty or make us out to be ignorant, or quivering, irresponsible alarmists when we do complain about living by more than the originally set limit of 194 bundles of nuclear spent fuel.

Purse snatched at Adult-Ed class

Editor:

I am writing in regard to a letter published recently in your paper from Hinako Regier of Charlevoix. This lady had the misfortune of having her purse taken while at the Boyne City Middle School.

However, I would like to point out that her association to the building was with an Adult Education class which is held there and not with our students as her letter might have indicated.

Shock starting to wear off

THE SHOCK is beginning to wear off — but the memory will last forever — Jimmy Carter's brave but ill-advised attempt to free the American hostages from Tehran.

It was a scheme that just couldn't go wrong — in light of the growing frustration of the American people over the long detention of U.S. citizens abroad.

But it did, and Monday morning quarterbacks will have a field day for years attempting to fix the blame.

Certainly, many questions remain unanswered.

Why were seven-year-old helicopters used for such a dangerous mission, instead of the newer machines used by [illegible]?

Why weren't mechanics aboard the carrier USS Nimitz told that their choppers simply had to be in first rate condition before the rescue mission began?

What went wrong with our weather gathering services, to allow the mission to proceed in the face of a dust storm?

What incredible spate of poor judgment or mechanical failure led to the collision of two of our aircraft with a loss of eight lives at that forlorn rendezvous point in the middle of the Iranian plateau?

THE PRESS, as usual, already has come under criticism for its role in the blundered rescue mission. I was informed by a knowledgeable Charlevoixan over the weekend that President Carter would never have undertaken the ill-starred adventure in the first place if he hadn't been goaded into it by the news media.

And he probably has a point. But I think he overlooks the fact that the news media — by and large — is a reflection of the thinking of the American people themselves. And Americans, I believe, are at the boiling point when it comes to the crisis in Iran.

IT IS PROBABLY likely that President Carter was motivated more by internal strife in Iran than by pressure at home when he ordered the rescue raid.

Iranians (excuse me, Persians) among us who are in touch with their homeland say that chaos reigns in that strife-wracked country. Iranians themselves are not sure who is in charge and unemployment and inflation are rampant.

And you can be sure these conditions will be aggravated as the Western world begins to tighten the economic screws.

If there is another overthrow in Iran, we have no guarantee that the new regime will be less adamant insofar as the hostages are concerned than President Abolhassan Bani-Sadr and Prime Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh. They could be worse — and this is what Carter fears.

IF ANY GOOD at all comes out of the aborted rescue mission, it could well be the fact that Iran is once again united against the United States, staving off — at least for the time being — the ascension of more militant revolutionaries to the seats of power.

IT SPEAKS WELL of Carter that he tried to pry the hostages out. But the failure of the mission is a black mark on his presidency.

Furthermore, his repeated assurances that he bears no ill-will against the Iranian government or the Iranian people rub me the wrong way.

I have seen literally millions of Iranians on television jumping up and down in front of the American Embassy in support of the militants. And I bear them all the ill-will I can muster.

Is there no one in Iran who can see the immorality of detaining innocent foreign nationals month after month after month? Apparently not.

Meet Charlevoix

Carol Bartley of Charlevoix is a potter, a mother, a wife, and a homemaker. She took up the art of pottery-making after being schooled and working as a nurse. This week she tells the Courier about her busy life.

Q. Did you go back to school to learn how to make stoneware?

A. No, I taught myself by reading a lot of books, shedding a lot of tears, and making a lot of mistakes. It takes longer to learn this way, but I firmly believe you can learn to do anything you want. They call me a folk artist because I'm self taught. I just don't think people should listen to the negative feedback. This country was founded by people who went ahead and learned to do what they had to do.

Q. Do you do each step yourself?

A. Yes. I used to make my own clay but now I can't buy the ingredients so I have to buy the clay already made up. I do make all my own glaze, though. I like the throwing process best. My husband, Ken, helps with the glazing. I dip everything then paint designs on it. Each piece is individual. I don't use stamps or molds.

Q. Many of your pieces are decorated with blue birds. Is that a special design?

A. I just like birds. Some of my customers call me "the bird lady".

Q. How do you describe the type of things you make?

A. I make utilitarian things – mugs, bowls, pitchers, teapots, cruets, napkin rings, wall decorations, wind chimes, oil lamps – that sort of thing.

Q. How do you market your things?

A. From my shop here at home and at art fairs. I hope to start a mail order business for a few special pieces. I'll do some magazine advertising.

Q. Do you participate in local shows?

A. Yes. We like the Arts and Crafts Show in East Jordan. Our daughter, Jacque, does soft sculpture, and Colleen does dry flower arrangements, so they show off their work, too.

Q. Are you a member of Artists North?

A. Yes, and they've had some excellent speakers at their meetings this year.

Q. Where did you grow up?

A. In a little town near St. Joe. I went to school in Au Claire and then studied nursing at Borges Hospital in Kalamazoo. I did nursing work in Benton Harbor before I was married.

Q. Where did you meet Ken?

A. In Kalamazoo. He was going to Kalamazoo College. Later he went to Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore and I did some nursing work in Baltimore. Then he went to the University of Michigan for graduate work in physics and I worked in a small town near Ann Arbor. He also did some research work at the Argonne National Laboratory in Illinois.

Q. Where did Ken grow up?

A. In the Detroit area, but he spent 11 years going to camp on Torch Lake, so he learned to love northern Michigan.

Q. What does he do now?

A. He teaches math in the high school, and he builds houses. He built our house here. It has a passive solar heating system and we have spent only $290 for oil since last May. You will notice that everything faces south. We have three wood stoves, including one in the kitchen, and a wood fireplace. The next thing we're going to get is a windmill. Up here on the hill we have plenty of wind. And we're going to try to make the heating system completely independent of oil.

Q. It sounds as if you have a busy summer ahead of you.

A. Yes, and Ken is writing a book on "The Fourth Dimension"

Q. For lay people?

A. Yes.

Q. How old are your daughters?

A. Jacque is 16, Colleen is 14, and Laurie is nine. That's Laurie with me in the picture.

WRC sponsoring membership party Thursday

By Sara Gay Dammann

The Women's Resource Center, which serves Charlevoix, Emmet, Otsego and Cheboygan counties is holding a "First Annual Spring Membership Party," Thursday from 4:30 to 7 p.m. at Staffords Bay View Inn in Petoskey.

The party is to culminate the membership drive the Women's Resource Center has been conducting this spring, according to Charlevoixan Pat Ranger, president of the Center's Board of Directors.

Charlevoix and Emmet county merchants have donated door prizes which will be rawn every half hour during the party, she revealed.

Tickets for the event are $3 for non-members. There will be hot hors d'ouevres and a cash bar.

A style show will be presented during the party with clothes from Patricia's on the Harbor, Mettlers, the Bahnhof, Gattles, Harbor Boutique, the Cottage, Bartlings and Cutlers.

Among the merchants donated door prizes, are the Mole Hole, Mettlers, Bahnhof, Gattles, Volume I, Tin Soldier, Kids Corner, Mitchell Street Pub, Symons General Store, The Cottage, Artisans, Outfitter, J. and D. Restaurant, the Country Hearth and Little Traverse Racquet Club.

The Womens Resource Center has a current membership of over 400 women from the five counties it serves, according to Ms. Ranger.

Operating out of offices at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey, the Women's Resource Center, first opened its doors March 1, 1977.

Jan Mancinelli, the center's director, explained in a recent interview that the center's purpose is "to provide services to the women of the area, from information, referrals, counseling, workshops, and education to crisis intervention.

Ms. Mancinelli said that over 1,000 women from Charlevoix County have taken advantage of services offered by the center.

"The center's offices are always open to people who want to drop in," the director said.

"We have an extensive library," she said, "and the coffee's always on."

The center has developed a range of activities from such self-help workshops as personal growth, parenting and assertiveness training, to programs to assist women returning to the job market and counseling work on alcoholism, drug abuse and spouse abuse.

The workshops, led by trained people, are held on a regular basis throughout the five counties.

Currently a 24-week program of workshops, entitled "Special Needs Project," funded through the Michigan State Department of Education is being conducted in Charlevoix, as well as in other counties.

This involves a series of three eight-week workshops in personal growth and assertiveness training, parenting and consumer education, held each Thursday from 9 a.m. to noon at the Big Brother/Big Sister offices in Charlevoix. Ms. Mancinelli says child care is provided for participants, and anyone interested should call the Women's Resource Center at 347-3973, extension 377, for more information.

The director said that much of the center's work involves referrals.

"A woman might call because she is new in the community and needs help finding a job. We have extensive files and we post both federal and state job announcements as well as inquiries from private employers.

"Or a woman may be having trouble establishing credit," Ms. Mancinelli continued, "and she may call us for help.

"We try to answer all questions or refer a person to someone who can.

"The range of questions we are asked is vast," the director observed.

Since October 1, last year, the Center has operated a Safe House, a place of refuge for women who are victims of domestic violence.

The Safe House was purchased after the center found that more and more women suffering from spouse abuse, who were turning to them for help, had no where to go.

Using trained counselors and volunteers who help spouse abuse victims through the tangle of bureaucratic red tape they must face in order to get financial, legal and medical help, the Women's Resource Center has gained the respect of local law enforcement and social service agencies.

The Safe House was established with a combination of a $50,000 grant from the Domestic Violence Prevention and Treatment Board of Michigan, and locally raised funds.

Women who are victims of spouse abuse may stay, with their children, at the Safe House for 30 days while they receive counseling and determine the direction their lives will take.

The center serves a broad range of people. Women from all walks of life, with varied needs and interests, make up the membership, Ms. Ranger said.

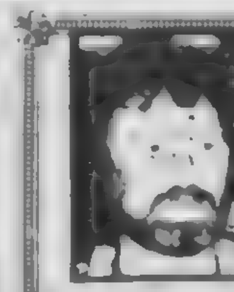
GEMWISE
YEAR OF THE EAR



John Reusch
Ears have been peeking out further and further every year and are now making a bold fashion statement. Short hair is full bodied so it bounces away from the ear, long hair is sleekly wrapped or braided away from the face.
Resting as close to the face as they do, earrings help to frame the face and can really give you a dynamic look.
Jewelry manufacturers have noticed the fashion trends and are running wild. The fine earrings on today's market are the most exciting we've ever seen, and the choices [illegible]
Gold in all its colors is the most popular metal used for ear adornment. It is available in the familiar hoops and buttons, but it has also shown up in just about every shape imaginable — including discs, scallops, curls and tubes. The texture might be highly polished, hammered, brushed or even faceted. And they might even have chain tangled around them.
If earrings are this exciting in gold alone, can you imagine the possibilities when gemstones are added? You can select gemstone earrings to match each of your favorite outfits or to match the color of your eyes.
Don't neglect your ears this year. Pay us a visit at Reusch Jewelry. If there's anything we can't bear to see, it's naked ears. We'll have you covered in no time.

CMS tracksters win two meets

The Charlevoix Middle School track teams, in their first outing of the season, took two of the three meets held at Boyne City.

The eighth grade boys captured their meet with an impressive 88½ points to 47 for Boyne City and 28 for Petoskey while the girls team composed of both seventh and eighth graders won their meet with a total of 68 points to 45 for Boyne City and 43 for Petoskey. The seventh grade boys placed second with 56 points. Boyne City had 67 and Petoskey 21.

St. Ignace takes triangular

Boys track team places second

St. Ignace with 54 points, won a quadrangular track and field meet at Boyne City Tuesday.

Charlevoix had 44 points followed by Cheboygan with 40½ and Boyne City with 34½ points.

In winning the meet, St. Ignace took the high jump, the high and low hurdles, and mile and the 880 yard run while Charlevoix placed first in the shot, the 100 yard dash, the 440 yard run, the two mile and the mile relay. Boyne City captured the 440 and 880 relays.

In individual honors, Elliott of Cheboygan placed first in three field events, the discus, pole vault and long jump. Van Sloan also had three firsts, the 100 yard and 440 yard dashes and a leg of the mile relay taken by the Rayders.

Netters drop two

The Charlevoix Rayder tennis team saw its record drop to 2-2 last week, losing matches to Traverse City, 6-1, and Petoskey, 5-2.

Against Traverse City, Dennis Morgridge was the only Rayder to claim a victory. Morgridge defeated Tony Demin 4-6, 6-4, 6-0. In other matches: Doug Enders (TC) defeated Jeff Morgridge 5-7, 7-5 and 6-3; Paul Dakoske (TC) defeated Shelly Knight 6-0 and 6-0; Mark Schafer (TC) defeated Andy Schaefer 6-0 and 6-1.

In doubles, Mike Howard and Brad Schram (TC) defeated John Grooters and Rick Rajewski 6-4 and 6-3; Larry Czuback and Scott Chappell (TC) defeated Paul Hoffman and Pete Dunkleberg 6-0 and 6-1; and Brian Spencel and Pete Prouty (TC) defeated Patrice Staley and Kris Lignell 6-0 and 6-1.

Against Petoskey, the Rayders lost all four singles matches. Lance Bawkey (P) defeated Dennis Morgridge 6-3 and 7-5; Scott Langs (P) defeated Jeff Morgridge 6-0 and 6-0; Paul Douma (P) defeated Knight 6-0 and 6-1; and Dave Jensen (P) defeated Schaefer 6-1 and 6-2.

In doubles, Grooters and Rajewski defeated Jeff Yoder and Tom Kowalczyk 6-1, 4-6 and 6-2; Hoffman and Dunkleberg defeated Ned Deer and Duke Knight 7-6 and 6-2; and Andy Stewart and Dave Shiels (P) defeated Staley and Lignell 6-0 and 6-4.

Central Lake, returning eight veterans from a 26-2 team of a year ago, swept a doubleheader from the Charlevoix Rayders girls softball squad Tuesday afternoon, 6-3 and 5-3.

Judy Koens was the winning pitcher in both contests. Koens hurled a four hitter in the opener and a three hitter in the nightcap. Colleen LaBlance, who gave up five hits, took the loss in the opener: LaBlance had two of the Rayders four hits. Mel Kerridge and Teresa Noirot had the other two hits. Noirot's hit was a home run in the sixth inning. Although pitching a three hitter in the nightcap, Kerridge was charged with the loss. Brenda Buchanan's triple, Noirot's double and Kim Bolduc's single were the only hits allowed by Koens.

The Rayders rebounded in a big way Wednesday afternoon trouncing Ellsworth, 42-2, in a game called after three innings.

Holly Taber, who allowed just one hit, was credited with the victory. Taber also lead a 23 hit attack with three singles and a double. Kerridge added a home run, double and single and Noirot chipped in with a double and two singles. Thirteen Rayders collected one hit.

Loper, Sladek combine on 3 hitter

Mike Loper and Jerry Sladek combined on a three hitter Tuesday afternoon to lead Charlevoix past Central Lake, 11-0, in a non-league baseball contest at Central Lake.

Charlevoix improved its record to 2-0.

The Rayders banged out [illegible] hits. [illegible] Russell, Rory [illegible] and Loper had two hits apiece. Loper, 1-0, picked up the victory. Sladek, who was the winning pitcher in the season opener against Sault Ste. Marie, relieved in the sixth inning.

Luncheon proceeds to help Little Leaguers

The Charlevoix Little League Auxiliary will sponsor its annual casserole and salad luncheon at the American Legion Post Home Thursday. Mrs. Charles Wilmot, Auxiliary president, has announced.

The luncheon will begin at 11 a.m. and continue until 1:30 p.m.

The luncheon will feature a wide choice of casseroles and salads, rolls, dessert and a choice of beverages. Mrs. Condit Drury, general chairman of the event, said.

Proceeds from the luncheon will be used toward the purchase of uniforms and the maintenance of the field.

Donations of $2.75 for adults and $2.25 for students and senior citizens will be accepted. There will be no charge for pre-schoolers.

Gymnastics show slated for May 31

The second annual spring demonstration by students of The Charlevoix School of Gymnastics will be held May 31.

Some 150 dancers and gymnasts, including pre-schoolers, will perform for parents and friends in the high school gymnasium beginning at 2 p.m.

School director Jim Mitchell is inviting all interested persons to attend.

NUCLEAR POWER

We invite the pro-nuclear marchers and supporters to join us for hot dogs, coffee and soft drinks in our parking lot from 1:00 p.m.-3:00 p.m. Sunday, May 4.

Any of the misled marchers are also welcome to join us for the refreshments.

We support nuclear power, as no country can remain free, strong and healthy without an adequate supply of reasonably priced energy. Nuclear power is no longer just a theory, it works. And it has shown itself to be safe and efficient. There are no viable alternatives.

We also have an ulterior motive. If Big Rock were shut down, we would probably soon see a fossil fired generating plant on the same site. Even if it were fired by the cleanest of the fossil fuels, natural gas, it would emit 100 times more radiation than the nuclear fuel cycle (Atomic Industrial Forum, July 1978). A rather unpleasant neighbor.

Let's save the fossil fuels for petrochemicals where they are worth 30 times their value of fuels and provide employment for almost 15% of the workers of America.

4-H'ers eligible for dairy poster contest

A Charlevoix County youth could win top honors in the 1980 Michigan 4-H Dairy Poster Contest, sponsored by the Michigan 4-H Youth Program, the American Dairy Association of Michigan and the dairy farmers of Michigan.

4-H'ers 9 to 19 years of age are eligible to compete in the contest. Up to nine entries will be selected from Charlevoix County to compete in the state competition. All entries will receive a special memento from the American Dairy Association, and state winners will receive prizes.

"The purposes of the contest is to inform others about the value and importance of milk" says Phyllis Sumner, Charlevoix County 4-H Program Assistant. "It's also an excellent opportunity for young people to show off their artistic skills."

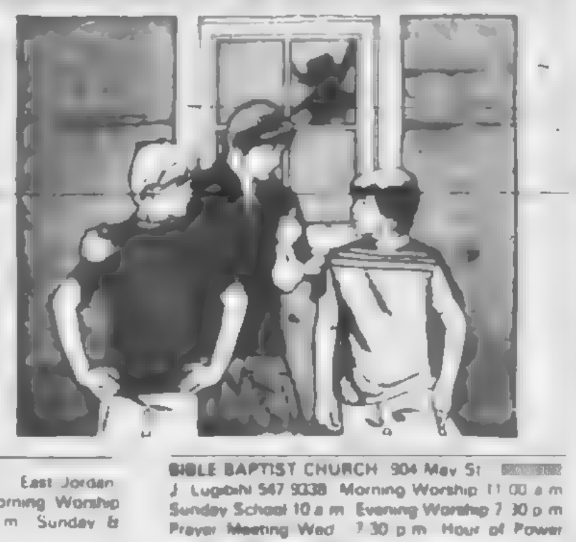
Young people interested in competing should design a 22x28 inch poster around the theme "Milk Is The One!" [illegible] encouraged to display their posters in community stores, businesses or schools to further promote the dairy industry.

The contest is divided into three age divisions, and each entry will compete in its own division. Division I includes posters made by fourth through sixth grade students. Division II is for seventh through eighth grades, and Division III is open to ninth through 12th grade students.

Interested youths should contact Phyllis Sumner at the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service office (582-6232) for more details about the contest and a copy of the official entry form.

CHARLEVOIX CHURCH DIRECTORY

FAITH EXPOSES THE EVIL AND THE FUTILITY OF LYING



From childhood on, we have all been tempted to tell an occasional [illegible] to avoid punishment for some form of wrongdoing rather than facing the music by a confession of our guilt. However, we learned by bitter experience that it never stops there, that lying invariably leads to the necessity of telling a second lie to [illegible] up the first one, and then a third one and so on. We should also have learned that we are able to sleep better for having unburdened ourselves by wiping the slate clean, and that the only good lie is the one told to avoid hurting someone's feelings, as opposed to the other kind which can only lead us into deeper trouble. To tell the truth, the best place for you to learn all this is at the Church of your choice.

City of Charlevoix Council Minutes

April 21, 1980
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Deputy Mayor Wood presiding.

Present: Councilmen Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood and Muma. Absent: Councilman Whitley.

The Minutes of the April 7, 1980 regular meeting were approved as presented in [illegible] and as recorded in the Council Minutes [illegible].

Moved by Councilman [illegible] and supported by Councilman Roloff to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated April 14, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Whitley.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Roloff to accept and file the City Recreation Commission Minutes [illegible].

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Whitley.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Muma to approve the Site Plan as submitted by Kenneth Domagala to erect a Dairy Barn soft ice cream stand on U.S. 31 South.

Motion [illegible] adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Moved by Councilman [illegible] and supported by Councilman Porter to table any action regarding the Site Plan as submitted by the Weathervane Inn for the addition of a deck until such time as a plan is submitted showing the elevation of the proposed deck in relation to the sidewalk.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Deputy Mayor Wood read a Proclamation designating May 1, 1980 as Law Day in the City.

Josh Barnes, of Lexalite Corporation, a member of the General Public present, advised Council that Lexalite has purchased the Gately Building on U.S. 31 North and that he would return to Council at a later date to discuss proposed plans for the building.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms to table any action regarding City participation in the proposed MPPA study of Lo-Head Hydro Power Units until the next regular Council meeting scheduled for May 5, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Whitley.

The following Resolution was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Roloff.

Resolution 80-4-4

WHEREAS, the National Forensics Tournament will be held at the University of Montevallo in Montevallo, Alabama, from April 24-28, 1980 and

WHEREAS, the Eastern Michigan University forensics team, which has won the National Title the last [illegible] consecutive years, will be attempting to win a fifth consecutive national title and

WHEREAS, Steve Kantola, a resident of Charlevoix, is an indispensable and highly successful member of the Eastern Michigan University forensics team, and

WHEREAS, the National Forensics Tournament provides an exciting opportunity for young men and women to develop their talents in the vital skills of public speaking, and affords them a means of comparing performances and sharpening abilities which are essential for participation in a democracy, now therefore be it

RESOLVED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN, that the Charlevoix City Council commends Steve Kantola and the Eastern Michigan University forensics team for their past performances and extends its sincere best wishes to Steve and the EMU team as they compete at the National Forensics Tournament.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

The City Manager recommended that the [illegible] for construction of the Stover Road Sewer Extension be awarded to Manthei Development Corporation as, although their lump sum bid was not the lowest submitted, their unit price for asphalt pavement to repair the street after the sewer is installed was the lowest. The Manager further stated that, after discussing the matter with the City Engineer, it was their feeling that the lowest lump sum bids did not include enough asphalt to repair the street properly.

Moved by Councilman Porter that the bid of $27,847.00 submitted by Manthei Development for construction of the Stover Road Sewer Extension [illegible].

Warren Arnold of D & K Leasing, Inc., who had submitted the lowest lump sum bid, objected to the bid being awarded to Manthei as the specifications did call for a lump sum bid and complete restoration of the street which he maintained his company could do for the bid price they submitted. The City Manager advised Council that the specifications should have advised prospective bidders that they would have to work around a gas main to install the extension. Mr. Arnold stated that he did not believe this would be a problem and would still do the job for the bid price he originally submitted.

Councilman Porter withdrew his motion to award the bid to Manthei Development.

Moved by Councilman Roloff and supported by Councilman Timms that the construction bid for the Stover Road Sewer project be awarded to D & K Leasing, Inc., their bid of $27,415.50 being [illegible].

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Several individuals in favor of completing the installation of snow-making equipment at Mt. McSauba Ski Hill reported that the project could be completed for $3,500.00. They further reported that Charlevoix Township would allow the City to tap into Township lines for water to supply the project for as long as the City continues to supply water to the Township, eliminating the necessity and cost of making a bore under Carson Avenue to run City lines to the project at this time. Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix Township Supervisor, verified that the City could tap into Township lines but recommended that the bore under Carson Avenue eventually be made to provide another cross connection between City and Township water lines. Council generally agreed, as no funds had been allotted for the project in this year's budget, to expend only the $3,500.00 necessary to complete the project at this time and to discuss appropriating the funds necessary for the bore under Carson Avenue in next year's budget.

Moved by Councilman Roloff and supported by Councilman Porter to complete the installation of snow-making equipment at Mt. McSauba at a cost not to exceed $3,500.00.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Porter, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: Councilman Timms. Absent: Councilman Whitley.

Councilman Muma stated that the entire Council had been invited to tour Big Rock Nuclear Plant. The tour was tentatively scheduled for 9:00 A.M. on April 23, 1980.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Timms that the City Manager be authorized to take bids on a new dump truck and box for the city.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Whitley.

Council generally agreed to adjust the salaries of several City Hall employees on the basis of merit and seniority as recommended by the City [illegible].

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by [illegible] Muma to authorize the purchase of a new engine for the recently purchased vacuum truck, cost to be shared by Jack Doheny Supplies, the vendor who supplied the truck, and the City, with the City's share not to exceed $2,000.00.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Whitley.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $237,294.51 find them correct and recommend the bills be allowed.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman [illegible] orders drawn for their amount.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Porter, Timms, Roloff, Wood, and Muma. Nays: None. Absent: Councilman Whitley.

Council adjourned to a closed session for the purpose of union [illegible].

Vet bonus deadline June 30

The deadline for applying for the Michigan Vietnam Veterans Era Bonus is drawing near veterans of those years are advised by Ronald Geer, Charlevoix County Counselor of Veterans Affairs.

The deadline for applying for the bonus offered by the State of Michigan is June 30.

Geer called attention to the fact that a veteran did not have to participate directly in the Vietnam conflict to be eligible for the bonus. Active service elsewhere in the world would qualify the veteran for the bonus.

Basic eligibility requirements are 180 days of active duty between Jan. 1, 1961 and Sept. 1, 1973; Michigan residence for at least six months immediately prior to entry into active duty or Michigan residency while on active duty for at least six months immediately prior to Jan. 1, 1961 and an honorable discharge.

Eligible next-of-kin are entitled to receive the same bonus that the respective deceased veteran or veteran listed as missing-in-action would have received. The next-of-kin is in the order named: To the surviving husband or wife; If there is no surviving husband or wife, then to the surviving child or children (in equal shares); if there is no surviving child, then to the surviving dependent mother and, if there is no surviving dependent mother, then to the surviving dependent father.

There have been several legislative amendments expanding eligibility criteria since the program began in 1975. A veteran may now apply if his bad discharge has been upgraded; reservists who, upon completing active duty for training, went directly on an active duty tour without a break in pay status, may count the active duty for training time toward the 180 day minimum active duty requirement (the Naval Reserve 2 x 6 program is an example of this) and otherwise qualified veterans who, while on active duty, established residence in Michigan at least six months before Jan. 1, 1961 are now eligible.

Application packets may be requested by mail from the Vietnam Bonus Section, Department of Military Affairs, 2500 S. Washington, Lansing, 48913, County Veterans Counselors, County Departments of Veterans Affairs and veterans organizations service officers.

Al Breeze

Boogie-woogie keyboard boy of G.G.

Al Breeze

By Anne Kelly

Who is this dashing young man in army fatigues?

John-Boy Walton?
Nope.

Well, close.

Actually, it's the boogie-woogie keyboard boy of the G.G. (taken some years back, of course). It's Aloysius (Al) Breeze, commonly referred to as "Breezy" by Charlevoix's Grey Gables clientele.

If Charlevoix speaks fondly of Breeze, the white-haired, curly-topped house entertainer of the Grey Gables Inn, he returns the compliment.

"I love Charlevoix and I love my job," he says.

Breeze truly seems to enjoy making friends and helping everyone have a good time. That's what his job is all about and he's been at it a long time.

Breeze began playing at the Grey Gables in 1961. It was strictly summer employment in those days. In 1971, present owner Dave Phillips took over and asked him to stay on full time. And in case you were wondering where the ideas for all those zany parties at the G.G. originated, Breeze will be glad to share with you a scrapbook depicting some of his most original costume party [illegible].

It's safe to say, that Al Breeze, performing at the keyboard six nights a week at the Grey Gables Inn, is the heart of that old house.

Engagements.

Hull-Forsberg

Mr. and Mrs. Clark R. Hull of Trenton and Northpoint, Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Kathleen, to Erik Jordahl Forsberg. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Forsberg of Hastings.

Both young people attended Kalamazoo College and studied in Germany. The bride-to-be will graduate from Kalamazoo College in June. Her fiance is a 1979 graduate of Kalamazoo College and is pursuing a Ph. D. degree in pharmocology at the University of Chicago

The wedding is being planned for August 2 in the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

Obituaries

RUTH WITHERS

Funeral services for Mrs. Harold (Ruth I.) Withers, 76, who died Friday at Little Traverse Hospital where she had been a patient for two weeks, were held Sunday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Raymond Giffen of the First Congregational Church officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born at Manistee, Jan. 6, 1904, the former Ruth I. Solomon moved to Boyne City with her parents as a girl and later came to Charlevoix. She was graduated from the Charlevoix High School and the Charlevoix County Normal School and taught at the rural schools in the area. In 1925 she was married to Mr Withers at Petoskey. They always resided there. Mr Withers preceded her in death April 1970. She was a member of the First Congregational Church and its Women's Fellowship and Margaret Parker Circle and Charlevoix Lodge No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. John (Marilyn) Swanson of Charlevoix; one grand-daughter; a sister, Mrs Edward (Virginia) Sobleskey of Petoskey and one brother, Leon Solomon of Port Huron.

The family suggests memorials to the First Congregational Church Memorial Fund or the American Cancer Society. Envelopes for this purpose may be obtained at Winchester Funeral Home.

HOWARD BRUMM

Funeral services for Howard E. Brumm, 73, who died Saturday shortly after being admitted to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, were held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Tuesday

Interment was in the Norwood cemetery

Born at Nashville, Michigan, May 30, 1906 Mr Brumm was married to the former Lela Palmer at Nashville on may 24, 1929. He had been employed by the J.H. Heintz Company for 30 years as district manager and later in quality control. They had lived in various southern Michigan communities and from 1942 until 1960 had resided here when he was district manager for this area. They returned to southern Michigan and were at Holland when he retired in 1969. At that time he returned here to make their home at Norwood. He was a member of the Christian Science Society of Charlevoix, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, Barnard Grange and was a member of the board of directors of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau.

Surviving are his wife; a son, Norman H. Brumm of Charlevoix; two daughters, Mrs. Dawson (Joan) Way of Charlevoix and Mrs. Duncan [illegible] of [illegible]; 12 grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; a brother, Carter of Vermontville and one sister, Mrs. Keith (Isabelle) Seitz also of Vermontville.

The family suggests memorials.

DR. EDWARD T. O'NEILL, a former resident now living in Amherst, N.Y., has been appointed head of the School of Library Science in Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland effective Sept. 1

Dr. O'Neill, 30, is presently associate professor at the School of Information and Library Studies and an adjunct professor of industrial engineering and higher education at State University of New York.

A native of Charlevoix and a 1968 graduate of Charlevoix High School, O'Neill has an extensive background in the field of information science. He received a B.A. degree from Albion College and a B.S. degree in industrial engineering from Purdue University. He remained at Purdue until 1970, receiving both his master's degree in industrial engineering and a Ph.D. degree with a concentration in the areas of operations research, computer science and statistics, and their application in the field of information science. His thesis was entitled "Journal Usage Patterns and their Implications in the Planning of Library Systems."

As a student, O'Neill worked in a variety of capacities for the Babcock and Wilcox Company and the International Harvester Company and was a graduate instructor in the School of Industrial Engineering. He joined the faculty of State University of New York at Buffalo in 1968 as an assistant professor, and was subsequently promoted to associate professor.

While at SUNY he served as acting dean of the School of Information and Library Studies from February 1970 to September of the same year and as assistant dean from September 1970 until 1975. During 1978-79 he was a visiting distinguished scholar at the research and development division of OCLC, Inc., in Columbus, Ohio where he conducted a study on providing subject access to very large bibliographic data bases.

Dean Conrad H. Rawski, whom he will succeed at Case Western Reserve, said, "Based on his record, we feel that Dr. O'Neill will be a strong effective leader. He should continue to improve upon the already high standard of the CWRU School of Library Science as well as add to our significant body of research."

O'Neill is the son of Mrs. Maurice (Helen Button) [illegible] of Elmhurst, Ill., and the late Louis O'Neill. His aunt, Mrs. Andrew (Myrtle) Fulton now resides here.

State champs!

Nagaunee finished second, some 20 points behind Charlevoix, and Ann Arbor Green Hills was third. Thirty-one [illegible] in Class C-D.

Mrs. Ford said that entries competed within their own classes and then competed against top winners against entries in all classes, A, B and C-D in the overall competition.

John Grooters won top honors overall in story telling receiving exceptional ratings. Mrs. Ford said he has only lost [illegible] all season.

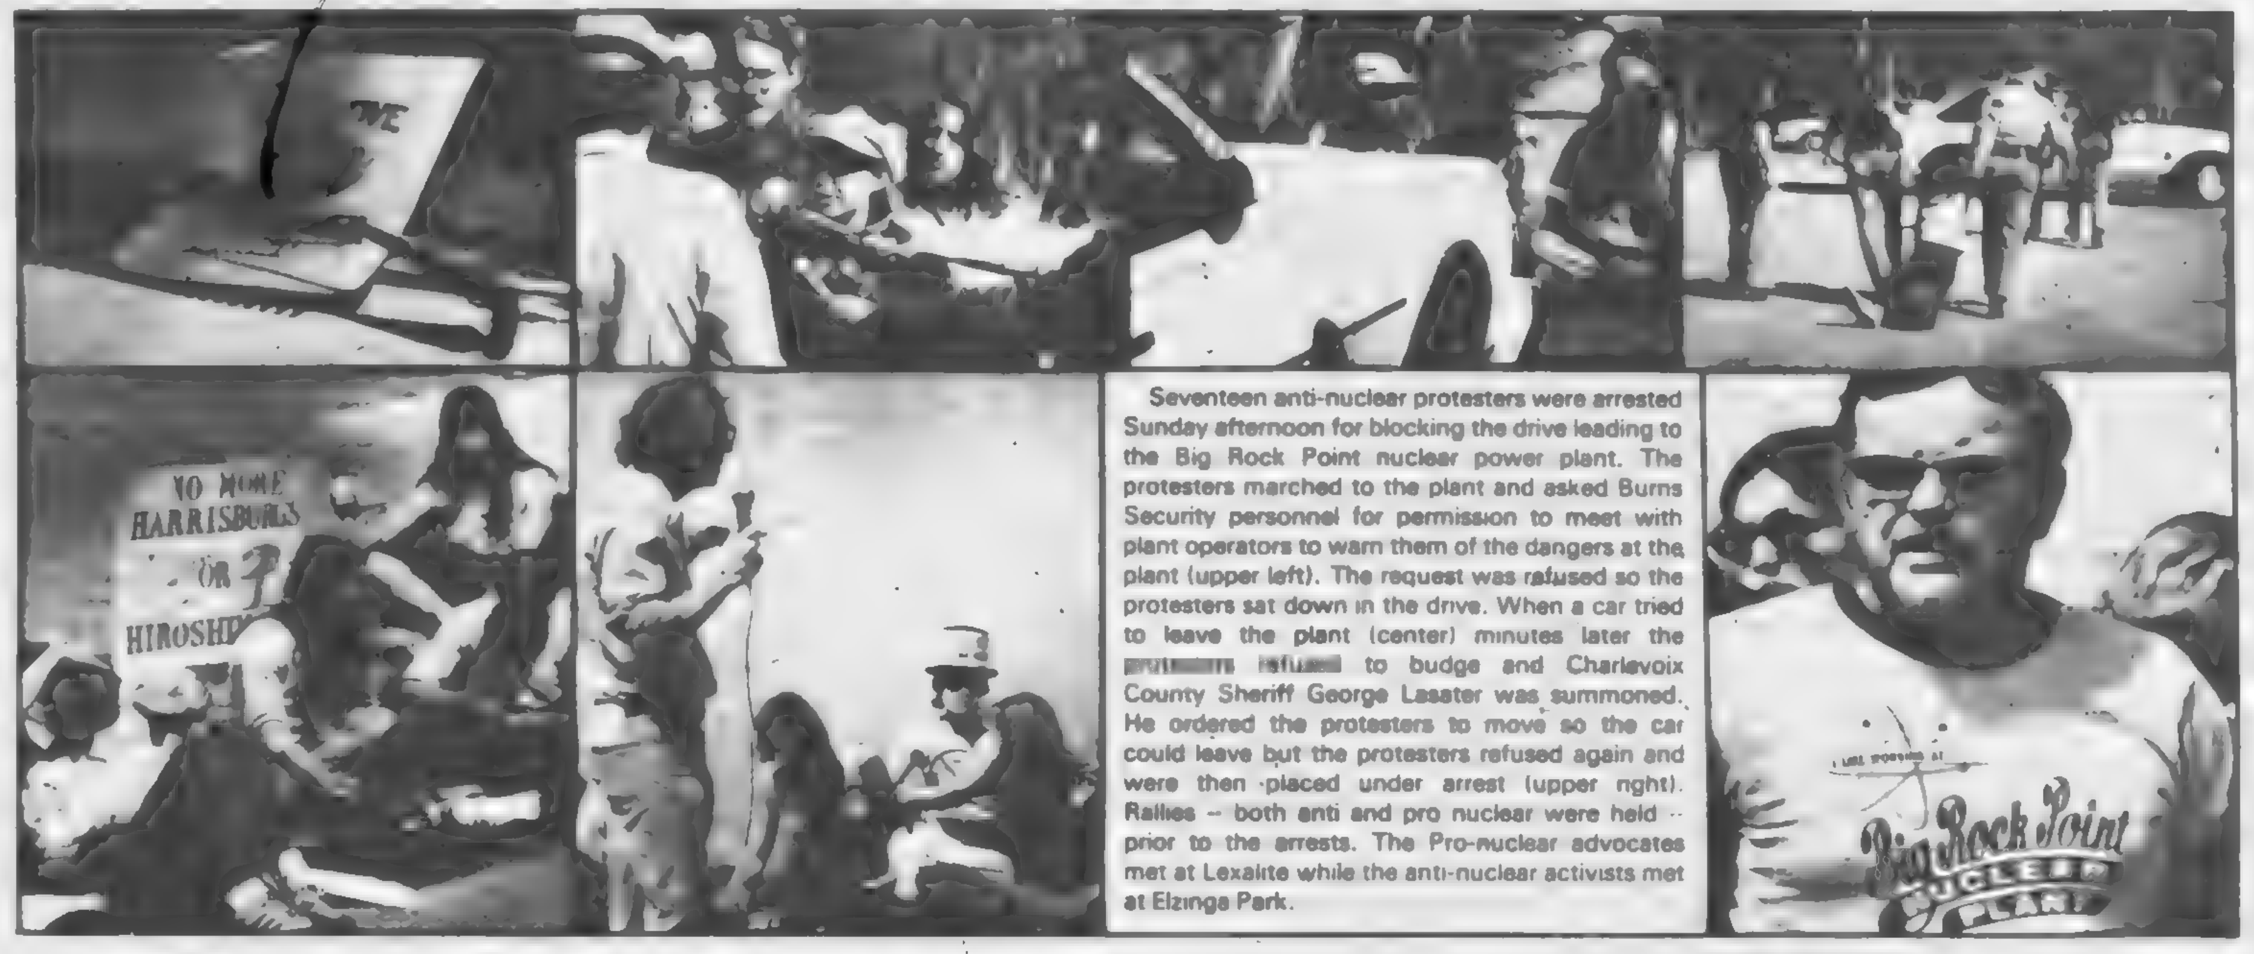
Carla Sizemore advanced to the semi-finals and finished eighth overall in the radio category. Bob Best tied with Carla and then lost going into the finals [illegible].

Martha Staley, in 9-10 oratory, [illegible] to the semi-finals and was eighth overall in her category.

Others who competed but did not score points were Kathy Pidek, humorous and Shari Cook, serious. Shari wrote her own prose, "A Prayer for Emily" and a poem she had used in competition all season.

[illegible] as an alternate in the serious category and the multiple with their entry entitled "Death" attended as alternates but did not have an opportunity to compete. In the cast of the latter were Jack Carlson, Pat Camelleri, Carolyn Loper, Tami Notrot, Cindy Engler, Paul Stangis and Jim Gleason.

Mrs. Ford said 33 teams were entered in Class A with Grand Blanc the winner and 41 teams in Class B with Birch Run repeating as the top team in Class B.



Seventeen anti-nuclear protesters were arrested Sunday afternoon for blocking the drive leading to the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant. The protesters marched to the plant and asked Burns Security personnel for permission to meet with plant operators to warn them of the dangers at the plant (upper left). The request was refused so the protesters sat down in the drive. When a car tried to leave the plant (center) minutes later the protesters refused to budge and Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater was summoned. He ordered the protesters to move so the car could leave but the protesters refused again and were then placed under arrest (upper right). Rallies -- both anti and pro nuclear were held -- prior to the arrests. The Pro-nuclear advocates met at Lexalite while the anti-nuclear activists met at Elzinga Park.

Rallies held

Seventeen arrested at Big Rock Point

"Is our department working overtime today?" Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater said, repeating the question. "You better believe it."

Not only were Lasater and his officers on duty Sunday, but so were officers from the Charlevoix City Police and the Michigan State Police as nearly 300 anti and pro nuclear forces rallied near the Big Rock Point nuclear power plant.

Most of the day, officers from the three departments monitored the peaceful demonstrations, driving back and forth from Lexalite - where the pro-nuclear advocates gathered - and Elzinga Park - where the anti-nuclear [illegible].

As it turned out, a handful of the officers were needed at the plant late in the afternoon when 17 of the anti-nuclear protesters blocked the drive leading to the plant. The protesters had marched to the plant from Elzinga Park and asked Burns Security personnel at the gate for permission to meet with plant operators to "warn them of the dangers of nuclear power." Reading a prepared statement, a security guard told the protesters that it would be "impossible" to meet their request. At this point, the protesters sat down in the drive. Minutes later a Big Rock employee tried to leave the plant by car. The protesters refused to let the car through. Lasater was summoned and he warned the group to move or they would be put under arrest. When the protesters again refused to move, Lasater called in a handful of officers to make arrests. Some of the protesters were dragged to police cars.

The seventeen were taken to the sheriff's department where they were booked and then released on personal recognizance.

The seventeen arrested included Earl Lee Williamson, East Lansing; Shirley Jane Johns, Ellsworth; Thomas Robert Van Hammen, Williamston; Paul David Northey, Livonia; Kenneth Allen Jacobs, Ann Arbor; Sheryl Lynn Mase, Ann Arbor; Peggy Lee Blount, Oden; Stephan Robert Grose, Grandville; Patrick Edward Barnett, Clare; Ronald Edward Smykay, Okemos; Timothy John Ransom, Traverse City; Charles Wyeth Will, Williamston; Darcy Lynn Wessendorf, East Lansing; Jonni Rebecca Valesky, Traverse City; Victor Ray McManemy, Traverse City; John Kenneth Brauker, East Lansing; and Margaret Catherine Casserly, Petoskey.

The planned protest was called to draw attention to the "insufficient shielding" at Big Rock, the nation's fifth oldest nuclear plant. The protesters say the shield does not contain gamma rays.

Officials for Consumers Power, owners of the plant, contend the shield is "adequate to prevent off-site releases of radioactivity in the event of a serious accident."

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is addressing the issue and may ask Consumers Power to improve the shielding. If the NRC required additional shielding, Consumers says, it might be too costly to keep the plant open.

County's valuation surpasses $300 million

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners Wednesday night set the county equalized valuation at $301,734,688, a 12.29 percent increase over 1979.

The report was presented by Equalization Director Joan Blanchard. It will now be reviewed by the State Tax Commission.

Of the 15 townships and three cities in Charlevoix County, 10 had a factor of 1.0, indicating the unit is at 50 percent of true cash value. Others were given factors slightly higher to bring their totals to the 50 percent level. Bay Township has a factor of 1.11; Boyne Valley, 1.20; Chandler, 1.34; Evangeline, 1.30; Hudson, 1.23; Peaine, 1.63; St. James, 1.74; and Wilson, 1.20.

The equalization report was approved 11-3 with John Haggard, Ralph Harmon and Oscar Ward voting in opposition.

The 1979 State Equalized Valuation of the county was $268,703,647. This year's 12.29 percent increase includes new real and personal property.

In recapping her report, Mrs. Blanchard also revealed the increases in valuation by school districts. The Boyne City School District showed an increase of 11.56 percent, Charlevoix, 11.24; East Jordan, 9.53; Beaver Island, 39.04; Petoskey, 13.11; Ellsworth, 6.37; Boyne Falls, 15.46; Vanderbilt, 9.56; Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate, 12.34; and Cheboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle Intermediate, 9.56.

August groundbreaking possible

Housing Commission making plans

Now that federal money has started arriving and a building site has been acquired, the Charlevoix Housing Commission is making tentative plans for its $3 million elderly housing project.

According to Ralph McRae, president of the commission, it is now estimated that final plans for the facility - to be located on West Garfield Avenue - will be approved by May 21, making it possible to advertise for bids early in June, award contracts by mid-July and break ground early in August.

Other important decisions to be made in the near future, McRae said, include the hiring of a building inspector, the appointing of a building manager and the adopting of an admission policy. The policy will set forth the income and asset limits (along with other guidelines already established by the Housing and Urban Development). It is anticipated that the commission will begin accepting applications for admission early in August.

McRae emphasized that the 62 unit facility will be owned and directed solely by the Charlevoix Housing Commission established as a non-profit body working for the benefit and relief of retired and handicapped persons in the Charlevoix area.

The three-story L-shaped building, which will have an elevator, will be of brick veneer construction. Special attention will be given to fireproof materials. Each apartment will have a large living-dining area opening on to a patio or balcony, bedroom, bath and generous storage. There will be six apartments designed for the handicapped (barrier free). It will feature a lobby, office, mail room, a 1500 square foot community room complete with kitchen, and laundry facilities. It will have emergency and communications systems, TV connections and standby emergency power. There will be a resident custodian. There will be a 43 vehicle parking lot. Garden plots will also be available for tenants use.

This has been an eventful time for the commission, McRae said. The first HUD funds, $223,000, have been received making it possible to purchase the property, 5½ acres, the last large building site within the city limits. The facility itself with landscaped lawns will occupy 3.7 acres. The property is contiguous with that owned by Charlevoix County and used as a site for the county jail. It was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. William Steffens of Petoskey and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Davenport and Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hartman of Big Rapids.

McRae said that Senator Donald W. Riegle, Jr., has been helpful in obtaining HUD funds and HUD officials in Grand Rapids have given guidance and support as have consultants, Mack & Ross of St. Joseph. Daverman Associates of Grand Rapids are the architects for the project.

The Charlevoix Housing Commission has established an office in the City Hall. It is staffed from 2 until 5 p.m. every Tuesday for those wishing to make inquiries. The phone number is 547-5451. The commission meets at 3 p.m. at the office every first and third Wednesday of the month.

The commission was created by the Charlevoix City Council Dec. 4, 1974 and operates under state laws relating to public housing. McRae heads the commission as president. Marjory Dinwiddie is vice president; Ralph Shapton, secretary; Ralph S. Hamilton, treasurer, and Robert J. Cook, director.

Parents invited to hear Dr. Kilty

Dr. Ted Kilty of Western Michigan University, who is presenting an in-service training session for teachers and administrators Thursday and Friday will be the guest speaker at a meeting of parents called for 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the high school study hall.

Dr. Kilty has been in the schools evaluating the reading program being offered in the schools. He will make his recommendations at the meeting Thursday night.

Supt. Gordon W. VanWieren advised the Charlevoix Board of Education of the open meeting scheduled for Thursday and spoke briefly relating to the program at the regular meeting of the board Monday night. All parents are urged to attend the meeting.

Marilyn Friedly and Donna McGarry reported briefly on a survey they had conducted among parents of children who will be attending kindergarten in September. The survey related to parents' concerns about the children and what they should be taught during the first year of school.

Mrs. Sandra Fassett who is assisting with a survey presently being made by a corps of volunteers who are asking questions relating to the schools explained the survey. This is the second year such a survey has been conducted.

Selling Your House by Gene Steele

THE IMPORTANCE OF LOCATION

Any Realtor will tell you that the three most important factors concerning the value of a house are: "Location, Location and Location." Unfortunately, most home buyers ignore this important advice.

Location is especially vital when buying a house for maximum resale value. Statistics say that you will be reselling your home long before the final mortgage payment is in the mail. Therefore, take a long, hard look, not only at the present, but the future prospects for the community and [illegible]

Remember: you can remove, replace or remodel a house but you can never change the location. So choose carefully.

Early dismissal

Students in the Charlevoix School District - including St. Mary's - will be dismissed early on Thursday and Friday.

High school students will be dismissed at 11 a.m. while students at the middle school, elementary school and St. Mary's will be released 11 noon.

Meanwhile, teachers and administrators will be attending an in-service on "Diagnosing Reading Problems in the Classroom and Implementation of Reading in the Content Areas."

Dr. Ted Kilty of Western Michigan University will conduct the in-service. Kilty was in the school system April 22-25 to evaluate the existing reading program, talk to teachers and to make recommendations as to his findings. Kilty has recommended two days of total staff commitment to implement a K-12 reading program.

The program is the result of an extensive study of problem areas in the Charlevoix Public Schools. The Michigan Department of Education has provided professional development monies to study these areas. The professional staff of Charlevoix Public Schools has listed reading as the number two concern in the school system. The Curriculum Committee and the Professional Study Committee are the local policy board for the professional development program and have made the recommendation to spend the monies available.

Outpatient clinic proposed for EJ Center

East Jordan Family Health Center has asked the state to approve construction of an outpatient clinic at an estimated cost of [illegible].

The wing would provide space for two physicians, a physician assistant, two nurses, medical transcription and a medical library, administration, an x-ray change room and office, and an elevator.

Currently, the offices originally designed as examination rooms are being used by the physician, physician assistant, nurse, medical transcription, nutritional counseling, and patient coordinator. With the addition of the wing, these offices would be relocated, and the released space would revert to its original purpose and would provide six additional examination rooms to the facility.

Two physician offices are needed to accommodate the physician now on the staff and for a second physician who will arrive in July, on assignment from the National Health Service Corps.

East Jordan Family Health Center is a Rural Health Initiative Project that will fund the construction through a loan provided by Farmers Home Administration. The debt service and utilities would be part of the operating budget of the center.

The project would be completed in December.

In keeping with state and federal regulations requiring state approval and action by the local health systems agency board prior to construction and capital expenditure, East Jordan Family Health Center has applied for a Certificate of Need. The application is on file with the Michigan Department of Public Health, division of Health Facility Planning and Construction.

Time to medicate pets against heartworm

Local veterinarians are reminding dog owners that once again it is time to begin medicating their pets against heartworm.

Heartworm disease is caused by large white worms that fill the animal's heart and, unless treated, is often fatal. While the disease is not overly present in northern Michigan, many local dogs have been diagnosed by veterinarians as having heartworm.

Heartworm is diagnosed through a blood test. If the disease is caught early before clinical signs occur, many dogs can be treated successfully through a carefully planned treatment program.

Dogs diagnosed as being free of heartworms may be put on a preventative medication which is given daily during mosquito season, usually from May 1 to Dec. 1, or until two months after the mosquito season ends.

It is pointed out that northern Michigan is a vulnerable area for increased heartworm incidence because many tourists from high incidence areas travel here with their dogs during the summer months.

GEMWISE
John Reusch

WHY ARE EMERALDS GREEN?

Emeralds have been treasured since ancient man first discovered their appealing color and sparkle. The Roman Emperor Nero used an emerald to shade his eyes while viewing the games in the Colosseum. He claimed the color soothed his eyes while it diminished the sun's glare. Quite an impressive predecessor to sunglasses, wouldn't you say?

Did you know that the same element that makes rubies red makes emeralds green? It's true. The chemical chromium is the cause of the beautiful colors of each of these gemstones. How can the same chemical cause different colors? Well, it has to do with the effect of the chemical on the gem mineral's basic structure. It's just one of the many marvels of the gem kingdom.

The unique green of fine emerald is sometimes referred to as "grass green." There are very few other colored stones that even approach this well-loved color. As a matter of fact, color is the top consideration in evaluating an emerald, with clarity following in second place.

Emerald is known as the May birthstone which makes it a fine choice of birthdays in that month. If you have a May birthday on your calendar, you might consider a gift of emerald jewelry. At Reusch Jewelry our emerald line ranges from $25.00 to $1,000, so we can probably find something that's just right for your purposes.

Captain Bradley's mission

That's the challenge facing Captain John Bradley on Memorial Day (May 26) when he attempts to guide the 552 foot S.S. Medusa Challenger, the longest cement carrier ship on the Great Lakes, through the tiny Pine River Channel from Lake Michigan then dock the giant ship at the Charlevoix City Dock in Round Lake.

This feat of navigation, plus tours of the ship, will be the highlight of Charlevoix Challenge, Charlevoix County's celebration of Michigan Week.

The Charlevoix Challenge weekend couples the visit of the Medusa Challenger with the kickoff of a fund drive to raise $25,000 for Charlevoix High School band uniforms and band camp programs.

The weekend will feature more than 20 "fun-raising" events beginning Friday, May 23. There will be tennis and golf tournaments, a marathon run, horse show, band competitions, barbershop singing, softball, tug-of-war, and much more. There'll even be a monopoly tournament.

The Medusa Challenger makes about 90 trips a year carrying more than a million tons of Medusa Cement between Charlevoix, Manitowoc, Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland. A single full load from the ship would provide enough cement to build five miles of Interstate highway or make 6,700,000 concrete blocks.

The Challenger will be the biggest ship in history to visit downtown Charlevoix. Her captain says arriving for the visit will not be simple.

Bradley, a resident of Charlevoix, has guided the Challenger on more than 1,000 voyages during his 12 years as her captain.

"We'll need almost ideal weather conditions," Bradley said. "If we try to enter the channel with less than ideal conditions we could severely damage the vessel, and we can't exactly carry $50 deductable insurance."

If wind conditions do not permit the ship to enter the channel, the Challenger will dock at its usual berth at the Medusa Cement plant and tours will be conducted there. Signs directing visitors to the ship will be posted throughout downtown Charlevoix.

The narrowness of the channel is just Bradley's first challenge. About halfway into the channel, he must maneuver the ship through a short "dog leg" turn to the left. At that point, the captain said, the 56-foot wide ship will become almost wedged into the 90-foot wide channel.

Once through the turn, the Challenger must be straightened in the channel so it can pass under the Pine River Lift Bridge, which will be raised for more than 40 minutes while the ship is passing.

The next challenge will be to turn the ship completely around in Round Lake so that the ship can be docked with its bow next to the City Dock, where a special gangplank will be built to accommodate visitors.

"I may find it impossible to turn around in such close quarters," Bradley said, "so I may have to go on up into Lake Charlevoix in order to turn around."

The open ship tours are scheduled from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. with a donation of $1.50 for adults and 50 cents for children to the band fund. Free refreshments will be served.

To assist in the fund raising effort, Medusa Cement Company will contribute $1 for every $2 donated by the public for the open ship tour.

Charlevoix County Michigan Week Chairman Dale Boss, and Dr. Merle Plagge, president of the Charlevoix Band Boosters Association arranged for the ship tour with Medusa's assistant plant manager Jerry Staublin.

"Most of us have been Great Lakes shipwatchers all our lives," Dr. Plagge said. "Now we have a chance to personally inspect the longest cement carrier on the lakes from the pilot house to a cargo hold so vast that crews bicycle from end to end."

The S.S. Medusa Challenger has a length of 552 feet and a 56 foot beam. She is powered by Skinner Engine and Steam Boilers and has a 14.3 foot propellor that weighs 13,000 pounds. The ship has a total displacement of 17,720 tons and can automatically unload 1,500 tons of cement an hour.

Bradley and his 26-man crew are proud of the ship's modern automated engine controls and clean comfortable living quarters.

Will cost soon bring down the curtain on nuclear?

Bob Clock

"I didn't see you out at Big Rock supporting nuclear power," a neighbor called cheerily to me Sunday afternoon as she disembarked from a truck emblazoned with pro-nuclear slogans.

"And it is not likely you ever will," I called back just as cheerily.

That's all that was said, and now I suppose she has written me off as a pinkie, knee-jerk liberal who fails to march lock-step with the rest of society. Which is OK. A lot of my friends are knee-jerk liberals and behind the beards they're pretty decent people.

I suppose, as a newsman, I should have made it point to attend the pro and con nuclear rallies at Big Rock Point — but quite frankly I have reached that point in life where I avoid crowds whenever possible, no matter how noble their purpose.

I shun children's slumber parties and nuclear rallies with equal vigor.

Furthermore, both rallies already were well covered by the news media and far be it from me to infringe on someone else's territory.

Long before plutonium became a household word, I wrote an editorial in the Charlevoix Courier claiming that unless a solution is found to the problem of nuclear waste, no additional nuclear power plants should be built in the country. And my mind is still made up on that point.

Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska apparently immortal because he had the editorial written into the Congressional Record and there it lies entombed until this very day.

Of course, the editorial didn't have much impact because many nuclear plants have been brought on line in the past decade and others are still under construction, including two in Michigan.

Although neither government nor industry have been able to come up with a suitable solution to the dilemma posed by nuclear waste, the problem does not loom as formidable today as it did a decade ago. It now appears that cost — not safety — will soon ring down the curtain on the nuclear age insofar as power generation is concerned.

Ever since the Three Mile Island accident last spring, power industry officials are taking a hard look at the added costs of meeting government-mandated safety requirements — and they don't like what they see.

Coal-fired plants, for all of their environmental drawbacks, are becoming more and more attractive to company officials who must answer not only to their customers but to their stockholders.

Furthermore, many small utilities would be devastated financially by an accident similar to the near melt-down at Three Mile Island.

What surprised me most about Sunday's doings at Big Rock Point was the size of the pro-nuclear contingent. It was bigger by most estimates than the anti-nuclear force and it speaks well of Consumers Power Co. that so many people were willing to devote a perfectly beautiful Sunday in May to the company's interests — particularly when it is more fun to march against something that it is to march for something.

However I was distressed to learn that some of the anti-nuclear protestors saw fit to have themselves arrested for blocking the access road to Big Rock Point.

Such disregard for the law doesn't do the anti-nuclear cause one bit of good, since it detracts substantially the central issue of nuclear proliferation.

There is little point in martyrdom when the battle is almost over and victory is only a quarterly report away.

Gift ideas for Mother's & Father's Day

Letters

Editor:

During this time of economic stress and low finances, we should not forget the daily events of living and meaningful existence. In other words I am writing about two of the most wonderful days of the year-honoring two of the most wonderful people in the world-Mother's Day and Father's Day.

What has this to do with economic stress and low finances? Usually to show our love and appreciation to them, we go out and try to buy the most beautiful and best gift we can find to honor them. Do most have the finances this year? Why not try something different, and I guarantee, in 9 out of 10 cases - will probably be more appreciated. The gift of giving of ones self, time, and energy-shows how much you love them, cause you want to do it - without gripping, grumbling, or moaning. If you really love them it won't be a sacrifice, but something you want to do by yourself.

Give them an envelope with a note inside with your invitation to take advantage of your "gift". Some suggestions are as following:

For youngsters: Clean up your room without being told, help water the plants, walk the dog, take out the trash, just answering when being called and don't say "in a minute, or just trying to be extra special good. (and really meaning it and doing it).

For older kids: rake the yard, wash the car and wax it, do some painting or wash walls, do some baby sitting, wash the windows, cut the lawn, clean the house, just do some odd jobs around the house, fix a meal, run some errands, and etc. Do it without haggling, do it cheerfully!

For grown-ups: Invite them over to a meal, take them for a ride, take them shopping, take them on some kind of an outing, just spend the afternoon or evening with them. I'm sure there are so many little things, that are neglected to be done, that cost so little. Try to be thoughtful and see how much they appreciate it.

The gift should be collectable and "paid" when agreeable with both parties concerned.

Have fun, see how little it costs and how much love and satisfaction you receive in return.

Yours truly,
Mrs. Nancy Wood

Support bill

Editor:

This is a plea to readers to ask their legislators to support the leghold trap Bill H.R. 1297, which has a hearing set for May 29 in the House in Congress.

The fur interests use various wiles, and spurious reasoning, to keep the prolonged and inhumane use of the leghold trap going, though it is reducing the vanishing wildlife that remains, along with torturing an occasional household pet, just to make a buck of profit.

A number of states have already banned such traps, as have many countries. Banning of the export of skins should go with this.

If people in general had to look at the photos of animals in leghold traps, nothing more would be needed ... (The Committee For Humane Legislation, 11 W. 60th St., N.Y., 10023, can supply multiple names in Congress for contacting.)

Yours sincerely,

Q/A Property Taxes

The last article gave an illustration of the maximum millage authorized by a township in the county. Now we will compare that millage to the millage authorized to be levied after the tax limitation formula was computed into a millage reduction fraction (MRF). This millage reduction fraction was then multiplied against the maximum millage authorized. We will continue to use Charlevoix Township in explanating how the TLA works.

If you will kindly note in the 1st column, (this was the millage we talked about in the last article) the total amount of millage that was authorized to be levied was 38.15 mills. In the second column is the millage reduction fraction and this is used to multiply the maximum millage to reduce it to the maximum allowable millage that can be levied (column 3). As an example, the county had 4.70 mills authorized, 4.70 mills x .9620 MRF — 4.5214 mills. The 4.5214 was the most the county commissioners could authorize to be levied for the ad valorem taxes. However, the county commissioners authorized the mill rate at 4.50 thereby saving some millage, but between the commissioners and the tax limitation amendment, a total of .20 mill was [illegible].

Also, note the Grandvue mill that was voted by the people for 3 years was not rolled back as this was a debt retirement and does not come under the tax limitation amendment. However, the county commissioners analyzed the amount of money that was needed to complete the people's project of the addition on Grandvue and upon their evaluation, determined the county would only need to levy .75 of a mill to fullfill the obligations and thereby saved the taxpayer .25 of a mill. By way of interest, the project did not get started immediately after the money was collected the first year. The commissioners wisely and prudently invested the first tax collection and earned interest on this money which also went into the building fund. Along with the interest there was money the county received from federal revenue sharing as well as some state money based on tax effort (the voted mill). All of the money generated from the Grandvue tax effort or Grandvue building account was put into the building account and help to defray the cost to the people and to reduce the final rate levied and saving the taxpayers money.

Township Tax. This did not get rolled back by the TLA because the entire township did not increase more than the CPI. (Consumers Price Index). Therefore the millage was authorized to be levied by the township board as allocated and voted. The township board was the authority to lower the mill rate, but apparently they felt they needed all the money to fulfill their financial obligations.

Charlevoix Schools: The allocated mills of 9.10 was rolled back to 8.6414 and the voted operational of 10.75 was rolled back to 10.2082 and the school authorized a levy of 8.64 and 10.19 respectively. The school district had voted 6.00 mills which they levied in full as it was a current voted issue. This year any millage voted after May 31st does not get rolled back by the TLA for the 1980 year. Also the school authorized a debt retirement levy of 2.40 mills. The TLA does not effect debt retirement and only enough millage is authorized to be levied that meets the indebtedness. The total maximum school millage started out to be 28.25 mills and the final authorized levy was 27.23 mills.

Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School had their .20 allocated millage rolled back to .1953 and authorized .196 to be levied. The voted special education millage which was 1.00 was rolled back to .976 mills. The grand total of 38.15 maximum mills in this township was rolled back to 36.651 mills and that is what was levied in Charlevoix Twp. As you can see, there was a savings of tax dollars in Charlevoix Township. However, with the increase in State Equalized value of the unit, most people realized an increase in their tax bill. There was a real outcry of the people on this when they really expected their taxes to be cut because of Headlee.

I believe there was a misconception on the part of many people exactly what the tax limitation amendment or Headlee as some call it, was supposed to accomplish. Many people expected a cut in their taxes. There were many who thought their assessments could not be increased more than the CPI.

I will quote the paragraph in the petition that many people signed and apparently didn't read. The people really thought Headlee was supposed to give them tax relief and were most happy to sign on the dotted line.

Initiative Petition Amendment to the Constitution, Sec 31 ... "If the assessed valuation of property as finally equalized, excluding the value of new construction and improvements, increases by a larger percentage than the increase in the General Price Level from the previous year, the maximum authorized rate applied thereto in each unit of Local Government shall be reduced to yield the same gross revenue from existing property, adjusted for changes in the General Price Level, as could have been collected at the existing authorized rate on the prior assessed value.

The limitations of this sections shall not apply to taxes imposed for the payment of principal and interest on bonds or other evidence of indebtedness or for the payment of assessments on contract obligations in anticipation of which bonds are issued which were authorized prior to the effective date of this amendment."

Whew-that is just so much reading isn't it? In a capsul what this says is ... if the equalized value (excluding new construction and improvements) increases by a larger percentage than the CPI, the maximum authorized rate shall be reduced to yield the same revenue from existing property, but adjusting for changes in the CPI. The idea was a limit taxes to the same rate of growth as the CPI. The idea was to limit taxes on the same rate of growth as the CPI. Nothing was petitioned to cut taxes ... and the people of Michigan thought this was a good idea to limit government spending.

The TLA is clearly a tax rate limitation and is completely separate from the process of assessment and equalization. The assessor is still required to establish the assessment at 50% of True Cash Value. The procedure is not affected in any way by the new constitutional provision. This particular amendment put a workload on the local assessor, but an even greater workload on county government.

There are some more areas I want to touch on regarding the TLA and the 15 mill limitation before we leave this subject. I also plan to use the City of Charlevoix as an illustration of charter millage and how the TLA affects the city millage. We will continue in the next article.

Meet Charlevoix

By Anne Kelly

Beth Strawbridge plays the female lead, Penelope Toop, in the Little Traverse Civic Theater's spring production "See How They Run" (May 1-3 and 8-10). She also excels in the culinary arts, writes in her spare time and enjoys sailing with her husband, Dave.

Q. Have you had previous dramatic experience or is "See How They Run" to be your debut?

A. I made my stage debut two years ago in the Little Traverse Civic Theater's production of "Arsenic and Old Lace." However, my dramatic experience began at a very young age – my audience was my family. I remember one summer during my childhood at a gathering of the cousins, we presented a scene taken from "Alice and Wonderland." I was writer, director, producer, and naturally, played Alice herself.

Q. Could you entice us just a bit by telling us briefly about the play, "See How They Run"?

A. "See How They Run" is a British Comedy. The plot revolves around the inhabitants of an English Vicarage and the various characters who drop by one evening. There are chase scenes, cases of mistaken identity; it's pure farce and great fun. One member of last week's audience said she laughed until tears ran down her face.

Q. Are there any other Charlevoix actors in this production?

A. Yes. Bill Henne plays the part of an escaped Russian spy.

Q. Where and when will "See How They Run" be playing?

A. The play is being staged at Petoskey High School and will run for three more nights, May 8-9 & 10. Curtain time is 8:00 P.M. I might add that this is a good family show and tickets are only 2.50 for children under 12. Tickets are available at The Apple Tree in Charlevoix.

Q. Would you like to see Charlevoix establish a theater group?

A. There was an attempt to start such a group a few years ago, but interest waned for several reasons, I think. One big reason is Charlevoix's lack of an adequate facility in which to stage a production. Also it takes an incredible amount of time and energy to produce a play. You need to have either a small group of extremely dedicated people, or else a large number of potential cast and crew members to draw from so that nobody gets too burned out. Perhaps Charlevoix could start with something small: a group to produce one-act plays, for example. I frankly don't know what sort of talent and experience lurks in Charlevoix's woodwork. I'm certain it must be here.

Q. Acting is just one of your many hobbies. Perhaps you could tell us about the others?

A. I think of a hobby as something one does as a diversion with some regularity. I suppose in that sense cooking would be my only true hobby...and sailing in the summer time. I have many interests which I wish I had more time to pursue: reading, writing, being with friends, sewing, playing the flute, learning languages, photograph, various athletic endeavors. I am a dabbler, but I truly enjoy learning new things, having new experiences, being challenged.

Q. Has your association with Charlee's fostered your love of cooking?

A. I would say rather that it was my love of cooking which brought about my association with Charlee's. Right now I am working on several cooking demonstrations which Charlee's will present during the summer.

Q. You and your husband have traveled quite extensively. What was one of your favorite vacation choices?

A. That's very hard to say. I enjoy traveling because it gives me the opportunity to transcend myself and my narrow day to day experience. I want to know how other people feel and live and think and what sort of effect their environment has on them. For that reason I tend to rate vacation spots in terms of an emotional and intellectual impact they've had on me. My choices are subjective ones: Scotland, Greece, Williamsburg, Va. and most recently St. Vincent in the West Indies have been among the most memorable spots.

Q. And finally, what about writing? Is it difficult to find time and the peace and composure necessary for writing stories and novels?

A. Many of my friends know about my interest in writing and are wondering when they are going to see some results. All I can say is that I may not be producing much right now but I am learning some valuable lessons. One of those lessons is that when one becomes an adult one must put away childish beliefs. Now, that may sound simplistic, but I'm convinced that one childhood belief many of us share is the belief in our own limitations. Lack of time for writing has slowed me down, but my self-doubts have been at least as strong a deterant. The more fully I realize that, the more fully creative I'm able to be. Creativity is the act of reaching beyond one's limits. And this applies to anything we endeavor to do.

While they were rearranging their inventories and straightening for summer, the 5 Captain's Corner shipmates ran across these great values you won't want to miss!

Construction on new press box underway

Ground has been broken and construction started on a two-story storage building topped by a press box at Kipke Field following the recent re-organization of the Charlevoix Sports Boosters.

Recent meetings by this group has attracted a large number of interested persons making it possible to plan several projects, according to Dale Burge, high school athletic director

The storage building/press box project is being constructed behind the stands on the east side of Kipke Field and will offer storage for a large variety of sports equipment. A larger and improved press box will top the structure.

Following election of officers, who will assume their duties in [illegible] numerous chairpersons were named to carry out immediate as well as long range plans.

Mrs. Don Trimper was named the arrange for the Senior Awards Night planned for later this month.

A committee headed by Don Kelly, Lawrence Bergmann and Pias Presnell are supervising the storage/press box project; Bergmann and Greg Bryan will be in charge of mat boxes for the wrestling program; Jim Alger and Ken Wojan will make plans for additional trophy cases; Trimper and Alger will make plans for the concession stand project and Joe Beaudoin will head the jumper machine committee.

Beaudoin will also be in charge of the organization's both during the Venetian Festival; Fay Alger and Tom LaBlance will plan the fall sports program and Mrs. Alger will take over records and history.

Officers are Dr. Trimper who was elected president to succeed Alger who, with Mrs. Alger and a handful of interested persons have kept the organization intact; Beaudoin, vice president and [illegible].

Jeff Landon (left) was a standout in Charlevoix's track meet with Petoskey Tuesday Landon won the mile and two mile events. Meanwhile, Mary Plagge (above) and Lisa Pischner competed in Charlevoix's recent triangular with Cheboygan and Boyne City. Plagge did not place in the high jump, but Pischner did take a fourth in the long jump.

Softball squad splits two doubleheaders

On Monday, the Rayders lost to Cheboygan Catholic 19-10 in the opener before bouncing back to win 10-6 in the nightcap. Colleen LaBlance was the losing pitcher in the opener. Teresa Noirot had [illegible] Bridget Noirot, Mel Kerridge and Holly Taber had two hits apiece. Kerridge was the winning pitcher in game two. Kim Bolduc was the hitting hero with three hits while Kerridge had two safeties

On Thursday, the Rayders bested Pellston 9-5 in the opener of a doubleheader. Charlevoix forfeited the nightcap. In the opener Charlevoix was outhit 8-5 Kerridge picked up the win

Baseball team remains unbeaten in conference

It was a good week for the Charlevoix baseball squad. Coach Pete Spieles' team won five of six games

On Monday, the Rayders split a doubleheader with Rogers City Mike Loper pitched a six hit shutout in the opener as Charlevoix won 2-0. Scott Kelly and Scott Morgan had the RBI's. In the second game, the Rayders were victimized 7-0. Loper had Charlevoix's lone hit. Jerry Sladek was the losing pitcher. Roxy VanLoo relieved in the fourth inning

The Rayders swept a doubleheader from Cheboygan on Thursday, 12-9 and 13-7. In the first game Jack Carlson and Bob Russell cracked home runs as Morgan - the third Charlevoix hurler - received credit for the win. Jim Buchanan had three hits Buchanan kept up his hot hitting in the second contest as he banged out two more singles. Mike Zednicek and Kirk Heckendorn also had two hits. Heckendorn was the winning pitcher

On Saturday, Charlevoix had little trouble disposing of Elk Rapids, 10-2 and 8-2. Sladek in relief of Loper got the win in the opener Kelly and John Lachman had two hits apiece. Kelly in relief of Heckendorn was the winning hurler in the nightcap. Buchanan and Brian Carson had two hits each to lead the attack

Charlevoix is now 7-1 on the season and 2-0 in the Michigan-Huron Shores (only the front end of conference doubleheaders count in the standings).

Annis to paint for Wildlife Stamp Program

By Anne Kelly

In the August 29, 1979 edition of the Courier, Charlevoix met artist Jim Annis whose specialties in oils are fish and the streetcars and trolleys of old Chicago. At that time, Annis had received recognition as runner-up for the 1980 Trout [illegible] Fisherman Magazine. For two years, he has exhibited his work at the East Jordan Art Fair at Elm Point. This year, Annis will be displaying his work at Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair

Since we last interviewed him, his paintings have appeared on the cover of a subsequent edition of Michigan Fisherman with four more covers yet to appear. He also has on hand two other cover paintings: the April 1980 copy of Fur-Fish-Game Magazine, and the August, 1980 cover of Michigan Out-Of-Doors, still to be released. Along with co-artists Maynard Reece and Charles Schafer, Annis' fish illustrations can be found in the 1980 Angler's Guide

But perhaps the achievement he speaks of most proudly is the fact that he has been commissioned for three paintings for The National Wildlife Federation in Washington, D.C. for their Wildlife Stamp Program. A talented artist and an accomplished outdoorsman, Annis continues to fish, golf and work hard at many occupations, not the least of which is the painting he loves.

Netters remain above .500 – win twice

Coach Chuck Wright's Charlevoix tennis team won two of three matches last week to remain above the .500 mark (4-3) for the season.

Charlevoix edged Harbor Springs 4-3 on Monday. In that contest: Dennis Morgridge (C) defeated Ken Johnson 6-3, 6-2; Jeff Morgridge (C) defeated Mark Larson 6-3, 6-0; Rick Kowalski (HS) defeated Shelly Knight 4-6, 7-5, 6-4; Rob Fuhrman (HS) defeated Lou Kline 6-2, 7-5; John Groeters and Rick Rajewski (C) defeated Linda Topolski and Rob Menzi 6-2, 6-1; Pete Dunkleberg and Paul Hoffman (C) defeated Rob Kowalski and John Pyjar 6-3, 6-1; and Eric Holladay and Kurt Erzleben (HS) defeated Patrice Staley and Kris Lignell 6-4, 6-2.

On Tuesday, the Rayders traveled to Glen Lake and lost 5-2. In that contest: Joe Gillen (GL) defeated D. Morgridge 6-1, 6-2; Bob Sutherland (GL) defeated J. Morgridge 6-2, 6-2; Matt Sutherland (GL) defeated Knight 6-1, 6-0; Ken Leinbeck (GL) defeated Kline 6-0, 6-0; Groeters and Rajewski (C) defeated Laura Wiessen and Kevin Crimson 6-0, 6-0; Hoffman and Dunkleberg (C) defeated Mike Barnes and Fred Reynolds 6-1, 7-5; and Bill Zolman and Tom Milks (GL) defeated Staley and Lignell 6-4, 6-3.

The Rayders bounced back on Thursday by beating Gaylord 5-2. In that contest: Randy Ogden (G) defeated D. Morgridge 7-5, 6-1; J. Morgridge (C) defeated Bob Merry 6-4, 6-1; Chris Porzondek (G) defeated Knight 6-4, 6-3; Pete Cockfield (C) defeated Chris Soderberg 6-0, 6-4; Groeters and Rajewski (C) defeated Frank Lawrence and Paul Johnson 6-0, 6-0; Dunkleberg and Hoffman (C) defeated Julie Koneczny and Judy Boron 6-0, 6-0; and Staley and Lignell (C) defeated Ellen Lickeig and Tom Gavin 7-4, 6-3.

Scheduling required

Both men's and women's teams of the Charlevoix Slowpitch League are asked to call the Charlevoix Recreation Department office in the City Hall to schedule practice sessions.

It has become necessary for teams to schedule regular practice times because the field is in use by the Charlevoix High School softball team as well as by the teams of the Slowpitch Association Dwight Boss, City Recreation director, said

Petoskey nips Rayders

Despite winning eight events, Charlevoix's boys track team lost a squeaker to Petoskey Tuesday, 67-65

Van Sloan of Charlevoix was the meet's outstanding performer Sloan won the high jump, 440 dash and 220 dash. Jeff Landon was not far behind. Landon won the one and two mile events. Also taking first place finishes were: Gerard Doan, shot put; Jeff Drury, Kurt Williams, Dave Buday and Jay Swartout, mile relay; and Drury, Mark Beaudoin, Jack Cross and Tim Lousselle, 440 relay

Grayling wins

The Charlevoix girls track team picked up 14½ points in a triangular meet held Monday at Grayling

A strong Grayling team won the meet with 72 points with Petoskey coming in a close second with 69½ points

Picking up points for Charlevoix were Chris Wojan who placed second in the shot with a toss of 27'6" and Tanya Ford with a second place in the 100 yard dash

Pam Lamoreaux came through with a third in the long jump; Mary Beth Eldridge with a third in the 110 yard hurdles and Marie Buday with a third in the 220 yard dash

Teams needed

The Charlevoix Recreation Department is seeking eight Class C-D independent slowpitch teams to play in the Charlevoix Challenge Slowpitch tournament over the Memorial Day weekend Dwight Boss, city recreation director, has announced

The double elimination tournament will be played May 24-25-26.

Trophies will be awarded to first and second place winners and medals will go to the members of the championship team

The first eight teams to call and pay their $60 entry fee will be accepted for the tournament, Boss said

Those interested may call the Charlevoix Recreation Department between 2 and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday

Mr. and Mrs. Boss

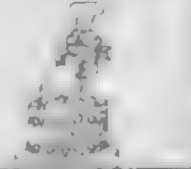
Mr. and Mrs. John L. Boss will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary at an open house at Fellowship Hall of the Community Reformed Church from 2-5 p.m. Saturday.

Hosting the event will be their sons-in-laws and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Garry (Esther) Vandenberg of Elmont and Mr. and Mrs. Duane (Kathleen) Wheat of Lansing and their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Boss, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan J. Boss and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth J. Boss, all of Charlevoix. Also present will be their 17 grandchildren.

Mr. Boss and the former Frances Carpenter were married at the Banks Township home of her parents on May 10, 1930, and have always resided on a farm in the Barnard area of Marion Township.

Both are members of the Community Reformed Church. Mr. Boss has served as a member of the consistory for many years. Mrs. Boss has been church organist for the 50 years of her marriage and has been active in the women's groups in the church. Both are also members of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau. Mr. Boss was treasurer of Marion Township for many years and served several terms on the Charlevoix Board of Education.

After 25 years as a farmer, Mr. Boss and his son, Herbert, did construction work from 1956 until his retirement.



Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Boss

Mr. and Mrs. Squire

Mrs. and Mrs. William T. Squire of Boyne City, parents of Mrs. Richard Barrett of Charlevoix, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at a dinner party at Gasco Recreation Hall in Melvindale April 20.

Hosting the event were their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard (Beverly C.) Barrett of Charlevoix and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley J. Squire of Taylor. Also attending were their six grandchildren.

Mr. Squire and the former Elna E. Sundquist were married April 5, 1930, at the United Methodist Church in Lincoln Park where they made their home until coming to Boyne City in 1972 following their retirement. Both had been employed at the J.L. Hudson Company in Detroit for many years, Mr. Squire with the plant security division and Mrs. Squire as manager of beauty salons operated by the company. Since moving to northern Michigan they have resided at 528 Lake Street in Boyne City. Mrs. Squire is president of the Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital and a member of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging.

Seventy-five guests joined the couple in observing the memorable anniversary. Guests included their immediate family and relatives and friends from Charlevoix, Petoskey, Bay City, Quincy, Detroit and its suburbs and Texas.

REROOFING PROJECT
ST. JAMES, MICHIGAN

APRIL 21, 1980 PROJECT NO. 2382

INVITATION TO BID

Project Bids are requested for two reroofing proposals for the Beaver Island Schools located on Beaver Island, St. James, Michigan. Proposal "A" consisting of a new built-up roof and insulation system on the existing "level" roof deck, (approx. 4,500 sq. ft.). Proposal "B" consists of a new asphalt shingled roof and a new 4/12 pitch wood truss system on top of the existing level roof deck. Proposal "B" also requires removal of existing overhangs. Both proposals require minimum demolition, removal and closing in existing skylights. Transportation and housing of all equipment, materials, and manpower to, from, and on the island shall be included in the bids.

[illegible]

Sealed proposals will be received until 3:30 p.m., Friday, May 23, 1980 at the Beaver Island Schools, St. James, Michigan at which time the bids will be publicly opened.

Proposals received after the time specified will be returned unopened. Bid opening will be public.

Bids shall be submitted as a single proposal for all trades.

No bids may be withdrawn for a period of thirty (30) days after the opening of bids.

BIDDING DOCUMENTS

Bidding Documents will be available on or about April 21, 1980.

1. MJK Architects Engineers Planners, 123 West Main St., Gaylord, MI 49735

CHARLEVOIX CHURCH DIRECTORY

DON'T JUST GO TO CHURCH, GET INVOLVED WITH IT

A good way to start the new year is to resolve not only to attend church regularly, but to go beyond that and offer to help your Church in any way you can. This does not mean just financial support. For it might well include any physical labor you are able to perform, from typing the Church bulletin to pulling weeds or painting lines on the parking lot. Do you like to sing? If your Church has or could have a choir, you might volunteer for that. You need not be operatic material, just able to carry a tune and find middle C on the music. By doing any of these things, you will make many fine friends and gain a deeper appreciation of the services, from the satisfaction of belonging to and helping this Church which has done so much for you.

234 crippled children receive help locally

Some 234 crippled children in Charlevoix, Antrim, Emmet, and Otsego Counties have received help from the Michigan Department of Public Health, according to a recent report.

[illegible] of these children received [illegible] to cover the cost of medical care and treatment of crippling conditions to the extent that the cost would be beyond the means of the parents. In many cases, low interest loans with extended pay back schedules were provided to middle income families who were faced with catastrophic costs for the treatments of injuries or conditions resulting from accidents, birth defects, or disease.

In the four-county area served by District Health Department No. 3, the monies were distributed as follows.

In Charlevoix County, 58 recipients received $30,942.80; in Antrim County, 43 recipients received $36,362.69; in Emmet County, 82 recipients received $88,471.78; and in Otsego County, 70 recipients received $87,852.53.

The District Health Department participates in the program by providing outreach nursing services and by conducting interviews with prospective recipients and making eligibility determinations. A trained Crippled Childrens Eligibility Examiner is located in each of the branch offices of the District Health Department. In Charlevoix, the office is located at 203 Antrim St., phone 547-6523.

Sean Ryan

'Ryan's Public House' opens in Boyne City

By Anne Kelly

Sean Ryan is as comfortable chatting with electricians and last-minute workmen as he is seated on his perch, mike-side, as "entertainer of the house."

No longer a fixture of Duffy's of Harbor Springs, where he performed for the past 5½ years, year round, Ryan is opening his own bar-restaurant, Boyne Country's version of the Irish pub.

Actually, Ryan's Public House is a joint endeavor. Nolan Roe, former owner of The Outfitter in Harbor Springs and Petoskey, is Ryan's partner. Ryan's Public House opened rather low key last week, but Ryan hopes to build momenteum that will lead to a grand opening crescendo around Memorial Day weekend. Located just off M-75 outside of Boyne City (the former Homestead Inn), Ryan's Public House is situated on a hill overlooking the countryside, a fittingly pastoral scene for this [illegible] of Ireland.

Ryan is understandably excited about embarking upon this new venture. He believes that this area will be supportive of his brand of entertainment because it is entertainment that everyone can feel comfortable about. Drinks and sandwiches, songs and a good [illegible].

Ryan, of course, will be the primary entertainment. However, he will be hosting other talent occassionally with one night a week to be reserved as "open mike" night, providing a showcase for local talent.

Ryan's Public House would like to open and sustain the reputation of being a "high class, middle of the road pub." From the looks of the refurbished and well polished interior to the [illegible] easy going Irish lad, Ryan should be a successful and welcome addition to the entertainment scene in Charlevoix County.

Obituaries

REV. ROBERT FITZPATRICK

Funeral services for Rev. Fr. Robert Emmet Fitzpatrick, 84, pastor at St. Mary's Church here 1929-31, were held Wednesday at St. Bernard Church at Alpena. The Liturgy of Christian Burial was concelebrated by his nephew, the Rev. James Fitzpatrick. Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery at Alpena.

A native of Alpena, he was ordained at St. Andrew's Cathedral in Grand Rapids 59 years ago.

In addition to serving as pastor of St. Mary's Church, he filled pastorates in Grand Rapids, Alpena and Herron and was Saginaw Diocese Superintendent of Schools.

He was in residence of St. Francis Home at Shields at the time of his death.

HOWARD BENNETT

Military graveside services for Howard Bennett, 82, of Flint, were held Saturday at Brookside Cemetery.

Funeral services had been held at the Brown Funeral Home in Flint on Friday. He died Tuesday at Flint.

A native of Charlevoix and a veteran of World War I, he was employed at General Motors in Flint until his retirement.

He is survived by his wife, the former Annis Driggett of Charlevoix; one son, Ned of Lansing, and two grandchildren.

DR. FREDERICK MAYNE

Funeral services for a former Charlevoix resident, Dr. Frederick C. Mayne, 90, were held Saturday at the Nordman Funeral Home in Cheboygan. The Rev. Thomas A. Fraser officiated. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery.

Dr. Mayne died Thursday morning in Community Memorial Hospital in Cheboygan, where he had been a patient for about two weeks.

Dr. Mayne was born June 15, 1889 in Charlevoix. He was the first son of Judge and Mrs. F.W. Mayne. He attended Charlevoix Public Schools, Albion College and the University of Michigan. He graduated from the U-M with a degree in medicine in 1915. He served as an intern at Harper Hospital and Mutual Hospital in Detroit and worked one year at the Traverse City State Hospital before entering the Army during World War I. He married Meta Hintz in May 1918. The following year the Maynes moved to Cheboygan where he began a general practice of medicine and surgery. After the death of his wife in 1925, Dr. Mayne married Edith Harbron in Charlevoix on Oct. 17, 1927. They lived in Cheboygan.

LYDA JOHNSON

Funeral services for Mrs. Eliza (Lyda) Johnson, 82, who died Sunday at the Charlevoix Area Hospital shortly after she was admitted, will be held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday. The Rev. Austin Regier of the United Methodist Church will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery.

The former Eliza (Lyda) Black was born in Charlevoix Aug. 22, 1897, and was married to Albertus McGhan in Charlevoix in 1914. He preceded her in death in 1925. In 1947 she was married to John Johnson in Charlevoix. He died in 1966. She was a member of the United Methodist Church and its circle, the Charlevoix Rebekah Lodge No. 293 and the Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion. She was past president and had served as secretary of the latter for 30 years.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Les (Ruth) Payne of Charlevoix, Mrs. John Dietrich of Taylor and Mrs. Clark (Peggy) Rought of Dearborn Heights; two sons, Rex McGhan of Birmingham and Marion (Bubby) of Traverse City; 21 grandchildren and 38 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the United Methodist Church.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 until 9 p.m. Tuesday.

MAY

MITCH IRWIN, state senator in the 37th district, has announced that legislation to create a single separate Circuit Court Judgeship for Cheboygan County has been reported to the full Senate by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

"I'm pleased with this action, which was strongly supported by the communities affected. This now means that we're one step closer and I expect full Senate passage in the next two weeks. This is absolutely necessary to give the counties affected and potential candidates enough time to make their respective plans.

"My goal is to see this bill passed and signed into law by the governor by mid-May," Irwin said.

If the legislation does not pass, Cheboygan County will join Charlevoix and Emmet counties in the 33rd Judicial Circuit, and two judges will preside. If the legislation passes, Charlevoix and Emmet counties will be presided over by one judge.

BRIAN YOUNGS, M.D., has been appointed regional medical director for District Health Departments No. 3 and 4.

The two district health departments cover Alpena, Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, Montmorency, Otsego and Presque Isle counties.

The region has been without a medical director since February when Dr. James Harrison took a position in Lansing with the state health department.

A native of the Standish area, Dr. Youngs is currently a lieutenant colonel with the United States Army at Fort Knox, Kentucky. He plans to start his new position Sept. 22.

Dr. Youngs, 41, has very close ties with northern Michigan. He was raised in the Sault Ste. Marie area. His father was a staff member of Lake Superior State College.

Dr. Youngs has an M.D. degree from Wayne State University and a master's of public health degree from the University of North Carolina. Currently, he has been certified in obstetrics and gynecology. By the time he officially takes over as medical director, he will be certified in preventive medicine.

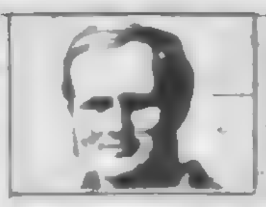
A history major, Graham was graduated summa cum laude, an accomplishment which requires a grade point average of 3.8 overall and a 3.6 in credit earned outside the major division. He also earned honors in his major department. For that honor he presented a thesis of honors calibre on "SCAP and the Occupation of Japan: From Enemy to Ally, 1945-1952," performed superbly on a departmental comprehensive examination, and achieved a minimum grade point average of 3.5 in his major.

Graham was also one of three nominees for the Barlow Trophy, Alma's most prestigious award to a graduating senior. The award acknowledges both academic achievement and contributions to campus life. Nomination itself is an honor.

Graham, a 1976 graduate of East Jordan High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Graham.



Names In The News

The four week course of instruction included an extensive road trip in excess of 1,000 miles in addition to 40 hours of classroom instruction.

Mitchell received a certificate of completion and D.O.T. certification at ceremonies April 25 at the Fort Custer facility near Battle Creek.

MARILYN RUTH SCHROEDER of Charlevoix received her master of arts degree in library science Saturday at commencement exercises at the University of Michigan.

More than 5,700 students graduated Saturday.

JAYNE CAMBURN of Boyne City and ANN HEALEY of East Jordan will be attending Central Michigan University on scholarships next fall.

CMU automatically awards scholarships to valedictorians and salutatorians of Michigan high schools and to entering students with high school grad point averages of 3.5 or better.

The valedictorian-salutatorian awards and the academic honors scholarships are granted by the CMU Board of Trustees to students admitted to the university.

Anne Welke

Beaver Island names scholars

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Welke, Anne has been an active member of the band and Band Boosters and is a recipient of an ACT honorable mention award. She has a 3.84 grade point average.

Anne has been accepted at Northwestern Michigan College (Traverse City) for the fall semester. A licensed pilot, she has been admitted to the Career Aviation Training program.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Delamater, Tamie is an accomplished artist and has exhibited in the Crooked Tree Arts Council's spring exhibit and in local art exhibits. At present, she has not selected a college and has decided to work for a year before continuing her education.

Duane, the son of Mr. and Mrs. LaDonis Mooney, has been active in the school band and is a recipient of an ACT honorable mention award. He has been admitted to Lake Superior State College in the Electronics Engineering Technology program. Before moving to the Island, Duane played string bass with the West Phoenix (Ariz.) Orchestra.

Commencement exercises will be held Friday, May 30 at 7:30 p.m. at Holy Cross Church. James Shepard, superintendent of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, will present the diplomas.

Recreation plan submitted to city council

The Charlevoix City Council will be asked to approve a comprehensive recreational plan Monday night.

The plan was drafted by the Charlevoix Parks and Recreation Commission - composed of Dave Novotny, Conrad Klooster, Toni Felter and John Hess.

The plan "is an expression of Charlevoix's objectives, needs, and priorities for the provision of leisure space, services, and facilities," said Hess. It includes a description of past leisure patterns of the population, the present uses of facilities, and the projection of future needs.

Public hearings were held in February and March to obtain citizen input on the wants and needs of the community. Most of the projected future needs "are things we can do ourself," said Hess, "which means we won't have to chase down Uncle Sam for grant money."

Highlights of the plan include:

Ballfields - The city has three ballfields on the south side. The fields are used extensively in the summer for softball. One of the fields is lighted. The commission believes the lighted field needs: a warning track in the outfield, new fencing, a scoreboard, better lighting (if it does not interfere with airport traffic) and some seeding. "There is a possibility that there may be a better location for the ballfield," the commission emphasized in the plan. "This idea should be explored before any improvements are made."

Ferry Avenue Beach - One of the most highly used beaches in the city. It provides bathing (lifeguard on duty), diving from a relatively new concrete pier, playground equipment (for older children), volleyball, picnicing and sun bathing. The volleyball court, however, needs to be dug out and filled with sand; a flow through should be added to the pier to alleviate the stagnate water problem; the low areas should be filled in; more tables, charcoal braziers and playground equipment (for younger children) should be added; adjacent property (Schleman) should be acquired; the property across the street should be cleaned up and possibly used as parking; and the cement protruding from the swings and monkey bars should be covered, to prevent possible injuries.

Ice Rink - The city uses a field adjacent to Charlevoix High School for its ice rink. There is a need for a new warming house, a hockey rink could be constructed next to the existing rink, there needs to be better coordination between the school and the city on the use of this site, and the city "might" re-examine the location to see if a better location is possible.

Pine River Channel - This property is used extensively for sightseeing. The commission said that benches should be added to the top of the bluff and the area should be better maintained.

Water Tower Site - If a new water tower is constructed elsewhere, steps could be added going up the hill and a bench could be put at the top of the hill.

Michigan Beach - A popular beach during the summer season. The park has walking paths, a stairway to the beach, a diving platform, children's playground equipment, a viewing platform for the physically handicapped, swimming, restrooms, changing rooms, lifeguards, and food. The commission recommends that the city implement the site plan for the park as proposed by the Women's Club and funded by the federal government, that a fit trail be added to the area at the top of the bluff, that the circle drive in front of the concession be eliminated, the over abundance of signs along Park Avenue be eliminated, the cooking facilities within the concession be eliminated, the portable rest rooms at the fishing site be continued and the baby swings be replaced. The city has plans to close the park to all vehicular traffic by 10 p.m.

Golf Course - The golf course was given to the city by the Chicago Club. The east portion of the course is now used as an industrial park. The course is a nine hole par 36 links. The course is used for cross country skiing during the winter. It is recommended that some of the old sand traps be reopened, that three storm shelters be constructed and that the ski trail be better integrated into the forested area.

Tennis Courts - The city has four fenced tennis courts at the corner of Central and Elm streets. The commission advises that the low areas on the site be filled and graded to prevent ponding, the fencing on the west end of the courts be straightened out, a wind break of trees be planted at the west end, that Michigan Bell be contacted in regards to installing a phone booth on the site, the site be cleaned and landscaped and a rain-sun shelter erected.

Land Between Mt. McSauba and Golf Course - The city owns over 11 acres of land between the two recreation facilities. At present, it is used by cross country skiers and snowmobilers. The commission recommends this as a possible addition to the golf course or as an area for field sports like baseball. Also, the cross country ski trails should be expanded to include the forrested portion of this property.

Mt. McSauba - Mt. McSauba is a 54 acre recreational area originally designed for downhill skiing. The site has three rope tows, a lodge and storage shed. In 1980, a bulldozer was purchased to help with snow moving and packing operations. In 1979, cross country ski trails were designed. The property also front Lake Michigan for swimming. A day camp for local children is operated in the summer. It is recommended that erosion be controlled on the east and west slopes of the ski hill, trees be planted at the top of the hill and along the west slope to control blowing of snow, that a snow machine be installed, that ingress to the beach from Pleasant Street by off the road vehicles be controlled, that the cross country ski trails be expanded, that the rope tow towers be painted, a sledding area designed, and that perhaps a new ice rink be built. Also, the lodge needs a new roof and it may need expanding.

Depot Beach - The beach is adjacent to the Charlevoix Yacht Club. It has swimming (lifeguard), picnic tables, a diving platform, play equipment, charcoal braziers and bathroom facilities. The commission would like to see trees planted, the beach cleaned, play equipment for small children added, more parking and improved restroom facilities.

East Park and Marina - Charlevoix's "only formal park." It provides large grassy areas where people can sit, talk, play shuffleboard, and enjoy themselves. The park also has a park stage, fish ponds, pier service for the Coast Guard and the Beaver Island Ferry, and marina service for pleasure boats. It is recommended that the existing piers be repaired and possibly extended, that the water connections for the marina be repositioned to the lake side of the sidewalk and that the city work with Park Stage Committee to "redesign and find funding" for improvement to the park stage.

In addition, the commission has recommended that the city consider 1) planning for a community center 2) start a down hill ski instruction program for children and 3) hold the volleyball tournament at the close of the regular season.

The commission has also mapped out a time chart on when the improvements should be started. Most are projected to be implemented in the next two to three years.

"We have only three pie-in-the sky proposals," Hess said, "the community center, the park stage (renovation) and the purchase of the Schleman property. Everything else, we think, is realistic."

Charlevoix Challenge

New 'challenges' issued

The Charlevoix Challenge - scheduled for May 23-26 - continues to pick up steam.

Dave Fowler, activity chairman, has announced that the Edwards IGA Women's Golf Challenge has been added to the list of events.

The four women best ball challenge will be held Saturday (May 24) morning at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course. Tee-off time is 8:30 a.m. The entry fee is $10 per lady, which will pay for nine holes of golf, a luncheon buffet, trophies and prizes. Trophies will be awarded to the teams that finish first, second and third. In addition, there will be trophies for the longest putt and longest drive. Prizes will be awarded for the least putts and most putts.

Local businesses will also pledge to the band fund: $1 for any team that pars a hole, $5 for any team that birdies a hole, $10 for any team that eagles a hole and $25 for any team that scores under 40 (par is 36).

Entry forms can be picked up at the golf course. For more information contact Pauline Young (547-9265), Ev Wujcik (547-6376) or Judy Zednicek (547-[illegible]).

On Sunday (May 25) morning the Kentucky Fried Chicken Two-Man Best Ball Golf Challenge will be held at the Belvedere Golf Club. Tee off time (shot gun start) is 8:30 a.m. The entry fee is $20, which includes green fees, food and beverages, and prizes.

The first 72 best ball teams will compete. Teams will be flighted according to the scores taken from nine random holes played during a golfer's round. Erber Auto will be sponsoring a closest to the pin contest while other prizes will be awarded for the longest drive and the longest putt. The Charlevoix Challenge Cup Trophy will be awarded to the lowest scoring 10 members of a club team. A club team is comprised of any club which enters 10 or more people.

Also, employees of Big Rock will be sponsoring a Penny Hunt. When the noon whistle blows on Memorial Day, all children seven years old and younger will be allowed to dig for several hundred pennies in a pile of sand that will be located on East Clinton Street next to the park, Fowler said. Employees at Big Rock have passed the hat to accumulate the pennies for "fun distribution," Fowler said.

A gymnastics exhibition - featuring students from Jim Mitchell's Charlevoix School of Gymnastics - will be held in East Park afterwards. A tug-of-war and waterball fight are also planned.

The S.S. Medusa Challenger will be docked in Round Lake on Memorial Day. Tours of the ship will be given. Proceeds will go the band fund to help pay for new uniforms and camp expenses.

Land sale delayed

The Charlevoix County Road Commission Monday delayed action on the proposed sale of 144 acres of land adjacent to Fisherman's Island State Park to the Department of Natural Resources.

Action was delayed at the request of the Charlevoix County Planning Commission. The delay was sought because the 144 acres - located in northern Norwood Township - may be of interest to the county.

The 144 acres is sandwiched between DNR (park) property. The DNR would like the land, county officials say, to make the park contiguous. The county would like to have the property so it could be in position at a later date to make a land swap with the DNR. The DNR, county officials add, own property in the county that may be suitable as a landfill site.

"It's (144 acres) our ace in the hole," Charlevoix County Planner John Hess told the planners Thursday night.

The road commission agreed to delay action until the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners meet on Wednesday.

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce spring dance will be Saturday at the Belvedere Club Casino. Attraction will be the featured band. Attraction has performed throughout Michigan and is considered a "very diversified" musical group. They recently played at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey and after they perform Saturday night they move on to Traverse City to ~~play the Pinestead Reef~~. Grey Gables will cater Saturday night's dinner.

Boat show slated this weekend

Spring is a time when you can see blue water, green grass and robins that have returned to their northern homes. As surely as spring comes every year another phenomenon takes place in Michigan - thousands of boaters make [illegible].

This spring will also bring northern Michigan's first in-the-water boat show. The Charlevoix Boat Show will take place May 17-18 at Charlevoix's [illegible].

Irish Boat Shop (sailboats), Northwest Marine (power boats), Fairport Marine Electronics (marine electronics) and other marine dealers will be on hand to display their newest products to boating and fishing enthusiasts. Boats will be available for a walk aboard inspection at the docks. Several different products will be on display - from depth finders to power [illegible].

The show will start at 10 a.m. on both Saturday and Sunday.

The US Coast Guard will be present for courtesy inspections and to pass out information on boating regulations.

Montessori Children's House plans move

L. Dale Sheets, a Lansing insurance agent, has purchased the Bergmann Center building at 201 East Garfield

Sheets plans to lease the facility to the Charlevoix Montessori Children's House. Operators of the Children's House will have an opportunity to buy the building from Sheets "at a mutually beneficial date in the future." The Bergmann Center has purchased the Charlevoix Chemical Co. building on Martin Road.

Before the Children's House can move to its new site, the facility must be licensed by the State of Michigan

"Preliminary inspections of the new facility by our licensing consultant were promising," Katie Donovan, directress, said. "However, the technical inspections by the fire marshal and the health and safety inspector are the crucial ones."

A special use permit must also be obtained from the city zoning board.

If all goes well, occupancy will be July 1

With the acquistion of the Bergmann Center building, a full day care program is projected for the Children's House.

"When we began the search for a new location we started with a simple need for more square footage to accomodate increasing enrollment," Ms. Donovan said. "As the committee looked at locations the thought of having two Montessori half-day programs became part of the plan with the need for a new teacher

"However, when we settled on the Bergmann Center building, the more I thought about the structure the more it seemed to be perfectly suited for a full day program. This coupled with an apparent need by many of the children for full day care."

Ms. Donovan said that a half day program will still be available for those children that do not need full day care. The Children's House will have capacity for 40-45 children, almost double the present capacity (basement of First Congregational Church).

Ms. Donovan said she hopes the enrollment will be equally split - 20 half day and 20 full day.

"For the half day children the program will run on the approximate time schedule that it currently is on following the school year vacations and days off," she said. "For the full day children the Children's House will be operative 12 months a year. The purpose of full day care is to accomodate the needs of the working parent."

Because the building has no commercial kitchen and "our budget has no room for separate kitchen staff as required by the State of Michigan," Ms. Donovan added, lunches will have to be supplied by parents.

The Children's House has also expanded its staff to handle the increasing enrollment and the full day care program. Ms. Donovan is the administrator, Lilly Donaldson is the day care coordinator, Kaye Beatty is the health specialist and Anne Wesley is the music specialist.

Selling Your House by Gene Steele

TAX UPDATE FOR HOMEOWNERS

Homeowners age 55 or over may exclude from their taxable income all capital gain up to $100,000 from the sale of their principal residence. They must have lived in the home at least three of the five years before they sell it and the exemption may be claimed only once in a lifetime. The tax break is retroactive to July 26, 1978

Deductions for moving expenses have been increased to $3,000 (real estate commissions, mortgage costs, etc.) if you are forced to purchase a home due to a job change over 35 miles away. Up to one half this total ($1,500) may be deducted for pre-move househunting expenses and temporary living expenses (up to 30 days) at your new location

There has also been a breakthrough in the area of capital gains when you sell real estate. If you sell after holding the property for over one year, you only have to pay tax on 40% of the profit. Prior to the 1978 Tax Reform Act, the figure was 50%. Real estate continues to be the best tax hedge for investors and homeowners

Hospital: 'Good health is everybody's business'

The launching of a Health Education program – preventive medicine – is Charlevoix Area Hospital's way of celebrating National Hospital Week, May 11-17.

The hospital is developing informative and educational programs for the general public in health care and prevention, because the hospital administration and Board of Directors feel that "hospital have a responsibility to take a leadership role in helping ensure the good health of the people of the communities it serves," according to a resolution passed by the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors.

The theme of National Hospital Week this year as selected by the American Hospital Association, is "We're America's Health Team."

Charlevoix Area Hospital staff decided to combine a program of health education with that theme to remind people that good health is everybody's business – that we all can be a part of America's Health Team.

As the American Hospital Association says, hospitals "function as a leading member of the community health team working to build a healthier way of life for everyone."

To carry out Charlevoix Area Hospital's program of health education a committee consisting of Barney Roeters, general services manager, Jan Ballard, respiratory therapist, and Bob Gorkiewicz, physical therapist, has been formed. Dr. James Stewart of the medical staff will be the committee's consulting physician.

This committee will call upon other members of the hospital staff to assist in developing a variety of health education programs to be conducted throughout the communities the hospital serves.

Among the programs will be prevention of birth defects, diabetes education, arthritis care and treatment, cancer detection, smoking and respiratory diseases, cardio-pulmonary health including jogging and aerobic exercise, back injuries and nutrition.

Roeters explained some programs may be for the general public while others may be held in the schools, through local industries, or with service organizations

The committee envisions this effort as a developing project, meeting needs as they arise, addressing specific community health programs when necessary

When construction is completed on the hospital's new wing a classroom will be available for seminars and other health programs.

The committee will also organize a speaker's bureau to which organizations may turn for speakers and programs. Barney Roeters will serve as coordinator of these programs, matching speakers with organizations

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Health Education Committee will also use newspaper and radio to communicate health tips to the public

The committee welcomes suggestions and inquiries from organizations, schools and individuals.

Recognizing all hospital employees as vital members of "America's Health Team," the administration is celebrating National Hospital Week with a variety of get-togethers for hospital employees, as a way of saying "thank you" for each employee's continued dedication to the hospital

Cinema III and Village Inn Pizza have donated gift certificates to be awarded to an employee in a drawing held this week

The Health Education Committee has designed a store window display symbolizing Charlevoix Area Hospital's pride as part of America's Health Team, which can be viewed at Lieberman's on Bridge Street

The committee asks people to remember that a few basic training rules will help ensure membership on America's Health Team: practice good health habits, eat and drink sensibly, get the proper rest and exercise

East Jordan grad receives Mitchell Scholarship Award

Bryan Graham

ALMA – Bryan Graham of East Jordan is the recipient of Alma College's 1980 Mitchell Scholarship Award. He was graduated from Alma summa cum laude with departmental honors in history April 19.

Recipients of the Mitchell Award must be graduating history majors who have been accepted by a graduate or law school. The $500 scholarship stipend for Graham will be paid directly by Alma to Notre Dame School of Law, where he has been accepted for fall 1980

The award honors Dr. James E. Mitchell, a 1893 Alma graduate who returned to the college as a faculty member in 1897. The long-time professor and dean of Alma College headed the Department of History for many years and became a legend for his devotion to the college and to students for 46 years. He died in 1960 at the age of [illegible]

His influence is still felt in the history department's emphasis on intellectual inquiry, dedication to superior performance in the liberal arts and commitment to further study for Ph.D. or law degrees

Mitchell Award candidates must have evidenced intellectual honesty, creativity, reliability, initiative, self-discipline and potential for success in graduate school. Typically, candidates will have earned an overall grade point average of 3.25 and have a 3.50 average in history.

Among his other academic accomplishments, Graham was a member of several honorary organizations including Omicron Delta Kappa, Phi Sigma Pi, Phi Alpha Theta, Pi Sigma Alpha and Michigan Scholars. In addition, he was a history department tutor [illegible]

In April, as a member of the international history honorary, Phi Alpha Theta, Graham presented a research paper on "John Wesley and the Origins of Methodism in England and America" at Phi Alpha Theta's 1980 state conference at Hope College.

Bryan was also one of three 1980 graduates nominated for the Barlow Trophy, Alma's most prestigious award to a graduating senior. The Barlow recognizes both outstanding scholarship and contributions to campus life. Nomination itself is an honor.

In addition to his academic achievements, Graham was also active in community government and campus life. He served on both the Student Council and the Communications Committee for three years, was chairman of the Community Government Selection Committee and the college Radio Station Task Force. He was also historian and Interfraternity Council representative for Sigma Beta service fraternity, was a Volunteer Friend and playted intramural soccer and "brain game," College Bowl.

"Bryan's performance at Alma would be outstanding for any student. Considering his condition – he was born without arms – his accomplishments are particularly exceptional," said Dr. James Schmidtke, associate professor of history. "He wrote and typed with his feet yet never asked for special considerations or favors in testing or writing papers. He insisted on working within [illegible]"

Graham, a 1976 graduate of East Jordan High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Graham, East Jordan

The Mitchell Scholarship Award was established by Norman Angell of Baltimore, Maryland, an Alma alumnus of the class of 1910. Mitchell Hall, a men's residence built in 1960, is also named for Dr. Mitchell

Q/A Property Taxes

This is the ninth in a series of articles on the general property tax law and its reference to the ever increasing assessments of property, taxes and true cash [illegible]

Now that we have last week's article all digested and clearly understood the tax limitation amendment and the constitutional 15 mills, let's discuss the 15 mills in more depth. Remember this is the millage that gets divided up by the County Tax Allocation Board when it has not been voted upon by the people to freeze each mill rate at a certain level for each unit

Recently there was an article in another local newspaper, actually it was a letter to the editor, responding to an editorial on "Niceties of the North are driving taxes up". The writer asks in his letter why don't the residents and local government officials press for lower millage so that when assessments go up, the taxes could be kept level or at least to a much lower rate of increase? Think about that! Regardless how much the State Equalized Values increased in the county, township, school district, just roll back the millage and keep taxes down. Is this possible? Then why haven't the residents and local officials done it? Lets start with the 15 mills again.

In checking some old records at the county, in 1971 the County Tax Allocation Board allocated the 15 mills as follows

County	6.00 Mills
[illegible]	7.80 Mills
Township	1.00 Mills
Int. S.D	.20 Mills	(Intermediate School District)
[illegible]	15.00 Mills

When the county took a big increase in State Equalized Value in 1972, due to the State Tax Commission study in the county, the County Tax Allocation Board changed the millages that each taxing jurisdiction received. In 1972 the allocation of mill rates was as follows.

County	4.30	Mills
School	9.50
Twp.	1.00
Int. S.D.	.20
Total	15.00	Mills

Here is a case that when the value increased the millage was lowered in the county because their budget did not call for the need of the 6 mills, but the schools received the difference, therefore in total it did not change the mills being levied. The townships received quite an increase because they kept the 1 mill, so whatever increase the township took in value they also received in tax dollars. The townships have found it is most difficult to get extra millage voted for road work or other services the people might want and the township boards haven't reduced the millage, as they have indicated their townships need the finances. However in 1979 many of the townships had their 1 mill rolled back due to the tax limitation amendment.

The schools are in a different situation. All of you have constantly heard about state aid to schools, and what happens when a school is under the state aide formula is that when State Equalized Values increase in a school district and create more value behind each student, the less state aide the schools get from Lansing and the more they have to rely on local property tax dollars. In 1972 when the big increase happened in values due to a State tax commission's reevaluation of the county, the allocation board gave the schools more millage and the county less. Another way to look at this is, if the county would have received the 6 mills and the schools would have received the 7.80 mills as they did the previous year, then the schools would have requested more voted millage from the people, so here was an instance where millages and dollars were saved, but most citizens did not realize it, not being familiar with the intricacies involved in developing the finances for the various taxing jurisdictions. (County, townships, cities, schools, etc.)

I was always most curious to know what happened to the money at the state level. The state kept increasing the state equalized value behind each student and therefore having to return less money to the schools. Where was the money going? The more that was raised locally the less the state had to pay out. I had an occasion to ask one of our state representatives who had been involved in state government for awhile, and he showed me some statistics ... it seems at one time the state contributed about 60 percent of the budget toward school aid, and as property values increased and the state kept changing the formula by increasing the SEV behind each student, the state had less to reimburse local units, the shift got made to welfare. Welfare was once at about 40 percent of the budget and now it is about 60 percent. Looking at it another way the state budgeted more money to welfare than to education and the local property tax payer picked up the difference. Do you suppose there could be a moral in this. The more education, the less welfare? Maybe it works the other way too, the more welfare the less education. Food for thought.

People are unhappy with taxes, there is no question about that. We have stated before they vent their anger at property taxes because it is local and they know who to talk to, also, because it is in a lump sum and comes as a Christmas present that they could do without. There are many reasons, but maybe the real reason is, that it puts a burden on retaining a home, with the knowledge that if you don't pay your taxes your property will go up for sale in three years. This is a real threat, isn't it? Do you also realize that people are constantly stuck paying more federal and state income taxes each year? Due to inflation persons get put in a higher tax bracket and automatically more is deducted. Also they don't change the deduction for each person and this alone make your federal and state taxes increase each year, without your even realizing it, but because it is deducted from the paycheck before you ever see it (for most people) you just don't feel the constant squeeze, or maybe you feel it all right, but have become immune to it. I do not want to get off on other taxes, but there is one more thing I think people should be very much aware of, as it does affect property taxes. All of you have heard of federal revenue sharing. This is our tax dollars that are sent to Washington and some of it is returned locally by Federal Revenue Sharing. This money has been used locally to help finance the units of government. Now Washington is talking about doing away with this, but believe me there is no provision to lower your income taxes and it could mean that locally more taxes will be needed just to help maintain current [illegible]

Remember the big push to change recent legislation because people were so upset about the new law regarding the built in increase in social security taxes every year? Well nothing has changed, we are still paying it and the increase is still taking place, but the people aren't complaining to Washington. We've been out-foxed again and now that the hue and cry have passed, we are sitting back and allowing it. You shrug and say, "What can one person do?" My answer would be "a lot". Bob Tisch is only one person, but he's making Lansing set up and take notice. (We'll talk about the proposal in the future). How long does it take to pen a letter to Lansing or Washington? How much does it cost to send it?

Next week we will analyze charter millage and use the City of Charlevoix for our illustration. How does the tax limitation amendment affect charter millage?

Approximately 300 attended pro-nuclear march

Letters

[illegible]

I would like to use your press to publicly thank all the friends and neighbors who came out and supported the pro-nuclear march last Sunday, especially Josh Barns and the Lexalite Corp. for feeding the marchers and providing a rally site.

Most of you may not know it, but we had approximately 300 supporters at the rally of which 180 made the 4 mile march. It was unfortunate that the [illegible] time that many church services were held. This limited the number of marchers, but their prayers for our country will be of great help toward keeping America strong, independent, and [illegible]

We need the support of everyone who believes in America to ensure that we have an abundance of energy to provide jobs and growth. This energy must be supplied by the most economical method to conserve our resource. We cannot afford to discard the most effective way to produce electricity without first having developed an alternative that is equally effective and reliable as well as safe. At the present, nuclear power meets all of these requirements and should be fully supported by those who want a secure [illegible].

Only three of those arrested from the area

[illegible]

I have, in the past three days, watched the news media carefully with regard to the demonstrations held at Big Rock Point on May 4. I am definitely an advocate of nuclear power as one of the best sources of power available to man today. And, I was there on Sunday, along with many other local people, marching for what I believe in. Yet, I wasn't arrested. I wonder if the pro-nuclear demonstration would have gained the same news coverage as the anti demonstration did if we had been less than the average law-abiding citizens who gathered (approximately 180 of us marched by the way) to "make the local people aware of our feelings about the safety and well-being of our friends and families". For those of you who read the papers and watched the news reports in the last few days - the facts are: There weren't just employees of Big Rock Point marching - there were local residents also. If you will take a look at your paper again, you will note that only three (3) (yes, only three) of the demonstrators which were arrested were from this area. And - not one demonstrator was a resident of Charlevoix. The question keeps running through my mind - Are the people from Ann Arbor, from Chicago, (yes, we even talked to one demonstrator who was from Chicago) really worried about the people of Charlevoix? Or are they here because a free ride was offered and a Grass Roots Band was to entertain? How many of those people who placed the dolls representing the children of the future at the gate on Sunday are worried about the children of Charlevoix? Well, first as a mother, I worry. As a citizen of this country, I worry. And, as a full time resident of Charlevoix, I worry, But, not about some terrible disaster at Big Rock Point. I worry about the impression left by people who think nothing of breaking the law, about newspapers who report only the spectacular and only one side of the issue. For those of you who aren't aware of it - your friends and neighbors who marched for nuclear power left deliberately prior to the arrests so there would be no confrontation. We live in Charlevoix and respect the laws [illegible].

To some of the newspapers, radio and television stations I say, "Were you really there?". To those who gave us equal time, I say "Thank You".

We need six more $100 donations to pay off and install the snow making machine. Each donation entitles the donor to a free family ski pass next year. For more information contact Tom Erber, Erber Auto Company, 547-[illegible].

Half Way Home is still alive

Editor:

The Half Way Home, Inc. is still alive. During this past year we were cut approximately $7,000.00 by the governor's savings program. Another cut is anticipated by September 1980 which will amount to approximately $20,000.00 (Federal Cut Back) Can we survive? We are going to try with all [illegible].

Total cost per resident is $24.39 a day State O.S.A.S. pays $6.01 a day Department of Social Services pays $10.40 a day, which means we have got to raise $7.98 a day per resident to [illegible].

We submitted to the Emmet County United Way for $6,000 for this year, but were denied, because they would only allow $2,000 and we could not solicit their remaining funds. So we are not a United Way funded program this year in Emmet County. Charlevoix County - East Jordan United Way we are getting $1,250. Boyne City United Way anticipate $1,500. Antrim County Board of Commissioners $4,500 based on $7.98 per day for residents of Antrim County. We have planned out for the remainder of the year, programs that will help in raising funds: soliciting from county boards of commissioners, city councils and service clubs, and annual auction sales and picnics.

The Pink Elephant Sale will be held June 7, 1980 at the Emmet County Fairgrounds. For information please call The Half Way Home, Inc. - (616) 347-5511. If you have any helpful items you would like to donate, all items you donate are tax deductible.

Please help if you can, and by doing so you can save a life. Alcoholism is the number two killing disease in America today. These are the twelve counties we serve: Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Antrim, Otsego, Presque Isle, Montmorency, Alpena, Oscoda, Alcona, Ogemaw, Iosco.

Sifting, sorting, remembering

Two score and ten years ago when my sister and I were a good deal younger, one of our favorite rainy-day activities was poring over the contents of a small wicker basket our mother kept in a bookcase with stained glass doors in the living room of our home in Detroit.

After we had gone through all of our books, played the Victrola and dressed the cat up in doll clothes, one of us would suddenly remember "the [illegible]"

Permission from on high was always required to tamper with "the basket," not so much because of the prized possessions it contained but because access to the bookcase also put us [illegible] Grandmother Doyle's wedding cake and a mysterious little wooden chest with a padded lining that contained Grandma Hettinger's stick pins and [illegible].

But Ellen Jean and I weren't really interested in superannuated weddingcake and old fashioned jewelry. What we wanted to get our hands on was that wonderful [illegible] strange shaped rocks, semi-precious [illegible] their way into the wicker basket over the years.

If the day were chilly, we would spread newspapers in front of the register in the living room and lovingly remove each object for appropriate oh-ing and ah-ing.

One of my favorite objects was an orange — yes, an orange — which must have been at least 50 years old 50 years ago which had been petrified by [illegible] rind. The prickly orange was as hard as a baseball and smelled like an off-shore [illegible]

I suppose some long-dead relative had preserved the orange and used it as a sachet in a drawer filled with camisoles and petticoats. I don't know how it ended up in "our" wicker basket [illegible] for us to enjoy.

Another enchanting relic was the wishbone of an eagle. At least that's what my father said it was.

Another intriguing item was the dried pod of a lotus tree, picked on the banks of the River Raisin in Monroe County, Mich. Dad said the lotus is native to only two regions of the world: The banks of the Nile in Egypt and the banks of the Raisin in Michigan. Our specimen undoubtedly came from the banks of the Raisin, since none of us had ever been to Egypt.

The pod was fun because the seeds would rattle when you shook it.

There were also several lumps of natural latex from the rubber plantations of South America and a stick of deeply grooved driftwood that could have come from the schooner Griffin for all we knew. We sort of [illegible]

Among the rocks was one which we were certain contained gold. The seashells included a couple of specimens sufficiently large and chambered to summon the roar of the [illegible]

Ma and Dad are both gone now and Saturday the family converged at the old homestead for another session of sifting and sorting before the house is put up for sale. Suddenly my brother-in-law emerged from the attic carrying a brown paper sack.

"Does anyone know what this is?" he asked, pulling an old wicker basket from its paper cocoon.

All activity stopped as Ellen Jean and I once again sniffed the petrified orange, fingered the delicate sculpture of the eagle's wishbone, rattled the lotus pod and listened to the ocean's [illegible]

Meet Charlevoix

By Anne Kelly

Ken Swan is a commercial artist who has designed for over [illegible] businesses in the Northland. Swan did the promotional artwork for Project Find, a now nationwide right-to-education program. He has received recognition for his painting of James Strang, and two years ago he took a first place prize in the portrait division of a photography show sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council for "Robert," a study in mood. An avid outdoorsman, Swan particularly enjoys sailing and animated film making.

Q. What inspires a talented young artist to seek out a livelihood in this area as opposed to a big city, where commercial opportunities are there for the asking?

A. Well, obviously money is not the answer. I have fallen into the same rut that several people who live and work in northern Michigan are in. I'm physically hooked on this area. It's just plain good for me! It provides a creative atmosphere both for myself and for my work. In the shadow of today's economy, the decision to stay here is not an easy one to make, but it's been made and we love it here.

Q. What is your present position and what projects are you currently involved with?

A. I'm working out of my studio at Windmill Farm and am presently designing for local businesses. Some of my spare time is devoted to an attempt at writing and illustrating a children's book. It's my first try and I'm enjoying it very much.

Q. What has been the most fulfilling aspect of your career thus far?

A. It's hard to pick out any one piece of work to answer that question. I think working with the special education children through the local Intermediate School District was very fulfilling for me. Having the opportunity to design instructional materials for the handicapped was a new education in graphics.

Q. Are your free lance services available to the general public (portraiture etc.) or do you find that your contracted work is generally too time consuming in itself?

A. Spring and summer are busy times in this area, and locally contracted design work does take up most of mine. I would love to start a large oil, but would eventually end up piece-working it because of all the interruptions. I would rather wait until time allows a fair stab at it.

Q. How did you become acquainted with the "legend" of James Strang and come to paint him?

A. Some people contacted me in reference to illustrating a small text book about James Strang and his contributions to change in the state of Michigan. There was a great amount of research involved and for a while it seemed that Jesse Strang was alive and well in my imagination. As the [illegible] near completion, there were still a lot of unanswered questions in my mind. For exmaple, I was more than curious to know why an agitated controversy concerning the morals of James Strang has continued for over a hundred years and yet has never succeeded in destroying his greatness. It seemed the only way I could satisfy myself was to attempt a portrait of Strang, himself.

Q. Is photography more of a hobby or a direct off-spring of your art?

A. Photography in itself is more of a hobby, although I do use it from time to time in conjunction with my wildlife and portrait work. Taking the time trying to set up that interesting composition through the lens of a camera does satisfy a good part of my creativity as well.

Q.: And animated film making. Do you hope to pursue this area some time in the future?

A. It's an indescribable feeling that comes over you while watching your characters and images come to life on a small screen in your living room. My own short films aid in furthering my education in timing and movement, but unfortunately, it takes a great deal of money to do the job right. It's there that I'll stop ...

Q. What advice would you give to the young artists of your area? The 1980 Youth Art Exhibit has recently been on display at North Central Michigan College. Perhaps some of these youngsters will aspire to a career in art.

A. I would give this advice to young artists of any area ... you must have faith in yourself and your product and always strive to be the best you can possibly be.

While they were rearranging their inventories and straightening for summer, the 5 Captain's Corner shipmates ran across th[illegible] great values you won't want to mi[illegible]

Buoys should improve weather predictions

By Tom Dammann

"Your Upper Great Lakes and our Aegean Sea are the two most difficult areas in the world in which to make an accurate weather predictions," An Athenian yachtsman told a visiting American newsman some years ago. "I've never been to your country but I know a lot about your weather."

Great Lakes sailors agree that it is difficult to predict the weather on this great body of fresh water, particularly in that area of eastern Lake Superior and upper Lakes Michigan and Huron.

"You'll hear on the radio that there are going to be gentle afternoon winds out of the northwest, when instead you've got no wind at all and a lot of thunderheads coming out of the south," observed Chief Warrant Officer John Burkee, Engineering Officer of the Coast Guard Cutter Sundew one day last week. "The difficulty is that it's hard to predict what exactly is going to happen when a cold air mass, for example, comes in from the west and his the warmer lakes. And on top of that you have the Upper and Lower Peninsulas, two pretty big land masses breaking up the three water masses of Superior, Michigan, and Huron, which complicates things more."

But in the future, weather predictions for the lakes may become better, thanks to the installation of weather buoys in them.

Actually that day the Sundew had been setting a weather buoy in Lake Michigan out in the center of the lake west of the Manitou and Fox Islands, some 30 miles from Charlevoix.

In April her sister ship the Mesquite had gone out from Duluth to set a similar buoy in western Lake Superior and May 21 the Sundew will sail around into Lake Huron to set a buoy east of Bois Blanc Island.

This is the second year of the program, the first year for Lake Huron. Eventually Lakes Superior and Michigan will have three buoys and Lake Huron two.

Called NOMAD these buoys are rectangular in shape with one end pointed somewhat like a ship's boy. They are 20 feet long, 10 feet wide and weigh 20,000 pounds. Their insides are crammed with batteries and complicated electronic equipment, including a computer and transmitter. An antenna and light are stationed topside.

The buoy can report on an hourly basis or every three hours. Its sensors measure wave heights and the time between waves. Its thermometers measure the water's surface temperature and temperature down to 300 meters. Other instruments measure barometric pressures, wind speed and direction.

The information is averaged out in 20 minute periods by the computer and the data is transmitted to a satellite which in turn sends it to Wallops Island, Va., which then sends it on to the National Weather Service, to the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOA) and other offices involved in the program.

There are 32 such weather stations in the United States system, set in the two oceans and the Gulf of Mexico. They replaced the old manned weather ships, the last one having been relieved in October 1978.

But the lakes never had weather ships, so the buoys are expected to fill a gap.

The Great Lakes Program was initiated last summer and while it is expected to improve weather predictions it is only good from spring until fall. The buoys must be pulled in November because otherwise the accumulation of ice on its surface would cause it to [illegible]

The weather buoy program began in the middle 60's and is incorporated in a world wide system of weather reporting controlled by the World Meteorological Association located in France.

When the Charlevoix-based Sundew sets the buoy in Lake Huron that will probably mark its final important buoy tending task before leaving for its new home port of Duluth, Minn., in Lake Superior, soon after participating in Charlevoix's 50th Annual Venetian Festival July 24-27.

Within days of the Festival the Mesquite, which is being sent to replace the ill-fated Blackthorn in Galveston, Texas, will come to Charlevoix.

Then the crews of the two buoy tenders will switch. The Sundew crew will take the Mesquite out to the Atlantic down to the Gulf of Mexico to her new homeport and theirs, Galveston. The Mesquite's crew will take their new charge back to Duluth.

The three salesmen recently completed a six day CCIM 101 course in Chicago, sponsored by the Realtors National Marketing Institute. The course emphasized new techniques and concepts in real estate, particularly in analyzing investments (taxation, cash flow, financing, depreciation) for a specific investor.

"It is a very worthwhile course for anyone seriously involved in real estate investments," Rick Lobenherz said.

PEARLS: THE BRIDE'S CHOICE
(Part I)

The ancients claimed that the god Vishnu searched the ocean's depths for just the right pearl to adorn his daughter on her wedding day. Since pearls were considered harbingers of love, happiness and good fortune, this was indeed an appropriate gift. To this day, many brides still choose pearls to adorn their wedding costumes.

A strand of natural or cultured pearls is sometimes given to the bride by the groom. Occasionally a doting grandparent, uncle or aunt will ask for the honor to present such a gift.

The pearls must be selected with the neckline of the wedding gown in mind. A choker (16") or princess 17½-18½") length may be appropriate for a low neckline. However, with a high neckline, only a princess length would work, and only then if the top of the bodice is a simple one that will provide a gentle backdrop without conflicting with the beauty of the pearls.

Some brides prefer a pearl pendant to a strand. There are many beautiful styles to choose from, some of which are accented with diamonds.

The pearls themselves may be in the traditional spherical shape or in an unusual, asymmetrical form. The latter provides a modern touch.

Whatever the bride's specific choice may be, the fact that she chooses pearls in the first place puts her in the company of noble and royal ladies of many centuries as well as contemporary women who are known for their fine taste in dress.

Fluoride program starts Tuesday

The summer topical fluoride program in Charlevoix will begin Tuesday (May 20) at the Charlevoix Elementary School, according to Nelly Hiehle, chairman of Beta Sigma Phi's topical fluoride committee.

Dianne Blackman of East Jordan, a senior dental hygiene student at Ferris State College, will clean the children's teeth and apply the fluoride solution.

According to Ms. Hiehle, 71 children have enrolled in the program, which consists of four visits to the clinic. At the first visit, the teeth are cleaned and a solution of fluoride is applied directly to the surface of the teeth. The fluoride application only is then repeated at the three succeeding visits. Appointment schedules will be sent to the children who have enrolled.

This procedure has been shown to reduce tooth decay by about 40 percent, compared with the 60 to 65 percent reduction in cavities obtained with fluoridated water, she said.

The topical fluoride should not be considered a substitute for regular care of the teeth either at home or by the dentist, Ms Hiehle said. Although fluoride applications can help prevent cavities, it is still necessary for children to brush their teeth thoroughly, particularly after meals, avoid between meal sweet snacks, and visit their dentist regularly for professional care, she added.

Auxiliary officers to be installed

Recently elected officers of the Auxiliary of the Charlevoix Post No. 1133, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be installed at a public installation ceremony at the post home at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 22. Plans for the event were made at a recent meeting of the auxiliary. Mrs. Jack Warner will be the installing officer.

Final plans were also made for the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy Days May 15-16-17. Mrs. Joseph Seidel and Mrs. Jack Warner are chairmen of the event. They urged that everyone purchase a poppy and wear it through the year. The three days of the sale are designated as memorial days. However, this reminder of those who gave their lives to defend our liberty is especially fitting this year when Americans are being held hostage and others have given their lives in a rescue effort, Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, Auxiliary president said.

Plans were made to participate in the Memorial Day parade on Monday, May 26. Those who would like to participate but are unable to march are asked to call Mrs. Goldstick to arrange for a ride.

The monthly potluck supper for the V.F.W. and Auxiliary members and their families and prospective members will be held at the post home at 6 p.m. Saturday, May 31.

Regular Meeting
May 5, 1980

Meeting called to order by Supervisor, Lee Sneathen, at 8:05 P.M

All Members of the Board were present

Clerk's report of the April, 1980, Regular Meeting read and approved.

The following Resolution was approved by the Board. This resolution will allow Mrs Mowrey to pump sewage from Parcels 2 & 3, Mowrey Pt., where conditions for a drainfield are not suitable to Mrs. Mowrey's property located North of Parcel 1, where drainfield conditions are excellent.

WHEREAS, the Trustees Under Will of A. B. Mowrey have proposed to construct a sewage collection, treatment and disposal system located at Mowrey Drive in the Southwest Quarter of Section 19, Government Lot 5, Town 34 North, Range 7 West; and

WHEREAS, primary responsibility for the effective and continuing operation and maintenance of said system will be assumed by Mrs. Alma I. Mowrey of Rt. 3, Charlevoix, Michigan 49720; and

WHEREAS, the Township of Hayes, Charlevoix County, Michigan recognizes the need for effective and continued operation and maintenance of said system to protect the public health and prevent unlawful pollution of the surface and groundwaters of the State and to prevent the development of nuisance conditions; and

WHEREAS, the Township of Hayes, Charlevoix County, Michigan recognizes and accepts the responsibilities established by State law and regulations adopted thereunder for provisions of effective wastewater treatment systems for service to its residents;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the Township of Hayes, Charlevoix County, Michigan shall assume responsibility for the effective and continued operation and maintenance of the proposed sewage system if the owner in any way fails to perform in this capacity.

Alvin Ranger, Engineer, attended the meeting to discuss plans for a new township building with the Board.

The Bills of the Township were approved for payment. Total amount of the bills $1,694.27

On motion the meeting was adjourned.

Weddings

Morris-Faust

Theresa L. Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Morris of Charlevoix, became the bride of Randall S. Faust of Adrian, in a wedding ceremony May 3 at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

Parents of the groom are Rev. and Mrs. Elmer J. Faust of Dalton.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white Silesta knit. It featured a Queen Anne neckline trimmed in silk venise lace. The front and back bodice were also trimmed in silk venise daisies and flowers. Her long fitted sleeves were trimmed with lace net inserts and the skirt featured a long train edged in matching lace and adorned with lace medallions and trim. The bride carried a bouquet of white and yellow roses with white daisies and baby's breath.

Wedding music was offered by Gretchen Olsen at the piano and Bill Horton on the trumpet. Soloists were Marina LaBlanc who sang "Longer Than" and "Kneeling Dear Savior." "The Wedding Song" was sung by Bobbie Sladek while accompanying herself on the guitar.

The bride was attended by her sister Cheryl and bridesmaids were Pamela Morris, Bobbie Sladek and Liz Morris. They wore long sky blue Qiana knit dresses with high necklines decorated with lace insets. The long sleeves were tied with self bows at the wrist. The attendants carried nosegays of Japanese iris, candy stripe carnations, shasta daisies and [illegible].

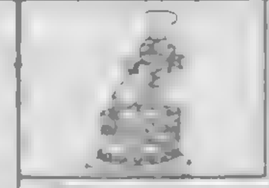
Jewell M. Threet was best man and groomsmen were Paul Klooster, Charles Faust and Jack Meyers.

The guests were seated by ushers Butch Klooster and Charles W. Morris Jr.

A reception was hosted by the bride's parents at Boyne Mountain Deer Lake Beach House. The guest book was attended by Susie Faust, sister of the groom.

Following a honeymoon to Bermuda, the newlyweds will reside in Adrian. The bride is an accountant with Lane's Clear Span and the groom is an estimator for Ken Poe Custom Carpentry and Construction in Adrian.

The groom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Leutheuser's in Charlevoix on Friday evening. (Wedding photo by Roger Boettcher, Lansing.)



Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Murray

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Murray will be honored on the occassion of their golden wedding anniversary at an open house Saturday, May 24 at the Community Church of God Fellowship Hall. A buffet lunch will be served.

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Mayor Supernaw proclaimed May 15, 16 and 17, 1980 as Poppy Sale Days in the City as requested by the American Legion and the V.F.W.

Mayor Supernaw proclaimed the week of May 11-17, 1980 as Small Business Week in the City.

Mayor Supernaw proclaimed the week of May 10-16, 1980 as Municipal Clerk's Week.

Mayor Supernaw proclaimed the period from April 30, 1980 until April 30, 1981 as Beta Sigma Phi Year in honor of the 50th Anniversary of that organization.

Mayor Supernaw proclaimed the week of May 17-24, 1980 as Charlevoix Women's Club Week in the City in honor of the Club's interest and participation in civic affairs.

Julie Cross, a member of the General Public present stated that City merchants had held a meeting and are very concerned about additional parking for the downtown area. Ms. Cross was advised the negotiations are being held regarding two prospective parking areas.

Paul Osterberg, a member of the General Public present asked the current status of the City's negotiations to purchase the Beaver Island Boat Company Building on Clinton Street, whether the agreement is tied into the rental of the City docks and when the Boat Company's current lease on the City docks expires. The City Attorney advised Mr. Osterberg that he's waiting for the Boat Company's attorney to return the agreements regarding the purchase of the building to him. Mayor Supernaw stated that the proposed agreement to purchase the building was not tied to the rental of the docks for five years. The City Attorney also advised Mr. Osterberg that the Boat Company's present lease would continue in effect until a new lease is signed as it's automatically renewable.

Hugh McRae, Chairman of the Charlevoix Housing Commission, presented a progress report dated May 5, 1980 on the Senior Citizen's Housing Complex.

The following Resolution was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Muma:

Resolution 80-5-1

Whereas, the City Council of the City of Charlevoix (the "Participant") is a member of the Michigan Public Power Agency (the "Agency"), an agency formed to meet the future electric energy needs of its member municipalities and

Whereas, it is anticipated that the expenses of the Agency will be met in the following manner:

1. General administration expenses will be paid from dues to be received by the Agency from all members of the Agency.

2. Project costs will be paid by members of a specified Project Committee and

Whereas "Project Study Costs" such as engineering fees, legal fees, financial consulting fees, travel costs and others must be incurred by the Agency to investigate the desirability of a suggested project" and

Whereas Project Study Costs must be paid by the Agency whether or not a project is finally acquired

and

Whereas, certain Agency members have expressed an interest in having the Agency investigate the possibility of participating in some manner in a study of low head hydro generation from existing dam sites and the Agency has started Phase I of such a Project.

Now Therefore Be It Resolved by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix as follows:

1. The Agency is hereby requested to proceed with the Low head Hydroelectric Study.

2. The Participant hereby agrees to reimburse the Agency for a proportionate share of the Project Study Costs not to exceed $2,000.00.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The following Resolution was offered and moved for its adoption by Councilman Roloff and supported by Councilman Porter:

Resolution 80-5-2

WHEREAS the Mt. McSauba Recreation is valuable public land and

WHEREAS loss of this valuable public land by erosion due to wind, vehicular and foot traffic is occurring at an accelerated rate and

WHEREAS the Charlevoix City Council requests technical and financial assistance through the Northwest Michigan R. C. & D. Program to improve critical area stabilization practices at the Mt. McSauba Recreation Area.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, the City Council obligated the funding for this project and authorized the City Manager to submit the grant application for assistance and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED the City Council understands the Basic Measure Plan will be developed which describes who will do what when and how. No funds will be committed for the project until all planning and engineering is completed and a project has been signed by both parties.

Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Wood to renew the fire and ambulance contracts with the townships for a one year period, the same cost basis as last year, .0004 on the SEV for fire protection and .0001 on the SEV for ambulance service.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: [illegible]

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Roloff that a fee of $25.00 be charged for turning on or reconnecting electric service to City customers.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, [illegible] Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Porter to approve the CWA Contract Agreement authorizing a [illegible] cost of living increase to those union personnel retroactive to March 1, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman [illegible] and supported by Councilman Wood to authorize a 10% cost of living increase and a 3% general wage increase for non union and supervisory personnel retroactive to March 1, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Roloff and supported by Councilman Timms to change the Committee of the Whole Meeting previously scheduled for May 26, 1980 to May 27, 1980 due to the Memorial Day Holiday.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council agreed to sell water to Charlevoix Township at a wholesale rate of .30 per thousand until such time as the Township is once again able to service their own customers.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $48,642.00 find them correct and recommend the bills be allowed.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Porter that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amount.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Timms, Roloff, Wood, Muma, Whitley and Porter. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

A BABY IS GOD'S SYMBOL OF THE MIRACLE OF LIFE

We usually think of a baby as a tiny, lovable attention getter to be admired and sometimes [illegible]. Babies are the objects of love, intense pride and 24 hour room service, while [illegible] hours wondering if they will turn out all right and [illegible] college. Of course, if we would think first about sending them to Sunday school, this might help to answer the other question. We take them to our House of Worship, and aside from their involvement in any religious ceremony, their presence there is conditional: they will either allow [illegible] of the living room. Still there is no more dramatic evidence of the miracle of creation than a baby, the extension of our own life and with God's help, the bright promise of a better world tomorrow.

Vets eligible for care

World War I and Mexican border campaign veterans are now eligible to [illegible] care in non-VA hospitals, Ronald Geer, Charlevoix veterans counselor, [illegible].

Geer said that the key word in the legislation adopted recently and known as the "Veterans Health Programs Extension and Improvement Act of 1979" is "emergency." Chronic illnesses must still be treated at VA hospitals as in the past. The nearest VA hospital is at Saginaw.

The law gives VA the authority to contract for such care when the eligible veteran patient is at a clinic where there is no nearby VA medical center and there is a serious threat to his life or health. VA could pay for this kind of care previously in much more limited circumstances involving only veterans with service-connected disabilities.

Veterans having questions relating to the new legislation about the expanded benefits or inquiries about anything relating to veterans may call or visit the Charlevoix County Office of Veterans Affairs in the county building on Tuesday or Friday.

Harold Wilson

Fisheries technician retires to farm

Harold J. Wilson, a fisheries technician at the Great Lakes Fisheries Station here, has retired after 33 years with the State of Michigan

A retirement party in his honor was held recently at Vic's in Petoskey and attended by his wife, Barbara, members of their family and his co-workers. Myrl Keller, director of the station, presented him with a plaque in acknowledgement of his years of service to the state.

As fisheries technician, Wilson gathered samples from all fish and assessed the information for fish biologists who then made recommendations for the Great Lakes fisheries resources.

A native of Traverse City, Wilson started with the state as a cook's helper at the Traverse City State Hospital in 1942. In 1943 he served briefly with the U.S. Army Medical Corps and later in industry in Traverse City before going to work for the Field Administration Division of the Michigan Conservation Department, now the Department of Natural Resources in April 1947. In 1952 he transferred to the fisheries research division in Ann Arbor and, in 1965, to the Great Lakes unit of the Fisheries Division as a fisheries technician.

Since moving to Charlevoix, Wilson and his family have resided on a farm, first in Marion Township and now on an 80-acre farm in South Arm Township where he plans to raise Percheron horses and operate which he calls an old McDonald-type of farm

Through his Amish friends in Ohio, he has purchased Percheron stock and presently has two brood mares, a two-year old and a yearling. He now has a 10-week old filly and is expecting another colt later this month. His plans call for the purchase of a stallion this summer. He will then be on his way to realizing his goal of raising these remarkable work horses.

In preparation for his retirements, he has also purchased a wide assortment of horse-drawn farm equipment for use on the farm. The only equipment requiring fuel will be a tractor which he proposes to use for "belt power" to operate a threshing machine and other equipment.

An organic farmer, he hopes to operate a farm as it was operated before the days of mechanized farming, including his own grain and hay to feed his stock.

"A lot can be said for this type of farming. The Amish are successful at it. There's no reason it can't be a success if you work at it. It's a goal I've set for myself and I hope to accomplish it now that I've retired" Wilson said of his new way of life.

He said that when he has his farm in full operation, he hopes people will take the time to visit it and see how farms were once operated.

In addition to his horses, he has added a jersey cow to supply milk and cheese for the family's use. There will also be chickens, pigs, and other livestock usually found on an Old McDonald-type farm.

He feels that with the increasing price of fuel, farmers will again be using "horse power" rather than machines on their farms.

Mrs. Wilson is a teacher at the Charlevoix Elementary School. Their four children, two sons and two daughters, are grown. They have four grandchildren.

Rayders bounced

Coach Mary Gengle's Charlevoix softball team lost all four of its outings last week.

The Rayders were dumped twice by Gaylord St. Mary 10-2 and 5-1. In the opener, both teams collected just two hits, but losing pitcher Mal Kerridge walked 14 batters. Bridget Nurot and Melinda Klooster both had doubles for Charlevoix. In the second contest, Charlevoix was limited to three hits, all singles by Colleen LaBlance, Brenda Buchanan and Klooster. Holly Taber took the loss

The Rayders didn't have much luck against Gaylord, either. The Blue Devils claimed 13-2 and 9-7 victories. In the opener, Taber allowed just five hits in taking the setback. She had one of the Rayders four hits. Teresa Nurot, Duretta Anderson and Klooster had the other hits In the nightcap, the Rayders outhit the Blue Devils 6-2 but still lost. Klooster was the losing hurler. Kim Bloduc had a double and single and Anderson a single for Charlevoix

The Rayders are 3-7 on the season

Rayders unbeaten in conference play

Charlevoix's red hot baseball team kept winning in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference last week, but the bats were cooled in non-conference doubleheader with Sault Ste. Marie

In conference action, Charlevoix swept a doubleheader from Grayling 4-0 and 12-2. In the opener, Mike Loper tossed a two hit shutout. Loper whiffed 13 Viking batters. The Rayders collected four hits by four different batters - Loper, Scott Morgan, Ken Speigl and Phil Morrison. In the nightcap, the Rayders banged out 11 hits to back the three hit pitching of Jerry Sladek and Morgan. Sladek was credited with the win. He also contributed two doubles to the offensive attack. Morgan and Loper had two hits, too

The Rayders superb pitching again dominated in the doubleheader against Gaylord. This time Morgan and Loper combined on a four hit shutout as Charlevoix won the opener 3-0. Morgan, Rosy VanLoo and Speigl had Charlevoix's three hits. The second game ended in a 4-4 tie. Kirk Heckendorn and Sladek [illegible]

During the week, the Rayders lost a doubleheader at Sault Ste. Marie, 8-6 and 5-2. VanLoo took the loss in the opener. Bob Russell paced the hitting attack with two hits. In the nightcap, Sladek was saddled with the loss as Charlevoix managed just three hits by Morgan, Morrison and Scott Kelly

CMS sweeps track meet

Charlevoix Middle School swept three track meets at Petoskey Monday and at the same time broke three school records.

The eighth grade team defeated Petoskey 83-43 with Alec Sheets setting a new school record of 12:12 in the two mile. The old record was 12:21.

The girls came through with a 68½ to 32½ win over the Petoskey girls. They set three new school records including the two mile in which Meg Fowler finished second with a time of 14:03. The former record was 15:58. Lisa Mosher's time, 9:59 in the 75 yard dash bettered the old record of 9.6 and Ann Wagner's time, 10.8, in the 60 yard dash bettered the former 11.5.

The seventh grade boys downed their counterparts from Petoskey by a score of 90-27.

Rayders to clash with Lake City

The Charlevoix girls softball team will play Lake City at the Carpenter Avenue field at 4 p.m. Wednesday in the qualifying rounds of the Class C District tournament, Coach Mary Gengle has announced.

The Lake City Trojans, coached by Jane Main, plays in the Highland Conference composed chiefly of C-D teams. The team had a 2-6 record at the time Coach Gengle was checking on the team. Charlevoix has a 3-9 record as of the weekend.

The winner of the Charlevoix-Lake City game will advance to an eight-team bracket for the pre-district playoffs. The winner of the Charlevoix-Lake City game will play in Mancelona on May 23.

In the lower section of the upper bracket, Kalkaska is playing at East Jordan with the winner going against Elk Rapids at Elk Rapids on May 23.

In the lower bracket, Roscommon and Tawas will meet in a qualifying round with the winner hosting Alcona on May 23. In the second game, Houghton Lake and Whittemore-Prescott who, with Alcona, drew first round byes will play at Houghton Lake on the same date, May 23.

The semi-finals and finals will be played May 30 and 31. Teams and sites will be announced following the May 23 games.

Tourney Saturday

The Charlevoix High School Softball team will host a round robin softball tournament here Saturday, according to Coach Mary Gengle.

Two fields at the Carpenter Avenue ballpark will be used for the tourney which will feature three other teams, Cheboygan Catholic, Gaylord St. Mary and Mt. Clemens.

The tournament will begin at 10 a.m. with Charlevoix meeting Gaylord St. Mary on Field No. 1 while Cheboygan Catholic takes on Mt. Clemens on Field No. 2.

At 11:45 a.m. Gaylord St. Mary and Mt. Clemens will meet on Field No. 1 and Charlevoix and Cheboygan Catholic on Field No 2.

Following the lunch hour, Cheboygan Catholic and Gaylord St Mary will clash on Field No. 1 and Charlevoix and Mt. Clemens on Field No. 2.

Rayders get bye

In the 11 team tourney, six of the teams will meet in qualifying games between May 12 and 21. The first games of the eight-team tournament will then be played May 23.

At that time, Charlevoix will play the winner of the East Jordan-Traverse City game which is being played at Traverse City on May 17. Charlevoix will play at the field of the first game winner on May 23.

The semi-finals and finals will be played at sites to be announced on May 30 or 31.

In Particular...

● Howard Simon, Michigan executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union, will be the featured speaker at North Central Michigan College's National Issues Day today (Wednesday).

Simon will be addressing the controversial issue of schools and morality; including such areas as prayer in classrooms, financing of private education, censorship, the teaching of sex education, and behavior and dress codes. Simon will deliver his address at 8 p.m. in the Petoskey Middle School auditorium.

During the day - from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. - approximately 50 professionals from the area will speak out on issues in the news.

Some of the speakers and topics include: Phil Loomis, public relations director at Big Rock, "Our Future in Nuclear Energy"; David Fershee, district judge, "Drinking and Driving"; Dr. Gerald Drake, "Health Effects from Nuclear Radiation"; Chuck Grant, Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission, "The Future of Our Lakes"; Terry Salmonson, photographer, "Photography as an Art"; Dr. Howard Tanner, director of the DNR, "Hunting and Fishing Regulations in Northern Michigan"; Dr. John Tanton, "Federation for American Immigration Reform (FAIR)"; and Jan Mancinelli, directress Women's Resource Center, "Spouse Abuse."

● Michigan Northern Railway will be giving free half-hour train rides Friday in Petoskey in honor of National Transportation Week.

The train will be in operation from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. The train rides will start at the city park.

● A spring clean-up of Norwood Cemetery will take place Saturday (May 17) starting at 9 a.m. A potluck luncheon will be served at noon at Friendship Hall by the Norwood Women. All interested persons are invited.

● The Upper Peninsula, parts of northern lower Michigan, and inner-city Detroit are among the areas of the state facing a shortage of physicians.

In an effort to remedy the problem, the Undergraduate Admissions Office at the University of Michigan will sponsor its fifth annual "Health Career Day" Thursday.

Some 250 high school sophomores from these "medically underserved" areas will spend the day on the U-M campus learning about health careers. From this area, students from Boyne City High School will be attending.

Obituaries

KENNETH HIMEBAUCH

Funeral services for a former resident, Kenneth R Himebauch, 31, who died unexpectedly Friday at his home in Little Traverse Township, Harbor Springs, were held Monday at the Assembly of God Church here. Cecil Drost, lay minister, officiated. Burial was in the Barnard Cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix April 17, 1949, Mr. Himebauch lived in Marion Township until moving to Little Traverse Township near Harbor Springs three years ago. On Nov. 11, 1972, he was married to Margaret Borths. He was a member of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau

Besides his wife, he is survived by two children, Henry William and Mary Margaret, both at home; his parents, Mr and Mrs. William H. Himebauch of Little Traverse Township, Harbor Springs; a brother, Sam, also of Harbor Springs; three sisters, Mrs. William (Cathy) Boyanski of Brownville, N.Y., Mrs. Richard (Diane) Wojan of Charlevoix and Linda Himebauch of Harbor Springs and his maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Potter of Charlevoix.

The family suggests that those wishing to honor Mr Himebauch's memory contribute to a memorial fund for his children's education. Envelopes for this purpose may be obtained at the Winchester Funeral Home which was in charge of arrangements.

Women from 15 Upper Peninsula counties, representing diverse backgrounds, were honored recently at the second annual "Celebration of Women" sponsored by Northern Michigan University's Women's Center for Continuing Education.

The women whose careers vary from chamber of commerce director to homemaker-volunteer, were chosen by a selections committee from names presented by Boards of Commissioners of the respective counties. All have made contributions to their communities which many times have gone unrecognized.

A former Charlevoix resident, MRS. PAUL MICHELIN, the former Lois Bergmann, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Ted Bergmann, who lives at Newberry, was named from Luce County.

Though not employed for pay, Mrs. Michelin is said to represent the "volunteer extra-ordinaire" from her community.

She said her interest was the result of a goal-setting workshop she attended at the Women's Center.

As a result, she has been active in such diverse areas as trustee of Helen Newberry Joy hospital, past chairperson of the county mental health board, former representative to the state mental health board, treasurer of the Luce county Democratic party, member and former chairperson of the county youth assistance council, founder of the Newberry Pre-school Co-op Nursery and chairman of the family life education for Tanquamenon Area Schools. She is presently a candidate for the school board in her district.

In addition, she has been active in her church, St. Gregory's Catholic Church where she has been a member of the parish council, Eucharist minister, leader of two high school retreat groups, C.C.D. teacher and a member of the Family Relations Council.

Mrs. Michelin's husband, Paul, is an engineer for the Eastern Upper Peninsula Division of the Michigan Department of Transportation. They have four children.

KENNETH C. KESSLER, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Kessler of Boyne City, recently was promoted to Army lieutenant colonel while serving as director of personnel and community activities with the 5th Infantry Division at Fort Polk, La.

The appointing orders for this promotion stated: "The president of the U.S. has placed special trust and confidence in this officer's patriotism, valor, fidelity and abilities."

The promotion was based upon these qualities and the demonstrated potential for increased responsibility.

Kessler entered the Army in June 1964 and received his commission through the ROTC program.

He received a master's degree in 1973 from Iowa State University, Ames.

MR. and MRS. ROBERT S. HAMILTON are now enjoying their new home in Thalia Gardens, Virginia Beach, Virginia. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton are both former residents of Charlevoix.

JASON BRINDEL, a sixth grader at the Charlevoix Middle School, has qualified for the state math finals Saturday at Central Michigan University.

Jason was one of the top 25 finalists (in his grade) at the Alpena regional April 26. He received a certificate of recognition from the Michigan Council of Mathematics Teachers for his effort. Jason was one of 12 Charlevoix Middle School students competing in the Alpena regional.

About 400 contestants, representing three grades, will compete at CMU. The students represent the top two percent of the middle school math students in the state. Scholarships will be offered to the top finishers.

Jason is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Brindel.

Celebration, a Christian music group operating basically from Hope College in Holland, has been invited to Australia to minister to churches and high schools there for three months.

BARBARA SWANSON, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Swanson who is completing her junior year at Hope College is among the group of 11 members who will depart later this month via Grand Rapids and Los Angeles, for Melbourne arriving June 1.

They will then travel 1,100 miles north of Melbourne, [illegible] homes along the way. They will return to Melbourne for the return flight on June 20.

Celebration will be Australia at the invitation of the Rev. Bill Foster who works with Wesleyan churches there.

The group also wants to cut a tape to distribute in Australia as part of their ministry. In the meantime, they are devoting an increasing amount of time rehearsing and raising funds for the air fare, their only expense for the trip.

The non-denominational group of 11 present and past students at the college now living in Holland was organized in 1976 and has traveled through southern Michigan and Chicago presenting concerts.

Real Estate Is A People Business and Ski & Shore of Charlevoix wants you to Know it's People

Ski and Shore's Hagen Manker has earned a GRI (Graduate Realtors Institute) certificate. Hagen successfully completed his required course work recently to earn this professional designation.

Course work dealt with 1) practical approaches in dealing with common problems that arise in everyday real estate transactions, 2) real estate market analysis, appraisal, taxation, condominiums, and development, recreational real estate and closings and 3) analyzing the fundamentals of real estate investment and taxation as they apply to the sale or exchange of income producing property.

"It's important to keep up with the changes in the market," Hagen said. "The more knowledge I have the more I can be of help to the public."

GRI is sponsored by the Michigan Association of Realtors.

Pre-trial set for May 27

A pre-trial has been scheduled for May 27 in the Circuit Court case involving LBJ Investments and the City of Charlevoix.

LBJ Investments has filed suit in Circuit Court challenging the "validity, reasonableness and constitutionality" of the city's zoning ordinances.

According to the suit, LBJ filed for and received a city zoning permit on April 19, 1979 to construct a stairwell. On that same day, a building permit was issued by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection. The permits were then updated on October 19, the suit says. On Nov. 13, James Brinker, the city zoning administrator, advised LBJ by mail that the "updated zoning approval was null and void." Brinker ordered that construction be stopped.

The city has admitted openly that the zoning permit was issued in error. According to the ordinance, "no building shall be erected or structurally altered ...in the following zone district (Central Business District) until such time as a development plan has been approved by City Council." The plan has not been approved by council. In addition, the city argues, LBJ deviated from its permit. The permit calls for a 10 foot X 28 foot stairwell, the city says, but the stairwell is 14 foot X 28 foot.

With the addition, the city contends that LBJ does not have sufficient on site parking. LBJ argues that because of the small downtown lots parking is a hardship.

On the validity of the city zoning ordinances, LBJ says the mayor and clerk must authenticate each ordinance within 30 days after its passage or, if not done, publish it in a local newspaper. The ordinances would not take effect until seven days after the notice appears in the local paper. LBJ claims that the ordinances were not authenicated nor published, therefore the city had no authority to stop construction.

In other action, council:

Approved a side yard variance for Gordon Neff to allow for an open carport.

Approved a side yard variance for Lake [illegible] Condominium to allow for parking.

Failed to receive a bid on a city owned house at 204 State Street - adjacent to City Hall. City officials were asking for a minimum bid of $45,000.

Received two bids for a new dump truck (cab, chassis and dump box). Focthman's bid $12,800 and Erber's $13,471. The city has a 1962 dump truck that can be traded in. With the trade-in, Focthman's bid drops to $12,000 and Erber's $13,171. The bids were referred to the Committee of the Whole.

Approved a site plan for Harbor Club Condominium on Belvedere Avenue provided that grass be planted around the pool.

Rejected a request from the Charlevoix School District to collect one-half of the city taxes in the summer.

Set June 16 for a hearing to amend the city code - R-2A (two family residential section).

Approved a resolution establishing a Parks and Recreation Board.

Approved a master recreation plan for the city.

For Memorial Day

Challenger will be here

The Medusa Challenger is leaving Chicago today (Wednesday) to return to Charlevoix to take part in the Charlevoix Challenge, Dave Fowler, activities chairman for the Challenge, said Monday night.

News of the Challenger's departure for Charlevoix comes as a welcome relief for organizers of the Challenge.

The 552 foot freighter was disabled Wednesday while transporting a load of cement from Milwaukee to Manitowoc. The cement carrier was just off the shoreline of Sheboygan, Wisconsin when a 14 foot screw and part of the shaft broke off and fell to the bottom of Lake Michigan. Two tugs - summoned from Milwaukee - towed the cement carrier into Manitowoc where it was unloaded and taken to Chicago for repairs.

Tours aboard the Challenger are planned on Monday as part of the Charlevoix Challenge weekend of "fun." The Challenger - captained by John Bradley of Charlevoix - is scheduled to come into Round Lake early Monday morning. Tours aboard the vessel are planned from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. Adults will be charged $1.50 and children $1. All proceeds will help pay for new band uniforms at Charlevoix High School.

The Challenger will be the largest ship in history to ever dock in downtown Charlevoix.

"Most of us have been Great Lake shipwatchers all our lives," Merle Plagge, Band Boosters president, said. "Now we have a chance to personally inspect one of the largest cement carriers on the lakes from the pilot house to a cargo hold so vast that crews bicycle from end to end."

Organizers are predicting people from all over the state to be in town over the holiday weekend. Advertisements publicizing the event have appeared in the Detroit News, Detroit Free Press and Grand Rapids Press, in addition to the local papers.

For CMS renovation

Tezak contract approved

The Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night voted to sign a contract with the Tezak Construction Company of Traverse City for the renovation project at the Charlevoix Middle School.

In other action, the board accepted a resignation; heard requests for team trips; approved a reading program and heard a report.

The contract with the Tezak Company was signed after the board had been assured by company representatives that the work would begin on schedule and be completed in time for the opening of school in September. Work is scheduled to begin by mid-June.

The board accepted, with regrets, the resignation of Vera Rumbold, high school homemaking instructor in the school for the past three years.

Requests for trips to state meets were made by Chuck Wright, tennis coach, whose team will play at University Liggett in Livonia May 31; Hal Evans, boys track coach, who will take two of his participants to Middleville for the state track meet and Dennis VanGuilder who had one girl from the track team qualify. She will attend the state meet at Cassopolis. These are scheduled for May 31.

Approval was given a proposed reading program recommended by Dr. Ted K. Kilty with the understanding that the recommendations be implemented to the extent that they can be incorporated in the proposed budget for the 1980-81 school year.

Gayle Kaczynski reported on the Peer Counseling program she had instituted to assist with younger students. She had trained a number of juniors and seniors in counseling. They had also attended a program in peer counseling at North Central Michigan College. They then joined Mrs. Kaczynski in counseling freshmen, sophomores and eighth graders. Several students attended and spoke of their experiences.

Before adjourning the board voted to re-schedule June meetings to June 9 and 23. Meetings are scheduled for the first and third Mondays of the month.

County 'buys up' delinquent tax

Charlevoix County school districts, cities, townships, and Grandvue Medical Care Facility will not have to wait any longer for the 1979 tax money due them.

Charlevoix County has "bought up" the 1979 delinquent tax warrants in the amount of $1,698,629.99 and will turn over to the schools and government bodies the amounts due them.

Eight county school systems will receive a total of $1,169,503.22; the two intermediate school systems will receive $43,474.40; 19 townships, cities, and the Village of Boyne Falls will receive $187,057.83; and Grandvue Medical Care Facility will receive [illegible].

Also included in the total amount is $178,849.20 in delinquent taxes due Charlevoix County.

During the month of May, Charlevoix County is receiving seven percent interest on the delinquent tax money, and that interest rate increases one percent a month for three years, when all properety on which taxes have not been paid is put up for public sale.

By taking over the payment of delinquent taxes in this manner, the county makes it possible for the schools and local governments to continue operations in an orderly fashion. Locally, the Charlevoix Public Schools will receive $296,575.80 and the City of Charlevoix will receive $47,055.87.

Proportionate amounts will go to Marion Township, $1,406.83; Norwood Township, $827.32; Peaine Township, $7,260.80; St. James Township, $8,864.82; Charlevoix Township, $4,685.40; and Hayes Township, $2,435.37.

MSU professor to deliver address

Dr. Peggy L. Reithmiller, professor, secondary education and curriculum, College of Education, Michigan State University, will deliver the address at the 92nd annual commencement exercises at Charlevoix High School Sunday, June 8.

A native of Wisconsin, Dr. Reithmiller is a 1956 graduate of the University of Wisconsin High School. She received her bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin four years later, her master's degree from Michigan State University in 1963 and her Ph.D. from MSU in 1968. She has done additional graduate work in guidance and counseling at the University of Michigan.

She has also been a consultant to the Michigan Department of Education 1968-72; field researcher for the Michigan-Ohio Regional Education Laboratory in Detroit, 1966; assistant professor in the Department of Education, Olivet College, 1964-67 and prior to that time, a teacher in elementary and secondary schools in Willmette, Ill., and Wauwatosa, Wis.

She is a member of several professional groups including the Association for Supervision and Curricular Development, Michigan Association for Supervision and Curricular Development, Michigan Academy of Science, Arts and Letters and several other related groups, special interest groups and sororities. She has also served as an officer in varied professional and civic groups.

Acquire 4.8 percent of Campbell plant

MPPA approves sale of bonds

The Michigan Public Power Agency (MPPA) has approved the sale of $44,370,000 of Campbell project revenue bonds. The proceeds from the bonds will be used to acquire a 4.8 percent (37,950 kilowatts) interest in Campbell No. 3, a 791 megawatt coal fired generating plant owned by Consumers Power Company and located on Lake [illegible] Holland.

The agency is comprised of 18 municipalities in lower Michigan, including Charlevoix, Petoskey, Harbor Springs and Traverse City.

The bonds were sold at net interest cost of 8.3064 percent and purchased by an underwriting team comprised of Smith Barney, Harris Upham and Co. the lead manager, First of Michigan Corporation, Bache Halsey Stuart Shields, The First Boston Corporation and Salomon Brothers.

In addition, the MPPA is considering a study on hydroelectric power - in an effort to find economical means of power for future use for its member cities. Charlevoix has agreed to spend up to $2,000 for the study.

Meanwhile, the agency has appointed Richard Gorman of Petoskey as its general manager. Gorman is presently secretary-treasurer of the agency and city manager of Petoskey. He will assume his new position Aug. 4.

Jaycees hope to raise $1,500 in bike-a-thon

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and the Charlevoix Area Jaycees will be sponsoring a "Cyclin' for CF Bike-a-thon" Saturday, May 31 to help raise money for CF research.

The Jaycees are hoping to raise $1,500.

According to Dan Miller of the Jaycees, riders will have an incentive.

"For anyone who collects $25 to $49 in pledges, they will get a Making Tracks for Cystic Fibrosis T-shirt," Miller said. "For anyone collecting $50 to $99, they will get a backpack. And for anyone who collects $100 or more, they will get both the T-shirt and the backpack."

Pledge cards are available at all schools, the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and Ben Franklin. Riders will be asked to obtain pledges for each mile traveled.

The course will be the same as last year when 36 riders raised nearly $700. The three mile loop starts at the Charlevoix Elementary School parking lot, procedes north on Division Street, west on Mercer Boulevard, south on Mt. McSauba Road, and north again on Division Street. Riders may bike the loop "as many times as possible," Miller said.

The "Cyclin' for CF Bike-a-thon" will start at 9:30 a.m. with a lunch break at noon. Riders are encouraged to bring a sack lunch and something to drink.

If it rains Saturday (May 31), the bike-a-thon will be rescheduled for June 14.

Selling Your House by Gene Steele

LET THERE BE LIGHT

Your telephone rings. It is your REALTOR saying that he is coming right over with a prospect. You hang up the phone. What's the next thing you do? Turn on every light in the house. Why?

Because you want to give the prospect the best image you can of the comfort, beauty and livability you are offering. In other words, you want to sell a home not a house. And full illumination is the best way to give your home that "lived-in" look. Furniture and rugs and fixtures take on a warm glow from the proper lighting. Here are a few "bright" ideas.

Turn on every lamp in the living room, bedrooms and family room. Be careful about turning on the overhead lights in these rooms for it could be harsh and make the room look uninviting. Turn on every light in a storage room or closet. Go all out in illuminating the kitchen – the brighter the better. Brighten up the bathroom too – but carefully choose the right wattage for bulbs by the mirror, pick the most flattering one. Remember, it's just as important to have lights on in the afternoon as it is for a night time showing.

Banker says

Prime rate should drop

By Laura Petrangelo

Chuck Marrow, director of loan functions at Michigan Bank North, discussed the problems of consumer credit at National Issues Day held at North Central Michigan College, May 14th.

Marrow explained the current inflation has forced consumer credit to be harder to obtain.

"All consumer credit is obligated," said Marrow. "With 18-19 percent (inflation) this leaves less spendable money for people to meet their obligations."

When customers cannot meet their obligations, Marrow said, "They think, 'I'll pay you back because I'm an honest citizen,' but, they don't see everything the credit officer sees. The hardest part of my job is to turn a loan down."

Attitude change also has a great deal to do with it, Marrow said. "My father used to put a certain amount of his check in his savings account every week and a lot of people used to buy cars with cash."

Today, however, attitudes have changed so that everything is being bought by credit. To protect themselves most banks apply to a credit bureau that keeps information on people's previous loans and credit standing. This enables the bank to, "see how you pay your bills," said Marrow.

Marrow advised younger people without established credit to, "have mom or dad come in and sign it with you. You only get one chance so have them get you under way."

Although prime rates are at 17.5 percent now, Marrow believes they will drop. "We can't stay at the current pace. I feel that by the end of this year, prime rates will be down nine or ten percent."

Marrow claims that many people believe that this is political.

"The government has control of credit and with an election coming up, if the economy was in a good situation, people will go happily to the polls." However, Marrow said, just as easily the rates could go up after the election.

Crooked Tree...

...a reversal in role

A new novel about the bears of fictional "Crooked Tree State Forest" may make northern Michigan this year's mecca for readers with a taste for spine-chilling suspense.

Crooked Tree, a novel by Robert C. Wilson, a 29 year-old Detroiter, is a tale that describes the frightening role reversal by Michigan's strong but usually shy black bears, in which the bears become hunters, and man the prey.

As if the natural ferocity of the bears weren't scary enough, echoes of ancient Indian legends and beliefs hint at supernatural forces too powerful for humans to deal with.

Robert Wilson

The heart of the story's action takes places in the "ring finger of Michigan's mitt," a fairly-specific geographical reference to the northwest quadrant of the Lower Peninsula, which the author then proceeds to disguise thinly by mixing fictitious with genuine place names.

He adds to the geographical omelet by attributing to the fictional community of "Wabanakisi" certain physical characteristics and landmarks that will seem familiar to residents of such communities as Charlevoix, Cross Village, Grayling, Harbor Springs and Petoskey.

"Although I located the community of Wabanakisi between Cross Village and Harbor Springs, it is very reminiscent of Charlevoix," Wilson told the Courier. "It's bordered by Lake Michigan on the west and a large inland lake to the east. The two bodies of water are connected by a canal. And, of course, it has a drawbridge."

The novel's protagonist, Axel Michelson, like Wilson is a young Michigan attorney. As he struggles to protect both his community and his wife against the terror now stalking the normally tranquil Michigan woods, his search for a cause and a solution takes him back and forth across the state, from Ann Arbor to the shores of Lake Superior.

Familiar Michigan places and institutions play a part in the story, including the Bay City Times, the Detroit Free Press and News, the Michigan State Police post at Petoskey, federal district court in Bay City, and the Universitites of Michigan, Michigan State and Western Michigan.

Contemporary issues such as Indian rights, environmentalism versus commercial development, and unsportsmanlike hunting flavor the narrative, as the mysteriously motivated bears threaten motorists, campers, canoeists, hunters, and even their "cousins," the Ottawa Indians.

Overshadowing background, characters and plot is a giant windbent Michigan pine of monarchic size, venerated by the author's 20th century descendants of the Ottawa, reminiscent of the authentic "arbre croche" that once stood on the Lake Michigan bluffs as a landmark to canoeing Indians, Jesuit missionaries and French voyageurs.

Wilson, an assistant prosecutor in Wayne County, is personally well acquainted with the environment of his first novel. He has vactioned most of his life at the family cottage on Lake Margrethe near Grayling, canoed and camped along the AuSable and Manistee Rivers, and trekked throughout the northern Lower Peninsula locale of "Crooked Tree" from Sleeping Bear Dunes to Mackinaw City.

"I spent most of my summers in that area," Wilson said. "Three months I would be up north and nine months I would be in Detroit.

"I still have a lot of childhood friends there (northern Michigan)."

Wilson would like to live in northern Michigan 12 months a year.

A few years ago, he said, he talked to Roy Hayes, who was then prosecuting attorney in Charlevoix County, about job possibilities.

"I was interested in an assistant prosecutors position in that area," Wilson said, "but I doubt if he (Hayes) remembers me.

He began writing Crooked Tree in the summer of 1976.

"I started my research in July and in November I quit my job as law clerk of the Juvenile Court to start the book in earnest," Wilson recounted on the phone last week. "By the time I joined the prosecutor's office in February 1977, I had about 175 typewritten pages completed. Then I got so busy I didn't have time to work on the book so I took a leave of absence from March to September (1978) to finish my first draft."

Since then, Wilson has had a string of good luck. Not only will G.P. Putnam's Sons, New York, be publishing the book, but the 350 page hard-cover novel will be an alternate selection of both the Literary Guild and the Doubleday Book Club. And it has been chosen as the subject of a forthcoming movie, which could be in production in northern Michigan as early as this summer.

> 'Wabanakisi...is very reminiscent of Charlevoix. It's bordered by Lake Michigan on the west and a large inland lake on the east. The two bodies of water are connected by a canal. And, of course, it has a drawbridge.'

"I think it's a good suspenseful novel," Wilson said. "I know my typist stopped typing the draft because she wanted to read it faster to see how it ended.

"But it has to prove itself."

The novel has also been chosen as the subject of a forthcoming movie, which could be in production in northern Michigan as early as this summer.

The rights were sold to Sidney Glazier and David Gentile.

Tanner expects decision soon

Dr. Howard Tanner, director of Michigan's Department of Natural Resources, said he expects a decision to be reached soon on the state's appeal to stop Indian commercial gill net fishing.

The U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati is presently considering the state's appeal to a ruling by U.S. District Court Judge Noel P. Fox that gave Indians unlimited fishing rights in the Great Lakes.

"I'm hoping for a decision this month," the optimistic Tanner told a National Issues Day audience at North Central Michigan College Wednesday.

Just a day before his Petoskey appearance, Tanner had met with Indian leaders, federal officials and sportfishermen in an effort to work out a compromise. But the talks ended abruptly when chiefs of two Upper Peninsula Chippewa Indian bands walked out when Tanner reportedly told Interior Department officials that their policies would create "a final harvest of great public animosity for the tribes, for your federal agencies, for your court system for the President you serve."

Tanner has advocated that Indians be subject to state regulation. He has proposed that Indians switch to impoundment gear to save the lake trout population that, he claims, is being destroyed by the use of gill nets.

"With impoundment gear you can return trout safely to the water," Tanner said. "You can't do that with gill nets.

"There has been a successive depletion of lake trout as the tribal fishermen have moved south."

Attorney General Frank Kelley recently asked the U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati for an order immediately stopping Indian commercial gill net fishing in northern Lake Huron and portions of Lake Michigan until the pending appeal has been decided.

Kelley asked the court to stay, or set aside, a judgement by Judge Fox. Kelley's request also challenges the rules regulating Indian fishing announced April 28 by the U.S. Department of Interior's Bureau of Indian Affairs. Those rules permit the extensive use of gill nets by Indian fishermen.

Kelley's action is prompted by:

- A continued delay, now approaching seven months, on the part of the federal district court in answering a previous request for a stay of Judge Fox's order.
- Testimony and other evidence offered by fish biologists and other experts during federal court evidentiary hearings last December that fishing stocks in Lake Huron and Lake Michigan will be seriously depleted unless commercial gill netting by Indian fishermen is prohibited.

The attorney general further claimed that negotiations between federal authorities, Indians, and others does not get at the basic issue – the legal right of the State of Michigan to regulate fishing

Law enforcement career camp planned

A week long Law Enforcement Career Camp for Michigan high school students interested in criminal justice careers is being offered this summer by the Michigan Kiwanis District and Michigan State Police.

Camp sessions will be held at Camp Daggett from June 15-21 and at the University of Michigan Fresh Air Camp near Pickney June 15-21 and June 22-28.

To qualify a student must: be in grades 10, 11 or 12 at the time of application; have no juvenile or criminal record; meet agility testing standards and be capable of strenuous exercise; possess a minimum grade point average of 2.0, good citizenship qualities and a good school attendance record; and be interested in a career in criminal justice.

Applications are available from local high school counselors or local Kiwanis Club presidents and should be returned as soon as possible.

Q/A Property Taxes

This is the 10th in a series of articles on the general property tax law and its reference to the ever increasing assessments of property, taxes and true cash values

Charter millage is what we are going to talk about this week and we promised you we would use the City of Charlevoix for our illustration.

The electors of the City of Charlevoix voted in their new charter and the provision under Article VIII titled Taxation provided that "the city shall have the power to assess taxes and to lay and collect rents, tolls and excises. The annual general ad valorem tax levy for municipal purposes shall not exceed one and one-half (1½) percent (15 Mills) of the State Equalized Valuation of all real and personal property in the city. The city taxes shall be levied and collected in the manner provided by the general tax laws of the state or by this charter."

The people of the city have voted for and endorsed the 15 mill limitation imposed by their charter. In 1978 when under the 4th class city act there was also a 15 mill limitation, so the mill rate limitation did not change by the new charter. It might be interesting to note here that your neighboring cities, East Jordan and Boyne City, each have a 20 mill limitation in their respective charters. Returning to 1978, the city council authorized the levy of 10 mills for city operating purposes and there were 2 mills levied for the bonded indebtedness. This was levied on the state equalized value of 32,387,400 and raised tax dollars in the amount of $323,874.00 for city operating and $64,775.00 for the bonded indebtedness. Therefore, the total mills levied for the city was 12 mills. Remember, by a vote of the people the city had authorization to levy up to 15 mills for operational purposes.

Please refer to the chart for the City of Charlevoix. This is to show you how the tax limitation amendment (TLA or known by some as Headlee) affected your millage in the City of Charlevoix. If you compare the chart on the township of Charlevoix that was in last week's Courier, you will find that the county, school and Char-Em Intermediate School millage was levied the same in the township as it was in the city, so at this time we are just considering the charter mill rate of the city. You will note that under city tax that the maximum millage authorized for operational was the 15 mills (column 1) and in column 2 this was the millage reduction fraction (MRF) that was computed by the TLA formula. The MRF was .9227 for the City of Charlevoix. The 15 mills multiplied by the MRF gave a maximum allowable millage that could be levied of 13.8405 (column 3). This means that the city council could have levied up to the 13.8405 mills. However, it was determined that the city council could have levied up to the 13.8405 mills. However, it was determined by your city council that in order to raise the necessary monies to operate the city for the year, that they could levy 11 mills. It is easy enough to figure that this created a 10 percent increase in your city taxes from the previous year, and at the same time there was an increase in the state equalized value of the city for the year, so all in all, some of you received quite an increase in your tax dollars. The part that was so hard for everyone to understand was, that they were under the impression that the TLA (Headlee) was going to help cut taxes.

Let's continue on a bit. The 11 mills, which were levied, generated $427,050.00 tax dollars. In tax dollars this amounted to an increase of 31.86 percent. Ouch, that hurts. But again, regardless of the percent of increase, it is back to the very essence of the whole picture – what amount of property tax dollars did the city need to provide the necessary finances they had budgeted. The citizens of the city certainly have an input into these matters. You elect your council members to represent you. (Do you know who your representative is?) Your city charter states that before the final adoption of the annual operating budget a public hearing shall be held, at which time the proposed annual operating budget shall be presented. It goes on to say that "at the hearing all interested persons shall be given an opportunity to be heard for or against any item in the proposed annual operating budget. A copy of the proposed annual operating budget shall be on file and available to the public for inspection during office hours in the office of the city treasurer for a period of not fewer than 10 days prior to this hearing.

To continue with the previous line of thought – the bonded indebtedness does not come under the TLA and therefore the city can authorize the millage needed to meet the bonded indebtedness. In 1978 the 2 mills levied on a state equalized valuation of 32,387,400 raised $64,775.00 for the indebtedness. In 1979 the 2 mills levied on a state equalized valuation of 38,822,740 raised $77,645.00 for the indebtedness.

If the City of Charlevoix had been levying their total operational of 15 mills in 1979 then the millage would have been rolled back by the TLA and there would have been a limiting of tax dollars. It will be interesting to see how the TLA affects the 1980 charter mill rate of 15 mills, if at all. This information is not available at this time, but hopefully we can have it soon to explain your summer tax bill.

Next week we will continue to address the subject of the TLA and endeavor to explain how millage reduction fractions continue to work like in 1980 or into 1981. Do you realize the mill rate continues to be multiplied by a compounded millage reduction fraction, if the SEV, excluding the new construction, exceeds the consumer price index, until it is changed by a vote of the people? By the by, the official consumer price index ratio to compute the millage reduction fraction for 1980, is 1.113

McCallum latest to announce

Sheriff's race getting crowded

Although the deadline is June 3, as of last Friday, only seven candidates for county offices had filed petitions to enter the August primaries.

They are incumbent Register of Deeds Stephen Pond and his opponent, Richard H. Theisen of Boyne Falls, and incumbent County Commissioners Marvin Loding of Boyne City, Donald Meggison and Oscar W. Ward of Charlevoix, Ira L. Davis of Bay and Evangeline Townships, and a former County Commissioner, Ralph C. Richardson of Eveline and Wilson Townships.

However, four men have announced they are candidates for sheriff and are expected to file petitions soon. They are incumbent Sheriff George T. Lasater; Wallace Brown of Charlevoix, a former detective in the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department; Len Fuller of South Arm Township, who served as commander of the sheriff's posse for two and a half years; and James McCallum, a former undersheriff and deputy sheriff in the county.

McCallum announced his candidacy last week. McCallum, 48, is a native of Chicago, Illinois. He attended the University of Illinois for two years, majoring in business administration, after serving in the U.S. Navy.

McCallum moved to Charlevoix in 1957, "a place where I had been coming since I was nine years old," he said. His mother, incidentally, was from Beaver Island. He worked two years at the Charlevoix Post Office, one year at Puff's Appliance before working under Sheriff Glen Rose as a night jailer in [illegible].

McCallum worked for Sheriff Rose as a deputy sheriff until Rose retired then he worked for Sheriff Philo Sumner as a deputy sheriff until 1971, when he became undersheriff. He held that position until Jan. 1, 1977.

McCallum and his family then moved to Orlando, Florida where he became a field representative for the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. He was transferred to Michigan in August,

James McCallum

1978. In February he vacated his field job "for personal reasons" to move back to Charlevoix.

While with the sheriff's department, he attended several police training courses and he represented the department on the Region 10 Law Enforcement Planning Component. McCallum was the first certified officer in the county.

He is past director of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, sargent of arms at Charlevoix American Legion Post, and secretary of the Charlevoix County Republican Party.

In addition, Wayne Chapman of Beaver Island is said to be circulating petitions in behalf of his own candidacy for the sheriff's position. He could not be reached for comment last week.

The other county offices to be filled in the upcoming elections are county clerk, treasurer, prosecutor, drain commissioner, and surveyor. All incumbents in these offices have said they will run for re-election: Jane Brannon, clerk; Anah Potter, treasurer; Scott Beatty, prosecutor; Clayton Healey, drain commissioner; and Mary C. Feindt, surveyor.

In addition to County offices, all Township offices will be filled by the Primary and General Election process. Township offices are supervisor, clerk, treasurer, and two trustees. This year, for the first time, trustees will be elected for four-year terms. They had previously been elected for only two years.

In the City of Charlevoix, the mayor and clerk and elected annually.

To House of Representatives

Ostling to seek re-election

One Hundred and Third District State Representative Ralph A. Ostling has announced that he will seek re-election to the Michigan House of Representatives.

Ostling, who was first elected to the state Legislature in 1972, said, "We are all faced with difficult decisions during these times of high unemployment and inflation. The challenge of representing the people of the 103rd District during the difficult days ahead is one of the greatest of my life. But I feel with my experience, and with my position on the House Appropriations Committee, I will be able to continue the task of cutting back government waste, eliminating needless and [illegible] state [illegible], and helping to get Michigan back on its feet."

The Appropriations Committee, of which Ostling is a member, is responsible for approving state expenditures. Ostling serves on the subcommittees on Social Services, Capital Outlay, and State Police and Military Affairs.

"I am pleased that Governor Milliken has taken the appropriate steps to cut back the state budget. My job on the Appropriations Committee is to analyze and recommend where the budget cuts can best be made," Ostling explained. "With Michigan's economic problems, it is more important now than ever before that government waste and fraud be kept at a minimum. Our welfare rolls have grown at an incredible rate during the past few months, and the state must tighten its belt to accommodate the unemployed, the elderly, and others on fixed incomes who are being destroyed by runaway inflation. At the same time, the Legislature must finally face the music and reform our welfare system, so that only the needy, not the lazy, will receive state welfare benefits. It's a tired tune, but I am confident that my colleagues realize the time for major reform is now."

Ostling has previously been a member of the Committees on Conservation, Environment and Recreation; Liquor Control; Corporations and Finance; and [illegible].

A veteran of World War Two, Ostling and his wife Thela reside in [illegible].

Big government is everybody's business

Letters

Was The Declaration of Independence for the benefit of money power?

The Milton Freidman's and Ronald Reagan's kind of glorified tribute and support of self regulating capitalistic economy against government involvement, is wishful thinking, under an old philosophy of honest public exploitation by free enterprise will promote individual security by monetary gains, which has long ago proved excessive and morally irresponsible.

The compromising attitudes by many students of capitalistic theories tend to ignore the adulterated values created by speculation, greed and legalistic manipulation of values. The foreign and domestic money markets, exchangers of real estate, stock market and other trade inflated investments are no different than old fashioned horse trading that benefit the profiteers and chiselers. The inflation is caused by the exchange of values without a creative performance which is a legalistic game under the name of free enterprise. These conditions are permited by a government influenced by the same kind of idealism that is a dictum of speculative values for the benefit of monetary profits. The national debt is a result of government involvement in public needs, to make the economy work by a merry-go-round of capitalistic standards. Money is borrowed at a discount from private accumulators and tribute is paid via tax exempt bonds to subsidize the employed, to issue public and private subsidies, and guaranteed loans to promote private investments for more profits.

Big government is everybody's business. The Declaration Of Independence in 1776 was to free the people from the power of inherited wealth and feudalistic ownerships. This has been converted under the name of liberty by the collective power of conglomerates and vested corporate ownerships for the benfit of monetary [illegible].

We the people, has little or no meaning without a government strong enough to control and protect the credit values for the benefit of all the people. It is in the constitutional power of federal government to issue and control the exchange and representative value of money by the power of taxation. Government by some people is for some people who travel the yellow brick road of irresponsible prosperity by inflationary profiteering. In the meantime government welfare for the economically disadvantaged will continue to help the rich save most of their profits.

Boat show impressive

[illegible]

It probably wasn't a first in the nation, but it was for Charlevoix and the reaction among those of us who attended Charlevoix's Boat Show in East Park and on Round Lake Saturday was nothing but favorable.

The problem was that the Clocks fell in love with every model on display. We had a fine time deciding who would sleep where and whether the dinghy would be towed or suspended from davits.

We were particularly impressed by the 30-foot Catalina with a 10-foot beam — just the ticket for overnight trips to Beaver Island.

The local sales reps on hand did a splendid job of displaying and discussing their waresand showed an astonishing degree of savvy about their products and their handling characteristics.

The final line must still be filled in on the financial results of the show, but we hope the display becomes an annual event — for dreamers and buyers alike.

Attendance at the premier offering wasn't overwhelming, but it is certain to improve as word of the event spreads.

WHEN THIS appears in print, Michiganders will still be casting ballots in the state's controversial primary election.

The election won't mean much to Democrats, who have already selected delegates at local party caucuses. Among Republicans, a neck-'n'-neck race has developed between GOP leader Ronald Reagan and George Bush, who has won the endorsement of such party notables as Gov. William Milliken and former Cong. Phil Ruppe.

I predict the real surprise in Michigan's primary will be in the number of votes cast by dissidents from both parties for Independent candidate John Anderson. If the polls are correct, Anderson could well outpoll all of the other contenders combined.

City Hall says Anderson's name will appear only in the Republican column. However a number of Democrats tell me he's their favorite, when it comes down to the wire. And I'm certain many Republicans will pick Anderson as a protest vote — if nothing else.

One recent poll showed that if the national election were held today, Anderson would chalk up 29 percent of the vote, President Carter 31 percent and Ronald Reagan 35 percent — with the balance apparently undecided. All of which is a pretty good showing for a fellow who has newly bolted his party for the uncertainty of independence.

Another private poll in New York state conducted by Roger Seasonwein Associates indicates that more than one third of the voters favor Anderson — but only if they are sure he could win the race.

ANDERSON'S big drawback in my book is his insistence on a 50-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax to reduce the nation's dependence on foreign oil.

Although I admire his intent, such a tax would place an undue hardship on working men and women in rural areas who must use their automobiles to get to and from work because public transportation is either non-existant or over-priced.

I would prefer an allocation system which would assure every car owner sufficient gasoline to meet his immediate needs at a price he can afford. I would even accept an across-the-board allocation of 10 or 15 gallons a week at $1 a gallon.

Beyond that, a 50-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline used for recreation would not be out of line.

Reading Olympics

Three elementary schools in Charlevoix County – Charlevoix, Boyne City and Boyne Falls – raised nearly $6,600 in a Reading Olympics sponsored by the March of Dimes. At the Charlevoix Elementary School, 120 students read 1,884 books, netting about $2,500. Mike Stargardt read the most books (43). Two books will be donated to the library in Mike's name. Mike is pictured on left with Cary Adgate, the honorary chairman of the Reading Olympics. Right, Adgate passes out medals to the students. Overall, 47 gold, 40 silver and 33 bronze medals were issued.

Randy and Laura Carey

Carey's under new ownership

By Laura Petrangelo

Carey Boot Shop in Charlevoix will be celebrating its new ownership with a grand opening sale Memorial Day weekend.

Randy and Laura Carey are the new owners of the store, which was founded by Randy's grandfather, Don Campbell, in 1919. They bought the store from Randy's parents, Charles and Jeanne Carey, who operated it from 1963 to the present time.

The Careys have remodeled the interior of the store while maintaining the old-time atmosphere. The walls of the store have been covered with rough sawn pine and the stock and seating have been rearranged to give the store the appearance of greater width. Featuring the original "1919 decor" throughout the store are button-down shoes and other antiques saved by Randy's grandfather.

While the Carey Boot Store will retain the shoe styles they have always carried, they are planning to "provide more for younger people in the sport shoe line," Randy said. "We will also provide for working women who need comfortable shoes."

Name brands include Dexter, Pro Keds, Converse, Connie, Old Maine Trotters, Laredo, Lazy Bones and Red Goose.

To celebrate the grand opening, there will be a drawing for a free pair of Top Siders during the Memorial Day weekend. The Carey Boot Shop will call the winner, so you do not need to be present to win. The Carey's decision for Top Siders as the prize was because of the popularity of the shoe and for traditional reasons as well.

"My grandfather started selling them when the company started in 1935," Randy said.

In addition to shoes, Carey Boot Shop carries a complete line of handbags and socks.

Randy and Laura assumed ownership on Jan. 1. Randy has an extensive background in radio – including a stint at WVOY. Laura had previously worked at Charlee's.

Carey Boot Shop will be open from 9 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

First State announces promotions

Louis J. Hollow, president of First State Bank of Charlevoix, has announced the promotions of Helen L. Emmons to assistant cashier and administrative officer and Nomis Mol to assistant cashier and accounting officer.

Mrs. Emmons has been with First State Bank since 1967 when she started as a teller. She served as head teller until her recent appointment as administrative assistant. Her duties include responsibility for the bank's charge card operations in addition to installment lending, customer service and other administrative responsibilities.

Ms. Mol has been with the bank since 1968 when she resumed her banking career on a part-time basis. She has been both a teller and a bookkeeper for First State Bank. In 1977 she was appointed accounting manager for the bank. She will continue to be in charge of the bookkeeping, proof and accounting sections of the bank.

In conjunction with these promotions, Marian Hawley has been appointed head teller for the bank. Ms. Hawley has been with the bank since 1972 and has served as bookkeeper, receptionist and teller.

'Schools Without Failure'

MSU offers education course here

A graduate seminar in education, ED 882, (2) Introduction to Schools Without Failure, will be offered by Michigan State University this summer term in Charlevoix June 16-20. Students will also register for one credit of Laboratory and Field Experience in Education (ED 884) to be held fall term after participants have put into practice specific skills learned during the summer session. Registration for both courses totaling three credit hours is required. The class will meet during summer term from 9 a.m.-3 p.m. daily Monday through Friday in the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District Conference Room. Hours, probably one classroom session, will be arranged during fall term.

Instruction will include strategies for getting students to think, develop self-worth, and accept the responsibility for their own work. Emphasis will be placed on the use of class discussion techniques and on reality therapy as it applies to school achievement. Participants will learn specific skills and will be required to apply them in their own situations in the fall. Mr Wayne Buletza, MSU Extension Lecturer will be the instructor.

Registration for the course will be held on Wednesday, May 28, from 3:30-4:30 p.m. in the Char-Em ISD Conference room. Fee is $117.50 including tuition and materials payable by check or money order made out to Michigan State University. Master Charge and Visa cards are also welcome. Registration by mail is also available upon request to the MSU Center in Traverse City by May 23.

Four graduate education courses will also be offered this summer term at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey. For complete schedule and further information concerning all courses in northern Michigan, write or call the MSU Center for Lifelong Education Programs, 202 Health and Education Building, Northwestern Michigan College, 1701 E. Scouts attend camporee

Accompanied by Scoutmaster Louis Edwards and assistant Scoutmaster John Houting, the scouts visited the Falls, attended the Camporee along with Canadian scouts and several troops from New York and, enroute home, spent some time in Toronto. There they rode the street cars, the subway train, went to the top of the Canadian Natinal Observation tower, 146 stories high, and visited the science museum.

Library Advisory Board has vacancy to fill

Persons interested in the operation of the Charlevoix Public Library are asked to consider serving on the Library Advisory Board.

There will be a vacancy on the Board effective July 1 which will be filled by the Superintendent of Schools with the approval of the School Board. Names should be submitted to the Superintendent prior to June [illegible]

The Library Advisory Board was formed a year ago to review library services, to make recommendations to the staff and the School Board, and to serve as liason between the public, the library staff, and the School Board, which is the governing body for the Charlevoix Public Library.

The Charlevoix Public Library Advisory Board is made up of the librarian, a School Board representative, and five members from the community. Members serve three-year terms and meet the third Thursday of each month, at [illegible] at the library.

Presently serving on the Advisory Board are Dr. Arthur [illegible] and [illegible], whose terms run for two more years, Margaret Duerr and Scott Beatty, whose terms run one more year, and Pat Sherman, whose term ends this June.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Charlevoix County had a kite flying and hot dog roast outing recently at the Assembly of God Church.

A contest to determine who had the most original kite (all boys and girls were to design and make their own) was won by Glenda and Ronda Clark (above). They painted a picture of Mickey Mouse on their kite and constructed it.

Big Brothers-Big Sisters of Emmet County attended the outing since they had invited their Charlevoix neighbors to a roller skating party at the Pied Piper of Hamlin earlier this year.

The Charlevoix chapter has opened an office in Boyne City to meet the "needs of the youngsters in the area better." Charlotte Howard McKay will be at the office in City Hall from 9 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Monday, Wesneaday and Friday.

Big Brothers and Big Sisters are still needed. If you would like to volunteer call 582-2808 in Boyne City or 547-6314 in Charlevoix.

Protestors arraigned

Anti-nuclear protestors - arrested at the Big Rock Point nuclear plant May 4 - were arraigned in 90th District Court Friday morning before Judge David Fershee

The 17 were charged with obstructing the egress and ingress to the plant.

The protestors had marched to the plant from Elzinga Park and sat down in the drive blocking vehicular traffic. When a Big Rock employee tried to leave the plant, the protestors refused to move and law enforcement officials were brought in to make arrests.

Summing up his feelings about th May 4 incident protestor Chuck Will of Williamston said in District Court

"I feel irritated that I had to lose a day's work today and come all the way up here. Consumers Power, the NRC, and the US legislators who contributed to getting us into this evil mess should be standing here in my place. They should be charged with unnecessarily endangering our environment and our lives, not to speak of the lives of our children and their children.

"The legal system is falling far short of its responsibility, and probably due to conscious design of the corporations and their concern for their investments. They have exerted this concern with great economic and political power. However, it has been brought about, the legal system seems impotent while our environment and lives are endangered - while our most basic rights are ignored.

"The NRC is basically an appendage of the corporations. The federal courts, I am told, send nuclear cases back to the NRC claiming they are not in their jurisdiction. The whole NRC and federal court process is very, very expensive. So the legal process has at least two catch 22s: 1) the NRC is like a corporate arm and 2) the court process is prohibitively expensive.

"The degree to which this corporate system has been able to manipulate, misinform and ignor our most fundamental rights is sickening.

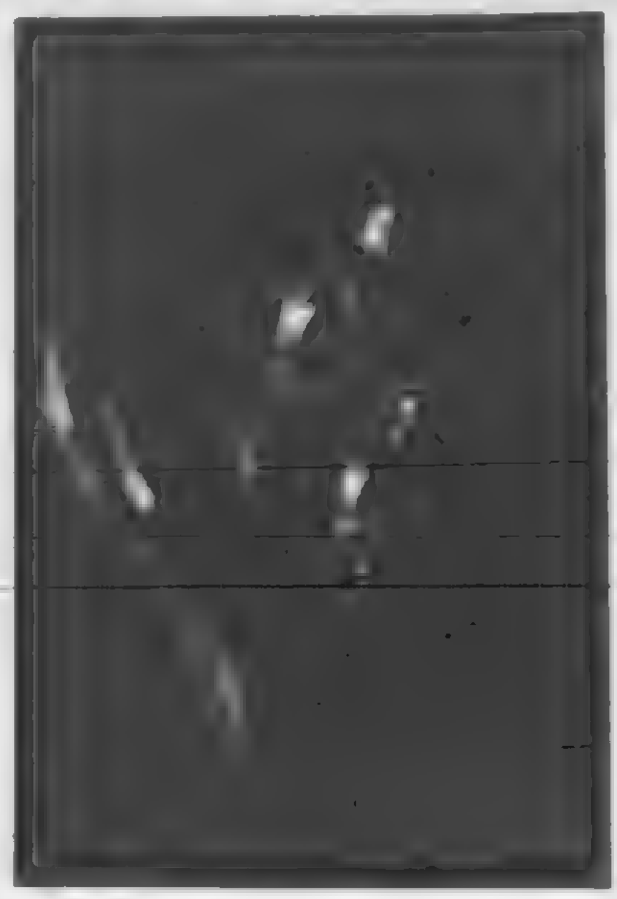
"If we were allowed to bring in expert witnesses in a jury trial, then in addition to showing our strong concern about this plant, experts in the field of nuclear power would be allowed, while in the public spotlight, to present information that the people of this state sorely need to hear. Information that should be - must become - common knowledge

"When courts and legislators are unable to remove a threat to peoples' life and liberty, people sometimes find it necessary to act directly to, in this case, come again and again with more and more people

"With thousands of people we may eventually be able to close the Big Rock plant by our shear numbers alone, as has happened at a nuclear plant in Europe."

The Charlevoix Elementary School recently purchased 350 books for 1st grade students. Students get to select and keep three books each in an effort "to stimulate reading." The books cost $400. The federal government-through its Reading Is Fundamental program - paid $300 of the cost and the Parent Advisory Council chipped in with the other $100. Here, a handful of first graders are pictured selecting their first books. A similar program is being designed for the second graders.

Engagements



Keie-Boss

Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Keie of Charlevoix announce the engagement of their daughter, Sally Ann, to Kenneth Scott Boss. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Boss, also of Charlevoix.

The bride-elect is a graduate of the Charlevoix High School and the Petoskey Beauty Academy. She is presently a cosmetologist at the Hair Affair in Eastport.

Her fiance is a graduate of the Charlevoix High School and is attending Ferris State College, majoring in Business Administration.

The wedding will take place June 14 at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

Real property: $277 million

Residents of Charlevoix County will pay taxes on real property valued at $277,850,088 in 1980, if the preliminary state equalized valuation remains unchanged.

This is the same figure approved by the County Board of Commissioners and submitted to the State Tax Commission. It is up 12.75 percent from the 1979 equalized valuation of $246,427,407.

Total worth of real property in the 83 counties of Michigan was placed at $72,500,481,234 (that's $72½ billion plus). This valuation is up 14.60 percent over 1979.

Statewide, increases in preliminary state equalized valuations ranged from 24.30 percent in Montcalm County to 4.92 percent in Luce County.

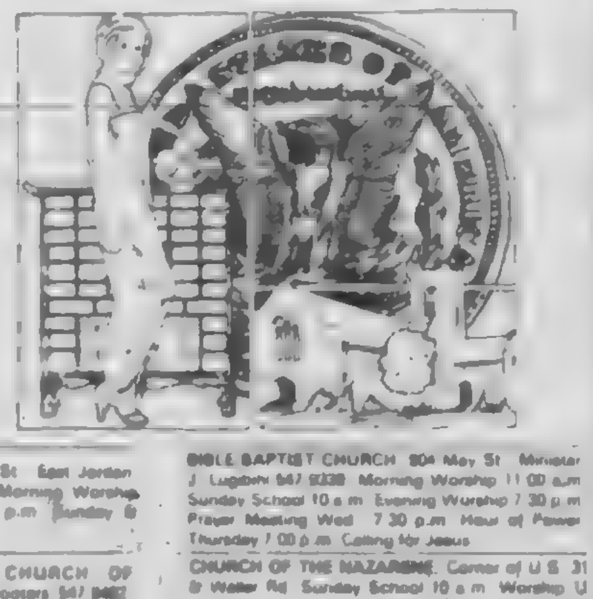
THE VALUE OF REAL WEALTH WILL NEVER DECREASE



On an almost daily basis, we are given the alarming news about the ever decreasing value of our money, and this has triggered a frantic rush to buy gold, land or whatever, while people still have anything with to buy it with. Called the "Harsha House", the building was willed to the Historical Society by the late Anne M. Harsha and is being developed as a museum by members of the society with funds derived from sales of the photographic history book of Charlevoix titled "Bob Miles' Charlevoix – a Century in Pictures".

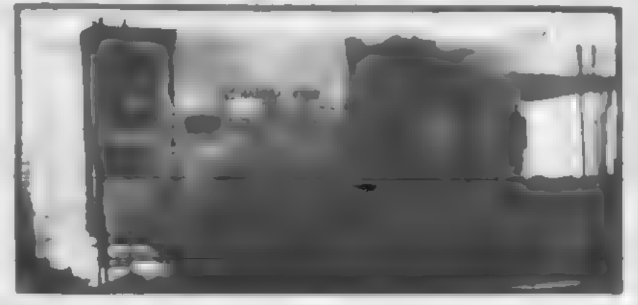
Everyone, young and old, who is interested in Charlevoix history is invited to the open house



The Charlevoix Chapter No. 72, Order of the Eastern Star, will observe its 90th anniversary with a visit from the Melbourne-Jones Grand Family, Grand Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star of Michigan, on Friday

The celebration will open with a potluck dinner for the Grand Family and Charlevoix Chapter members at 6 p.m. at the Masonic Temple. The chapter will open for exemplification of degrees at 7:30 p.m

The Charlevoix Chapter has an interesting history which began when Charlevoix Lodge No. 282, F. & A.M., held its first meeting at the Fox & Rose Hall in downtown Charlevoix on June 4, 1870. Nine years later, in 1879, Willard Smith, editor of an early newspaper in the community, the Charlevoix Sentinel, planned a new building in the young village with the understanding that he woul finance the construction of the first floor and the newly-organized Lodge would finance the second floor and have the use of it as a meeting place. On June 24, 1880, the new hall was dedicated.

It was in this hall that an organizational meeting was held and the Charlevoix Chapter of the Order of the Eastern star was born. Under dispensation, James J. Decker, Worthy Grand Patron, appointed Ida Emrey to the office of Worthy Matron, A.E. Mason, Worthy Patron and Carrie Hilton, Associate Matron. Other officers were elected and all those present were enrolled as charter members.

GEMWISE
THE BRIDE'S CHOICE
(Part II)
John Reusch
In my last article I told the legend of the god Vishnu who selected one of the sea's finest pearls for his daughter's wedding. The ancients who passed on this story believed that pearls brought love, happiness and good fortune.
Of course, even without magical powers pearls are an excellent choice for a bride. On this special day every woman wants to look her best, and there is nothing as flattering to the complexion as the pearl's unique glow.
If you are planning to give a gift of pearls to a bride, tell your jeweler the color of the bride's complexion, so he can help you select the right tone and color to best compliment her. In general, blondes look better in white rose pearls while brunettes are more flattered by light cream colors. Dark skinned women usually look best in deep cream shades.
You should also consider the length of the bride's neck. A long slender neck can carry off either the choker (15") or the princess (17½-18½") length. A shorter, heavier neck is best served by the princess length.
Please come into Reusch's for a free, full-color brochure on pearls which can guide you further to a wise choice. We also carry a wide selection of pearl jewelry. Browsers and their questions are always welcome. We're members of the American Gem Society because we've proven our knowledge of gemstones and jewelry. We're always anxious to share it with the public.

Coming Up This Weekend

Friday

The Charlevoix Challenge gets underway Friday night with a bridge tournament. Betty Verdenberg is organizing the masterpoint bridge championship, slated to start at 7:30 p.m. at the Weathervane Terrace. Jim and Phyllis Bloch are accepting entries at 547-5177

Saturday

On Saturday, the ladies are having a 9 hole, 4 women best-ball golf challenge. The event is scheduled to start at 8:30 a.m. at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course. Several prizes will be awarded and a lunch will be catered. To enter contact Pauline Young 547-9265, Ev Wujcik 547-6376 or Judy Zednacek 547-9520.

A slow pitch softball challenge will get underway later in the morning. Eight Class C-D independent teams will compete. The double elimination tournament will continue on Sunday and Monday. Ike Boss (547-4272) is organizing the softball challenge.

In the afternoon, a monopoly challenge is planned at the Weathervane Terrace. Contestants are needed. Anyone wanting to participate can call Rix Lobenherz at 547-9906.

A square dance at the Charlevoix Middle School gymnasium will cap the day's activities. The dance will feature the national championship Grange Band - Jasper and the Tag A-Longs. George Smith will be the caller.

Sunday

An 18 hole, 2 man best-ball golf challenge starts Sunday's endeavors. The challenge - featuring a shot gun start - opens at 8:30 a.m. at the Belvedere Club. Several prizes will be awarded. For more on the golf tournament contact Joe Etiennne at 547-4071

A men's 40 and over doubles tennis challenge is scheduled in the afternoon at the Charlevoix Municipal Courts. No definite time has been set. For more information contact [illegible].

The Charlevoix Historical Society will be showcasing its new home - the Harsha House - at 103 State Street from 2-5 p.m. The public will have an opportunity to see the two refurbished rooms which serve as an archives repository and a display area for hundreds of pictures depicting early Charlevoix.

Meanwhile, a "Sounds of Music" challenge is shaping up at Ferry Beach in the afternoon. Several area bands will compete in this "battle of the bands." Any band interested in playing should contact Beth Egler at 547-8713.

Monday

On Monday - Memorial Day - the Medusa Challenger comes to town. The Challenger will enter the harbor at approximately 8:30 a.m. Tours will start at 10 a.m. and last until 10 p.m.

A foot race challenge is scheduled in the morning, too. The races - 3.1 miles and 6.2 miles - will start at either 9:50 a.m. or right after the parade. The races will start on Bridge Street with the finish line at the Lake Michigan Beach. For more information [illegible]

The Charlevoix Post No. 1153, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion, have again joined in planning the annual Memorial Day services in honor of the nation's war dead.

The formal program will be held at Brookside Cemetery at approximately 10:45 a.m. following the traditional parade scheduled to begin at Park Avenue at 10 a.m. and march through the business district with stops at East Park and Veterans Park to the cemetery.

Gordon W. VanWieren, superintendent of the Charlevoix Schools and a U.S. Air Force veteran of World War II, will deliver the Memorial Day address.

The program will open with the invocation by the Rev. Austin Regier followed by Kristy Mathews delivering the "Gettysburg Address"

A floral tribute by Paul Steffen, commander of the American Legion Post and Lyle King, Commander of the V.F.W. post will be followed by a 21-gun salute by the firing squad composed of veterans of both organizations. After taps are played by William Horton and Dorie Olach, the Charlevoix High School Marching Band, directed by Michael Filkins, will play that National Anthem as the flag, flying at half-mast, is lowered and raise to full mast

The Rev. Regier will then give the benediction.

Clement Olach will serve as master of ceremonies.

The band will also play a program of patriotic selections prior to the program.

The Memorial Day parade will assemble on Park Avenue at State Street at 9:30 a.m. and begin its march at 10 a.m. sharp.

The parade will halt at East Park where Squad Leader Fritz Allard will proceed with the color bearers and rifle squad and representatives of the V.F.W. and American Auxiliaries to the lower level of the park. After the Charlevoix High School Marching band plays a patriotic selection, the auxiliary members will place a wreath on the waters of Round Lake and Benjamin S. Gill will place a wreath at the Submarine Memorial. After a 21 gun salute and taps the band will play the National Anthem and the flag raised to full staff

The parade will then proceed to Memorial Park at Bridge Street and Belvedere Avenue where a wreath will be placed and the flag raised at full staff

The parade will then continue to Brookside Cemetery for the formal program.

The parade will be headed by Clarence Goldstick, past commander of the V.F.W. and Harry Pearsall, past commander of the American Legion with Sam King and E.J. Edwards, World War I veterans as honorary marshals.

Members of both organizations will form the color guard and firing squad followed by members of the two organizations and other veterans; the auxiliaries of the service groups; the Charlevoix High School Marching Band and its director, Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts, Girl Scouts, Brownie Scouts; youngsters on bicycles and riders on horses.

In the event of inclement weather, the program will be held at the Charlevoix High School gymnasium.

At noon a penny hunt is slated at the end of Clinton Street near the city dock. A pile of sand will be dumped at the site and employees at Big Rock will hide 10,000 pennies in the sand for youngsters to find. Children through 8 years of age [illegible] possible. To avoid confusion, the penny hunt will be divided into age groups. From noon until 12:10 p.m. the 3 and 4 year-olds will hunt pennies, from 12:15-12:25 p.m. it's the 5 year-olds turn, from 12:30-12:40 p.m. it's the 6 year-olds turn, and from 12:45-12:55 p.m. the 7-8 year-olds take over. The sand pile will be replenished with pennies after each hunt

A gymnastics demonstration will take place in East Park at 12:30 p.m. and again at 3:30 p.m. The gymnasts - over 150 - will be from the Charlevoix School of Gymnastics.

The Charlevoix Jaycees will sponsor a tug-of-war in East Park after the gymnastics demonstration. Challenges have been accepted from the Petoskey Jaycees and the Sundew crew. For more information contact Dan Alder at 547-8971

A fire department (Charlevoix Township) water ball fight will start at 3 p.m. in East Park.

On board the Challenger school bands, Barbershop Quartets and Sweet Adelines will provide listening pleasure for the viewers.

Jeff Lutz

Taxidermy opens in Ironton

Remember that big lake trout you caught last year? The one that nearly got away?

You don't!

Well, perhaps, Jeff Lutz is a man you might want to know. Lutz would like you to "keep your trophy forever."

Lutz has just opened "Lasting Memories," a taxidermy business in Ironton.

Lutz is a recent graduate of the American Institute of Taxidermy (Janesville, Wis.).

"It's probably the best taxidermy institute in the United States," Lutz said. "They taught us all phases of mounting."

Since graduating in April, Lutz has been busy remodeling his studio and building a name for himself in the profession.

According to Lutz, there are a handful of taxidermists in the area, which is somewhat surprising since, he said, there is a demand.

Lutz became interested in taxidermy "during my last two years of high school." But it was not until December - when he enrolled in the Institute of Taxidermy - did he decide to take it seriously.

In addition to fish, Lutz can mount birds, deer, and other types of game. He has a state and federal license, which means he can mount migratory waterfowl as well. He does full mounts, and heads too.

Lutz, 21, plans to focus his business in a 50 mile perimeter extending to Mackinaw City to the north and Traverse City to the south. He has a collection of his work set-up in his Ironton studio. Lutz is a member of the National Taxidermy Association.

A 1977 graduate of Charlevoix High School, Lutz is also employed at Wojan Aluminum.

Choir to be formed

A community choir is now being formed to present John W. Peterson's musical "Love and Kindness" at the next Community Hymn Sing in Charlevoix on June 15, according to Rev. Walter G. Hastings, president of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association.

The Hymn Sing will be hosted by the Community Church of God, 202 W. Hurlbut Street in Charlevoix, at 8:30 p.m. The singing of hymns and other special music will be featured as well as the musical "Love and Kindness."

Musical director William Purdy invites all interested persons to participate in the four choir rehearsals on Wednesdays from 8:15 to 9:30 p.m., beginning May 21. Singers from all churches are welcome.

The musical presents a unique worship experience, combining both light-hearted songs of praise with more serious, thought-provoking music.

For further information call the Community Church of God at 547-2875.

Kiwanis observe Prayer Week

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix joined with clubs in 60 countries around the world in observing Worldwide Prayer Week (May 13-17).

In the United States, the program was kicked off with a prayer breakfast in Washington D.C. to which President Carter and other dignitaries were invited. The observance was designed to dramatize the longstanding Kiwanis "Support of Spiritual Aims" program. Kiwanis is the only large secular organization to promote such an activity

Clarence Odmark, president of the Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix, said "It is Kiwanis' own answer to man's eternal quest for peace; across the border acknowledgement of the presence of a Being superior to man, himself, as a long step toward accomplishing that peace which the world needs and wants."

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix observed the week by hosting members of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association at their luncheon meeting at the Gey Gables Inn Tuesday. During the meeting, Cecil Drost, a resident of Charlevoix, was honored with the "Layman of the Year in Support of Spiritual Aims" award.

Father R. Dale Magoon, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church, was the principal speaker at the meeting.

by all its residents, including Indian commercial fishermen.

In previous motions and appeals, Kelley has maintained that the defendant Indian tribes gave up their unlimited fishing rights and agreed to be subject to state regulation.

"The core issue is the state's right to regulate fishing," Kelley summarized from his suit. "And that issue must be decided by the courts not by the federal bureaucracy."

In the meantime, Kelley said in his suit, fish stocks will suffer irreparable harm and depletion unless all commercial gill netting is stopped until the court can resolve the core issues.

Kelley further contends that recent regulations promulgated by the Department of Interior are inappropriate and ineffective, if not void altogether.

Specifically, the attorney general contends that the Department of Interior does not have the authority to regulate Indian fishing outside the reservation.

The new regulations also violate the Coastal Zone Management Act which specifies that federal and state officials regulate coastal waters like the Great Lakes, Kelley said.

The new regulations are particularly ineffective because they allow excessive amounts of fish to be taken, thus endangering a vital resource, he added.

Boss says

Weekend should be 'humdinger'

Charlevoix's upcoming Memorial Day weekend is going to be a "humdinger" according to 1980 Charlevoix County Michigan Week chairman, Dale Boss who has joined with Dr Merle Plagge, president of the Charlevoix Band Boosters Association and others in the community to develop the Charlevoix Challenge.

Boss and the Band Boosters adopted the Charlevoix Challenge theme to couple a community visit by the 552 foot S.S. Medusa Challenger to downtown Charlevoix on Memorial Day (Monday, May 26) with a kickoff of a fund drive to raise $25,000 for Charlevoix High School band uniforms and band camp expenses.

Boss said it was a series of interesting coincidences that created the Michigan Week Charlevoix Challenge weekend. It has grown from a one day Open Ship event aboard the Medusa Challenger to several fund raising activities that start Friday.

"When I accepted the Michigan Week County Chairmanship in January, I asked Medusa Cement if they could bring the Medusa Challenger into Round Lake for a community tour and Memorial Day Service or band concert aboard ship. Medusa in their usual community-spirited manner agreed to do it despite the cost and the mooring problems," Boss said

The 552 foot S.S. Medusa Challenger will be the largest ship in history to visit downtown Charlevoix

The Open Ship tours are tentatively scheduled from 10 a.m to 10 p.m. with a donation of $1.50 for adults and 50¢ for children to the Band Fund

With a length of 552 feet and 56 foot beam, the S.S. Medusa Challenger's Skinner Engine and Steam Boilers power over a million tons of cement during voyages annually between Charlevoix, Manitowoc, Milwaukee, Chicago, Detroit and Cleveland. One full load alone would provide sufficient cement to build five miles of Interstate Highway or make 6,700,000 concrete blocks.

A 14.3 foot propeller weighing 13,000 pounds moved the ship swiftly from Charlevoix to the various terminal destinations where the Challenger automatically unloads 1,500 tons per hour. Its total displacement is 17,720 tons.

Building starting to pick up

With the promise of warmer weather, the issuance of building permits in Charlevoix County increased during April.

The Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection reports that it issued 46 permits in April, compared with 18 in March, 16 in February, and 14 in January.

Although only six of the permits were for new houses, 15 more permits were issued for additions and remodeling of houses, two for residential garages, five for residential decks and porches, and five for residential outbuildings. Construction costs for work covered by these permits is estimated at $344,380.

In the commercial category, three permits were issued for new buildings, three for additions and remodeling, and one for a commercial outbuilding. The estimated cost of this construction work is $53,924

With 14 permits, the City of Charlevoix showed the most building activity of any area in the county. South Arm Township, with 13 permits, was a close second, followed by Eveline Township, nine; City of Boyne City, nine; Hayes Township, eight; Melrose Township, eight; Charlevoix Township, six; Wilson Township, five; Evangeline Township, four; City of East Jordan, four; Boyne Valley Township, three; Hudson Township, three; Norwood Township, two; Village of Boyne Falls, two; Bay Township, one; Chandler Township, one; and Marion Township, one.

Neil and Alicia Norton

Services planned

Evangelist George Cook from Gregory will be speaking at services at the Church of the Nazarene until May 25.

Rev. Cook is an experienced minister and preacher who has pastored several Home Mission Churches. The building of small churches has been his lifelong love. He has most recently pastored the Church of the Nazarene in Ypsilanti.

Sunday services are at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. and week night services begin at 7:30 p.m. Music will be provided by Neil and Alicia Norton.

Monday, May 26 - Memorial Day in Charlevoix has something for the entire family beginning at 8 A.M. when the S.S. Medusa Challenger moves through the narrow Pine River Channel to Round Lake. Plan now to enjoy all these events • Parade • Ship's Tour • Penny Hunt • Band Music (over 55 bands have been invited) • Water Ball Fight • Jaycees Tug-of-War Statewide Competition • Barber Shop Quartet Competition • Slo-Pitch Tournament • Marathon Run • Tennis Tourney • Monopoly • Gymnastics Exhibition WHAT A BARGAIN! All this and more for one small donation to the Band Fund

To help raise funds for the Charlevoix High School Band, Medusa Cement will contribute $1 for every $2 donated by the public for the Ship Tour. So in addition to your enjoyable Ship's Tour, your donation at the Gangplank is really working to support Charlevoix youth IF WINDS PREVENT ROUND LAKE DOCKING, the S.S. Medusa Challenger Ship Visit will be held at Medusa Plant Dock. Directions to the Medusa Dock will be posted throughout the Downtown area if necessary.

Medusa Cement Company in cooperation with the Charlevoix County Michigan Week Committee and the Charlevoix Band Boosters is happy to be part of the 1980 Charlevoix Challenge.

Bahnhof voted retailer of the year

The Bahnhof Ski Shop has been voted the Midwestern Ski Retailer of the Year for the 1979-80 ski season by the companies of Ski Industries America, [redacted] sport of skiing

Shop owners Greg and Lindy Smith were presented with an award plaque by Ski Industries America (SIA) President Denny Hanson at the 1980 SIA Retailer Seminar held recently at the Las Vegas Convention Center. The seminar opened the 1980 SIA Trade Show, where 268 manufacturers, importers and distributors of ski apparel, equipment, footwear, and accessories exhibited their products to the 10,926 retailers attending.

Smith was "surprised" [redacted].

"It was a pleasant surprise to occur during a tough winter like the one we've been through. One of the few uppers of the year," he said.

The Bahnhof Ski Shop was started 21 years ago by Lionel Hayes, a prominent ski representative in the industry. The business now incorporates three resort shops, three town shops (including Charlevoix), and three rental shops. Both alpine and nordic apparel and equipment are sold by Bahnhof and Smith said that the dollar volume is split about half and half between alpine and nordic products.

When asked about the particular needs of customers in this area, Smith said, "The most prominent thing is good service. Being in a resort area, we have skiers coming from metropolitan areas such as Detroit and Chicago. And they're here to have fun, they're on vacation, and don't want to miss any hours of skiing."

Bahnhof Ski Shops offer "while you wait" service, and also has a registered ski school for both alpine and nordic skiing, with a certified ski instructer to critique on-snow performance, along with its strong business in ski rentals.

"It is this kind of service to its customers that has helped Bahnhof win the respect and recognition of ski companies throughout the country, by being voted the Ski Retailer of the Year in the Midwest, for its success in the ski market, its promotional and marketing techniques, and its contributions to the growth of skiing," an SIA spokesman [redacted]

The Charlevoix Middle School girls track team placed second in the second annual Michigan-Huron Shores Conference track and field meet hosted by Charlevoix at Kipke Field Friday

A strong Grayling team took the title with 77 points. Charlevoix came in second with 51 points followed by Gaylord with 41; Cheboygan 31; Petoskey, 20; Boyne City, 16 and St. Ignace, three. Rogers City was not entered in the meet.

The Charlevoix team – coached by Henry Wagner – set three new conference records in the meet with Lisa McDonough running the 75 yard dash in 9.88 to better the former record of .10 set last year by Morgan of Gaylord; the 880 yard relay team of Missy Sandahl, Brenda Currier, Kathy Crinnion and Dianna Loder covering the distance in 2:01.21 (the old record was 2:03.71 set by Petoskey) and the 440 relay team running the distance in 57.38. The old record set by Gaylord was 58.2. Team members were McDonough, Lisa Mosher, Toni Eakes and Alida Ford.

Grayling also set three new records with Cheboygan and Gaylord setting one each. Grayling's Bitner jumped 4'10" to better her former record of 4'4"; Grayling's mile relay team ran the distance in 4:50.92 to better its former record of 5:02.1 and Weatherly ran the 220 yard dash in 29.71 trimming 1.49 off the record set by Terpening of Petoskey.

Cheboygan's Carmody had a distance of 14'9" in the long jump to out-distance the record of 13'6¼" set by D. Weatherly of Grayling and Nobach of Gaylord ran the 100 yard dash in 12.03 to better her own record of 12.84.

On Monday, the girls track team bested Cheboygan, 90-33. The girls set two new school records. Leslie Miller ran the two mile in 14:56.5, bettering the old record of 15:03, and Ann Wagner ran the hurdles in 10.56, eclipsing the old mark of 10.8. The girls captured 11 of 15 events.

Rayders back on winning track

The Charlevoix Rayder baseball team got back on the winning track Saturday by sweeping a doubleheader from Central Lake 18-2 and 8-7

Kirk Heckendorn pitched a two hitter to pick up the win in the opener. He was aided by Brian Carson's bases loaded home run and Roxy Van Loo's three run shot. Jim Buchanan collected three hits and Jack Carlson added two as the Rayders rolled to victory.

It was not so easy in the nightcap, however. Scott Kelly in relief of Kurt Puffpaff got the win. Ken Speigl had two hits and John Lachman had a home run to pace the Rayder hitting attack.

Earlier in the week, the Rayders lost a doubleheader to Petoskey and split a twin bill with Rogers City

Against Petoskey, the Rayders bowed 6-4 and 2-0. In the opener, Mike Loper was the losing hurler. Buchanan had a home run while Roxy VanLoo collected a double and single. The Rayders were silenced on one hit in the nightcap - a single by Scott Morgan. VanLoo took the loss

Against Rogers City, Charlevoix won the opener 4-3 despite being outhit 5-4. Morgan got credit for the win. He also led the hitting parade with two hits including a home run. In the second contest, Rogers City edged the Rayders 5-4. VanLoo took the loss. Jack Carlson homered for Charlevoix

The Rayders are 13-6 on the season and 5-1 in the Michigan-[redacted]

Netters qualify for state meet

The Charlevoix Rayder tennis team placed second in the Class C-D Regional championships at Traverse City Friday and qualified for competition in the state meet scheduled May 30-31 at University Liggett School at Livonia.

Glen Lake placed first with 18 points followed by Charlevoix with 15, East Jordan with 14 and Boyne City with 11 points.

In the singles, Dennis Morgridge won his first two matches to advance to the finals against the No. 2 seed, Joe Gillen of Glen Lake. Morgridge lost his first set 6-7, won his second 7-6 and had a 5-2 lead before losing the third 6-3.

The Rayders' No. 2 singles, Jeff Morgridge won his first two singles before losing 6-3, 6-2 to Bob Sutherland of Glen Lake whom Coach Chuck Wright called the "best player in the tournament Friday."

Kris Lignell, No. 5 singles, won her first match before going against Cliff Kuenzer of Manistee Catholic. She won her first match and was ahead 5-3 and had a one point match before losing 7-5, 6-2.

Charlevoix's No. 1 doubles, John Grooters and Rick Rajewski was the only team to win its flight, Coach Wright said. They defeated Laura Weisen and Kevin Crinion of Glen Lake and won over Leland before meeting Duane Carpenter and Kevin Dietrich whom they defeated 6-2, 6-4. Wright said Carpenter played excellent ball to make the match closer than the score indicates. He went on to say that Carpenter and Dietrich had won their second and third doubles over Charlevoix and Boyne City. East Jordan with a total of 14 points won 11 of them in their doubles. A team could win a maximum of 12 points in the doubles. Wright added that East Jordan had one of the most improved teams in the tournament, playing better in each meet as the season progressed.

Charlevoix's No. 2 doubles, Peter Dunkleberg and Paul Hoffman lost to Dan Goebel and Steve Drenth of East Jordan 6-2, 6-1. Wright said that this was another East Jordan team that showed great improvement.

Lew Kline and Peter Cockfield, No. 3 doubles, lost their first match to Kurt Erexelbn and Eric Holliday of Harbor Springs 6-2, 6-1.

Wright, whose team had won the title in 1979, said he was pleased with his team's performance; that they competed well at Traverse City and that he was now looking forward to the state [redacted]

Earlier in the week, the Rayders won a conference match against Boyne City, 4-3, while losing to non-league foe Glen Lake, 5-2.

Against Boyne City, Dennis Morgridge (C) defeated Ken Kruzel 6-2, 6-0; Jeff Morgridge (C) defeated Tom Bajko 6-0, 6-0; Kerry Kruzel (BC) defeated Knight 6-2, 6-0; Mike Neumann (BC) defeated Lignell 6-2, 6-3; Grooters and Rajewski (C) defeated Gil Redmer and Mike Toffolo 6-2, 6-1; Dunkleberg and Staley (C) defeated Dave Mettig and Jeff Snyder 7-5, 6-4; and Nancy Lentz and Mike Hoffmann (BC) defeated Lew Kline and Pete Cockfield 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

Against Glen Lake, Joe Gillen (GL) defeated Dennis Morgridge 1-6, 6-3, 7-5; Bob Sutherland (GL) defeated Jeff Morgridge 7-6, 7-6; Matt Sutherland (GL) defeated Knight 6-2, 6-4; Ken Leinbach (GL) defeated Lignell 6-0, 6-0; Grooters and Rajewski (C) defeated Laura Weissen and Kevin Crinion 6-1, 6-1; Hoffman and Dunkleberg (C) defeated Fred Reynolds and Mike Marnes 6-3, 6-3; and Tom Milks and Bill Zolman (GL) defeated Cockfield and Kline 6-4, 6-4.

Mt. Clemens takes softball tourney here

Mt. Clemens North High School captured a four team round robin softball tournament here Saturday

Mt. Clemens defeated Cheboygan Catholic, 8-0, Charlevoix, 11-2, and Gaylord St. Mary 12-1 to win the tournament.

Charlevoix lost to Gaylord St. Mary, 6-2, to start the day's action. Melinda Klooster was saddled with the loss. Colleen LaBiance had two hits for the Rayders while Holly Taber and Doretta Anderson had one hit apiece

The Rayders dumped Cheboygan Catholic, 7-1, later in the day as Mel Kerridge pitched a one hitter. Brenda Buchanan had a triple and a single, Kerridge had two doubles and Taber two singles to pace the Rayders.

Against Mt. Clemens, Kerridge suffered the loss, allowing four hits. The Rayders had three hits in the contest - a triple by Kerridge and singles by Margo Smith and Kim Bolduc.

In the day's other contest, Gaylord St. Mary edged Cheboygan [redacted]

Earlier in the week, Charlevoix advanced in Class C pre-district playoff competition with a 20-5 triumph over Lake City. Klooster hurled a one hitter for the Rayders, who will now play in Mancelona on Friday. Bridget Noirot, Anderson and Bolduc each collected two singles and a double; Kerridge had a double and a single; Taber and LaBiance had two singles; and Jackie Pence, [redacted]

The Rayders also swept a doubleheader from Petoskey on Monday. Charlevoix won the opener, 10-1, behind Klooster's one hitter. Buchanan, Klooster, Anderson and Bridget Noirot had two hits apiece for Charlevoix while Teresa Noirot added a triple. In the nightcap, Charlevoix prevailed, 20-3, as Klooster pitched a three hitter. The Raydera banged out 20 hits. Klooster, Kerridge and Bridget Noirot had three hits each.

No Wax Sheet Floors
Armstrong believes that a no-wax floor should give you all the benefits of waxing...without all the work. That's why each member of the Armstrong family of no-wax floors features a unique specially formulated wear surface called Mirabond that provides this combination of 3 important benefits.

1. Long-lasting built-in shine – will retain its lustrous "like-new" look without waxing.
2. Easy Maintenance –
3. Protection of the color and pattern of the floor.

The most durable of all surfaces used on Armstrong floors today, Mirabond has superior resistance to the scuffs & scratches that dull ordinary vinyl floors, giving our Solarian products their unique no wax performance.

There's never been an Armstrong floor so luxurious.

Sloan sparkles

The Charlevoix Rayder track team finished fifth among 15 schools in the Class C regional track meet at Benzie Central Saturday and qualified two sophomores for state competition.

The top three finishers in each event qualified for state [redacted]

Van Sloan topped all participants in the meet by scoring 20 points for his team and qualifying in three events. He placed first in the 440 yard dash with a time of 52.8 and second in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. "His performance was most impressive, especially for a sophomore" Coach Hal Evans said.

Gary Drury placed second in the shot put and qualified for a trip to Middleville for the state meet May 31. He threw the shot 44'9½''.

Others who finished among the top six and received medals were Jeff Landon, who placed fourth in the mile; the mile relay team of Jay Swartwout, Jeff Drury, Kurt Williams and Sloan, which placed fourth; and Gerard Doan, who came in fifth in the high hurdles.

The team will go to Petoskey for the annual Petoskey Relays on Tuesday and again on Thursday for the Michigan-Huron Shores [redacted]

Earlier in the week, the boys competed in the Traverse City Relays, finishing third among 12 schools. Charlevoix set two meet records in the four mile and distance medley relays. In the four mile relay Jay Swartout, Jeff Landon, Mark Drenth and Scott Davis covered the distance in 19:28.1 to better the old mark of 19:37. Davis Van Sloan, Swartout and Landon then ran the distance medley in 11:31.7, breaking the old mark of 11:40. Gary Drury also placed first in the shot put relay with Gary Drury and Gerard Doan throwing the shot a combined total of 82'7½''.

Other points were earned by: Jim Landon, Bill Ranger, Dave Buday and George Smith, 2200 medley relay; Sloan and Jeff Trimper, high jump relay; Joel Schnackenberg and Mark Beaudoin, discus relay; Bill Dohm, Buday, Ranger and Jim Landon, middle distance relay; Kurt Williams, Swartout, Jeff Drury and Sloan, mile relay.

The Rayders scored a victory over Gaylord on Monday, 69-63. Gary Drury (shot put), Gerard Doan (high hurdles), Jeff Landon (mile), Kurt Williams (440), George Smith (low hurdles), Jeff Landon (880), Jay Swartout (two mile) and the mile relay team (Williams, Buday, Jeff Drury and Sloan) all captured first places.

Ford qualifies

Tanya Ford, Charlevoix High School sophomore, placed third in the 220 yard dash and fifth in the 100 yard dash to give the Rayder girls' track team eight points and to qualify for state competition.

Coach Dennis VanGuilder said she would be participating in the state Class C meet at Cassopolis.

Mason County Central won the meet with 108½ points.

East Jordan finished seventh with 27 points and Boyne City with 20, all scored by Becky Amesbury who finished first in the 100 and 440 yard dashes.

The girls team won its first meet of the year Monday by downing Gaylord, 60-67. Laura Kemp had two first place finishes (shot put and 110 low hurdles) while Nancy Cluk won the discus; Patty Cook won the mile; Tanya Ford, Lisa Plachner, Sally Westenbroek and Marie Buday captured the 440 relay; Mary Beth Eldredge won the 220 low hurdles; and the Tanya Ford, Marie Buday, Nancy Cluk and Vicki Rogers won the mile relay.

On Your Mark, Get Set....

By Trish Wright

The Starting Line

Step up to summer's starting line looking toned and trim. As the weather gets warmer, you'll want to shed those winter wraps and maybe a few pounds. Don't be left in the Stands of Summer '80. You don't have to be a jock to be a sport. This season's list of events include: swimming, jogging, dancing, strolling and revealing. Be a participant worth being observed by getting in shape now.

The Bottom Line

Slender and strong; let these adjectives describe you by eating right and exercising. The unfit individual is more likely to suffer fatigue than the fit one. Aerobic dancing is a fun way to tune the body. An exercise that regularly puts stress on the heart and lungs enables better oxygen usage, and healthy lungs and heart reduces fatigue. There are myriad exercises for your problem areas, so identify your reducing needs and add a little music to accompany your fitness program with time and rhythm. Skipping breakfast and lunch can slump the rest of yur day. Eat sensibly, and if you must munch, make your snack out of nuts, yogurt or cheese.

The Finish Line

Learn a few sartorial tricks to fool the observer. Extended shoulders make waist and hips look slimmer. Stitched down pleats in pants conceal bulges in hips and thighs. Solids colors, ¾ length sweaters, hip bone jackets and tapered slacks etch a trimmer silhouette. Avoid "extra emphasizers" like dirndl skirts, drawstring pants, elasticized waists and belts over 1" wide.

Earn your stripes by knowing the optical illusions created by lines. For a fuller bustline wear horizontal lines across the bust. A longer waist is achieved by a long diagonal stripe. Diagonal lines draw the eye up and around a shape that looks great!

On The Charlevoix Spring Dinner-Dance

By Mary Lee Huber

The 1980 summer season began with a smash................. The annual Dinner-Dance at the Beautiful Belvedere Club Casino, in Charlevoix, attracted over 200 guests. The formal affair brought out finery that ran the gamut. Long formal designer gowns, short attractive evening dresses, bright nauticals, tuxedos, casual two piece tailored suits, and even a panamanian hat worn alternately by mayor Sam Supernaw and Tom Merta.

The annual dinner dance is sponsored by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce and organized by Jacquie Merta. This year Jacquie really surpassed herself by featuring Good Food catered by Grey Gables.....Good Music delivered in summertime style by "Attraction", Good company and imbibing beverages for all.....combined, it created Good times and Great fun for all.

DAISY L FASHIONS
By Trish Wright

What do you get when you combine a gourmet cook and a cosmotologist? A head for business with taste to ensure success. The owners of Daisy L. Lee Keller and Carla Lauer, have proved that you don't have to have a "ready-to-wear" background to own one of the most successful clothing stores in our Bay Area.

Lee Keller, a schooled and skilled gourmet cook, conceived Daisy L with friend Carla Lauer, a hairdresser, two years ago. Their ideas materialized into a women's clothing store carrying sizes 5 to 50. "We didn't intend to carry larger sizes for women," explains Lee, "but I bought them for myself, and we soon realized we had a market for extra sizes." Carla and Lee do all the buying for their junior, missy and women's departments. Lee, who buys the women's lines says she tries everything on herself for size and comfort. "If a line isn't true to size, I won't buy it."

Some of the brands you'll find at Daisy L are: Pandora, Jonathon Logan, and Fancy Props for Juniors, Butte Knit, White Stag and Fire Islender for Missy sizes and Ample Togs, Queen Casuals and Trissy for Women. Lee credits good merchandise that is affordable for Daisy L's success. "Our customers come from Charlevoix, Alpena, the Soo and Grayling as well as Petoskey," says she. "What you will see in the store this spring are lots of bright colors that excite and please the customer's fashion awareness. This fall will be replete with pleats and plaids, velours and blazers. Separates are mixed to match your wardrobe's budget.

When asked what is the hottest item they now stock, Lee answered that "Round The Clock" pantyhose was a running bestseller because of their full size range and styling. "One reason why so many large size women wear slacks, is because they can't find hosiery to fit." Daisy L has round the clock sizes (small to queen) in everything from sheer to support.

Carla and Lee will celebrate their store's two year anniversary this August. Daisy L is located at the Bay Mall (between Kmart and Kroger) in Petoskey. You are invited to browse and meet Lee and Carla. The pleasure will be yours at finding friendly service and a fine selection of merchandise. Remember to look for Daisy L in the Stafford and Pier Fashion shows this summer.

Anne Sullivan, dance instructor at the Charlevoix School of Gymnastics.

It's all in the way that you feel! Improvisational movement inspired by music, thoughts and interactions with other dancers.

Charlevoix Dancers Get Hip to the Music

by Lizette Belanger

Plie, Chasse and Pas de Bourre look like delicacies found on a French menu at Pierre's but in fact these words describe form. They are intentional movements dancers use to tell a story. Anyone can be taught these dance steps. What then distinguishes a good dancer from a polished master of the art? According to Anne Sullivan dancing instructor at the Charlevoix School of Gymnastics, it's the ability to be in control of your body when your weight is favoring one side more than the other. It's being in control of an uncomfortable position. The artist must also be [illegible] in his performance. Like Berysnikov, Anne says, he's totally immersed in what he's doing.

Anne who has been teaching dance classes (ranging from beginner to advanced) in Charlevoix since September of 1979 wanted to expose her classes to the dedication and discipline it takes in training to be a professional dancer. On April 26th Anne took a group of Charlevoix dancers down to Interlochen Academy of Arts to participate in intermediate level modern & ballet dance classes. A highlight of the afternoon was Diane Hart (a guest instructor from New York) and Su Burns an instructor from the academy who taught the modern dance classes.

Interlochen is a familiar site to Anne. She spent 4 years there developing her unique talent which was [illegible] evident in her performance for the Jacksonville Florida Art Festival. Ms. Sullivan graduated from Sarah Lawrence College in N.Y. and plans on returning to New York at the end of the summer to further enhance her career in dance.

Anne encourages both young and old, beginner and advanced to get involved in dance. To dance with a group in front of other people helps to strengthen an individual's confidence. Inhibitions liberate and the person becomes more comfortable with themselves and with other people. They also are more sensitive to the insecurities of the other dancers because they share those same fears.

If you religiously practice your stretching exercises you can feel those chronic aches and pains vanish. Coordination and body control are benefits of the art and a sense of composition is developed, by learning to put steps and body movements together with music. Ann adds dance enables you to create a mood for your audience. It can be an animated way of expressing yourself.

Obituaries

LAMBERT DOCTER

Lambert L. Docter, a 35 year resident of Royal Oak, died April 11. He was born Aug. 6, 1905 in Antrim County and was a part-time summer resident at his cottage on Antrim Bay [illegible].

Surviving are his wife, Alice; a son, Lester; a daughter, Mrs. Hiram (Dorothy) Jones; five grandchildren, two great grandchildren; brothers Floyd (Berkley), Richard (Ellsworth), and Silas (Ellsworth); sisters Mrs. Dwight (Dora) Fisher (Holly) and Mrs. Marion (Lillian) Sitzema (Ellsworth).

Funeral services were held at the Warren Missionary Church, where Mr. Docter was a member for 49 years. The Rev. Joseph Fralick officiated. Burial was at Oakland Hills Memorial Cemetery.

JAMES COURIER

Graveside services for a former resident, James F. Courier, 84, who died April 28 at a Tucson, Ariz., nursing home, were held Monday at Brookside Cemetery. The Rev. Dale Turner of the East Jordan Missionary Church officiated.

Born in Charlevoix County April 26, 1896, Mr. Courier resided on a farm in Marion Township and Muskegon where he did industrial maintenance. He had lived in Tucson for the past 25 years. He was a member of the Masonic Lodge and the Saladin Shrine in Grand Rapids.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Lois Wiebrauk of East Lansing and Mrs. Leone Mick of Bellaire, five grandchildren; three great-grandchildren and a sister, Mrs. Bernice Knop of East Jordan.

The Vanderwall Funeral Home of East Jordan was in charge of arrangements.

Motorcross Sunday

The Northern Michigan Bicycle Motorcross will conduct sanctioned races at Open Gate Camp Grounds on Wickersham Road of M-66 on Sunday.

The local chapter of BMC is the result of a meeting of Tim Kane, Bob McClain of Traverse City and Tim Fisher of Petoskey who operate similar race tracks in their respective communities. Because of the popularity of the sport, tracks have been opened in the area. The one at Open Gate Camp Grounds is the first in the immediate area.

Races are on a dirt track 900 feet in length which features a number of obstacles. Special bikes are used in the racing. Open to youth 6-17 years.

Over 10,000 tour Medusa Challenger

An estimated 10,000-11,000 people toured the S.S. Medusa Challenger on Monday, according to organizers of the Charlevoix Challenge.

The Challenger was moored at the Round Lake Harbor in downtown Charlevoix.

The visit of the 552 foot cement carrier - the largest cement boat on the Great Lakes - highlighted a busy weekend in the city over the Memorial Day holiday.

In addition to tours on the ship, several other fund raising events were held to raise money for new band uniforms and [illegible].

"I think we're over the top," said Dave Fowler, who was activities chairman for the Charlevoix Challenge.

The Band Boosters had projected a need of $25,000 to cover the costs. Although Fowler said an accurate count on the dollar amount taken in this weekend will not be done until later this week, it is estimated that the tours and assorted activites raised between $10,000-$12,000. In addition, Medusa said it would donate $1 for every $2 collected from the tours (up to $5,000), Fowler added.

The Band Boosters had raised nearly $10,000 in the past few months by raffle and auction.

Ninety band uniforms have been ordered plus a uniform for the band director and drum major, Fowler said. They should be here by August, he added.

Ideal weather conditions added to the grand weekend. Several downtown merchants reported doing a brisk business.

The Challenger arrived a day early. Instead of entering Round Lake Monday morning as planned, it passed through the channel Sunday afternoon. Captain John Bradley said it was a "judgment" decision.

"The weather was good and it was my decision not to stall," he said. "Weather on the Great Lakes can change quickly. If we had waited and then had a good northwest wind Monday we may have ended up anchored behind Beaver Island instead of here."

As it turned out, Bradley had to contend with 30 mile-per-hour winds, but once the Challenger got inside the pier heads it was clear sailing.

A large and enthusiastic crowd lined both sides of the channel to watch Bradley guide the ship into Round Lake, cheering as it passed by. Bradley turned the ship around in Round Lake and then moored it at the dock normally used by the Beaver Islander and the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Sundew. The Beaver Islander operated from the dock at the Finn Lumber Company and the Sundew moved to the Coast Guard Station.

There had been some doubt - up until a week ago - if the Challenger would make it to Charlevoix for Memorial Day weekend. The ship lost a tail shaft and wheel while enroute to Manitowoc nearly two weeks ago and had to be put in drydock in Chicago. An expedient repair job had the Challenger back on Lake Michigan by mid-week, though. In fact, the Challenger had time to make a cement run from Charlevoix to Manitowoc on Saturday before the Memorial Day visit.

Bradley said the visit of the Challenger to Charlevoix complimented the Memorial Day tradition "because this acts as a reminder - and a gesture of respect - to all the merchant marine seamen we lost at sea, particularly in the early days of World War II."

The S.S. Medusa Challenger -- the largest cement carrier on the Great Lakes -- visited Charlevoix's Round Lake Harbor over the Memorial day weekend. Tours were offered. The ship is captained by John Bradley (inset).

Employees at Big Rock sponsored a tug-of-war in East Park Monday Afternoon. The treasure included $84 in pennies and $16 in nickels.

Ten Michigan citizens received the awards for outstanding volunteer service to their communities and state at a special program held in Marshall Monday. For more on Boss see page 12.

New terminal for airport?

A 10-year program to build modular terminal buildings at 20 or more of Michigan's smaller airports has been approved by the Michigan Aeronautics Commission.

Airports at Charlevoix and Harbor Springs are considered possible sites for terminal buildings, according to the commission.

The low-cost but durable wood buildings will be built at Camp Lehman, a minimum security prison camp east of Grayling, and trucked in four modular units to the airports for erection. The estimated cost of $50,000 for each building will be shared equally by the state and the local agency which operates the airport.

The Aeronautics Commission, meeting Wednesday in Mt. Pleasant, approved the program as a means of upgrading terminal facilities at airports having potential for increased commuter airline service or where general aviation activity is growing.

It will also be a training program for camp inmates, who will work under the supervision of an instructor from nearby Kirtland Community College.

The program calls for construction of at least two of the 32-by-28-foot buildings each year. It will require a joint agreement by the Michigan Department of Corrections, the Michigan Department of Transportation and the community colleges.

These terminals can fill a real need at many small airports where most available funds are spent for runways, taxiways and other necessary facilities for aircraft," said Commission Chairman Ronald Heinlein of Saginaw. "They will be economical to build, but they will be well built and attractive as well.

"Terminal buildings also will be a great help in efforts to expand commuter airline service in Michigan. Any community hoping to attract air commuter service must provide adequate passenger accommodations at the airport."

Airports where the terminal buildings may be erected are at Adrian, Allegan, Alma, Big Rapids, Cadillac, Charlevoix, Clare, Dowagiac, Evart, Frankfort, Gaylord, Gladwin, Grand Haven, Grayling, Harbor Springs, Hessel (Mackinac County), Ludington, Newberry, Niles, Port Huron, Rogers City, Saginaw (Harry Browne Airport), Sturgis and Troy.

The commission will establish a priority for locating the terminal buildings at the various airports.

In other action, the commission approved a $155,000 loan (in state funds) for the paving of the runway at the East Jordan City Airport.

Seat belts ignored, study finds

Of the 28 fatal traffic accidents in Charlevoix County since 1977, not one of the victims was wearing a seat belt.

That information was contained in a statistical study - compiled by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department - of traffic fatalities in the county in the county in the past three and a half years.

The study also revealed that:

Most traffic fatalities occurred in May and July. Half of the 28 deaths were recorded in those two months (seven each). Others included: December, three; March, two; June, two; September, two; November, two; January, one; February, one; and August, one.

Most traffic fatalities occurred on Friday. Half (14) of the fatal accidents were on this day. Six occurred on Wednesday. Others included: Saturday, four; Monday, one; Tuesday, one; Thursday, one; and Sunday, one.

Alcohol was a factor in 12 of the fatalities.

Nineteen of the 28 victims were male.

Twenty-two of the 28 drivers involved were male.

Most traffic fatalities occurred in Boyne Valley Township (eight) and South Arm Township (six). Others included: Charlevoix Township, three; Melrose Township, three; Evaline Township, two; Boyne City, two; Wilson Township, one; Bay Township, one; Hayes Township, one, and East Jordan, one.

Most traffic fatalities occurred on dry roads under clear weather conditions (20).

Several of the traffic fatalities (12) involved speeding.

Selling Your House by Gene Steele

CHECK OFFER WITH CARE

Your home has been for sale, inspected and the latest enthusiastic prospect presents you with an "offer" to buy. Review this offer with care. It's an extremely important part of the sale.

Are all names correct? Is the property correctly described? Is the mortgage information accurate? Can you move by the possession date? Is the purchase price satisfactory? Then double check your calculations to be sure you know how much cash you will receive. If you have any doubts about points contained in the offer do not sign it until they have been completely removed from your mind.

The offer to purchase is binding on the purchaser for the amount of time stated in the offer. You can accept it without change. You can let it expire, or you can consider changes. If you change anything in the offer you are reversing the process and making an "offer to sell" to purchaser who then has the same options.

Before you sign, be certain that it clearly states all the points of agreement because the sale will be according to the letter of that script.

Jim Dahl

New manager at credit union

Jim Dahl, 34, has been appointed manager of the Charlevoix Federal Credit Union.

Dahl, formerly of Davison, has been involved in the credit union business for the past 17 years. Beginning as a co-op student with the Flint Public Schools, he became interested in financial management as a personal goal. In 1968, Dahl received his B.A. in business from Michigan State University. In the same year he was made assistant manager of the Flint Area School Employees Credit Union where he has served for the past 12 years.

Asked how he feels about the credit union concept, Dahl replied, "I believe strongly in my chosen career. The credit union is a community service institution, one in which people help people. Members contribute to the saving of money and the sharing of benefits. We are in business to serve community financial needs rather than for profit purposes."

The Charlevoix Federal Credit Union presently serves residents of Charlevoix and Antrim counties as well as neighboring townships and Beaver Island. It offers a comprehensive savings program and a "share-draft" service similar to checking account services.

Dahl said he is anxious to provide full service including loans, an aspect which is contingent upon community response to the savings program. He considers his new position with the Charlevoix Federal Credit Union an exciting career challenge and hopes to expand membership and better accommodate present members.

Dahl and his wife, Suzanne, are in the process of relocating in the Charlevoix area. An accomplished musician, Dahl has played French horn with the Flint Symphony Orchestra and Concert Band.

Second Front Page

Challenger

Although the visit of the Challenger highlighted the weekend's activities, several other "challenges" took place.

A masterpoint bridge championship was held Friday at the Weathervane Terrace. Mary and Tom Woodruff took top honors in the north-south competition. Elaine Allcott and Shirley Georgi were second. Kay Stough and Bill Deipke third. Meanwhile, Louise and Bob Wright won the east-west bracket. Phyllis and Jim Bloch were second. Angie and Bill Supernaw third. Six tables were in play.

A nine hole, four women best-ball golf challenge was held Saturday morning. The team of Billie Smith, Connie Doan, Leigh Ann Lovell and Kathy Carey won top honors by shooting a 36. The team of Rita Heitman, Edna Wiedman, Gerri Moore and Ev Wujcik placed second, and the team of Pam Stangis, Pat Kenney, Dorothy Schwallier and Rita Orleski took third. Angie Supernaw had the longest putt of the day, Pauline Young had the longest drive and Debbie McDowell won the closest to the pin contest. Overall, 42 women competed.

On Sunday, a men's doubles tennis challenge took place. In the finals, Hans Wiemer and Bruce MacArthur defeated Don DeMoore and Gunnar Lundteigen. In the consolation finals, Bob Morgridge and John Lignell defeated George Richardson and Don Trimper. Sixteen players participated.

Also on Sunday, an 18 hole, two man best ball golf challenge was held at the Belvedere Club. The championship flight was won by Fred Zinn and John Jorgensen of Petoskey. They shot a 70. Sam Supernaw and Walt Franczek tied with Joe Etienne and Dr. Jim Geis for second place with a 74. In first flight competition, T. Clark and J. Boynton won top honors followed by Tom Demetriou and Chris Anagnost. Gene Steele and Carlo D'Angelo captured first place in second flight competition. There was a four way tie for second place between Lyle Miles-Dr. Ance, William Supernaw-Charles Carey, Tim McQueen-R. Jacobi, and Tom Bickersteth-G. Boydston. Overall, 96 players participated and $100 was raised for the Band Boosters.

On Monday, The Bahnhof Shop sponsored 6.2 mile and 3.1 mile marathons. In the men's 6.2 mile event, winners included: Jeff Drenth, 18-under, (32:56); Bill Pollock, 19-29, (36:37); Vaughan Goodenow, 30-39, (35:32); and Glen Taylor, 40-over, (36:41). In the women's 6.2 mile, the winners were: Laura Upton, 19-29, (44:00); and Cathy James, 30-over, (45:25).

In the men's 3.1 mile event, winners included: Benjamin Staw, 13-under, (22:11); Jay Swartout, 14-18, (16:30); Kevin Rabineau, 19-29, (17:13); Ron Saari, 30-39, (18:23); and Tom Caldwell, 40-over, (22:30). In the women's 3.1 mile, the winners were: Shelly Riemer, 13-under, (23:34); Vicki Rogers, 14-18, (28.08); Mary Ann Monte, 19-29, (26.08); and Patricia Brown Manon, 30-over, (25.33).

Also on Monday, the finals of the slow pitch softball challenge were played with Bar Beverage Control whipping Impac Tool 24-12 to win the championship. Ray LaVoie was named Most Valuable Player and Steve Dunkleberg the Best Fielder in the tournament.

Gov. Milliken presents Michigan Minuteman Award to Dean Sandbrook.

Medusa chief wins Michigan Minuteman Award

Dean E. Sandbrook, president of the Medusa Cement Company, was awarded the Michigan Minuteman Award by Governor William G. Milliken in ceremonies Thursday at the state capitol in Lansing.

The award was presented to Sandbrook in recognition of Medusa Cement's efforts towards promoting "the attractions and advantages" of the State of Michigan "to the people of the nation and the world."

Presentation of the award was made during ceremonies marking the opening of the 27th annual Michigan Week.

Since establishing a plant at Charlevoix in 1967, Medusa has played a "significant" economic, environmental and cultural role in the community.

Since 1978, the plant has been undergoing a [illegible] million conversion to increase its fuel efficiency, expand capacity and eliminate potential adverse environmental effects.

The Associated Landscape Contractors of America recently presented Medusa the Special Judges Environmental Award for Medusa's program of erosion control, reclamation and beautification in difficult soil and climatic conditions.

Last year, Medusa contributed [illegible] toward construction of a new Belvedere Bay Road to serve residents, the Charlevoix plant and Fisherman's Island State Park with a smooth clean road surface that eliminated fugitive dust of the old gravel road.

Medusa also helped put Charlevoix "on the map" and in the Guinness Book of World Records in 1976 when it played a major role in the baking of the world's largest cherry pie.

Q/A Property Taxes

The tax limitation amendment (TLA) has been touched on in recent articles, but we wanted to delve just a little deeper and explain some more about how it works.

You've discovered in past articles that there is a formula to compute a millage reduction fraction (MRF) and the MRF is multiplied against the maximum millage to compute the maximum allowable millage that can be used that year. PA 35, 1979 provided the vehicle for implementing the tax limitation amendment. The act defines all the new jargon that is used. For example; "current year" means the year for which the millage limitation is being calculated. "General price level" means the annual average of the United States consumer price index for all urban consumers as defined and officially reported by the United States department of labor, bureau of labor statistics.

"Inflation rate" means the ratio of the general price level for the calendar year preceding the current year divided by the general price level for the calendar year before the year preceding the current year.

The act also states the inflation rate shall be computed by the state tax commission and shall be rounded to 3 decimal places. The state tax commission shall publish the inflation rate before March 1 of each year. The official rate for 1980 to compute the millage reduction fraction is 1.113.

The law also sets some deadlines and responsibilities. "On or before, the first Monday in May of each year, beginning 1979, the assessing officer of each township and city shall tabulate the assessed valuation as approved by the local board of review for real property separately from personal property for each unit of local government and provide the tabulated assessed valuation of the county equalization director. The tabulation by the assessing officer shall contain additions, losses and new construction and improvements for each unit of local government or part of a unit of local government in the township or city."

The county equalization director shall compute these amounts and the current and prior year's state equalized valuation for each unit of local government that levies taxes under this act within the boundary of the county and shall cooperate with equalization directors of neighboring counties, as necessary, to make the computation for units of local government located in more than 1 county.

The county equalization director shall calculate the millage reduction fraction for each unit of local government in the county for the current year.

We consulted with our county equalization director and asked about the impact of this act on the county's department. She stated that last year (1979) it took two people in the department about six weeks to audit the assessment rolls, to ensure the tabulations were correct, plus the legislatures were into June of 1979 before they passed the legislation to implement the TLA. The cities were waiting to authorize their summer levies and couldn't authorize the millage until the millage reduction fraction was computed. After the various required information was tabulated, the county equalization director had to compute all assessed values into state equalized values. The state had a burdensome formula in 1979. Once all the state qualized values were established, the director had to pull all the information together for an entire taxing unit. All the schools districts in the county with the exception of Beaver Island Community School are located in various units of government, as well as other counties. It was not a matter of total equalized values in each district. The director had to establish the state [illegible] additions, losses and new construction and improvements in each fraction of a taxing jurisdiction, then pull it all together for the total district or jurisdiction. The equalization directors had to work with each other to get the proper information compiled to compute the necessary millage reduction fraction.

Next week we will continue with this particular phase of the tax limitation amendment.

Bob Davis to seek re-election

Northern Michigan Congressman Bob Davis (center) Tuesday became an official candidate for re-election. Davis, who was in Charlevoix over the Memorial Day weekend, filed nominating petitions with the Elections Division of the Secretary of State's office in order to have his name placed on the ballot for this year's election.

Davis, whose congressional district covers the northern 42 percent of the state, served 12 years in the Michigan legislature before being elected to the U.S. Congress in 1978.

Editor:

To have a successful Little League baseball program a total community effort is needed. This year, Charlevoix is lucky to have that effort.

The following people and businesses are to be commended for their time and support:

[illegible] for their hours and hours of work on the ball diamond; [illegible] for her hours spent in the refreshment stand; Gene Steele of Charlevoix Properties for reconstruction of our scoreboard; American Legion Post for donating American flag; Medusa Cement Co. for donating materials for new bleachers; Stan Smith for donating his time and expertise in constructing the bleachers; and Kit Carson for their continuous support through donations and [illegible].

We want you to know that all this is appreciated and that Charlevoix kids are the direct recipients of these donations of time and materials.

Thank You,
Charlevoix Little League Committee

Camp Grayling extends thanks for support

Editor:

Northern Michigan citizens can be justly proud of the National Guard units stationed at Alpena, Cadillac, Cheboygan, Manistee and Grayling. These units all have something in common even though they are diverse in mission. National Guard units in the area consist of Armor Companies, one Infantry Company, an Air NG Training Site Headquarters and Camp Grayling units. Their common thread is that they are all part of an expanding Military force of citizen-soldiers stationed in the northern lower peninsula.

What is it that makes the proud people of this area respond more readily to serve their country than persons in metropolitan areas?

Col. J. R. Lippert, the Senior Army National Guardsman in the area and Camp Grayling Commander, stated recently that two factors seem to stand out. First is, that people who live here in the North are proud of their heritage, they love its people and they love the land, this translates into patriotism and the will to preserve our nations freedoms or way of life. Secondly, the National Guard units offer a chance to be part of what soldiers call belonging to "Steel" outfits. Guardsmen and women here engage in productive and meaningful work when they attend training assemblies once each month and during their 15 day annual training period. At Camp Grayling our weekend soldiers perform beneficial work because they run an Army National Guard Post where other soldiers come to train. Our soldiers have to produce and they can see the fruits of their work - they like to see these results and it [illegible] to rewarded.

As an illustration of what's happening at Camp Grayling in the strength picture, look at the recent past. Before April 1, 1976 one Engineer unit was stationed here with an authorized strength of 30 persons but with an actual strength of 28. By June 1, 1977 there were three units (one Engineer, one Maintenance, and a Camp Headquarters) stationed at Camp Grayling. At that time the authorized strength was 226 persons and the number on board had climbed to 114. A gain of 121 people in fifteen months.

On Dec. 31, 1979 the strength of Grayling units stood at 313 authorized and the actual strength had kept on the rise. It was up to 306 soldiers. This past year there has been a net gain of 32 Guardsmen and women, but another great indicator is the re-enlistment rate. 89 people re-enlisted during 1979 out of 110 that were at the end of their term of service. That is an eighty percent reenlistment rate, a fantastic testimonial of the morale and dedication of the Camp's ARNG units. Naturally the higher the strength gets the more federal [illegible] will be authorized here.

On March 31, 1980 Camp Grayling had exceeded its full authorized strength of 317 personnel. A net gain of 10 personnel since 1 Jan. had been accomplished.

Col. Lippert wishes to pass his thanks on to the people of Charlevoix County for their fine support of the ARNG units stationed at Camp Grayling. There are 6 persons in the three units that have Charlevoix County mailing addresses. They bring back to the county well over $5,128 per year from Federal Taxes. This purchasing power from their part-time soldier assignments adds to the local economy.

Camp Grayling,

Challenge good, but ...

Editor:

For Charlevoix to have the Challenger Weekend is a good idea but to educate the children to grade by burying 10,000 pennies seems to be one more example of [illegible] greed before caring.

My child's comment was "I will not dig in the sand like a dog." Wouldn't it be more appropriate to teach the children caring and preserving.

Needed: Labor intensive ways to harness energy

Editor:

Those who support nuclear power are not very well-informed about it. The Concerned Citizens for the Charlevoix [illegible] the Big Rock Point plant for the May 4th anti-nuclear rally at Ebinga Park. I took some of these fact sheets over to the pro-nuclear picnic at Lexalite Corp. At least half of the adults I offered them to refused to take one. Were they afraid this information would change their opinions? I don't know.

A half-dozen kids ran up to the road from the Lexalite parking lot, and asked me why there were so few kids in the anti-nuclear march. I explained to them that there was a radioactive spill from the power plant ten years ago that contaminated the local shore, and we thought it was better to leave our kids at home than to let them play with radioactive rocks.

A few gentlemen at the picnic asked me if I had read information from the nuclear industry's point of view. I told them that I had read some things, but I remembered later that it was probably obsolete information by now, since the accident at Three-Mile Island, last year. Since May 4th, I have read a couple of recent publications from the nuclear industry:

None of these publications specify how well reactor back-up systems work in case all control-rods jam; a Nuclear Regulatory Commission report say's they would not work fast enough to prevent a core meltdown, and gives the odds of this happening in a reactor somewhere in the world in a one-year period as 1 in 175. None of these publications mention long-term health effects on plant personnel of so-called "safe" levels of radiation, low-level radiation has been linked to increases in cancer rates among workers in all parts of the nuclear fuel chain, by several independent studies. One of these pamphlets says the 560 million dollars maximum liability that a utility company, insurance companies and the U.S. Government would pay in event of a major accident (according to the Price-Anderson Act) would be "sufficient", it did not inform readers that a 1965 Atomic Energy Commission study estimated maximum possible damage of 45,000 deaths, 100,000 injuries, long-term contamination of an area the size of Pennsylvania, and property damage of 17 to 280 BILLION dollars, and that [illegible].

Some nuclear power supporters were buttons that read, "Over a Barrel, Go Nuclear", referring to O.P.E.C. price hikes on imported crude oil. Nuclear power cannot solve the oil squeeze, because it can only be used to generate electricity, and there are very few oil-fired electric utility plants in this country.

The theme of this pro-nuclear march and picnic was, "Nukes Keep America Moving". This might be true, but in which direction? The U.S. productivity rate has declined steadily since the first generation of atomic reactors, like the Big Rock plant, were commissioned.

Many of the people at the Lexalite picnic either work at the nuclear plant or have family members who work there. They were probably afraid of losing their jobs. Nuclear power needs a capital-intensive industry to keep it going, so there are very few jobs available. The Concerned Citizens want more labor-intensive ways of harnessing energy, like wind power and hydro-power. These industries, being less centralized, would not only be more energy-efficient, they would open up more job opportunities for experienced electric utility personnel.

A grey haze

Do you suppose the atmospheric haze that blotted out the sky Thursday afternoon and turned the sun into a fiery ball while it was still high in the heavens could have had anything to do with the eruption of Mt. St. Helens in Washington state?

Michigan wasn't supposed to have been directly in the path of the cloud of volcanic ash which has been traveling eastward since Sunday, according to meteorologists. But meteorologists have been wrong before.

At first I thought the grey haze was merely water vapor rising from Lake Michigan. I think they call it fog. Then the sun caught my eye and it appeared as it sometimes does just before it sets, burning through layers of atmospheric debris. But this sun was still high in the sky and should not normally have been subject to such screening.

In any event, the awesome eruption of Mt. St. Helens has come somewhat of a shock to many Americans who always thought volcanos were something that happened to other people in other lands. Whenever they make movies about volcanos, there is always a girl in a sarong and a boy in a loin cloth in the best frame.

But Mt. St. Helens is in our own backyard, so to speak.

THE HERO of the Mt. St. Helens eruption, of course, was that old mountaineer Harry Truman, whom most of us took a liking to the moment we read about him. Truman's salty language – like that of his famous namesake – made him an instant folk hero.

The old man's mountain lodge was just a few miles from the lip of the volcano and he had lived there for 54 years. When foresters begged him to move to safer digs further down the mountain, Truman refused.

"If the volcano blows up, I'm going to blow up with her," he told reporters, who scribbled notes and sent the story of naughty Harry Truman around the world.

Then came Sunday's massive eruption and Harry Truman's lodge is gone, according to aerial observers. The site is now covered by an avalanche of volcanic rock and ash. And old Harry Truman apparently is no longer among the living.

It's a shame, too, because he was the one human element in a very inhuman story. Passersby will stop at the office and ask if there has been any word on Harry Truman, just like he were an uncle or an old friend.

I think, perhaps, that there is a little of Harry Truman in many of us, a foolish bravado that is going to get us into trouble sooner or later. I am sure Harry Truman never dreamed he would be barbecued like a rack of lamb on a bed of hot coals. But it was easier to stay on the mountain with his cats than it was to pack and leave. And it made for a better story.

IF ANY GOOD comes out of the eruption of Mt. St. Helens it is the interest generated in tapping the energy of earth's core for practical purposes. It is difficult to imagine that cauldrons of molten rock are churning and bubbling a few short miles beneath the earth's frigid crust.

If such an energy source could be utilized, on of the earth's major problems would be solved for all time.

Of course, some areas of the world have used geothermal energy for ages. Many of Japan's famous spas are heated by steam rising from the bowels of the earth. And I understand that most of the homes in Iceland are hooked up to a central heating plant which draws its energy from the earth.

There has been talk in the United States of piping water into superheated layers of rock and using the steam to power electric generators.

It is difficult to imagine the vast amounts of pent-up energy which are just out of reach at least for the moment.

Meet Charlevoix

When a telephone call is made to the office of Gordon Van Wieren, superintendent of Charlevoix Public Schools, the chances are it will be answered by Lillian Carr, secretary to the superintendent. This week the Courier talks with Mrs. Carr about her job and her [illegible].

By Peg Ohle

Q. How long have you been secretary to the superintendent?

A. I'm finishing my 14th year. I started when Rex Milligan was superintendent and worked for Robert Miller and James McKimmey before Mr. Van Wieren took over.

Q. What are your duties?

A. One of the most important is answering correspondence. We receive over 500 applications a year from prospective teachers. I also care for the certified personnel files, answer the phone, and attend Board of Education meetings to take notes.

Q. Do you work year around?

A. Yes. We're just as busy in the summer as we are in the winter. In the summer, we are a general clearing house. All the mail for all the schools comes to us in the summer, and, of course, the Board of Education has business year around.

Q. When do you take a vacation?

A. I'm entitled to four weeks, and usually take two weeks in the summer and the rest in the winter, a few days at a time.

Q. What did you do before you took this job with the schools?

A. I started here when we moved to Charlevoix from Lake City, where I worked as secretary to a real estate and insurance man. I came up here with my husband, Ray, when he became high school principal. He's retired now, after also teaching in the Charlevoix school system.

Q. Where did you grow up?

A. In the little town of Bloomington, Idaho. I went to business college in Salt Lake City, and that's where I met my husband, who was in the Air Force. After we were married, we traveled around the country three or four years, living in almost half the states in the Union, from Washington to Florida.

Q. Where did your husband start his teaching career?

A. In Metamora, Ohio, after getting out of service. From there he went to Barryton, where he both farmed and taught. Eventually this became took much, so he went back to school administration – in Vanderbilt. From Vanderbilt we went to Lake City, then came here.

Q. Your offices in this remodeled old house here on Clinton Street seem to be quite comfortable. How long have you been here?

A. For about two years. When I first started to work, our offices were in the high school building. It was interesting to be close to the teachers and the students, but we got a lot of interruptions, so we decided to move. We were in one of the portable buildings near the high school before we moved here.

Q. Who else has offices in this building?

A. Vincent Olach, the business manager; Eileen Nunemaker, Mr. Olach's secretary; Judy Boss, our bookeeper; and, of course, Mr Van Wieren. Upstairs we also have the people working on the Beaver Island project.

Q. What do you do when you're not working?

A. I like to sew – I always have sewed for myself and the girls – to bowl, ride my bike, and read.

Q. Is that your bike in the yard here?

A. Yes, I ride it to work in the summer time. In the winter, I usually walk. We live on south Bridge Street so it's not too far.

Q. What kind of books do you like to read?

A. Historical novels are my favorite books.

Q. How do you and Ray spend your time together?

A. We garden, play cards, cook, travel. Every other year we go west to visit my family.

Q. Do you and Ray have a family?

A. We have four children. Dennis teaches in the middle school, Diana Weisgerber teaches in Pine Grove, Nancy Foltz is in Menominee, and Elaine is a graduate student at the University of Iowa, studying Education. We also have six grandchildren.

Q. What are you going to do when you retire?

A. We've talked of going to Florida for part of the winter, but we would like to spend our summers here forever.

Q. You sound as if you like your job?

A. Yes. All four superintendents I've worked for have had different personalities, but they've been alike in being efficient and knowing their business, and they've been the nicest people in the world to work for. It's the kind of job where there's something new each day. It's always interesting.

Q. Anything else you'd like to say?

A. Only that I think the community is fortunate in having the school board members they do. They're all cooperative and dedicated.

A musical adventure teaching the "fruits of the Spirit to all ages" was performed by St. Mary's school children (directed by Jeannie Brewster, music teacher) Wednesday. (Anne Kelly Photo).

Judge places restrictions on lake funnel development

By Peg Ohle

The civil suit filed by the Walloon Lake Association against Walloon View Brae subdivision has been resolved with the issuance of a judgement by Judge Martin Breighner of the Charlevoix County Circuit Court.

The suit, filed last Aug. 15, contended that the practice of permitting the owners of 47 non-riparian "backlots" of Walloon Brae to funnel onto the lake through a narrow single lot constitutes a trespass on the rights of other lakefront property owners. The association contended that this type of funnel development places excessive pressures on the lake which can ruin the quality of the lake, and in its suit asked the court to enforce restrictions on the use of the lakefront lot.

The judgement entered by the court imposes a series of restrictions designed to keep the use of Walloon Lake by Walloon View Brae property owners at a reasonable level, according to Dr. William A. Hetzel of the Walloon Lake Association.

Some of the restrictions imposed are:

No more than three power boats may be moored overnight on the property, and provision for parking space is limited to five cars.

There may be no power boat launchings, and only a single dock may be constructed at the property.

The property must be fenced and access limited.

The developers must repair and replant a green belt on the lake shore which had been disturbed by previous development operations.

Township proposition passes

County voters prefer George Bush

Voters in Charlevoix County turned out in small numbers last week to test the new electronic punch card voting system now being used throughout the county.

Only 1,411 persons, or 10.8 percent of the 12,992 registered voters cast ballots in the presidential preference primary, in which delegates to the Republican County Convention were also elected.

George Bush carried the county as the preferred Republican presidential candidate by garnering 693 votes. Ronald Reagan received 382 votes, John Anderson received 164 votes, Benjamin Fernandes and Harold Stassen received six votes each, and "uncommitted" received 19 votes.

On the Democrat side, Edmund J. Brown, Jr. received 28 votes, Lyndon H. LaRouche, Jr. received 14 votes, and "uncommitted" received [illegible] votes.

In Charlevoix Township, the proposition to levy one mill over the 15 mill limitation was approved by a vote of 98 to 53. The millage will be levied during the years 1980 through 1984 and will be used for general operating funds, road work, ambulance service, and capital improvements.

County Clerk Jane Brannon reports that no difficulties were encountered in operating the new voting machines, and final results were available at an early hour.

[illegible] May [illegible]

[illegible],

It's almost a year since you died. It is Springtime but Spring can be fickle. We've had snow flurries where yesterday there was warmth and sunshine. Last week I ate lunch at Michigan Beach. Remember how we walked that beach ... when you and Dick threw stones at each other. And all the Petoskey stones you alone could find. The [illegible].

The restaurant is doing well. Remember all the B.L.T.'s you ate with a slice of Swiss Cheese on the side. Your name is still on the back of the menu. For some reason we haven't removed it.

Your brothers - Mike and Kevin .. Well, Kevin is so tall now and still works for us. He went to the Prom a few weeks ago. He has moved into your's and Mike's room. Neither of them have that "room of their own" that they always longed for. Funny – how values can change. Mike is still a clown and cut-up. He still gets kicked off the bus and gets tardy detentions. But he has no one to tease ... and no one to cheat in Monopoly.

Dick has no one to tell to "go to bed early" since you left. Remember how you initiated him into baby-sitting by [illegible].

Your Mom – Well, I was told, and almost believed, that time would help heal .. heal my grief, pain, sorrow and loneliness. Oh it appears that I'm doing well. I laugh but no one sees me when I am alone. Alone to cry bitter tears. Or when I call out your name in utter despair. I miss you so much. How I'd love to hear you ask for "me wuhs and me kiss, peese" How I would give you more loves and more kisses .. please. I miss your dirty face ... remember when your father asked if I had washed your face with mud? And your smudged-up glasses – how could you ever [illegible]?

I can't forget those last moments with you. How fleeting life can be. How quickly it was all over. How quickly your clothes were given to me. Your whole life sitting on my lap neatly enclosed in a plastic bag. Your new jeans purchased the day before with such joy and returned the day after with such anguish. And I have to face that steep hill on Wickersham every day coming to and from work. It is a constant reminder that I don't need.

I don't go to church. I say I'm too busy at the restaurant, but the truth is it's too hard to go there and sit alone remembering how you and I always had to sit up front and how during the sermon you'd cuddle up and I would put my arm around you (if I forgot you'd put it around you for me) How I'd fondle your hair or hold your hand. Now, no, it's unbearable pain to go to church. My faith is on shaky ground – I feel cheated and yet it's God I pray to for [illegible].

I ask why. There is no answer. Why do I keep asking? Would it help if I knew why? I don't think so.

[illegible]

Rayders advance

The Rayders clobbered Mancelona 21-3 Friday afternoon in a pre-district contest to qualify for the district Saturday at Kalkaska.

Charlevoix was in command all the way as Melinda Klooster pitched a five hitter. Meanwhile, Charlevoix batters pounded out 13 hits including three by Teresa Noirot and Brenda Buchanan and two by Colleen LaBlance.

Earlier in the week, the Rayders swept a doubleheader from East Jordan 14-1 and 13-1.

In the opener, Klooster hurled a one hitter to gain the victory. Kim Bolduc and LaBlance had two hits apiece. In the nightcap, Holly Taber tossed a one hitter as Klooster had three hits and Noirot socked a home run.

Netters second in M-HSC

With John Grooters and Rich Rajewski capturing the No. 1 doubles title, Charlevoix claimed second place in Friday's Michigan-Huron Shores Conference tennis tournament at Petoskey.

Grooters and Rajewski, the top point producers on the Rayder team, knocked off Tom Kowalczyk and Dave Jensen of Petoskey 7-5, 6-2 in the title match.

Petoskey won the conference championship winning all four single events and one double.

Charlevoix's Jeff Morgridge reached the finals in No. 2 singles before bowing to Petoskey's Scott Langs 6-0, 6-1. Pete Dunkleberg and Paul Hoffman, Charlevoix's No. 2 doubles team, also reached the finals before succumbing to Cheboygan's Mike Maurice and Kirk Taylor 6-3, 6-4.

Earlier in the week, Charlevoix closed out its regular season by defeating Harbor Springs, 6-1, and losing to Petoskey, 5-2, and Traverse City, 6-1.

Against Harbor Springs, Dennis Morgridge (C) defeated Mark Larson 6-2, 6-3; Jeff Morgridge (C) defeated Rick Kowalski 6-2, 6-0; Shelly Knight (C) defeated Leslie Koza 6-0, 6-0; Kris Lignell (C) defeated Jean Wedenoja 6-0, 6-0; Grooters and Rajewski (C) defeated Rob Kowalski and John Pyjar 6-1, 6-2; Dunkleberg and Hoffman (C) defeated [illegible] 6-1, 6-0; and Kurt Erexelben and Eric Holliday (HS) defeated Lew Kline and Pete Cockfield 6-0, 6-2.

Against Petoskey, Lance Bawkey (P) defeated Dennis Morgridge 6-0, 6-3; Scott Langs (P) defeated Jeff Morgridge 6-1, 6-0; Paul Douma (P) defeated Knight 6-0, 6-1; Scott Snyder (P) defeated Lignell 6-0, 6-1; Grooters and Rajewski (C) defeated Dave Jensen and Tom Kowalczyk 6-2, 6-1; Dunkleberg and Hoffman (C) defeated Jeff Yoder and Dave Shiels 7-5, 6-3; and Andy Stewart and Ned Deer (P) defeated Kline and Cockfield 6-0, 6-2.

Against Traverse City, Tony Demin (TC) defeated Dennis Morgridge 6-2, 4-6, 6-4; Doug Engers (TC) defeated Jeff Morgridge 6-4, 6-1; Paul Dakoskey (TC) defeated Knight 6-2, 4-6, 6-1; Mark Schafer (TC) defeated Lignell 6-2, 6-1; Larry Czubak and Scott Chappell (TC) defeated Grooters and Rajewski 7-5, 7-5; Hoffman and Dunkleberg (C) defeated Jeff Minema and Mark Cooper 6-1, 7-5; and Pete Taylor and Joe Lada (TC) defeated Kline and Cockfield 6-0, 6-2.

The Rayders finished regular season competition with an 8-7 record. Charlevoix will compete in the state finals next weekend.

Carlson powers Rayder attack

Carlson cracked two home runs as Charlevoix eliminated East Jordan 9-4 in pre-district action. Altogether, Carlson had four hits in the game and Jim Buchanan two to back the pitching of Scott Morgan.

Earlier in the week, Carlson smacked three home runs to lead the Rayders past Grayling 5-1 and 7-3. Fine pitching performances were turned in by Mike Loper in the opener and Kurt Heckendorn in the nightcap.

The Rayders second loss came Monday to Cheboygan. Charlevoix dropped a 5-3 contest in the opener but came back to win 20-1 in the second game. In the opener, Loper was saddled with the loss. The Rayders had 10 hits including three by Morgan and two each by Rozy VanLoo and Mike Zednicek. Jerry Sladek pitched Charlevoix to its easy victory in the second game. John Lachman had two home runs and VanLoo and Loper one each for Charlevoix. Buchanan and Chris Putman added two hits to the attack.

DeYoung-Lydick

Charlene Mae DeYoung and David L. Lydick - both of Empire - were united in marriage May 17 at the Bethlehem Lutheran Church in Glen Arbor.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver DeYoung, Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Cooper, Battle Creek.

Given in marriage by her brother, Dennis DeYoung, the bride wore a dacron organza gown with a Queen Anne neckline, full bishop sleeves, and a A-line skirt with attached chapel length train. The neckline and cuffs were trimmed with [illegible]. The hemline was also trimmed with [illegible] lace. Her fingertip veil of bridal illusion was edged with matching lace and attached to Juliet cap also trimmed with lace.

Mrs. Mary Jo Denison of Empire was the soloist and offered "The Wedding Song" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Paula Pasche, Troy, was the maid of honor. Myrna Curtis, Charlevoix, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. They wore [illegible] trimmed with lace. They each carried a nosegay of white [illegible].

Elizabeth and Samantha DeYoung - nieces of the bride - were the flower girls. They wore dresses identical to the older attendant's gowns and carried lace baskets with white rose petals.

Len Shaida, Empire, was the groom's best man. John Wendala, Empire, was the groomsman. Ushers were Timothy and Patrick DeYoung - brothers of the bride.

The couple will reside in Empire. They went on a weeklong tour of Michigan after the wedding.

Klooster-Slocum

Some 200 guests witnessed the marriage of Debra Sue Klooster and Rodney Slocum on Saturday afternoon, May 17, at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Klooster of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Slocum of Petoskey.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white polyester fashioned with scalloped heart-shaped neckline appliqued with lace, long sleeves, and accordion-pleated skirt with train. Her veil was circular, lace-trimmed, and finger-length, topped with a lace cap. She carried a cascade of [illegible].

[illegible] served her sister as matron of honor, and [illegible] was bridesmaid. They wore identical blue and white floral floor-length gowns and carried white roses.

Paul Klooster of Dallas, brother of the bride, served as best man. Larry Ebenberg of Big Rapids was groomsman, and Pat Klooster, another brother of the bride, and Ken Boyer, brothers of the bridegroom were ushers.

The bride's mother was dressed in a rose-colored gown, and the bridegroom's mother wore an ice blue gown.

The bride's parents hosted a reception in the church parlors following the ceremony, and the bride and bridegroom hosted an evening reception at the Rod and Gun Club. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at [illegible] Restaurant.

Guests from Maine, Massachusetts, Texas, Big Rapids and the South area attended the ceremony.

CHARLEVOIX CHURCH DIRECTORY

[illegible]

Even if Benjamin Franklin had never become involved with the formation of a government, he still would have found his place among the great men and women of history, because of the simplicity and great clarity with which he summarized his formula for healthy and successful living. He was a consistent advocate of thrift, temperance, diligence and sensible hours. He knew that earthly life is made up of just so many units of time, and he urged us not to waste any of it. Moreover, he was a firm believer in God's guidance, needed just as much to help us acquire these good living habits as it was for the founding of a successful form of government, and you need only attend your Church to learn how very sound Franklin's advice was for all of us.

Weddings

Robinson-Kane

St. Mary's Church was the scene Friday evening May 16, of the wedding of Michelle Ranae Robinson of Charlevoix and Michael William Kane of Cheboygan.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Balch, Jr., and Mrs. Jack VanLoo and the late William Kane.

The Rev. R. Dale Magoon was the celebrant at the nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring rites in the presence of 275 guests. Arrangements of white fuji mums and gladioli, blue carnations and baby's breath graced the altar for the service. Mrs. Jeanne Brewster, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding march, "Westminster Abbey Hymn" and accompanied Dr. John Lignell who sang "The Wedding Song."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her stepfather, chose a gown of silk Venise lace for her wedding. Fashioned with a Sabrina neckline, a fitted bodice with seedpearl accents and bishop sleeves, it featured a full length skirt accented with a godet of crystal pleating at the hemline and a chapel length train. Her veil of bridal illusion fell from a headpiece of matching lace and seedpearls. Her cascade bouquet was of silk white catalaya orchids, stephanotis and ivy.

Rodney Johnson of Cleveland, served as his brother-in-law's best man. [illegible] and Thomas Morrison served as groomsmen. Thomas Wilhelm and Dennis Erickson seated the guests.

Mrs. Balch chose a full length gown of seafoam green quana knit with a full circular skirt and corsage of pink rosebuds for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. VanLoo, mother of the bridegroom, wore turquoise knit gown and overlay with lavender accents. Her corsage was of yellow rosebuds.

After a Caribbean cruise, the couple will be at home in Cheboygan.

Both are graduates of the Charlevoix High School. The bride plans to attend North Central Michigan College. The bridegroom is a graduate of Ferris State College and is a registered pharmacist at Modern Pharmacy in Cheboygan.

Wedding guests were present from Maine, Ohio and several Michigan cities.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by Mr. and Mrs. VanLoo, was held at Vic's in Petoskey Thursday evening.

Boys second in M-HSC track meet

[illegible] City won the meet.

The Rayders were paced by sophomore Jeff Landon who captured the mile (4:37.11) and two mile (10:00.75) events. Landon's victory in the two mile was a cliffhanger as he beat Roger City's Mark Zielinski at the wire.

In addition to Landon, the Rayders got a fine performance from another sophomore - Van Sloan. Sloan won the 440 yard dash (53.63).

Several other Rayders placed in individual events. They included: Gary Drury, second, shot put; Ross Carey, fourth, shot put; Mark Beaudoin, fifth (tie), high jump; Trumper, fifth (tie), high jump; Sloan, fourth, 100 yard dash; Jay Swartout, fourth, mile; Kurt Williams, sixth, 440; Kaufman, fourth, 330 low hurdles; Landon, fifth, 880, Sloan, fourth, 220; and Swartout, third, two mile. Charlevoix also placed sixth in the 880 relay and third in the mile relay.

The girls finished eighth in the conference meet - won by Petoskey.

Top individual performances included: Lamereaux, sixth, long jump; Nancy Gluk, sixth, discus; and Edwards, sixth (tie), high jump; Charlevoix also placed sixth in the 880 relay and fifth in the mile relay.

Both Charlevoix track teams - the girls and the boys - finished sixth in the Class C division of the Petoskey Kiwanis Relays last week.

Traverse City St. Francis won the girls Class C title while Boyne City won the boys Class C crown.

In the girls meet, Charlevoix had two fourth place finishes - ½ mile medley and spring medley - and a fifth - 440 relay. The boys won the sprint medley (Tim Louiselle, Dave Elsinga, Jack Cross and Sloan), took a fourth in the mile relay and a sixth in the 440 relay. Individually, Landon placed third in the mile run and Sloan was fifth in the 100 yard dash.

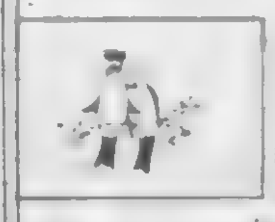
Anniversaries

Mr. & Mrs. Jansen

Harold and Alice Jansen will celebrate their 35th anniversary on June 1.

An open house in honor of the occassion will be held May 31 from 2-5 p.m. at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church.

The open house will be hosted by their children.



Engagements

Wynsma-Themm

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wynsma, Jr. of Atwood and Ellsworth announce the engagement of their daughter DeeAnn Elayne, to Dale Leroy Mathews Themm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Themm of Island View, Charlevoix, and [illegible]

The bride-to-be attended Ebenezer Christian Grade School and graduated from the Ellsworth Public High School in 1975. She later attended Calvin College in Grand Rapids and has been employed by the Charlevoix Area Hospital since 1976. She is also leader of the Charlevoix Campus Life-Youth for Christ group.

The future bridegroom attended the Charlevoix and Imlay City schools, graduating from the Charlevoix High School in 1972. He also attended North Central Michigan College in Petoskey, and for the past several years has worked in residential construction, being employed with Bob Dean Contractor of Bellaire.

The wedding will take place on Friday, August 22.

Camp McSauba opens July 30

Camp McSauba, a day camp for children living in the Charlevoix area, as well as summer visitors, will start its first session on July 30.

The camp is operated by the City of Charlevoix, with campgrounds located on Lake Michigan just outside the City limits. There will be seven sessions, five days long, with hours from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, and from 9 a.m. Thursday to noon on Friday. The Thursday activities include an overnight campout.

Camp fees are $20 per camper per session, which includes a T-shirt with camp logo, and Thursday night and Friday morning meals. Campers attending all seven sessions, which end August 15, will be able to do so at the reduced cost of $100.

Camp McSauba is open to all boys and girls ages five to 13, and five-year-olds who will be six before Dec. 1 will be considered. Campers are divided into groups of ten on an age basis, each with its own counselor. [illegible] participation and decision-making by all involved. Regular activities include swim instruction and free swim, archery, BB gunnery, arts and crafts, nature study, games, hiking, camp crafts, singing, skits and stunts, Indian theme, and values [illegible]

Jack Gebott, who has a background of running residential and day camps for the YMCA, will return to Camp McSauba as director for the fifth year. He will be assisted by a staff of qualified young people.

Jams and jellies

Nearly half of all U.S. households are expected to have vegetable gardens this year. That means a lot of canning and freezing will be done to preserve food. In an effort to help homemakers with food preservation, Marlene Cassatt, extension home economist, will answer some of the most-asked questions about canning and freezing. This week the subject is jams and jellies.

●

Q. What makes jams and jellies set up?

A. Fruit, pectin acid, and sugar. Fruit gives jams and jellies their distinctive flavors, the pectin is responsible for the formation of the jel, as is sugar. Sugar also acts as a preservative and sweetener.

Q. Pectin is available commercially in two forms – powdered and liquid. Are these two forms interchangeable?

A. No. You must use the type specified in the recipe.

Q. What advice would you give someone who wants to make grape jelly using only half the amount of sugar that a recipe calls for?

A. Use the full amount of sugar. If you use less, you'll wind up with grape syrup, not grape jelly.

Q. If someone wanted to make a double batch of strawberry jam, should they double the recipe?

A. Don't double a recipe. If a double batch of jam is cooked for the usual time, it will be undercooked and, therefore, soft and runny. If boiled longer, it will have a carmelized flavor and a dark color.

Q. How should jelly glasses or canning jars be prepared prior to filling with hot jelly or jam?

A. Wash and rinse containers. Sterilize containers in boiling watger for 10 minutes. Keep containers hot until they are used.

Q. Should you allow head space for jams and jellies when sealing with two-piece canning lids?

A. Yes. Allow one-eighth inch headspace.

Q. Would you advise sealing jam with paraffin?

A. No. Use two-piece lids instead. Only jellies have a smooth enough surface for proper sealing with paraffin.

Q. Is it necessary to process jams and preserves in a boiling water bath?

A. Processing is recommended in warm and humid climates where mold is a common spoilage problem. In Michigan, processing is optional.

Q. When making jam with powdered pectin, when do you add it?

A. You add powdered pectin to the unheated crushed fruit. You add liquid pectin to the cooked fruit.

Q. What is the cooking time for jams and jellies made with either powdered or liquid pectin?

A. You cook for one minute at a full bubbling boil.

Q. Is it all right to use moldy jam?

A. If there is only a little bit of mold on the jam, spoon off the top half inch before using the product. If there is a lot of mold, the jam is spoiling and should be discarded.

Q. If freezer jam is too soft, can you make it thicken?

A. Try bringing it to a boil, then allow it to cool. It should thicken on cooling.

Q. What advice would you give someone whose paraffin-sealed jams have become unsealed?

A. If they are not moldy, cover them with tight-fitting lids and refrigerate or freeze.

Duffy's to celebrate 2nd anniversary

Gloria and Gary Zundel

Duffy's of Charlevoix will celebrate its second anniversary on Sunday, June 8.

Located adjacent to the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course, Duffy's has become known as the "6½ tee" to many of the golfers who play the course.

Formerly Bourke's Steak and Stein, the restaurant was purchased two years ago by Gary and Gloria Zundel, Jack Flanagan and Ted and Lois Griffin. The Griffins have since sold their interest in the business to the Zundels and Flanagan.

"We were looking for a saloon and this place was in virtual bankruptcy so we swooped in and got it," said Zundel, who was a security officer at Boyne Highlands at the time of the transaction.

Except for the winter of '78-'79, business has been "good to excellent," Zundel said.

"We get great support from local industries," he added. "Our luncheon crowd is especially good. We cater to the local people and because of that we have some very loyal customers."

For Zundel, the transition from a security officer to a restaurant operator has been "a learning experience."

"I think it has been a lot of fun," he said. "I've kept busy, that's for sure. But I'm a hyper guy, I don't like to sit around."

Not only can the job keep a person busy (Zundel works 70 to 75 hours a week), but it can also be unpredicatable at times, too.

"It's a tough business, really. You never know what's going to happen. It's a lot like the weather. And weather, incidentally, has something to do with it (business)."

Mrs. Zundel also is relatively new to the restaurant business, having worked for the Petoskey School District prior to the purchase.

Duffy's can seat approximately 140 people for dinner. A "conventional menu" is offered, Zundel said. Fresh whitefish and lake perch are popular dinner selections, he added. Mark Bohne is the chef.

Entertainment is provided by Hank and Stan and the Rebowne Band on Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights starting at 8 p.m.

The restaurant - which features a big television screen, fireplace and a porch overlooking the golf course - employs 31 people. Hours are 11 a.m. until 11 p.m. Monday through Saturday (dinner is from 5-11 p.m.) and 4-10 p.m. on Sunday.

Obituaries

JENNIE ESSENBERG

Funeral services for Mrs. Jennie Essenberg, 88, former Ellsworth resident, who died Thursday at Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility where she had been a patient for two weeks, were held Saturday at the First Presbyterian Church in Elk Rapids. The Rev. Barney Roepeke officiated. Burial was in Atwood Cemetery.

Born in Antrim County Feb. 22, 1892, the former Jennie Klooster was married in 1913 in Banks Township to Gerrit Essenberg from whom she was later divorced. For many years she was the telephone operator at the Ellsworth exchange. In 1946 she moved to Holland where she lived until 1966 when she returned to northern Michigan to live at Elk Rapids. She was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Elk Rapids and the Elk Rapids Senior Citizens Club. She will be remembered in Ellsworth for her poetry and her humorous readings at local events.

She is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Louise Holler of Houston, Tex., Mrs. Harold (Rose) Cheney of Okemos, Mrs. Geraldine Pryor of Traverse City, Mrs. Vern (Anne) Elliott of Elk Rapids and Mrs. Stanley (Harriett) van Reken of Birmingham; two sons, Melvin of Ellsworth and John of Atwood; 22 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

The family suggests that anyone wishing to may contribute to the charity of their choice.

GEMWISE
JEWELRY FASHIONS FACTS FICTION
[illegible]
No, the Four C's are not a new musical group. However, they are important figures in the diamond industry. Cutting, Color, Clarity and Carat Weight are the determining factors of diamond value.
Cutting refers to proportions to which a diamond is cut. Many gemology experts have agreed upon what are referred to as ideal proportions. This proportioning, along with proper placement of 58 facets, provides the maximum balance of brilliance and fire. Any deviation from these proportions lowers the value of a gem. The ideal cut is now sometimes referred to as the American cut, because European gem dealers tend to prefer stones which are cut with the top portion flattened and spread. This makes a stone appear more brilliant and somewhat larger than it would otherwise, however the stone's fire (rainbow colors) is diminished in the process.
Top Color in diamonds is a complete absence of color. Most seemingly colorless diamonds have a slight yellowish tinge, and the intensity of this tinge lowers the color grade.
Clarity is a measure of the amount and nature of internal and external marks. A complete absence of such imperfections is most desirable. A few small inclusions will not affect a stone's general appearance.
Carat weight is the last factor to consider. Once all grades are given the stone, the price per carat is figured in.
No, the Four C's are not a musical group, but they are a famous four. As an American Gem Society jeweler, I have the educational background to introduce you to them in person.

Names In The News

DALE E. BOSS, Michigan Week chairman for Charlevoix County, was named recently to receive the Greater Michigan Volunteer Leadership Award.

The certificate of honor was presented at a special ceremony held in Marshall on Monday. A luncheon for recipients and guests followed at Win Schuler's in Marshall. Boss was accompanied by Mrs. Boss.

The certificate was presented to Boss, "who by individual initiative and leadership effort has contributed much to the well-being of the community and state and thereby is an inspiring example to all the citizens of Michigan."

It is through Boss' efforts that the Charlevoix Challenge and the visit to the harbor of the Medusa Challenger for the benefit of the Band Boosters' uniform fund came into being.

He has also been active in other fields, among them the Charlevoix Historical Society and the renovation of Harsha House as the home of a local museum.

Voters to decide Monday

Voters in the Charlevoix School District will elect two candidates to the Charlevoix Board of Education and determine the fate of two millage issues on Monday.

Polls at the Charlevoix Elementary School will be open from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

Kenneth J. Boss, Dennis W. Kusina, Larry C. Lamerand and Steven G. Smith are vying for the two positions on the school board. The two board seats are both four year terms, expiring in 1984.

In addition, the Charlevoix Board of Education is asking for a 12.5 mill renewal ($12.50 on each $1,000) for one year to cover operation costs and 1.7 mills ($1.70 on each $1,000) for one year to install a new roof on the high school.

Charlevoix High School was completed in 1959, some 21 years ago. The standard built-up asphalt roof was used at that time. In the past 20 years extensive patching and repairs have been done to maintain the roof.

According to school officials, built-up roofs are water resistant only so long as the bitumens remain pliable and active. However, the actinic rays of the sun cause bitumens to oxidize, drying out and hardening. After a few years they become completely brittle and cracks, splits and alligatoring start to appear. Dried out roofs, instead of resisting moisture, absorb it like a blotter, officials add, and the insulation becomes soaked, losing its effectiveness and causing deterioration to the roof decking and ceilings.

While flat roofs offer engineers and architects greater design freedom and economy, it has been "impossible" to make them watertight with built-up asphalt/asbestos style roofing, officials say. Conventional layered roofing materials crack and blister, then leak, due to their lack of flexibility when exposed to structural movement, temperature variations and trapped moisture in any layer of the roof. Standing water, or ponding, is difficult to prevent on a large flat roof and after extended periods of time will penetrate a built-up type roof.

The high school roof consists of steel decking, Fesco Board for insulation and built-up asphalt covering for protection. This type of roof expands/contracts from 1 inch to 1½ inches as outside temperatures vary. This expansion and contraction causes the asphalt to withdraw from the flashings and produces cracks and splits throughout the entire roof. Water enters through these cracks and splits and causes the roof to "blister" or "bubble" and the insulation becomes soaked, losing its effectiveness. Over the years these "blisters" were removed and patched, cracks were filled and flashings repaired. Not all cracks and splits, because of their small size, were found and patched and without a daily check ruptured "blisters" were not repaired until leaks were discovered. This caused the water to be absorbed in the Fesco Board insulation to the point where it is now totally ineffective. This continuous moisture has caused some deterioration to the steel decking and if not corrected, will cause damage to ceilings and wiring, officials contend.

An alternate to the problems inherent to a flat built-up roof would be a loosely laid roof of a stretchable sheet that covers the entire roof continuously from edge to edge. There are several such products on the market, of these various systems Trocal has the best proven record and has been used on roofs for a longer period of time, officials say. Trocal is a continuous membrane of elastomeric polyvinyl chloride. This loose-laid membrane is not attached to the substratum except at the perimeter of the roof and at openings such as vents, stacks and skylights.

The membrane is waterproof and will not rot or swell under standing water, according to officials. The fill normally required on flat roofs to create an incline is not necessary. The system accommodates to structural movement of buildings and is therefore not subject to cracking due to substratum displacement. The typical Trocal roofing system installation consists of a layer of unsaturated felt laid over the steel decking, a vapor barrier, thermal insulation, the Trocal roofing sheet and finally stone to hold it in place. No expansion joints are required or used. All layers are laid dry and do not adhere to one another or to the substratum.

Trocal has a tensile strength of 2844 pounds per square inch with a bursting strength of 275 pounds per square inch. It far exceeds asphalt built-up roofs in fire resistance and has a 10 year guarantee on material and workmanship, officials add. Should any damage occur to the roof, it is repaired similar to patching a tire tube. Maintenance is considered minimal over the life of the roof. Insulation value is double that of a built-up type roof and Trocal is not affected by the sun's rays, officials say.

Two different roofing contractors have checked the roof thoroughly and both agree that at this point in time the present roof can no longer be patched or repaired, that the present roof must be removed to the decking, the decking repaired, new insulation installed and a new roof be put on. The current plan is to remove the existing roof, install Thermax insulation and cover with a Trocal roof.

If a guarantee is given with an asphalt/asbestos type roof, it is normally for one year and on some a two year period, officials say, adding that within two or three years of installation annual repair is normally required to fill cracks, splits, remove and repair blisters and repair flashings. Normally, every five years a re-coating of the roof is necessary and after 15 years replacement of the roof is usually needed. A rigid, continuous maintenance program is required to ensure no major damage occurs, reducing the expected life of the roof.

The initial cost of Trocal is approximately $41,000 more than a built-up roof for some 92,000 square feet of roof on the high school. Over an expected roof life of 20 years, the savings should exceed the initial cost difference because of less maintenance, no requirement to re-coat the roof every five years and the higher insulation value, officials maintain.

"As the new high school addition total costs should not exceed $650,000 of the $700,000 authorized and because the board has kept faith with us by staying below the authorized costs, I strongly recommend that the millage request for a new high school roof be passed," Thomas LaBlance, chairman of the building committee, said.

Mr. and Mrs. James Alger were honored Wednesday night at a banquet for the senior athletes at Charlevoix High School. Athletic Director Dale Burge presented the Algers with a plaque thanking them for the number of years they have supported athletics in Charlevoix and for keeping the Sports Boosters active even during trying times.

Summer tax collection abandoned in city

City of Charlevoix residents will not receive a summer tax bill in early July, as has been customary in the past few years.

The Charlevoix City Council has agreed to collect all the taxes in the winter, much to the chagrin of local school officials.

Council contends that since the six townships in the school district do not collect a portion of the taxes in the summer the city will not, either.

As a result, the school district will be forced to borrow approximately $500,000 more this summer to meet expenses until the tax money rolls in during the winter.

"This puts us in a bad spot," Business Manager Vince Olach said. "Now we'll have to borrow about $1,520,000 just to survive until December (when winter tax collections start)."

Olach said the school district will apply for the loan - if approved by the school board - on June 10. Since "money is tight right now," Olach said, the school district might not get many bids.

"At this point we're hoping the bids come in at 10 percent, but they could go as high as 13 percent (six percent last year)," he said. "If the bids do come in at 10 percent, that means it will cost us (school district) [illegible] (in additional interest) because the city did not collect summer taxes this year.

City Council maintains that its residents are unjustly "carrying the load" for the townships.

"I'll agree the city is carrying the load, but it's going to cost city taxpayers more, too, by not collecting in the summer. Where's the equity?"

Olach said he approached the six townships "two to three years ago" about collecting a portion of the taxes in the summer.

"The townships (individually) told me they would do it if everybody else did," he said. "But Norwood Township turned me down."

"I think the school board should go to the townships and ask again," Mayor Sam Supernaw said at Monday night's meeting. "If the townships are willing to collect in the summer, we're willing."

Olach has indicated he will be meeting again with township boards.

Council has considered putting the question of summer taxes on the November ballot strictly as an advisory issue. But no formal action has been taken.

"Of all the residents I've talked to, no one has objected to the summer tax collections," Olach said. "They like it because in December they are faced with fuel (heating) bills, Christmas and [illegible] taxes.

"I just hope we can get a loan by July because we have a payroll to meet and right now we do not have the money to meet it."

In other action, Council:

Agreed to purchase seven radios for communication from Motorola to install in city trucks ($394 per unit).

Approved a resolution to join the Municipal Unemployment Compensation Group Account.

Extended the Assessor's contract one year (until June 14, 1981). The assessor will be paid $8,700 and will also be responsible for zoning inspections.

Awarded the King Company the contract ($53,080) to replace six piers in Round Lake at the foot of Mason Street. Gourdie-Fraser and Associates' engineering contract on the pier [illegible].

Authorized the city manager to collect a fee ($10 a day) from Larry Hoffman so he can conduct a carpet sale in the city.

Learned that the Beaver Island Boat Company will be replacing a loading ramp at the marina.

Agreed to purchase a dump truck from Fochtman Motors at a cost of $12,800. If the city trades in its 1962 truck, the price will drop to $12,000.

Accident claims Charlevoix resident

Evart Theodore (Ted) Mason, 38, was pronounced dead at the Charlevoix Area Hospital early Friday following a head-on crash on M-66 at Ironton at 11:05 p.m. Thursday, according to Charlevoix County Sheriff's deputies.

According to the deputies, Mason, driving a 1966 Jeep, was traveling toward Charlevoix when he crashed head-on with a second vehicle, a 1977 Chevrolet van, driven by Harry J. Hater, Jr., 52, of Charlevoix and Cincinnati, approximately 100 feet [illegible].

Both men were taken via Charlevoix ambulance to the Charlevoix Area Hospital where Mason was pronounced dead of multiple injuries shortly after midnight. Hater was treated and released.

An autopsy was ordered on Mr. Mason, Charlevoix County's fourth traffic fatality of 1980.

Telephone seminars planned

Two seminars for Charlevoix area businesses dealing with the use of telephones as a marketing tool will be held June 11-12 at the American Legion Hall, sponsored by Michigan Bell Telephone Company in cooperation with the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

One, on June 11, will deal with the use of the telephone in collecting overdue accounts. The other, on June 12, will show the effective use of the telephone as a sales tool. The Wednesday program will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until noon. The Thursday program will begin at 9 a.m. and adjourn at 3:30 p.m. with an hour break for lunch.

Membership drive starts June 16

A committee of enthusiastic Chamber investors, under the chairmanship of John Yarech, is currently planning a membership drive for June.

This is the first time that the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors has organized a membership committee to plan an intensive two week annual membership drive. The membership drive is due to begin June 16th and will be completed on June 27th. The membership committee consists of the following members: John Yarech, chairman, Debbie Schmuck, Susi Reis, Mike Greeley, Dick Copeland, Dick Georgi, Bob White, Randy Carey, Dan Miller.

The Prince Street Players were in Charlevoix Thursday performing "The Emperor's New Clothes." Sponsored locally by the Crooked Tree Arts Council, the musical was presented twice - once to the delight of students at the Charlevoix Elementary School. For a synopsis of the production turn to page 3.

Rates increase

Mail subscription rates will be adjusted slightly effective this issue of the Charlevoix Courier. The new yearly mail subscription rate for residents living in Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim Counties will be $10 a year, elsewhere it will be $13 a year.

Selling Your Home by Gene Steele

IMPROVEMENT CAN BE COSTLY

You can make a million mistakes trying to sell your own home. And one of them is making the wrong improvements. Many times, an expensive addition or repair can be the kind of thing that'll cost you far more than you get back.

True, the house should present a favorable appearance - mowed lawn, trimmed shrubs, and no obvious indications of neglect, but it's rare when a large financial undertaking will bring more than its cost in the final selling price.

There is always the financial risk or miscalculation too. Home repair costs frequently end up a lot higher than originally anticipated. You may end up with a faster sale and less inconvenience if you lower the selling price an equivalent amount.

Instead of guessing as to how much, if any, repair work to undertake, see a Realtor. He can tell you what to do to make your home more salable. And what not to do so you won't lose money.

Twelve county landowners take advantage of law to preserve land from future development

Some six years after Governor Milliken signed into law the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act, 12 landowners in Charlevoix County have entered into agreements with the state to keep their lands in certain use categories for a given number of years.

Records in Lansing show the following Charlevoix County landowners have signed agreements:

Ralph Richardson, 350 acres in Eveline and Marion Townships, Mark Saunders, 80 acres in Eveline Township; Wayne Saunders, 170 acres in Eveline Township; Allen Sibunic, 80 acres in Eveline Township; Grace Warner, 120 acres in Norwood Township; and Wieland Farms, 220 acres in Norwood Township.

The act, which was passed by the legislature and signed by the governor on May 23, 1974, was designed to alleviate the rapid and often premature conversion of agricultural lands and open space to more intensive uses, both residential and commercial.

In return for signing agreements with the state, landowners receive three general benefits:

Lands that qualify and are approved and registered for either a farmland agreement or an open space easement are exempted from special assessments for sanitary sewers, water, lights, or non-farm drainage unless the assessments were imposed before signing of the agreement.

Under a farmland development rights agreement, the exact benefits depend upon the property tax assessed against the property and the income of the landowner. The landowner is entitled to claim as a credit on his Michigan Income Tax the amount by which the property taxes on the farmland covered by the agreement exceed seven percent of his income.

For instance, if a landowner has an income of $10,000 and property taxes against the farm of $1,280, he would subtract $700 (seven percent of $10,000) from the $1,280 property tax, for an income tax credit of $580. This is in addition to the Homestead Property Tax Credit which the landowner may already qualify for.

For those lands under an open space easement, the direct tax benefits are in the actual taxes paid by the landowner. This is done by re-appraising the land calculating the difference between the current market value of the unrestricted property and the value of the property if the right to develop the land was restricted through a use [illegible].

As noted above, there are two general classes of land eligible under the act, farmland and open space land.

Farmland eligibility is governed by the size of the farm, and, in two instances, by the income from the farm. A farm of 40 acres or more, a farm of from five to 40 acres with a minimum per acre income of $200 per year, or a specialty farm with gross annual income of $2,000 or more. At least 50 percent of the land in an application must be under cultivation or grassland.

Open space land has been divided into two categories under the Act. The first category deals with historic, riverfront, and [illegible] areas. This type of land requires that the property be undeveloped and either historic in nature and recognized as such by appropriate federal or state law, be riverfront on a river designated under Act 231, the Natural Rivers Act of 1970, or be designated as an environmental area under Act 245, the Shorelands Protection and Management Act of 1970.

The second category of open space land is more general in definition and includes lands which conserve natural or scenic resources, enhance recreation opportunities, preserve historic sites, and idle potential farmland of not less than 40 acres.

[illegible] the landowner selling his land, a landowner dying or becoming totally and permanently disabled, or a landowner deciding to withdraw from the program.

The initial step in entering into a Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act agreement is to file an application with the local governing body - the township, city or village. Application blanks are also usually available from township, city, or village officials, or from the Division of Land Resource Programs, DNR, box 30028, Lansing, [illegible].

Gaylord and Marilyn Hill

Pass through Charlevoix

Bicyclists circumnavigating Lake Michigan

By Sara Gay Dammann

A gas saving, togetherness vacation, on a bicycle-built-for-two, brought Gaylord and Marilyn Hill, of Adrian, through Charlevoix Wednesday, on the last leg of a circumnavigation of Lake Michigan.

The Hills began their vacation on May 17 in Benton Harbor and plan to be back there by June 4.

Hauling a trailer carrying all their tenting equipment, Marilyn, 28, and Gaylord, 30, who both work at the Adrian Training School, have averaged about 50 to 55 miles per day. They spend their nights in state parks and other campgrounds.

"The hills of Wisconsin set us back a little," Gaylord confessed. "But we have done as much as 75 miles in one day."

From Benton Harbor the two pedalled through Chicago, up the western coast of Lake Michigan through Green Bay, across the bottom of the Upper Peninsula, over the Mackinac Bridge and are now heading down the east coast of the lake.

For Marilyn the trip is a first.

"We tried it last year, on two bikes, but after one day my knee gave out and we had to quit," she explained.

For Gaylord, going around Lake Michigan is but one of many long bike trips in his portfolio. In 1976 he biked across the United States with a Bicentennial group, he has circumnavigated Lakes Erie, Ontario and Huron.

"Superior is my next goal," he admits, "but I won't say for sure that [illegible]."

The bike hardly resembles a traditional bicycle-built-for-two. The Hills' is a Schwinn Paramount Tandem with 15 gears and disc brakes.

Pointing to hand brakes on the rear handle bars, Marilyn quipped, "He put on an extra set for me in case I get scared." She smiled ruefully, indicating they had been used.

"We expected to be in a lot of rain, but actually we've had almost constantly sunny days," Gaylord said as the two swept up the long rise past Lexalite on U.S. Highway 31, headed for [illegible].

CHIP counsels inmates

'Being in jail is a living hell ...problems magnified'

"Being in jail is a living hell. Everyday problems are magnified 1000 times in jail.

"Deprivation is part of the punishment, but deprivation, lack of human contact, magnifies personal problems."

These statements, made by CHIP therapist-counselor Terry Smith, were [illegible] a year of working with inmates in Charlevoix County Jail.

Last year CHIP Counseling Center was approached by Sheriff George Lasater and asked if they would join other community volunteers working in "rehabilitative" projects with inmates of the county jail.

Both Lasater and Smith were careful in their use of the word "rehabilitation". The projects includes the CHIP Counseling sessions, classes to help inmates improve their reading skills, classes for high school diplomas, visits by clergy and other counseling.

Explaining these projects, Lasater said that while the state does not provide funds to counties for rehabilitation work, earmarking instead all state funds for prisons, he felt he had a "moral and Christian obligation" to make an effort.

People sentenced to a county jail, as opposed to prison, are usually young, first offenders, high school drop outs, and not involved in crimes of violence.

Describing the intent of his counseling, Smith said the weekly group sessions were a "safety valve."

"We attempt to assist inmates in resolving, as best they can, personal tensions, worries and concerns, which if left unresolved may be internalized, only to come out later.

"Resentments, anger, will be acted out, either when the person gets out of jail, or in jail, causing internal security problems."

Smith described the counseling as an attempt to help the inmates acquire skills in communication and solving personal problems.

The CHIP [illegible] are people who have had trouble getting along well with others in the first place. Their inability to deal with personal problems has come out in the very crimes for which they have been jailed.

"For example," Smith said, "tensions between a husband and wife cause resentments because of an inability to communicate. Hurts grow until they are turned to anger and acted out.

"The husband may beat his wife and children. He may become involved in a robbery or other criminal activity."

Smith and Lasater both said that an inmate who doesn't learn how to deal with his problems will continue to let resentments build inside himself and is most likely to repeat his criminal acts [illegible].

Explaining carefully that confidentiality is an important part of counseling, Smith said the group sessions work on immediate problems such as the lack of visits from an inmate's family. Bringing out current resentments, allowing an inmate to express his hurt and worries helps defuse the growing tensions. The next step is learning skills in communication and resolving problems in a more constructive manner.

"While rehabilitation is not a direct goal," the counselor continued, "There is an element of rehabilitation in the hope that a person is not worsened by the jail experience."

Smith described his clients as young men between 18 and 21, "often on the brink of being sent to prison."

There have been four groups of prisoners attend CHIP sessions since they began in 1979. Attendance is voluntary. They are held for 2 to 2½ hours each week.

In addition Smith sees [illegible] individually, particularly [illegible].

Sheriff Lasater praised the volunteer work of the CHIP Counselor. "The sessions are an effective safety valve for the prisoners. Terry Smith is particularly well suited for the group because of his low-key and comfortable manner.

"We hope this and other community based volunteer programs will help change the pattern of being jailed, getting out and committing another crime to get back at society."

Christian Counseling Services opens in Charlevoix

James R. Crowell

James R. Crowell has opened the Christian Counseling Services in the Christ Episcopal Church annex on State Street.

A native of Ohio, Crowell received his bachelor of science degree in education from the Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio. He also attended Miami University of Ohio and Wittenburg University. While teaching in Defiance, he completed the requirements for a master of science degree in guidance and counseling from Saint Francis College, Ft. Wayne, Indiana. Crowell is presently pursuing further in-depth study of the scriptures under the auspices of the Rhema Bible School, Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Crowell said his counseling employs a new and different concept called nouthetic counseling. He owes much of his understanding and application of nouthetic counseling to the Rev. Jay E. Adams. Adams is associate professor of practical theology, Westminster Theological Seminary, Philadelphia and a counselor at the Christian Counseling and Educational Foundation in Hatsboro, Pennsylvania. Crowell is also pursuing an on-going relationship with the new professional organization, The National Association of Nouthetic Counselors.

Nouthetic Counseling consists of three basic elements, Crowell said.

1) It recognizes that a problem exists for the counselee - a problem which he or she cannot avoid in order to find contentment and fulfillment. The time has come to confront the problem, to face up to its implications, and to accept responsibility for making a change. The need to recognize that something is wrong and it must be dealt with is central to the counseling dialogue.

2) The second element is that most problems are solved by verbal means, with the active personal support of the counselor. The counselor provides direction and training by word, which may be encouragement, clarification, instruction or correction. This is always based on God's Word and the spiritual principles which He has provided in it, applied under the guidance of the Holy Spirit.

3) The third element, and perhaps the most important, is that counselor and counselee enter the counseling situation confident and expectant that in seeking a Godly solution regarding his or her area of concern or difficulty, there will be revealed answers that will significantly benefit the counselee as he or she prayerfully incorporates the results of the counseling relationship into his or her life experience.

The basic thrust of nouthetic counseling is motivated by love and a deep concern for each person, such that clients are counseled and moved toward emotional and spiritual wholeness, and ultimately that the "image of God" may be more fully revealed in their lives, Crowell said.

Crowell believes that the Christian Counseling Services can help to alleviate the existing overload of the services now being offered in the area. The counseling services are strictly non-denominational and can be easily integrated with an on-going pastoral relationship in the client's home church, he said. The fee schedule, which is based on ability to pay, ranges from a minimum of $10 per hour to a maximum of $25 per hour.

Crowell's practical experience in counseling includes not only that of a school counselor for 12 years but also as a marriage, family, and individual counselor for the past eight years in Ohio and Michigan. He is also available for seminars, workshops, and speaking engagements.

He is a member of the Michigan Personnel and Guidance Association, the Michigan Mental Health and Agency Counselors Association, and the Bridge Area Counselors Association.

Crowell and his wife, Pat, live on Spring Street, Boulder Park and are the parents of five children.

The Prince Street Players performed Hans Christian Andersen's "The Emperor's New Clothes" at the Charlevoix Elementary School Thursday. The musical production has become a trademark of the group. In the production, the kingdom has been stripped of every gold piece in order to provide the Emperor with money to purchase the finest clothes in the world. So poor is the kingdom that the Empress has to sound her own trumpet fanfare. One day, Mr. Stitch and Mr. Sew come to the kingdom and tell the Emperor that they will weave the most beautiful fabric in the world. As the classic tale has read for over 100 years, the weavers do not have any thread, nor do they weave any cloth. The people are made to believe that if they don't say they "see" the fabric they will be labeled inferior. But Verity, using her "Magic Glasses" can see the truth. Andersen makes fun of pompous people in high places and children enjoy watching the Emperor parade through the crowd with his "new clothes" fashioned by vanity. The program was sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

Fuller officially joins sheriff's race

Several incumbents file for re-election

The deadline for filing nominating petitions for the August 5th primary was Tuesday.

Several candidates waited until the last minute before filing petitions with the county clerk's office.

As of late Friday (press deadline), the following candidates had filed for county offices:

[illegible]
Mary C. Feindt
Sheriff
James McCallum
Leonard Fuller
Prosecuting Attorney
Scott Beatty
Register of Deeds
[illegible]
[illegible]
Clerk
Jane Brennan
Drain Commissioner
Clayton Healey
Treasurer
Anah Potter
County Commission District II
Clyde Cunningham
County Commission District III
John Haggard
County Commission District IV
Ira Davis
County Commission District V
Ralph Richardson
County Commission District VI
Larry Matthew
County Commission District VII
Ralph Harmon
County Commission District VIII
Thomas Breakey
County Commission District XI
Oral Sutliff
County Commission District XII
Marv Loding
County Commission District XIII
Don Meggison
County Commission District XIV
Oscar Ward

The sheriff's position has attracted several candidates. Fuller, 29, East Jordan, announced his candidacy last week. Fuller, McCallum, Wally Brown and perhaps Wayne Chapman are expected to vie against incumbent [illegible] for the position.

Fuller is presently employed at Oleson's Food Store in Charlevoix, a position he has held since 1973.

He was commander of the sheriff's posse until April. As commander, Fuller arranged extensive training programs for the volunteers who serve without compensation.

Born in England, Fuller came to the United States as a child with his parents and lived in California, where he graduated from high school and attended UCLA. While in his early teens, he became associated with the restaurant business and while still in high school became an assistant manager. After graduation, he became manager of the Palos Verdes Men's Country Club until he resigned the position. In 1971 he and his wife, the former Debbie Muench, granddaughter of the Raymond Pillsburys of Eveline township, came to Michigan to make their home in South Arm township. He was employed briefly with security at Little Traverse Hospital before being employed at the Oleson Food Store in Charlevoix.

In addition, Steve Andrews, representative of the 106th district, has announced that he is a candidate for re-election to the Michigan House of Representatives.

Andrews is the Republican vice chairman of the House Marine Affairs Committee and also serves on the Committees of Education, Judiciary, Military and Veterans Affairs and Senior Citizens and Retirement.

The 30-year-old lawmaker said he will "continue to maintain the independent stature which best reflects the attitude of the District."

"The citizens of northern Michigan elected me to be their voice in the Legislature," Andrews said, "not the special interest groups and bureaucrats in Lansing. The fact that many of these groups don't like my position on a number of issues is a source of pride to me."

Earlier, Ralph Ostling, representative of the 103rd district, and Bob Davis, congressman in the 11th district, announced their plans to seek re-election.

Challenger impressions

CHARLEVOIX lucked out this year by the change in Memorial Day to the last Monday in May.

Can you imagine what a disaster the visit of the Medusa Challenger could have been if it had taken place 1 week later? Instead of bright, sunny days, we would have had wind, rain and winter-jacket weather.

As it turned out, the Challenger paid her call on what will probably prove to be one of the finest weekends of the year and the entire "Charlevoix Challenge" celebration to raise money for High School bad uniforms proceeded without a hitch.

Even old timers who have watched lake freighters navigate Pine River Channel since they were children were impressed with the big cement carrier's vast presence in the channel. Capt. Jack Bradley made it seem easy as he guided the big ship into Round Lake with scarcely a ripple. Afterward, he said Pine River is no harder to negotiate than the Chicago River — which sort of puts Charlevoix right up there with big league ports.

ALTHOUGH the 550-foot Challenger appears immense at a distance, it is even larger when you are aboard. You could play ball on the deck — if you didn't mind losing the ball every time it went into right or left field.

The long passageway under the cement hoppers in the hull is even more impressive. It is as cool as a cave, since it is located below the water line. I had the feeling I was in some sort of subterranean factory, since there was little nautical about it — not even the gentle up and down motion one normally experiences aboard ship.

The Challenger's "cavern" is so long, crewmen sometimes use a bicycle to travel from one end to the other and I don't blame them. It's a long hike.

I shouldn't admit it, but I was also surprised to find that cement is carried in hoppers. For some reason I though they filled up the entire hold with cement, wall to wall.

I OVERHEARD a fellow downtown Saturday morning commenting that all of his weekend "projects" had been canceled because of foul weather. Welcome to the club.

I wish I had a nickle for all of the "projects" scratched over the weekend in Charlevoix when last week's sunny weather ended with a veritable cloudburst on Friday night. I had planned to paint the front porch and plant the city garden but both "projects" had to be postponed because of rain.

The only consolation is that we are all in the same boat.

Maybe this weekend will be more to our liking.

IN CASE case you missed it in the papers, the Anderson-for-President Coalition Saturday nominated Rep. John Anderson of Illinois for president at its state convention in East Lansing Saturday.

Harrison Ehinga of Charlevoix was chairman of the county caucus which met in Charlevoix May 24, with six members in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Duerr, also of Charlevoix, were elected delegate and alternate. But since they were unable to attend the state convention, their single vote was cast by proxy — for Anderson, of course.

You'll be hearing a lot more about Anderson in the weeks ahead when Americans suddenly realize that — come November — they will have to make a choice between Jimmy Carter, Ronald Reagan or the former Republican candidate from Illinois.

Q/A Property Taxes

To continue on where we left off last week – we had just noted that it was some job pulling all the necessary information together to come up with the correct millage reduction fraction, which was necessary to comply with the tax limitation amendment, to reduce millage should it so warrant a reduction.

Your equalization director gave an example of how a millage reduction fraction is figured.

1979 SEV x CPI (1.113) Equals SEV increased by CPI
1980 SEV - additions + losses Equals 1980 SEV without new Equals millage reduction fraction.

The director worked out the City of Charlevoix's 1979 MRF and it was .9227 (we have shown you this in previous articles). The 1980 MRF worked out to be 1.0260. The equalization director is responsible for the calculation of the millage reduction fraction for the current year and according to legislation on or before the 1st Monday in June of each year the county equalization director shall deliver the statement of the computations signed by the director to the county treasurer.

On or before the 2nd Monday in June the county treasurer shall certify the computations from the equalization director to each unit of local government which levies a property tax in the county. It seems that state equalization has to be finalized before the millage reduction fractions can be computed as they are done on the state equalized value. The final state equalization hearing is the 27th of May this year. (It is always the fourth Monday in May and due to the change in Memorial Day, it has been changed to the fourth Tuesday in May). The taxing jurisdictions have a real problem with the middle of June deadline. The schools needed to know in April what they could expect in the line of tax dollars, so they could set an election to vote for millage. They said it was very difficult to plan when there was no available information to plan with. State Equalized Values are not available, millage reduction fractions are not computed and it makes for some estimations on the financial officers budgets for the schools. Another delay is in authorizing the levy of city summer taxes, to get the millage reduction fraction, then to authorize the millage, and to have the tax bills printed and back to the local treasurer for them to try and have in the mail by July 1st is a difficult deadline to meet.

Once the county treasurer has certified the computations to the local units of government then it is the responsibility of the financial officer of each unit of local government to make the computation of the tax rate using the data certified by the county treasurer and the state tax commission. The financial officer for each taxing jurisdiction shall calculate the compounded millage reduction fraction beginning in 1980 resulting from the multiplication of successive millage reduction fractions and shall recognize a local voter action which may increase the compounded millage reduction fraction to a maximum of 1 as a new beginning fraction.

I leaned back in the chair digesting all of this and thought "Someone has got to be kidding", "how can anything that sounds so relatively simple, when it was voted in, be so complicated and cause so much extra work." Your equalization director stated she "believes the legislators have a special gift when it comes to enacting legislation, if there is a way to complicate it and create paper work, they will find it." But don't give up now, we have only started. Let us talk about compounded millage reduction fractions. (CMRF)

As earlier stated the financial officer of each unit of local government is responsible to calculate the compounded millage reduction fraction. The City of Charlevoix's 1979 MRF of .9227 multiplied by the 1980 MRF of 1.0260 creates a compounded millage reduction fraction of .9467. (.9227 x 1.0260 equals .9467)

The maximum operating millage of the City of Charlevoix is 15.00 mills, therefore, 15.00 mills x .9467 equals 14.2005 the maximum mills the City can authorize to be levied. Next year in 1981 the CMRF of .9467 will be multiplied against the current millage reduction fraction of 1981 to create the 1981 CMRF to be multiplied against the maximum mill rate of 15.00 mills. This one is easy working with one mill rate, wait until we get into a complicated one.

Next week we will continue explaining and illustrating the compounded millage reduction fraction and its effect on taxes.

Band Boosters grateful to community

Letters

Editor:

The Charlevoix Band Boosters are deeply grateful to all the wonderful people who helped make our Memorial weekend activities such a success. Because of the tremendous cooperation and especially the support and generosity of Medusa Cement Company we will be able to have the new band uniforms completely paid for, when they arrive late this summer.

We wish to give also special mention and thanks to [illegible] Miller of the [illegible], the Beaver Island Boat Company, Finn Lumber Company, the City of Charlevoix, John Campbell, Edwards IGA, the Bahnhof Ski Shop, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Belvedere Golf Club, the American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Post, V.F.W. Post No. 1153, the chair people of the various activities, radio stations WVOY and KHQ, the Charlevoix Courier, and all of the many, many other people who contributed so much time and effort to make such a success of the visit of the SS Medusa Challenger.

It was a great weekend, filled with lots of work and fun, but will be remembered and talked about for a long time. We appreciate all the help, and say thanks to everyone.

Yours truly,
Merle O. Plagge, M.D.

Take all alternatives and net effect into account

Editor:

I work at the Big Rock Point Nuclear Plant and have training, experience and educational background in various types of energy production. There definitely is a need to address all the concerns and to commit to an energy plan; however, this must be done by knowledgeable sources from various industries, state and federal entities. No one person should or could come up with a solution to such a complex problem that involves so many. The results could be disastrous (Judge N Fox's decision on fishing rights for instance). The answer must be determined by taking all the alternatives and their net effect into account.

I recently entertained some thought about a fictitious trial that could take place where the outcome would result in one person's decision. The defendant in this case is a nuclear plant that was arrested on the suspicion of being unsafe and the Judge is asking questions.

"Do you understand that you are under oath to tell the truth and that your answers represent the entire nuclear industry?"

"Yes, your Honor."

"Do you emit any noxious gases, fumes, smoke or dust?"

"No."

"Could you explode like a bomb and cause considerable damage?"

"No."

"Do you kill fish, animals, plants or birds during operation?"

"No."

"Has or will your cooling water warm the surrounding waters or kill aquatic life?"

"No."

"Are you an experimental plant or experimenting with anything?"

"No."

"Is the United States required to import fuel so as to keep you running, let's say for the next 2 or 3 generations?"

"No."

"Is there any technological breakthrough that this Country or the world needs to continue nuclear plant operations?"

"No."

"Is there presently any other energy source available which is cheaper to acquire, build and operate in large quantities?"

"No."

"Do you emit any radiation beyond [illegible] which is hazardous or greater than the average individual would receive if you were not there?"

"No."

"Are your basic ingredients dangerous, experimental or different than what is used in any or all other nuclear reactors (Big Rock)?"

"No."

"In all the operating years of producing energy, has there ever been a fatality, injury or property damage directly related to or caused by reactor operation or radiation?"

"No."

"Well, Mr. Nuclear Plant, there must be a legitimate reason why you are on trial. I have listened to your positive statements but I have a negative "gut feeling" that you are unsafe (which is shared by Senator Irwin). Therefore, giving equal consideration to your statements and my feelings I hereby order you shut down and I forbid any construction or operation of any nuclear-powered facility. In doing so I may be subjecting this Country and its citizens to undo hardship but there probably is enough oil, coal, gas and fresh air for the immediate future. Also, I think the Russians understand our situation and our foreign relations with the Mideast and other countries might get better.

"The case is closed. You'll have to excuse me now as I have an appointment with a [illegible]."

Need for truthful, non-biased answers

Editor

Statewide, citizens are registering concern over Big Rock's "excuse & deter" answers to NRC identified safety inadequacies. There is more to correctly answering safety questions than taking the nuclear industry executive's word on reviewing their carefully worded engineering literature that tries at justifying nuclear power. The "Pro & Anti Nuke" labels are both a waste ... getting truthful, non-biased, and productive answers must be the prime objective—of everyone living within 50 miles of a nuclear plant. Remember, the Michigan toxic waste produce claimed a clean operation, too, and as nuclear power goes, blames everyone else for their problems.

Why should we put up with Consumers' gross demand for a $2 million spent fuel dump expansion that will be dangerous and forever guarded here in Charlevoix/Petoskey territory? Let Consumers' Jackson office complex hold in it's midst all radioactive trash, including all [illegible]. In other words, this area is, by far, too good and important for nuclear [illegible].

The nuclear power conflict is the beginning of demands to make technology users and producers respect human rights. The benefit - vs risk doctrine used to justify nuclear power is a dangerous assault on human rights. This doctrine allows government and various corporations to impose "risks", death, cancers, etc., upon individuals without their consent in spite of objections in return for assumed social benefits, affluence, or a "healthy economy." This doctrine can take us to oblivion.

Nuclear power is a continuous show of gross extravagance, hires batteries of attorneys, police units and public relations people at rate payer and taxpayer expense to steamroller us into mute submission to their monetary desires. What are we now facing head-on: manipulative institutions/fortresses in which we have no voice. "Nuclear Powerful" companies are an example/system of things to come by big government and industrial control over a free America.

Lucille Belusar and Gloria Gerritsen

Meet Charlevoix

Sisters Lucille Belusar and Gloria Gerritsen both live several hundreds of miles away from Charlevoix, but they sing the praises of the city wherever they go. That's because they grew up in Charlevoix and return for a visit "at the drop of a hat". They were in town last week and talked with the Courier.

●

COURIER: What was your maiden name?

BELUSAR: Taylor. Our parents were Albert Taylor and Blanche Isabel Johnston Taylor. Our father was born in 1894 and died in [illegible] and our mother was born in [illegible] and died in 1973.

COURIER: Were your parents born in Charlevoix?

GERRITSEN: Our mother was. Her father was George Johnston and he was a cabinetmaker. We still have some pieces of furniture he made. Our father came here from Empire with his family. He managed the State Liquor Store and also worked for Martin Block for quite a while. He had two brothers, Walter and Frank. Walter worked for Wood Brothers and Frank was in the lumber business in Iron Mountain.

BELUSAR: Our mother was a pianist and at one time she and dad had a band. He played the drums. They used to entertain at the Alhambra Hotel and the Lewis Grand Opera House.

COURIER: When did you graduate from high school?

BELUSAR: I graduated in 1941.

GERRITSEN: I graduated in 1944.

COURIER: Then what did you do?

BELUSAR: I met my husband, George Belusar, while he was serving in the Coast Guard here. We were married shortly after I graduated. I traveled with him for a while. We lived in Chicago, where he went to Wilson Junior College, then we moved to Cleveland and he entered Western Reserve University and graduated from there. I worked for Bonwit Teller in Cleveland and now I'm with The Travelers, which is a gift shop specializing in luggage in downtown Cleveland. We live in a Cleveland suburb.

GERRITSEN: I left Charlevoix and went to Indianapolis. Then I came back to Grand Rapids and went to the LaParent Beauty School. I worked in Grand Rapids until 1951, then went to Florida. That's where I met my husband, Kenneth Gerritsen and was married. He was in the service. Then we came back to Grand Rapids and I worked there until 1955, when I was expecting my first child. I have five children. David is 24, Sandra is 23, Larry is 21, Mark is 18, and Steven is 16. We live in Greensburg, Pennsylvania.

COURIER: What do your husbands do?

BELUSAR: George is with Pickands-Mather & Co. in Cleveland. He's manager of cash, short-terms, and investments.

GERRITSEN: Oh, yes, they love to fish, and now they're fixing up a boat. My husband reads the Charlevoix Courier from cover to cover just like he was brought up here.

COURIER: What do you ladies do when you come to Charlevoix?

BELUSAR: We go to the Lake Michigan Beach and sunbathe, we look for Petoskey stones, we go out to eat at places liked the Grey Gables and the Argonne, and we go shopping. We also like to go fishing. We even bait our own hooks. The channel is a good place to fish.

GERRITSEN: What we really and truly love about Charlevoix is that you don't have to have a car. We can walk to places to eat and to night clubs. We don't have to lock our cars or houses and we can leave things on the porch. We feel free, not cooped up or tied down.

BELUSAR: And the fresh air and good water. I often take some bottles of water to Cleveland.

GERRITSEN: And we love the cherries and cherry pies and fresh vegetables.

COURIER: How often do you come to Charlevoix?

BELUSAR: We average about four times a year. Memorial Day, the month of July, some time in the fall. We come at all different times. There's no comparing Charlevoix with Florida or any other place.

COURIER: Where do you stay in Charlevoix?

GERRITSEN: We used to rent a cottage, but now we stay with our sister, Betty Taylor.

COURIER: What changes have you seen in Charlevoix through the years?

GERRITSEN: The factories – they're great for the economy – and condominiums, the Medusa plant, Big Rock, the Air Force, the shopping center, the new Coast Guard Station. They're all changes for the best. We had to have them. If they hadn't come, the town would have folded. There was nothing here when we graduated from high school – not even the colleges in Petoskey and Traverse City.

COURIER: Are any of your classmates still around Charlevoix?

BELUSAR: Ken Staley was in my class.

GERRITSEN: Don Meggison was in my class, and there's June Fairbanks, and others.

COURIER: Are you going to retire in Charlevoix?

GERRITSEN: Yes. Our husbands are all for it.

Officers elected

The Rev. Raymond Giffin has been elected president of the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club for the 1980-81 club year. He and his slate of officers will assume their duties in October.

Directors (whose terms end Sept. 30, 1982) are Milton Adams, J.O. Crawford, Clifford Buddick and Garrett Miller; Directors (whose terms expire Sept. 30, 1981) are Wayne Woods, Austin Hagler and Jackson Beatty.

Will funds be raised to keep it here?

La Couronne replica on display in Charlevoix

By Sara Gay Dammann

When the sun hits the sails they shimmer as if they were full of wind. The hull, all copper, glistens and light bounces off the muzzles of cannons poking through the gun ports.

La Couronne has returned to Charlevoix.

The all brass and copper sailing vessel, a scale model of a 17th Century French man-of-war, created by Frank Novotny and his son James during the long winters of the Depression, is on display at the First State Bank.

The Charlevoix Historical Society and other admirers of the ornate, hand-made model hope funds will be raised to keep it here. For the past several decades it has been in California with other members of the Novotny family.

Last Christmas plans were made to return the boat, which won recognition as the best of its class in the 1933 Chicago World's Fair.

Jim Novotny, now 73, spent last week rebuilding the case and touching up the model.

He recalled, "In the 1920's money was tight up here. One year we earned only $15, but we survived because we had a farm and were self-sufficient.

Frank Novotny immigrated to the United States in 1906 from Czechoslovakia and worked in Charlevoix for Robert Bonthorn Plumbing. Even that business was largely seasonal, depending on summer resorters with their large cottages to provide enough business to survive the winter.

"In the winter we had very few jobs, so we began working with sheet metal.

"First we made weathervanes. Then we built a model of the Constitution – Old Ironsides – for Koch's Colonial Club gambling house," James recalled.

Lil Novotny, another of the seven brothers and sisters, remembers that the Chicago World's Fair inspired her father to begin work on La Couronne.

It took the father and son team about four years to complete the model, which was largely built in a converted chicken coop.

"We worked in the winter for weeks at a time, whenever the weather was too bad to cut wood," James remembered.

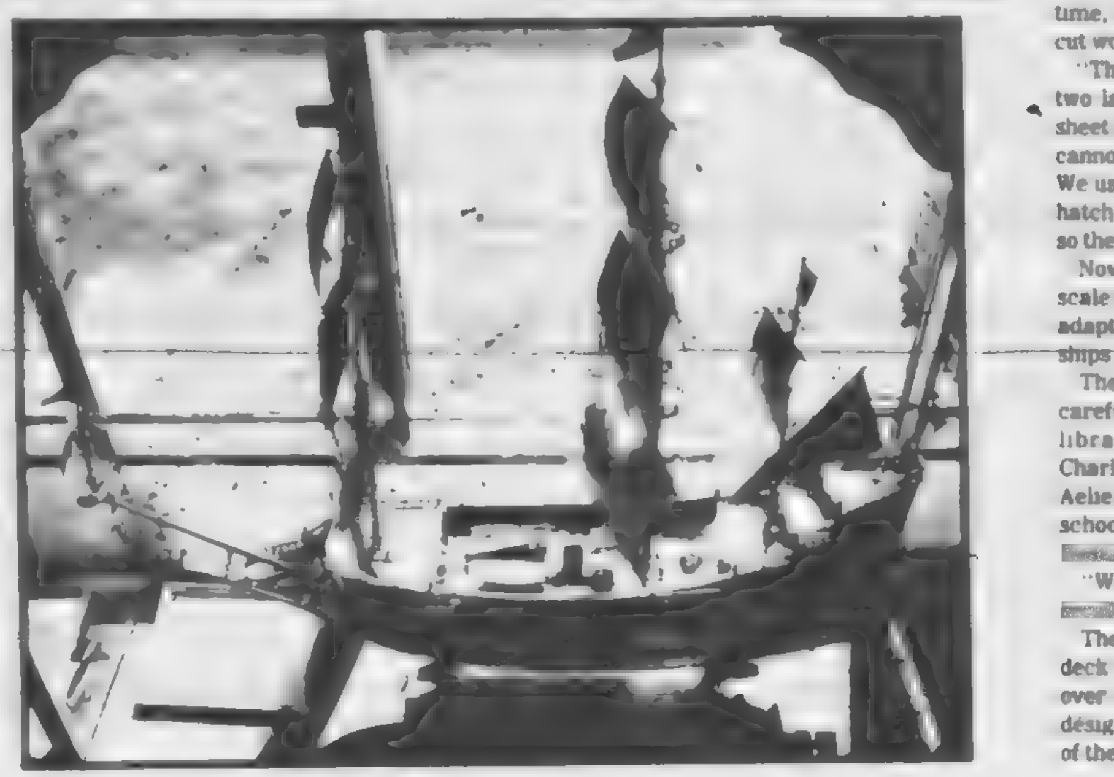
"The hull was shaped and hammered from two large pieces of copper. The sails are of sheet brass, tinned for color and contrast. The cannons are heavy brass, turned on a lathe. We used double pieces of sheet copper for the hatch covers, hinging them on copper wires so they will open and close."

Novotny explained that while the ship is a scale model, it is not an exact replica but an adaptation of the general design of the French ships of the period.

The Novotny's studied their subject carefully, gathering information from the library and consulting with various Charlevoix ship builders, including the late Aelie Moore, whose model of a Great Lakes schooner sits beside the Weathervane Restaurant.

"We put in more than 2300 hours," Jim recalled.

The hand-turned figurines, elaborate poop deck lanterns, the moveable hatch covers over the cannons, the intricately carved designs, Jim Novotny explained were typical of the French ships of the 17th Century.



Residents oppose permit for Montessori Children's House

The Charlevoix Montessori Children's House may not find a welcome new home in the building now occupied by the Bergmann Center on Garfield Avenue.

A contingent of property owners in the area surrounding the building voiced their opposition to granting a special use permit to Montessori at a public hearing sponsored by the Charlevoix Planning Commission last week.

Cass Russell, a resident of the neighborhood, presented petitions signed by 67 nearby property owners who were against permitting Montessori to use the building as a school. He stated that the neighborhood had been sympathetic to the Bergmann Center, but now that it was moving, the neighbors would like to have the house return to residential use. He indicated he felt a traffic problem would develop, and that there was not adequate parking.

Others mentioned that they were concerned about the resale value of their property if the school moved in. They said the delivery trucks which came and went during the time the Bergmann Center was open caused a problem. They also stated their concerns about an adequate play yard and snow removal.

Katie Donovan, who operates the Montessori Children's House, reported that the maximum number of students in the school would be 40 and that there would be no need for delivery trucks. She indicated there would be room for parking four staff cars, and two spaces for parents dropping off or picking up children. She agreed to have the snow removed if it became a problem and also agreed to encourage carpooling by parents.

As far as evening parent programs are concerned, Ms. Donovan said the activity would not be any more than when a resident has a party.

Ms. Donovan pointed out that the Montessori School is a structured environment with supervision, not free play. She said she intends to add shrubbery to the existing fence for privacy, and to fence half of the existing asphalt for a play area.

Among those who spoke in favor of the school was Scott Beatty, who pointed out that it is a use allowed in the zoning district under a special use permit. Tom Pointner stated he had talked to three real estate salesmen, who told him it would not be feasible to try and sell the building as a residence because it would take too much money to remodel it. The Rev. Raymond Giffin spoke for the school, saying that it has never bothered him. He works in his church office while school is being held in the same building.

The Planning Commission tabled the matter for further consideration.

Republican delegates picked

Delegates to the Charlevoix County Republican Convention met last week to elect officers for the next two years, and to name delegates to the Michigan Republican Convention to be held this weekend at the Silverdome in Pontiac.

Cass Toton of Boyne City was named chairman of the convention, Helen Phillips of Charlevoix was named secretary, Ronald Geer of Charlevoix was named sergeant-at-arms, and William Ohle of Horton Bay was named parliamentarian.

Five delegates and five alternates will attend the state convention. The delegates are Toton, Ohle, John Haggard of Charlevoix, Oscar Stroud of Charlevoix, and Willis Peters of Charlevoix.

The alternates are Ross Rosenthal of Charlevoix, Steve Wilson of Charlevoix, Mr and Mrs. Herbert Friskie of Charlevoix, and Arthur Rouse of Boyne City.

At Sanford-Meridan

Rayders advance

Charlevoix has advanced to the state Class C regional baseball tournament at Sanford Meridan Saturday.

The Rayders captured the Grayling district by beating Elk Rapids, 4-3, and Onaway, 11-2.

Against Elk Rapids, Mike Loper was the hero. Loper - the third Rayder hurler - got credit for the win and the sophomore added two hits including a home run to the cause. Scott Morgan and Roxy VanLoo also two safeties for Charlevoix.

Against Onaway, Loper went the distance to pick up the win. Morgan led a 12 hit barrage with five singles. Jack Carlson added three hits.

In Michigan-Huron Shores action last week, Charlevoix split a doubleheader with Gaylord, losing the opener, 4-3, and winning the nightcap, 5-2.

In the opener, the Rayders were stopped on three hits. Loper took the loss. Charlevoix had just three hits in the nightcap, too, but one was a grand slam home run by Scott Kelly. Jerry Sladek was the winning hurler.

Charlevoix's key contest with Petoskey was rained out Thursady. The game will be picked up on Tuesday with the Rayders ahead 5-2. Jim Buchanan hit a two run homer in the first inning before the rain came.

Charlevoix trails Petoskey in the standings. Petoskey has a 6-2 record and Charlevoix is 6-3. Rogers City is 7-3.

Two Charlevoix High School tracksters placed in state competition Saturday at Middleville.

The Rayder tennis team did not fair as well. The Rayders were eliminated in the first round. University Liggett High School won the Class C crown.

Finish 11-9

Rayders bow

Charlevoix was eliminated from the state Class C softball tournament over the weekend.

Charlevoix lost to Tawas Area, 9-4, in the district final at Kalkaska after whipping Elk Rapids, 33-0, in an earlier contest.

Against Tawas Area, Melinda Klooster allowed just two hits in taking the defeat. The Rayders were held in check, too, with just four singles.

Against Elk Rapids, Klooster pitched a no hitter as Charlevoix exploded for 19 safeties enroute to victory. Margo Smith had four hits and Klooster and Mel Kerridge three each to pace the attack. Colleen LaBlance, Teresa Noirot, Brenda Buchanan and Bridget Noirot had two hits apiece.

Charlevoix ended the season with an 11-9 record.

In the Rayders last Michigan-Huron Shores Conference doubleheader, Charlevoix split with Gaylord, losing the opener, 5-4, and winning the nightcap, 6-4.

In the opener, Kerridge limited Gaylord to two hits. LaBlance had two singles to lead Charlevoix's attack. Klooster pitched a four hitter to claim the win in the nightcap. She added to two singles to help her cause.

For upgrading homes

Rural homeowners eligible for FmHA financing

Rural homeowners in Emmet, Cheboygan or Charlevoix Counties who need to upgrade their homes may be eligible for financing from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

Pauline A. Chorley, FmHA assistant county supervisor, said that in addition to financing the purchase of homes, the agency also has funds available to families who already own homes that need insulation/weatherization improvements.

FmHA will offer loans for energy conservation improvements to all rural families of low or moderate incomes who cannot obtain adequate commercial credit and are otherwise eligible for [illegible].

Chorley said that this is not a new loan program, but a part of the total loan program FmHA has had for a number of years. However the agency is stressing the need to conserve energy and help families combat today's higher cost of home energy.

Improvements designed to save energy, such as installing additional insulation, storm windows, and doors, caulking, and in some cases modifying heating systems, will in many cases, save more than enough to repay the loan funds borrowed for the improvement, according to Chorley.

In addition to energy conservation, repair loans may also be used to remove health and safety hazards – such as repairing roofs, providing sanitary water and waste disposal systems, and upgrading electrical wiring. Applicants must own and live in their own homes on a farm, in the open country, or in a town (rural towns of up to 10,000 population) to qualify for assistance.

Families with lower incomes may qualify for a subsidy that can reduce the effective interest rate down to as low as 1 percent per [illegible].

NOTICE OF ANNUAL ELECTION OF THE ELECTORS OF CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOLS
CHARLEVOIX AND ANTRIM COUNTIES, MICHIGAN TO BE HELD
JUNE 9, 1980

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE SCHOOL DISTRICT:

Please Take Notice that the Annual Election of the School District will be held on Monday, June 9, 1980, in the Charlevoix Elementary School on Division Street.

THE POLLS OF ELECTION WILL OPEN AT 7:00 O'CLOCK, A.M., AND CLOSE AT 8:00 O'CLOCK, P.M.

At the Annual School Election there will be elected two (2) members to the Board of Education of the district for full terms of four (4) years ending in 1984.

THE FOLLOWING PERSONS HAVE BEEN NOMINATED TO FILL SUCH VACANCIES:

Kenneth J. Boss	Larry C. Lemerand
Dennis V. Kusina	Steven G. Smith

TAKE FURTHER NOTICE THAT the following propositions will be submitted to the vote of the electors at the Annual School Election:

I. MILLAGE RENEWAL PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Charlevoix Public Schools, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, Michigan, be increased by 12.5 mills ($12.50 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for the year 1980, for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes (this being a renewal of 12.5 mills for operating purposes which expired with the 1979 tax levy)?

II. ADDITIONAL MILLAGE PROPOSITION

Shall the limitation on the amount of taxes which may be assessed against all property in Charlevoix Public Schools, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, Michigan, be increased by 1.7 mills ($1.70 on each $1,000.00) on state equalized valuation for the year 1980, for the purpose of providing additional funds for operating purposes (this being a separate proposal in addition to the increase submitted in Proposition I at this same election)?

All school electors who are registered with the city or township clerk of the city or township in which they reside are eligible to vote at this election.

I, Anah H. Potter, Treasurer of Charlevoix County, Michigan, hereby certify that, as of March 24, 1980, the records of this Office indicate that the total of all voted increases over and above the tax limitation established by the Constitution of Michigan, in any local units of government affecting the taxable property located in Charlevoix Public Schools, Charlevoix and Antrim Counties, Michigan, is as follows:

Weddings

Powell-Rubingh

Gail Louise Powell and Glenn Arthur Rubingh were united in a double ring ceremony May 24 at the First Baptist Church in Eastport. An uncle of the bride, Rev. William Armstrong, performed the ceremony before 200 guests. Prayers were said by Pastor Don Riedel and Rev. Warren Lammers.

Arrangements of greens, candelabra, a unity candelabra and a bridal arch accented with pink flowers decorated the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Powell of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. James Rubingh of Ellsworth are the parents of the couple.

Music for the ceremony was performed by Geoff Nelson, John Grooters of Charlevoix; an aunt of the groom, Mrs. Martin Rubingh; Mrs. Denny Aenis and a trio composed of Mrs. Denny Aenis, Mrs. Ron Smith and Mrs. Gerald Klooster. Among selections were "Lord Give Them This Day," "In This Quiet Hour of Prayer," "A Christian Home," "Sunrise, Sunset" and "Gentle Shepherd."

Given in marriage by her father, bride chose a gown of sheer polyester accented with Chantilace and seed pearls fashioned a high neckline and ruffled flounce. A cascade of ruffles accented her cathedral length train and a raised waist line, long bishop sleeves with lace cuffs and buttons up the back completed the look. Her veil edged in Chantilace was attached to a hat. She carried a cascade of white silk roses, miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Jerry Jennex, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Terri Novotny and Glenda Farrell. They wore identical long sheer pink polyester knit gowns featuring a full skirt, high neckline above the yoke and puff sleeves of lace with a sash tie at the waist. Each carried white parasols accented with lace and rose buds on the [illegible].

Flower girl was Abigail Jennex, niece of the bride, who wore a sheer pink polyester knit gown and carried a basket of [illegible] colored flowers.

Serving his brother as best man was Gary Rubingh and groomsmen were Allen Rubingh, brother of the groom, and Charles Bordner, brother-in-law of the groom. Seating the guests were Jerry Van Stadum and Jerry Jennex, brother-in-law of the bride. Ringbearer was Jonathan Rubingh, nephew of the groom.

A reception given the bride's parents was held in the church fellowship hall. The cake was made by the bride's cousin, Nancy Powell and served by Mrs. Charles Bordner, sister of the groom, and the groom's sister-in-law, Mrs. Gary Rubingh. Punch was served by an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Sam Speakes and niece of the bride, Tonya Speakes. The gift table was attended by Kim Jones and Becky Klann.

Following a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, the couple will make their home in Ellsworth where the groom operates and owns a dairy farm.

To greet her guests the bride's mother chose a long blue, full-skirted gown and the groom's mother chose a long green gown with long sheer sleeves. Both wore orchid corsages.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the Country Kitchen in Ellsworth. (Photo by Mick Smith)

Anniversaries

Mr. and Mrs. Weldy

Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Weldy of East Jordan will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary at an open house to be held at the United Methodist Church in East Jordan Saturday, June 7.

The couple who have resided in East Jordan since their marriage will greet friends from 2-5 p.m.

Hosting the event will be their sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Rolland (Doris) Hayes of Charlevoix, Mr. and Mrs. Edward (Margaret) Faust of East Jordan and Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas (Ardith) Hayden of Elk Rapids. Also present will be some of their 12 grandchildren and 23 great-grandchildren.

Mr. Weldy and the former Elfie M. Cook were married at Charlevoix June 3, 1920. They made their home on a farm in Wilson Township until Mr. Weldy retired as a farmer. At that time, they moved to East Jordan. They are members of the United Methodist Church and the senior citizens group. Mrs. Weldy is a member of the Jasmine Chapter of the Rebekah Lodge.

They reside approximately three blocks from the business district and when the weather permits they walk the distance to the post office and the downtown area.

Mr. Weldy was born in Indiana July 28, 1894 and came to the East Jordan area with his parents in 1902. Mrs. Weldy was born in Charlevoix July 4, 1897 and taught in the Charlevoix schools prior to her marriage.

Beta Sigma Phi honors Jacquie Merta

Members of the Beta Sigma Phi chapter of Kappa Sigma celebrated the 10th birthday of their chapter with a party Monday night at LaCroft Lounge

As part of the festivities, Jacquie Merta was honored for her work in civic affairs.. Mrs. Merta has been executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce for almost five years and serves as commodore of the Charlevoix Yacht Club, a position to which she succeedded after serving as secretary and vice commodore.

Since taking over the chamber job, Mrs. Merta has initiated the boat cruises on Lake Charlevoix during the fall color season and the champagne cruise on the Fourth of July. She is also credited with changing the color of ink on the Chamber books from red to black.

Mrs. Merta has lived in Charlevoix 10 years. She grew up in Petoskey and graduated from Petoskey High School, later attending North Central Michigan College. Her husband, Tom, is regional manager for Michigan and Indiana for National Merchandizing. They have a son, Tommy, who is 10 years old.

Also attending the party were members of Xi Epsilon Gamma, the other chapter of Kappa Sigma in Charlevoix, and some members of the sorority who are no longer active.

Cards distributed

In an effort to promote more patriotism and loyalty in American citizens, the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Auxiliary are distributing wallet size cards to the students in the Charlevoix Schools. The cards have the Pledge of Allegiance on one side and the American's Creed on the other, which reads: "I believe in the United States of America as a government of the people, by the people, for the people, whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable, established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice, and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. I therefore believe it is my duty to my country to love it; to support its Constitution; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies" – by William Tyler Page.

Ralph Raymer, Elementary School principal, is shown receiving 400 cards from Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, V.F.W. #1153 Auxiliary president. Seventy cards were also presented to St. Mary's School, and cards will be distributed to the students at the middle school.

HOW TO CARE FOR YOUR DIAMOND

Diamonds get smudged and soiled and dusty. Lotions, powders, soaps, even the natural skin oils put a film on diamonds and cut down their brilliance. Chemicals in the air can discolor the mountings of precious jewelry

Clean diamonds "glow" because the maximum amount of light can then enter and return in a fiery brilliance. It just takes a little care to keep them that way

There are several methods to clean diamonds at home, the most simple of which is the detergent bath: Prepare a small bowl of warm suds with any of the mild liquid detergents used in the home. Brush the pieces with an eyebrow brush while they are in the suds. Then transfer them to a wire tea strainer and rinse under warm running water. Pat dry with a soft lintless cloth.

Bring your diamonds to Reusch Jewelry regularly for professional cleaning and inspection of the mounting.

A season of early morning workouts and blistered hands finally paid off for STEVE HUFFORD of Charlevoix and the rest of the Michigan State University Rowing Club when they hosted the 1980 Great Lakes Invitational Regata May 17 at Lansing's Frances Park.

More than a dozen teams from throughout the Midwest competed for awards in both men's and women's events.

The MSU team captured first places in the women's four oared and the mixed eight oared races, with several other MSU boats finishing second and third in four of the 10 events.

A sophomore premedicine major, Hufford is a 1978 graduate of Charlevoix High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hufford of 114 Belvedere Ave.

MARIE RABACH of Charlevoix was one of two northern area residents honored by Michigan Bell Wednesday at a luncheon in Traverse City for Cadillac-Manistee, Petoskey and Traverse City Pioneers Chapters.

Mrs. Rabach, a Michigan Bell records clerk in Petoskey, received a community service award in recognition of her voluntary community activities.

Theodore Hanson of Traverse City, who retired from the telephone company in 1971 after 46 years of service, was given a citation for helping save the life of a vacationer in Northport last summer.

The awards were presented by Michigan Bell President David K. Easlick at the annual spring luncheon for northern area life members of the Telephone Pioneers of America, a volunteer organization of current and retired telephone company workers.

Mrs. Rabach coordinated the volunteer program for the Michigan Special Olympic games, which were held last February, and also helped in the fund raising program for the Special Olympics Yearbook.

She became involved with the Special Olympics through the community services committee of the Great Lakes Chapter of the Pioneers. The Special Olympics has been the committee's special project for the last five years.

Earlier this year, Mrs. Rabach was named "1979 Volunteer of the Year" for the Special Olympics.

Mrs. Rabach is a member of the Methodist Church and on the Board of the Bergmann Center, a workshop for the handicapped in Charlevoix. She is also a member of the VFW Auxiliary, Legion Auxiliary and Charlevoix Historical Society.

Mushroom hunters in Charlevoix County enjoyed "one of the best black morel seasons in recent years," according to CHARLES RICH of the DNR.

Rich said hardwoods - particularly aspen stands - produced the best picks. White morels are now being found. They are often found near dead elm trees, he said.

On the fishing front, Rich said "that little activity by charter boat operators out of Charlevoix" has been reported.

"Those that tried met with no success on the big lake," he added. "Lake Charlevoix is still producing fair catches of perch off Ironton in the South Arm."

Crappie success on Lake Charlevoix has been "excellent" [illegible]

The bass season opened a week ago Saturday and should be good on Lake Charlevoix, Rich said.

Although their names will not appear in the Guinness Book of World Records, GERRY CARPENTER of East Jordan and his fellow marathon softballers can be proud that their efforts raised nearly $5,000 for the American Cancer Society.

The marathon softball team, made up of students from Michigan State University's Holden Residence Hall, was attempting to raise money for the society by breaking the world record for continuous softball playing, set recently at 72 hours by the University of Idaho.

After lining up pledges on a by-the-hour basis, the marathoners took to the playing field early on the morning of Thursday, May 1. They played until 3:32 a.m. Sunday, May 4, nearly 67½ hours later, when four of the players were felled by [illegible].

During those 67½ hours, the players racked up 209 innings and 788 runs, with the grays running the bases 437 times to the blues' [illegible].

Although the game ended about five hours short of setting a new world record, the players could take comfort in the fact that they had received nearly 10 times more in pledges than the American Cancer Society had expected.

While recovering from their softball marathon, the players could also look forward to another ordeal — the midterm examinations postponed by their professors in order to let them "play ball."

Operational millage approved

Voters in the Charlevoix School District Monday approved the renewal of 12.5 mills for one year for operation of the schools but rejected a 1.7 mill addition for one year for construction of a new roof on the high school.

Voters also elected Ken Boss and Steve Smith to four year terms on the Charlevoix Board of Education.

Only 800 voters turned out for the election. The district has 4,700 registered voters. The 12.5 mill renewal passed by 183 votes, 490-307. The 1.7 mill addition was defeated by 146 votes, 416-362.

School officials had hoped to remove the existing roof at the high school, install Thermax insulation and cover it with a Trocal roof. Officials claim the present roof has cracks and splits which allows water to seep through, soaking the insulation. Over the years, officials say, the cracks and splits were filled. However, not all the leaks were discovered and as a result the insulation "is now totally ineffective." In addition, officials add, the moisture has caused some deterioration to the steel decking and if not corrected will cause damage to the ceilings and wiring.

In the race for the two Board seats, Boss finished with 600 votes, Smith had [illegible] votes, Dennis Kuzma had [illegible] votes and Larry Lemerand had 223 votes. Boss is an incumbent while Smith will succeed Clem Wagner.

Appeals to State Water Resources Commission

Lake Charlevoix Property Owners wants phosphorus from hatchery reduced

By Tom Dammann

The Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association is appealing to the State Water Resources Commission to reduce the amount of phosphorus which the Jordan River National Fish Hatchery is dumping into the Jordan River, which they say is polluting Lake Charlevoix.

The hatchery, which rears most of the millions of lake trout planted in the Great Lakes annually, discharges approximately 12 million gallons daily of treated fish culturing effluent into the headwaters of the Jordan River which empties into the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix.

The discharge has included approximately 2800 pounds per year, an amount which the Department of Natural Resources has allowed to continue in a permit granted to the federal hatchery on May 16.

This is too much, because it stepped up the growth of aquatic plant life, according to Traverse City Attorney James M. Olson, retained by the Association to file the appeal.

Olson points out that the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix has been aging more rapidly than the main body of the lake, which is still in a relatively pristine state.

He told the Courier in a telephone interview that landowners and the municipality of East Jordan have already invested large sums of money to reduce the discharge of phosphorus, and that according to DNR water specialists the Federal Hatchery now discharges the greatest amount of phosphorus into the river and consequently Lake Charlevoix.

"The federal government is in effect check-mating local efforts to stop pollution of the lake and bring it back to its natural purity," Olson said.

"Moreover," the attorney continued, "Under the federal Water Pollution Control Act, a federal agency discharging effluence into state waters is subject to procedural and substantive laws of the state, even if the state laws are more stringent.

The appeal charges that the DNR has failed to apply its own standards in granting the permit to the hatchery.

"If the City of East Jordan were to discharge as much phosphorus as the hatchery is into Lake Charlevoix, the DNR would stop it at once," Olson told the Courier.

The DNR has set standards and methods to maintain them at its own Harritta Hatchery which it seems not to have applied when issuing the permit to the federal hatchery on the Jordan River, Olson said.

Finally, the appeals charges that in view of "the substantial private and public investment" in water pollution control on Lake Charlevoix, the permit violates due process of law, "take or confiscates property rights or interests without just compensation, and denies equal protection of the laws under the state and federal constitutions."

For nearly $9,000

Band Boosters make payment to board

The Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night was presented with a check for $8,986.67 in payment of the loan underwritten by the board for new band uniforms. David Fowler, project chairman for the Charlevoix Band Boosters, made the presentation.

The Band Boosters through a number of fund-raising projects including an auction and the open house aboard the Medusa Challenger have raised approximately $18,000 to finance the cost of 90 uniforms. The open house aboard the Challenger on Memorial Day raised approximately $5,084 and other events netted another $400. The check given to the board Monday night also included the matching funds contributed by Medusa which was $1.00 for each $2.00 raised.

The board also voted to offer the Building Trades house in Hampton Village for sale at a minimum price of $55,000. The one-story house features three bedrooms plus living, dining and family rooms, kitchen, two baths, utility room, full basement and an attached garage.

Leaves of absence were accorded three members of the faculty and one member of the custodial staff. Mrs. Barbara Berlage was granted a year's leave of absence; Mrs. Marina LaBlance a leave scheduled to begin October 31 and end June 9, 1981 and Mrs. Kristin Schaperkotter a leave from June 5 of this year until September 1981. All three are to advise the board of their intents to return by June 30, 1981.

An easement along the western boundary of the high school property was granted the city for electric, telephone and cable television lines.

In other action, Mrs. Pat Sell was appointed to the Charlevoix Public Library advisory committee for a term of three years.

The board also passed a resolution to join the Michigan High School Association. This is an action that is taken at this time every year.

The next meeting was to be held June 10 to approve the anticipation notes and set the 1980 tax levy.

Diploma time

Dr. Peggy Riethmiller, professor at Michigan State University, addressed the students and their family and friends who turned out to witness the ceremony at the high school gymnasium.

Dr. Riethmiller's address followed the salutatorian and valedictorian presentations by John Grooters and Kristy Mathews.

Many members of the graduating class received awards and scholarships which were presented by David J. Smith, assistant principal.

Receiving either a monetary or honorary scholarship from the Michigan Department of Education, Competitive Scholarship Program, were Donald M. Avery, Bambi L. Balch, Marie T. Buday, Patrick F. Camilleri, Jack E. Carlson, Nancy P. Cluk, Susan M. Cooper, Dwight L. Dykstерhouse, Mary A. Egler, Aimee L. Elzinga, Jeffrey A. Fassett, John A. Grooters, Richard M. Hodgson, Mary E. Horton, Martin N. Jensen, John C. Lachman.

Also Kristy E. Mathews, Thomas A. Moelke, Carol E. Morris, Kenneth Otmanowski, Lorraine M. Paul, Jeffrey J. Peters, Mark E. Price, Michiko Regier, Debora A. Resch, Susan D. Simmerman, Donna L. Stiff, James B. Stowe, Michael T. Umlor, Sean M. VanAndel, Kurt J. Williams, Wendi L. Wright, Douglas D. Young.

Other scholarships and awards were presented to the following graduates: Alma College Trustee Honors Scholarship to Kristy E. Mathews; Grand Valley State College Honor Scholarships to Marie T. Buday, Mary A. Egler and Susan D. Simmerman; Aquinas College Alumni Scholarship Award and Academic Merit Scholarship Award to Mary E. Horton; Hope College Presidential Scholarship to John A. Grooters.

Special awards from local organizations were presented to the following students: Charlevoix Education Association Scholarship to Marie T. Buday; Lions Club of Charlevoix Stewart "Irish" Coleman Awards given annually to students who have been outstanding in athletics and academics, Mary T. Buday and Kurt J. Williams; Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix Scholarship and Service Award to Sharon K. Himebauch and McEnroe Memorial Scholarship to Lorri Paul.

John A. Groothers received the annual salutatorian trophy and Kristy E. Mathews the annual valedictorian's trophy.

Surprise! Mesquite to replace Sundew

Charlevoix will still be losing the U.S.C.G.C. Sundew this year, but instead of the Neah Bay, the Mesquite will take the Sundew's place.

Coast Guard officials have announced that the Sundew and Mesquite - stationed in Duluth, Minn. - will change ports in late October after both ships have visited shipyards for routine inspections.

The crews of the two ships will remain stationed where they presently are.

The Mesquite - like the Sundew - is a 180 foot cutter. However, the Sundew has greater ice breaking capacities which, Coast Guard officials believe, will be more advantageous on Lake Superior since two ice breaking tugs have been added to the fleet in northern Lake Michigan (Sault Ste. Marie and St. Ignace) in the past 18 months.

Charlevoix was originally scheduled to get the Neah Bay, a 140 foot icebreaker. But the Neah Bay will be sent to Cleveland instead.

The reshuffling was brought about when the U.S.C.G.C. Blackthorn collided with a tanker and sank in Tampa Bay earlier this year.

To replace the Blackthorn in the Gulf of Mexico, Coast Guard officials had planned to move the Mesquite to Galveston, Texas. The Sundew in turn would be sent to Duluth and Charlevoix would get the Neah Bay. However, the Coast Guard is now expected to recommission the former U.S.C.G.C. Cowslip for use in the Gulf of Mexico instead.

Clarification

The City of Charlevoix will not be collecting school taxes this summer, but city taxes will be sent out July 1.

An article in last week's Courier said that city residents would not receive a tax bill this summer. Indeed, residents will get their city taxes. The school tax, however, will not be included.

346 participants to date

69th Michigan Amateur starts Tuesday

As of late Monday afternoon, 346 golfers have signed up to participate in the 69th annual Michigan Amateur.

The deadline for filing applications was Friday, however, Golf Association of Michigan (GAM) officials indicated Monday that they "are still taking applications." A maximum of [illegible] golfers will be allowed to participate.

Most of the golfers will be arriving in town over the weekend as practice rounds are scheduled for Sunday and Monday. Qualifying rounds - at the Belvedere Golf Club and Antrim Dells Golf Club - will start on Tuesday. The final is scheduled for Saturday at the Belvedere.

GAM officials have already "staked out" the course at Antrim Dells. The course has been widened. Last year several golfers complained the course was too narrow. Belvedere will be staked out on Saturday, officials at the course say.

A host of local golfers will try their luck in this year's Amateur. Expected to participate are Sam Supernaw, Dr. Jim Gels, Mike Custer, Pat Paul, Joe Etienne, Fred Zinn and Rick Shipman.

New owners at Archway Motel

CASH FOR LAND CONTRACTS

Mr. and Mrs. Craig Wise are among the new motel owners in the community having purchased the Archway Motel.

In making the announcement, Wise said he and his wife had come north from Florida last fall to make the purchase. The motel, one of few in the area that boast a swimming pool, is located on south Bridge Street near State Street.

Both are natives of southern Michigan, Mrs. Wise of St. Clair Shores and Mr. Wise of Birmingham. She attended Central Michigan University and he attended Brower Junior College at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

The couple operated a landscape contracting business in Pompano Beach, Fla., before opting to return to the north country.

They purchased the Archway Motel, which was constructed in 1958, from Mr. and Mrs. Tim Smith.

Selling Your House
by

FUTURE SHOCK!!!

Who would have thought that this country would consider an inflation rate of 10% fairly normal for our times? Yet today that's what we're doing. The reason, of course, is that after flirting and living with double digit inflation time and again a fairly normal 10% looks pretty good. Don't be fooled, a 10% inflation rate is high.

What would happen to housing prices with a 10% yearly cost of living increase. A home that cost $60,000 now would increase to $155,624 in ten years. In 20 years it would cost $403,650. In 30 years it would sell for $1,046,964 (over a million dollars).

Whatever your age, you must find a way to create an income in addition to your pay check. Although there is no perfect investment, real estate may be the nearest thing to it. It can be an income producer, a shelter from high taxes, and an ideal protection from the ravages of inflation. Real estate values historically increase faster than general inflation prices and maintain a higher value than most assets in depression. The ideal hedge.

Scholarship winners announced by hospital

Charlevoix Area Hospital announced the winners of the two annual scholarships which it administers this week.

Carol Schanhals of Central Lake was awarded the Peggy Carey Northway Scholarship for $200 toward her pursuing a nursing education at Grand Valley State College in Grand Rapids. Carol who was chosen from among several applicants for the scholarship, by the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors, graduated this year from Central Lake High School.

Carol has worked as a nurses aide since September at the Meadowbrook Medical Care Facility in Bellaire, through her work cooperative program at school.

Miss Schanhals will be seeking a bachelor degree in nursing at Grand Valley.

Winona Gee of East Jordan, who is already in her second year of nursing studies at North Central Michigan College, was awarded a $700 Charlevoix Area Hospital Scholarship.

Mrs. Gee, a mother of three, says she "always wanted to go into nursing" since graduating from East Jordan High School in 1964. Now that her children – twins 12 and another child age 6, – are older, she is fulfilling that ambition.

She has had previous nursing experience working as a nurses aide at Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Asked about returning to school she says, with enthusiasm, "I'm loving it, but it is hard."

The Peggy Carey Northway Scholarship was developed in memory of Peggy Carey Northway of Charlevoix who died of leukemia while a student at University of Michigan.

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Nursing Scholarship is given by the family and friends of the late D.D. Walker, a long time summer visitor to Charlevoix.

Class of '69 turns out an author

Gordon Freedman ...

By Sara Gay Dammann

Gordon Freedman, co-author of Gifts of Deceit, is a Charlevoix native, the son of the late Gordon Freedman and Eleanor Freedman.

He explained, in a telephone interview this week from his home in Washington, D.C., how he had become involved in the book.

"I was working for the House International Relations Committee, investigating the Korean scandal," Freedman said. "My job included analyzing the relationship between the United States and Korea, to find out why the Korean government took the extraordinary measures they did to get support in this country."

Freedman said that Robert Boettcher, staff director for the House committee, approached him for help in putting together the book which became Gifts of Deceit.

"Basically I wrote the Tongsun Park chapters and chapters on the government relationships," the 28-year old author continued.

"I see it as a story about our vulnerability as a people and as a government," he continued – "as a people, vulnerable to individuals such as Rev. Moon, and as a government, vulnerable to the intrigues of such as Tongsun Park and the KCIA."

Speaking about current Korean events, Freedman reported that "all the Koreans in the book are now in jail in Korea, except for Tongsun Park and Moon," as a result of the assassination of President Park Chung Hee and the recent military coup.

"Tongsun Park is back in Washington, giving parties, commuting to Seoul, but I don't think he is entertaining Congressmen," Freedman laughed.

As for the Rev. Sun Myung Moon, Freedman said he returned to the US as soon as the investigations were completed and continues as before – recruiting "Moonies" and building his bank accounts through the Unification Church.

Freedman, graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1969 and has his BA from Michigan State University.

His first job in Washington was as an aide to Georgia Senator Herman Talmadge.

Then he became an investigator on the Watergate Committee

Following that he was asked to work with a House committee investigating corruption in the civil service.

Since the end of the Korean investigation he has been the Washington correspondent for the Atlanta Journal and Cox News Service.

Last week he resigned those positions to begin work on a new book.

"This will be about the Justice Department: the politics of crime fighting; specifically organized crime and white collar crime."

Ironically, one of Freedman's last assignments for the Atlanta Journal was covering Georgia Senator Talmadge's case before the Justice Department, in which Talmadge was accused of mishandling campaign and office funds. The day Freedman was to leave to begin work on his book about the Justice Department, he learned the Justice Department dropped all charges against Talmadge, making the final story he filed.

Freedman told the Courier that he hopes to have enough of his investigative legwork completed by mid summer to permit a long writing – vacation in Charlevoix in August.

.. 'Gifts of Deceit'

By Sara Gay Dammann

Power, personal power, the quest for which justifies all means, is the tragedy revealed in Gifts of Deceit.

This exhaustive, at times exhausting study, presents in careful detail, the labrynth of intrigue surrounding the simultaneous but not necessarily in concert, efforts of the late President of Korea Park Chung Hee, lobbyist - social gadfly Tongsun Park, and pseudo-Messiah Sun Myung Moon, in their quests for personal power.

"Koreagate" as the investigations into the lobbying by Korean Tongsun Park and others came to be known created scandalized headlines as Congressman after Congressman was exposed as having been bought in the carefully planned Korean influence buying plot.

Who was Tongsun Park? What was President Park Chung Hee seeking? Why did these Congressmen need to be wooed? Why was Henry Kissinger so preoccupied with his power game that he ignored FBI warnings about the Korean plots? Where does the Reverend Sun Myung Moon fit in this tale?

President Park, who was shot later by his KCIA director, needed increasing U.S. Military support for his representative regime. But by the early 1970's Congress had begun questionning Park's peculiar version of democracy and Nixon had already announced that US troops would be withdrawn.

Playing on the ever successful theme of Communist threats, Park's agents handed out bundles of cash to key Congressmen. A shocking number accepted. But it should also be noted that many Congressmen did not accept, and some who were implicated were implicated unfairly by a bragging Tongsun Park.

Tongsun was an aspiring social climber who thrived on being seen with the influential. Buying Congressmen gave him status in Korea, friends, of a sort, in Washington, and enabled him to amass a personal fortune, by playing hot and fast with KCIA money and intriguing to be the middleman in rice deals with Louisiana and California.

Park is dead. The headlines today blazon the fight of the successor repressive regime to maintain itself in the face of demands by students and intellectuals.

Tongsun Park is rich and living in Korea.

The Reverend Sun Myung Moon, who has managed to hide behind the Bill of Rights "continues to divide the country with his heavenly Dogma of Divine Deception," authors Boettcher and Freedman write.

Moon, who has proclaimed himself the Messiah, found it suitable to help President Park and the KCIA, because in his quest for the Eden in which he will rule the world, means are justified by the end.

Thus the tragedies of young Americans, seduced by the idealistic messianic promises of Moon's cult, deceived, brainwashed through clever manipulation of their life habits, prisoners of the cult mentality.

"The Korean scandal missed the mark by a mile ... It was all about payoffs to Congressmen ... but Moon is still riding high ... People are mere stepping stones to the throne he claims God promised him".

Moon's ties to the KCIA, his method of collecting his personal fortune using Moonies as virtual slaves to his organization, his involvement in multinational businesses, including military, all Installing an antenna? Stay away from power lines, stay alive!

I'm a lineman at Consumers Power Company with a serious message. If you are planning to install a TV or CB antenna, be extremely careful. Antennas must never make contact with power lines. If contact is made it could cause injury or death. Locate your antenna so that if it falls while being erected or later blows down, it cannot fall on power lines.

Remember, electric wires can be deadly – stay away and stay alive.

Q/A Property Taxes

Last week we were leading into what is known as compounded millage reduction fraction. Section 8 of the enabling act states... "The millage reduction fraction for the 1979 tax year shall be the first fraction in the series of annual reduction fractions which shall be multiplied together to produce the compounded millage reduction fraction for the year. The compounded millage reduction fraction for 1980 shall be calculated by multiplying the 1979 millage reduction fraction by the 1980 millage reduction fraction. The compounded millage reduction or 1981 and each year thereafter shall be calculated by multiplying the local unit's previous year's compounded millage reduction fracton by the current year's millage reduction fraction. Beginning with 1980 tax levies, the compounded millage reduction fraction for the year shall be multiplied by the maximum millage rate authorized by law or charter for the unit of local government for the year, except as provided by subsection (9). A compounded millage reduction fraction shall not exceed 1."

Example of compounding:

Year	Computed Millage Reduction Fraction	Reported Millage Reduction Fraction	Compounded Fraction from Prior Year	Compounded Fraction for this Year
1979	1.0451	*1.0000	(1st year)	*1.0000
1980	0.9500	0.9500	*1.0000	0.9500
1981	1.1000	1.1000	0.9500	1.0000

*Millage reduction fraction for 1979 shall not exceed 1.0000.

A compounded millage reduction fraction shall not exceed 1.0000.

Section 9 is the provision for determining the millage using the millage reduction fraction and reads as follows: "The millage reduction shall be determined separately for authorized millage approved by the voters after January 1, 1979. Beginning in 1980, the limitation on millage authorized by the voters on or before May 31 of a year shall be calculated beginning with the millage reduction fraction for that year. Millage authorized by the voters in 1979 or after May 31 of a subsequent year shall not be subject to a millage reduction until the year following the voter authorization which shall be calculated beginning with the millage reduction fraction for the year following the authorization. The first millage reduction fraction used in calculating the limitation on millage approved by the voters after Jan. 1, 1979 shall not exceed 1."

Example of determining the maximum authorized millage after the MRF or CMRF is applied.

1979 Reduction Fraction equals .9500

1980 Reduction Fraction equals .9000: Compounded Reduction Fraction equals .8550

1981 Reduction Fraction equals .9000: Compounded Reduction Fraction equals .[illegible]

There is the possibility that each CMRF could be used against maximum millage depending on when the millage was voted and for how long.

Let us say:

(a) 10 mills voted in 1978 or earlier for 10 years.
(b) 10 mills voted anytime in 1979 for 5 years.
(c) 10 mills voted in 1980 after May 31 for 10 years.

Year Mills
1979 (a) 10.00 x .9500 MRF equals 9.5000 Mills
1979 (b) 10.00 x 1.0000 (No MRF applied) equals 10.0000 mills
1980 (a) 10.00 x .8550 CMRF equals 8.5500 mills
1980 (b) 10.00 x 9.000 MRF equals 9.0000 mills
1980 (c) 10.00 x 1.0000 (No MRF applied) equals 10.0000 mills
1981 (a) 10.00 x .7695 CMRF equals 7.6950 mills
1981 (b) 10.00 x .8100 CMRF equals 8.1000 mills
1981 (c) 10.00 x .9000 CMRF equals 9.0000 mills

The above illustration shows how the compounding can go on until the millage runs out and new millage is approved by the voters, then the procedure starts all over again. Did Headlee explain all this to the voters?

Next week we will discuss the alternatives the voters have to comply with the tax limitation amendment on millage requests.

A word of praise

A word of praise for the City of Charlevoix Ambulance Service, and Bell Telephone Co.

[illegible] Charlevoix, and recently had occasion to phone for emergency service for a neighbor. Thanks to the cooperation of Bell Telephone in helping us place the call, an ambulance competently staffed, arrived in approximately ten minutes.

Charlevoix should be proud of the type of service and also the excellent Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Opposed to permit

Editor:

Being one of the property owners who signed the petition in opposition to granting a special use permit to Montessori, I would think that the wishes of the people that are very close to the school would be listened to. Instead, Mr Scott Beatty, who lives at St. Johns, more than a mile from the school and The Rev. Raymond Giffin, who lives at 400 Mason, more than a mile away say it will do them no harm. If I lived more than a mile from the school, I would not be very concerned either.

Sincerely

The names of the students in this Charlevoix Elementary School picture, as well as the date of the picture, have been lost in time, except for Blanche Isabel Johnston who later became Mrs. Albert P. Taylor. She is the fourth girl from the left in the second row from the top. Mrs. Taylor was born in 1892, so the picture must have been taken in the early 1900's. Any further information about names of students, name of teacher, or date of picture will be appreciated. (Photo courtesy of Mrs. Kenneth Gerritsen, the former Gloria Taylor)

Writers at it again

The travel writers are at it again — and Charlevoix will have to bite its tongue and take what comes.

The first piece of the season appeared in the Free Press Sunday, and we didn't come out too badly in light of the balderdash that has been printed in the past.

This particular piece was written by Free Press travel editor Rick Sylvain, who threw his first brick even before his typewriter had warmed up.

"This stylish, sometimes snooty, resort town has the air of a schoolyard before noon recess," wrote Sylvain as his lead.

I'd like to know what is bending out the impression that Charlevoix is "snooty?"

I have lived in Charlevoix 15 years and I have met only one, possibly two, people who might be called "snooty" — and they are not numbered among our regular, year-'round residents. I think one was a travel editor.

The headline on Sylvain's article was even worse than his first paragraph.

"[illegible]," it read. The headline could have been an oblique reference to a Free Press article last year which implied that Charlevoix has a royal family. Or it could have been some copy reader's way of retaliating for a rainy weekend once spent in our town.

In any event it wasn't fair. I personally have never met a member of royalty in Charlevoix. And I don't expect I ever will.

The general impression left by Sylvain's article is that you have to have a Lincoln-Continental jam-packed with bills to visit Charlevoix-the-Beautiful, which is far from the truth.

Although exact figures are fortunately are unavailable, I would say that today the bulk of Charlevoix's tourist income is derived from the pocketbooks of working people who must save up for their summer vacations just like you and I. Even to imply that Charlevoix's summer people are economic parasites is not fair to either them or us.

Of course, some Charlevoix businesses received a nice plug in Sylvain's article, including Grey Gables, Mettlers, Shop of the Gulls, Juilleret's, the Argonne, Boggs Bakery and the Appletree.

But our motel operators must be spitting nails over Sylvain's assertion that the best place to stay in Charlevoix is an ancient hostlery called "Bay View Inn" — which, as you know, is located on the far side of Petoskey.

Of course, no one expects travel writers to write only the good things about the places they cover.

But I, for one, am getting a little tired of Charlevoix's shop-worn reputation in the metropolitan press as the playground of the wealthy. It makes the entire town appear like a stage set — a facade, a shallow community whose only purpose is to scratch the backs of the [illegible].

Sylvain is correct when he says that "Nature clearly tried harder in this northwestern spit of the Lower Peninsula." Few will deny that Charlevoix has been blessed with more than its share of natural beauty.

But it is unfortunate that he left the impression that Charlevoix is all glass and [illegible].

Sylvain doesn't mention how Charlevoixans earn their livings in trades not directly associated with the tourist industry (Freedman Artcraft, Consumers Power, Lexalite, Medusa, American Mold, Hufford Industries, Huskins Manufacturing, Hot Seat, Will-Flow)

He overlooks the fact that Charlevoix — in addition to being a tourist mecca — is also a town where people get up early, punch time clocks, work hard and make a substantial contribution to Michigan's economy.

I guess this oversight is what hurts the most.

Meet Charlevoix

Chris Henkel is a 1979 graduate of Charlevoix High School who has just completed his plebe year at the United States Naval Academy. He was home last week on a short leave and the Courier talked with him about life at Annapolis.

•

Q. How are things going?

A. Well, at first I didn't enjoy the Academy very much, but toward the end of the year I did. The military discipline and tough academics were a lot of work and a real change for me, but once I accepted them, I began to enjoy life.

Q. What about physical training?

A. During our plebe summer, starting last July 6 and going until late August, we got up early every morning for physical training. It was kind of like football training. During the school year, we had to run the mile in at least 6:30, do setups, the standing broad jump, and run the obstacle course. It was our own responsibility to prepare for these activities. Also, during the year, we had to take physical education each semester. That included swimming, gymnastics, boxing, and hand-to-hand combat. We have to keep physically fit. If we fail, we get extra training and train until we can pass.

Q. And your academic studies were difficult?

A. They were extremely difficult, my major problem at the beginning of the year. High school was easy for me, but I was not ready for college. However, once I realized what I had to do, I worked harder and brought my grades up.

Q. What subjects did you study?

A. The first semester we studied naval science, computer calculus, chemistry, European history, and English. The second semester we studied naval history (sea power), naval engineering, and leadership, along with our English and science.

Q. What did you do in your spare time?

A. Write letters now and then, but usually study. Sometimes I'd play racquet ball or run. Saturday evenings we might go into town for a beer and pizza with friends and forget the Academy.

Q. How much free time did you have during the week?

A. Plebes have town liberty between noon and dinner time on Saturday, and after dinner on Saturday until midnight. We could go places within a seven mile limit, but if a relative or friend was visiting outside the seven miles, we could make a request to visit them and it usually was approved.

Q. Will you have more free time next year?

A. Yes, now that I'm a third classman, I can stay out all day Saturday, and on Sundays I can go into town between noon and evening meal formations. Our class will also be given a certain number of weekends this year, four or five a semester.

Q. Have you made many friends?

A. I've made some very good friends. Class unity is unbelievable because of the things we go through.

Q. What about the girls?

A. Actually, two of my best friends are girls, but they're not too well liked at the Academy because when they graduate they cannot serve on combat ships or combat aircraft and the men feel it would be better to be training men for missions. They feel it's a waste of manpower (woman power?) and believe the jobs the women are being trained for could be done by civilians trained at a university.

Q. How do the girls feel about it?

A. Most of them would like their status changed so they could serve in combat.

Q. Would you recommend the Naval Academy for those who qualify for appointment?

A. I would recommend it for any high school graduate who can make it. Even if he doesn't complete the training, the time served will change him for the better.

Q. How many men and women are in your class?

A. We started with 1,400, the largest class that ever entered the Academy. Probably about 1,100 will graduate.

Q. Where are you going when you leave Charlevoix?

A. Tuesday I'm leaving for Annapolis. I'm on the varsity sailing team and we're going for a month of sailing along the east coast, winding up in the Newport-Bermuda race. Then we're going back to Annapolis, and on July 7 I leave for Jacksonville and get aboard the U.S.S. Patterson, a Knox-class frigate, to spend five and a half weeks training with the fleet. I'll be serving as an enlisted man so I can learn to understand their problems and situations. We'll probably be training in the Caribbean, but there is a chance we'll be going to South America.

Q. What high school activities do you think helped you get into the Naval Academy?

A. Being a Boy's State Governor helped a lot. One of the questions on the application was "Did you attend Boy's State?". My athletic background also helped. About 70 percent of my class had high school letters. The Academy looks for well-rounded people. Varsity letters are not necessary, but athletic ability is. My activities on the forensic team were definitely an asset. They gave me confidence for public speaking and speaking to superiors. The band program in high school indirectly helped me get into extra-curricular activities at the Academy, the concert band.

Q. Do you feel that Charlevoix High School prepared you adequately for the Academy?

A. Yes. For its size and facilities the school did as good a job as it could. The problem is that in high school education there is no way of pressing students to study. At the Academy there is. The high school is now starting a computer program. That's a good idea because it will help students in many ways.

Q. Are you the first Charlevoix High School graduate to go to the Naval Academy?

Needed: Candidates for Miss Charlevoix

The search is on for a Miss Charlevoix, (formerly known as the Venetian Queen) to reign over the 1980 Venetian Festival late in July, to represent Charlevoix in the National Cherry Queen Pageant in 1981 and in the Miss Michigan Scholarship Pageant at Muskegon in 1982.

Quite an order? Georgia Hufford, chairman of the Miss Charlevoix committee, doesn't think so.

"With so many lovely and talented candidates in the community we shouldn't have any difficulty finding an excellent one to represent Charlevoix the Beautiful in these events," she said.

The Miss Charlevoix Pageant will be held at the high school gymnasium Thursday, July 24.

The deadline for entering the pageant has been set ahead to July 1 in order to allow the candidates more time to ready their talent presentation and to permit the committee to prepare them for dance routine which is part of the program, Ms. Hufford explained.

Ann Sullivan, dance instructor at the Charlevoix School of Gymnastics, will be in charge of the choreography for the pageant.

"With time to work with the candidates to perfect their dance routine, this section of the pageant should be outstanding" Ms. Hufford added.

She has also asked Mrs. Lois Hodgson to tutor the girls in modeling and walking. "This, too, requires time to be done properly," she added.

Marty Mathers, art instructor at the Charlevoix K-6 school, will do the decorating for the pageant.

Mrs. Hufford said that the format for the pageant has been changed slightly this year to make it more attractive to the candidates. There will still be the opening song and dance routine as well as the bathing suit and talent divisions. However, the question section will be eliminated and each candidate will be asked to present a brief thumbnail sketch of herself and her future plans.

This year there will be five judges instead of three as in the past. Two of the five will be people who have served as judges in the Miss Michigan Scholarship Pageant.

Because this is the golden anniversary of the Venetian Festival, former queens are being invited to return for the pageant and perhaps ride in the Venetian Festival parade, Mrs. Hufford said.

The requirements are the same as in the past: applicants must not be less than 17 years of age or more than 21 years of age by June 15, 1980; must be single, never having been married and must be a permanent resident of the Charlevoix School District.

Sutherland-Hankins

Pamela K. Sutherland and Jesse A. Hankins Jr. were married Saturday, May 31 at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bellows of Charlevoix and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Hankins Sr., of Petoskey

A candlelight service was the setting for the double ring ceremony solemnized by the Rev. Larry Grooters in the presence of 200 guests. Arrangements of yellow and white gladioli graced the altar.

Music for the service was played by Jonathan Plotkin of Petoskey at the piano.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Stanley Sutherland. For her wedding the bride chose a gown of white chiffon fashioned with an empire bodice accented with re-embroidered lace, a sweetheart neckline, long tapered sleeves of lace and a flowing skirt of chiffon that extended into a chapel length train. A Juliet cap of lace secured her fingertip veil of imported illusion edged with lace. Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of silk roses, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Debbie Leudesdorff of Petoskey assisted the bride as maid of honor and Susan Miller of Charlevoix as bridesmaid. They wore identical cream-colored halter dresses and matching border print jackets. They carried bouquets of silk roses and [redacted].

Lisa Grams of Bay Shore, cousin of the bride, as flower girl wore a long muslin dress accented with Italian lace trim. Oliver Grams Jr., of Bay Shore, also a cousin of the bride, was ringbearer

Louis Plotkin of Petoskey served as best man and James

Hankins of Petoskey, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman. Scott Buffenberger of Harbor Springs and Michael Boros of Petoskey seated the guests.

A reception hosted by the bride's parents, followed at the American Legion Post Home.

A rehearsal dinner was held at the home of the bridegroom's parents on Friday evening. (Wedding photo by [redacted]

Schwartzfisher wins

John Schwartzfisher, Jr., of Charlevoix, won $30,000 in Michigan's Superplay Lottery Drawing in Lansing Thursday.

Schwartzfisher, 55, had matched the double and triple digits on a 50 cent Michigame weekly ticket to qualify for the drawing.

The McLaughlin Company employee said he plans to put most of the money aside for retirement.

Dinner planned

Plans for a spaghetti dinner to be served at the V.F.W. Post Home on US 31 North Wednesday, June 18, have been announced by the co-chairpersons, Lyle King and Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, post commander and auxiliary president, respectively.

Serving will begin at 5 p.m. and continue until 7 p.m.

Tickets will be $2.50 for adults and high school students; $1.25 for children under 12 years and there will be no charge for children under five years.

Mrs. Donald White has been named ticket chairman. Tickets may be purchased from members or at the door.

Horseback riding offered

Windmill Farm, on the Boyne City Road, which is operated by Stewart and Susan Boal, will offer horseback trail riding for the [redacted]

The trails, many of them old lumber roads on the 500 acre farm, will open this week. They will take the riders through woods and fields and will crest high hills with views of the surrounding countryside. In the past few winters, the trails have been used for cross country skiing under the management of Nelly Hiehle.

Headquarters for horseback riders at Windmill Farm will be the Windmill Corral, with Mark Smith of Charlevoix serving as wrangler.

A MUST...

The owner MUST SELL and you MUST SEE this classic 4 BR farmhouse. Separate dining room, country kitchen, enclosed front and back porches. 2 baths and a full basement are family size. The basement wood burner and a new living room Frontier fireplace are gentle on heating bills, too. PLUS, maybe you'll want to house the inlaws in the near new 800 sq. ft. "office" building that's right next door. All on 5 acres in the Charlevoix School District just 6 miles from town. Priced right with any number of purchase options. Yes, it's a MUST!

Where art means try it

The emphasis is art, but there's something for everyone.

With the opening of C-M Storehouse, [redacted] post office, Christa-Maria is sharing her love of art – all forms – and hopes [redacted]

The small store is crammed with works of art by local artists and craftspersons, with antiques "well loved and little used," and what can only be described as a melange of [redacted]

But, reaching out, involving "people of all ages, especially children," in the creative process is the reason Christa will be sitting at a table near the window, working on projects from apple dolls to stained glass hangings.

"As a child, growing up in Germany, I was encouraged to experiment with art," Christa says softly, explaining how her work incorporates all manner of objects, weeds, flowers, metals, plastics.

"People are always asking me what my media is. I don't know how to answer. Mixed media, I suppose," she [redacted]

To the back of the store, one room is devoted entirely to the custom furniture and wood work of Shirley Johns. A custom designer and refinisher, Shirley will work with people creating pieces to order or restoring old pieces. Formerly with the Hinterhaus of Eastport, Shirley's work has attracted wide attention. Her wood work includes beds, tables, chairs, even unusual wooden vending machines.

Out front, with the works of various local artists are antique kerosene lanterns, old and new pottery, books, interesting articles of clothing. Marion Broussard's prize winning photographs may also be seen.

Her work has been exhibited in many galleries and art shows, including the Fort Wayne Art Museum and the LaRez Exhibition of Indiana artists at which she won first prize for a woven wall hanging incorporating a poem.

This summer she will be assisted by Jackie Smith, a colleague from the Fort Wayne Museum.

"We won't hold formal classes," Christa explains. "We will concentrate on communicating that art should be sharing and fun. We will work spontaneously.

"Everyday there will be something going on here – batik, needlework, stained glass, quilt projects, work with dried materials. And the coffee pot will always be on."

As well as promoting local artists and craftspersons, Christa will exhibit other interesting artists. She says, "Watch for the works of Ferdinand LaRose. That will be something else."

With Equi-Loan, your home's equity works for you.

If you need money now for college tuition, home remodeling, a family vacation, an investment opportunity – or any other use you think important Equi-Loan could make it possible. This special loan lets you use your present equity as collateral to borrow money at a reasonable simple interest rate and with liberal repayment terms.

EQUI: LOAN

An Equi-Loan is not a remortgage.

An Equi-Loan is a second mortgage. It will not alter your present mortgage interest rate.

The amount of equity in your home is the difference between its appraised value and your first mortgage (if any). This equity provides the basis for borrowing a substantial amount of money with the maximum loan size being determined by the size of your equity.

An Equi-Loan can save you interest charges.

The earlier you pay back your Equi-Loan the less you'll pay in interest charges. So every time you make an early payment or an additional payment you reduce the amount of interest you pay on the loan, and this can amount to significant savings over the life of the loan.

How much can you borrow?

Each transaction is different and subject to credit approval, however we are flexible in our lending policy. In general, you can expect that the total of your first and second mortgages will amount to 80% of the valuation of your home. For example:

Appraised Valuation	$30,000
	x80%
Total Loan Value	24,000
1st Mortgage Balance	12,000
Available for 2nd Mortgage	$12,000

Rayders advance to semi-finals

Mike Loper tossed a one hitter and Scott Morgan a two-hitter Monday as Charlevoix advanced to the semi-finals in the Class C state baseball tournament.

The Rayders won the Class C regional at Sanford-Meridan by beating St. Louis, 5-3, and Elkton-Pigeon-Bayport, 12-1. The semi-finals and finals will be played Saturday in Flint.

Charlevoix's game with St. Louis started on Saturday. The Rayders were leading 2-0 in the first inning when rain stopped play. The game was resumed Monday morning.

Loper, who is just a sophomore, fanned nine batters in the seven inning contest. Only Bryon Rogers, his mound opponent, reached him for a hit. Meanwhile, the Rayders pounded out 10 hits - three by Jim Buchanan and two each by Morgan, Scott Kelly and Ken Speigl. Jack Carlson added a two run triple in the first inning.

The Rayders were ahead the entire game, building up a 4-1 lead after two innings.

The Rayder also built up an early lead in disposing of Elkton-Pigeon-Bayport. Charlevoix scored eight runs in the bottom of the first inning on just two hits and four walks.

Morgan limited Elkton-Pigeon-Bayport to two hits while striking out eight. Morgan helped his own cause by collecting three hits. Buchanan, Roxy VanLoo and Rick Russell added two hits each.

Coach Pete Spieles said the victories were total team efforts.

Intermediate season

The Charlevoix Intermediate Girls fast pitch softball league opened its season this week, according to Coach Ike Boss.

The team, composed of girls 15 years and younger, will play a 10 game series between now and July 14 and then go into the district tournament beginning July 15.

Other teams in the league are Petoskey Sunrise, Petoskey EK Hydraulics, Pellston Merchants, Harbor Springs and Alanson.

The Charlevoix team will play at Alanson at 7 p.m. Thursday.

At the same time Petoskey Hydraulics will play at Harbor Springs and Petoskey Sunrise at Alanson.

Members of the team are Diannah Loder, Meg Fowler, Linda Ciuk, Kathy Campbell, Maureen Buday, Jennifer Joy, Missy Walker, Toni Eakes, 13 year olds; Rhonda Buchanan, Mary Lenhart, 14 year olds and Bridget Noirot, Holly Taber, Colleen LaBlance and Kim Bolduc, 15 year olds.

Lessons offered

Tennis lessons will again be offered this summer with Eric Lundteigen as the instructor, Dwight Boss, city recreation director, has announced.

Classes will be offered to students eight years and older including adults.

Anyone wishing to enroll in classes may sign up at the Recreation Department office on the first floor at the city hall which will be open daily Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. except for the lunch hour from 12 until 1 p.m.

Classes will begin no later than June 23.

Coaches needed

With the youngsters' softball season about to start, a plea has been issued for coaches for five T-Ball teams and one ponytail team.

The Peanut League has an ample supply of coaches, Dwight Boss, city recreation director, said.

Charlevoix, Rogers City share conference title

Relief pitcher Mike Loper slammed the door on Petoskey Tuesday afternoon as Charlevoix rallied for 8-6 victory and a share of the Michigan-Huron Shores baseball title.

Loper, who took over for Scott Morgan in the fourth inning, retired 12 of the 13 batters he faced, allowing only a walk in a four inning stint. Loper struck out 10 Northmen batters.

Charlevoix finished in a first place tie with Rogers City for the conference crown with a 7-3 record. Petoskey had a chance to share the title, too, despite the loss to Charlevoix, but the Northmen dropped a 3-2 contest to Gaylord Wednesday to end up 6-4.

The Charlevoix-Petoskey game actually started a week ago Thursday. Rain, however, delayed the game and it rescheduled for Tuesday with the Rayders on top, 5-2, after one inning. Jim Buchanan's two run homer was the big hit in that five run first inning.

When play resumed on Tuesday, Petoskey tied the contest in the third inning when Jim Warek cracked a three run homer off Morgan.

But Jack Carlson put the Rayders back in front with a solo home run in the bottom of the third. Charlevoix also picked up solo runs in the fourth and fifth innings. Loper made sure the lead held.

Morgan was the winning pitcher while Jeff Pettit took the loss. In addition to his home run, Buchanan also smacked a double to pace the Rayder hitting attack.

Walt and Eva Mann

Bavarian Inn opens in Atwood

Now she has one. Along with a 10 unit motel.

It's called the Antrim Dells Bavarian Inn. And it's located on US-31 in Atwood, adjacent to the Antrim Dells Golf Club.

The Bavarian Inn is no ordinary restaurant. It specializes in German cooking. Every night a different German dish - sauerbraten, roladen, wiener schnitzel, sweet-sour red cabbage and German potato salad - is offered.

Steak, chicken and shrimp are among the favorite American dishes offered, too. The restaurant has two special nights of dining - Wednesday is Pizza Night and Friday is Fish Fry Night.

The Bavarian Inn opened on May 23 and so far "the restaurant business has been going marvelously," Mrs. Mann said.

"Most everyone has come for our German specialities," Mrs. Mann said. "And I would say 80 percent of our customers have been local."

A lot of the customers have tasted Eva's cooking before. For two years, she managed the kitchen at the Antrim Dells Golf Club.

Her son, Walt, also prepares meals at the Bavarian Inn. Since graduating from Ellsworth High School, Walt has carved out a career in the restaurant business - starting as a dishwasher at Leutheuser's. Eva's mother, Elizabeth Schaefer, will also work in the kitchen. She once was a cook for the German Social Club in Detroit. Eva's husband, John, works as a host at night and her son, Tom, helps out, too.

The Bavarian Inn can seat 46 for dinner. Outdoor dining in the court yard may be offered this summer.

The restaurant is open seven days a week from 7 a.m. until 2 p.m. and 6-9 p.m. - except Sunday. On Sunday, the restaurant opens at 9 a.m.

The 10 unit motel features two units - the most popular thus far - with waterbeds. All the units are fully carpeted, air conditioned and have color television.

Located next to a public golf course, the Manns hope to attract a lot of golfers. The Antrim Dells - along with the Belvedere Golf Club - will host qualifying rounds for the Michigan Amateur next week and already six of the 10 units are reserved.

The Manns live in Eastport. They moved here in 1972 from Detroit.

Rayder yearbook dedicated to Spieles

Charlevoix High School's 1980 yearbook has been dedicated to science teacher Pete Spieles.

Spieles, who has taught in Charlevoix since 1967, was selected by the senior class. The announcement was made at an awards assembly last week by Kristy Mathews and Jennifer Trumper.

Several students received awards at the assembly.

JoAnn Kravutske, faculty adviser to the yearbook and school newspaper, awarded certificates for oustanding performance on the 1979 yearbook to Sherry Jensen, Christine [illegible] and Becky [illegible] and to Laurie Burkey for the 1980 yearbook.

Newspaper awards were presented to Scott Boocher production manager and senior awards to Kristy Mathews and Jennifer Trumper, 1980 yearbook and newspaper.

Other awards included the Business Education Award made by Mrs. Doris Robinson for 90 percent of all standardized tests given throughout the year and proficient classwork reflecting punctuality, neatness and accuracy to Teresa Noirot.

Brian Certa presented the Industrial Arts award to Patrick Camilleri for his work in metal shop; Steve Cooper, a freshman, received the only perfect attendance award from David Smith, Assistant Principal.

Mrs. Yvonne Wendt presented French awards to Shari Barnes, Carolyn Loper, Kim Mitchell, Karen Schroeder and Carla Sizemore and to French Club officers, Brenda Buchanan, president; Chris Wilhelm, vice president; Mary Plagge, secretary and Karen L. Taylor, treasurer.

Mrs. Gayle Kaczynski presented Student Council Awards to officers, Kim Mitchell, president; Beth Carey, vice president, and Laura Baldwin, secretary-treasurer.

Mark Price received the Mathematics award from Glen Taylor. Michael Hollow was presented the Bausch-Lomb science award. Joel Schnackenberg, the Chemistry Award and laboratory assistant certificate and Michel Zednicek, the broken glass award, by James Jensen.

Service awards were presented by Vane H. Smith, high school principal, to Mary Horton (two years), and Sharon Himebauch (one year) both seniors and certificates to Cathy Spence, Shelly Johnstone, Cristal Dubey, Douglas Drenth and James Baillargeon; Karri Moerland, Cindy Russell and Kim Mitchell received Counseling Center Aide awards from Mrs. Kaczynski.

Honor student awards were presented by Mr. Smith to Kristy Mathews, valedictorian; John Grooters, salutatorian; Sue Summerman, Lori Paul, Mary Egler, Michiko Regier, Aimee Elzinga, Mary Horton, Marie Buday, Patrick Camilleri, Mark Price, Richard Hodgson, Sharon Himebauch, Bambi Balch, Dwight [illegible] and Wendi Wright.

A. Yes, as far as I know. At least in recent history. I don't know why more students don't apply. If they don't like the Academy, they can leave any time during their first two years and transfer their credits to a college or university.

Q. What field of study do you intend to specialize in?

A. I'm thinking of aerospace engineering as a career - perhaps research for NASA. I have eight, maybe nine, more years of study, and if I like it, I'm going to stay with it.

Q. What members of your family live in Charlevoix?

A. Just my parents, Rudy and Helen Henkel. I have five older sisters. Four of them live in the Detroit area and one lives in San Francisco. My father travels on business a lot and my mother often goes with him. They both went down to "Commissioning Week" at the Academy. So did Shari Mol and Wayne Hoffman. "Commissioning Week" is a week of festivities for graduation. There are formal dances and parades. We got new shoulder boards, the Blue Angels perform, and there is a lot of excitement and activity.

Hayes Township Board
Regular Meeting June 2 1980

The Meeting was called to order at 8:00 p.m. by Supervisor Lee Sneathen.

All the Board Members were present.

The Clerk's report of the May 1980 Regular Meeting was read and approved.

Mr. Alvin Ranger attended the meeting to report on the Land Evaluation Study done by the Charlevoix County Health Department for the Township. Mr. Ranger will draw up plans for a new twp. hall and will present these plans at the next regular meeting of the board.

A Motion to appoint Mrs. Edith Beck as Hayes Township Assessor was approved.

The Assessor's salary was set at $4,000 per year, that salary to be re-evaluated at the 1981 Budget Meeting.

A Motion to set the salary for Election Inspectors at $3.60 per hour was approved.

The Fire and Ambulance Contracts with the City of Charlevoix were approved.

On a Roll Call vote of the Board, the Bills were approved in the amount of $12,389.45.

On motion the meeting was adjourned.

Hayes Township Clerk

Artrain in Boyne City

Boyne City - Festival plans are taking shape for the visit of Michigan Artrain here June 12 through June 16.

The train, with its 1980 exhibit, "The Changing Canvas: American Painting Since 1945," will open Thursday (June 12). It will remain open daily from noon until 8 p.m. through June 16 (Monday).

It will be located in downtown Boyne City between Park and Lake streets, one block south of Water St.

Special events are planned for each day of the Artrain Celebration according to Gail V. Toffolo, general chairman. Highlights include "The Great Train Robbery," sponsored by the Retail Board set for Thursday (June 12). Stores will be open from 6:30 to 10 p.m. and special events are planned by the Retail Board.

An art carnival is featured Saturday (June 14) from noon until 5 p.m. Car painting, sky sculpture, barefoot painting and wood sculpture are scheduled, according to Betty Adgate, chairman of the education committee.

Students in Vera Rimbold's clothing class at Charlevoix High School finished up their projects prior to the end of the school year. Most of the students pictured here are wearing or holding their projects. Projects included knit tops, blouses, vests, wedding gowns, bathrobes, jogging shorts and sleeping bags. Aaron Whitley made an "infants" sleeping bag, which is displayed in front. About 20 students took the course.

LaLeche League starts new series of meetings

The Charlevoix LaLeche League has announced the beginning of a new series of four discussion meetings. The group will meet the third Tuesday of each month at 9:30 a.m. at the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix, 108 State Street.

Topic for the first meeting will be; Advantages of Breastfeeding to Mother and Baby. Other topics to be covered at future meetings include: The Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties, The Family and the Breastfed Baby, Nutrition and Weaning.

The purpose of La Leche League is to give information and encouragement, primarily through personal contact, to mothers who want to nurse their babies. The importance of breastfeeding is stressed, not as an end in itself, but as an integral part of the whole human relationship.

The LaLeche League is a non-profit organization. Meetings are held to help acquaint those interested with the physical practical, and psychological sides of breastfeeding. The league offers mother to mother help based on the manual The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding. The informal group discussions include the latest medical research, as well as personal experience. Other services include a lending library of books on childbirth, childcare and breastfeeding.

LaLeche believes that breastfeeding gives the best possible start in good mothering and helps to develop and deepen the close relationship between a mother and her child. The league believes that mother's milk is the best food for baby and, more importantly, that breastfeeding gives the baby the best start in living.

All women who are interested in nursing their babies are invited as are their babies.

CHARLEVOIX CHURCH DIRECTORY

FAITH AND OUR HISTORY DESIGNED THE FLAG WE WAVE

In recent years, the notion has developed that our flag is just a piece of fabric waving in the breeze that for some reason we're supposed to salute. We should begin early to teach our children why they should respect the flag and display it with pride because its design and color scheme represent the saga of our history with all its battles, hardships and acts of courage that gave us our heritage of freedom in this wonderful land where we can say and write anything we please. Moreover, since the right to worship God as we see fit is also written on that banner, we should go to our chosen church or Temple along with our children and give thanks to God for our nation's flag which serves as a daily reminder of these blessings of liberty.

Charlevoix Council Minutes

June 2, 1980
8:00 P.M.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Supernaw presiding.

Present: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, and Roloff. Absent: None.

The Minutes of the May 19, 1980 regular meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Councilman Whitley requested that the Council Minutes show that the Committee of a Whole at their May 27, 1980 regular meeting, voted 5-1 to accept the Fochtman Motor Company bid to furnish the City with a dump truck and dump box for $12,000.00 with a 1962 Chevrolet trade in. Councilman Whitley casting the only dissenting vote.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated May 27, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council discussed a bid from the Haynes Corporation to purchase the City's Fairbanks Morse O.P. Engine for $12,500.00. It was generally agreed to table the issue until current fair market value could be determined and cost estimates for restoring the engine for use by the City obtained.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Timms to accept the only bid submitted by Motorola Corporation for six two-way radios for the Street Department and one two-way radio for the Electric Department at a cost of $384.00 per unit.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Muma that the following Resolution be adopted and the City Manager be authorized to sign same.

Resolution 80-6-1
[illegible]
The Michigan
Municipal League
[illegible]
Group Account

WHEREAS, the City of Charlevoix is presently a reimbursing employer under the Michigan Employment Security Act and must provide unemployment coverage to its employees; and

WHEREAS, in order to provide a more stable cost and better administrative service for investigation of claims, processing appeals and education and information services, to enroll in the Municipal Unemployment Compensation Group Account.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the City of Charlevoix be authorized to sign the Membership Agreement of the Michigan Municipal League Unemployment Compensation Group Account.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Wood to approve the new contract for the City Assessor at $8,700.00 for a one year period.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Wood to award the engineering and inspection contract for new City docks to Gourdie Fraser and Associates.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms to award King Company the construction contract for $63,000.00 for new City docks.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council discussed collecting one half of the school taxes with the City summer tax collection and placing the issue on the [illegible] ballot for a vote of the people. However, no action was taken and the matter tabled, as the City is willing to collect in this manner if all Townships agree to [illegible].

The proposed U.S. 31 South Sewer Extension project was declared a dead issue when it was learned that Charlevoix Township is not willing to split the cost of the bore under M-66 as presented in the original proposition. Council feels the additional cost to the City warrants the project infeasible.

Moved by Councilman Wood and supported by Councilman Timms to draft a Resolution authorizing the City Manager to negotiate a temporary business license fee with Larry Hoffman to allow Mr. Hoffman to sell carpeting in the City.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter and Timms. Nays: Councilman Roloff. Absent: None.

Council briefly discussed a new hydraulic loading ramp which the Beaver Island Boat Company plans to build at their own expense.

The City Manager addressed Council in regard to the CETA Work Force and the possibility that the Work Force be retained for various City projects such as repainting City Hall, cleaning and landscaping beaches and parks. [illegible]

The Finance Committee, having examined bills totaling $86,416.12 find them correct and recommend the bills be allowed.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Wood that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for the amount.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote:

Yeas: Councilmen Wood, Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, and Roloff. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

Kelli Jean Shanahan and Dr. Charles Anthony Gaputis were married Saturday, May 31 at the United Methodist Church in Petoskey.

The bride is from Kansas City, Kansas and the groom from Kansas City, Mo.

Rev. Donald Merrill and Fr. Nicholas Meyer officiated at the double ring rites.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. N. Kim Shanahan of Ocean Springs, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony M. Gaputis of [illegible].

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Qiana fashioned with an empire waist, scoop neckline and pleated skirt with a chapel length train. The bride wore her mother's elbow length veil of illusion and her bouquet was composed of white daisies and blue bachelor buttons.

Wedding music was offered by June Zoerhof of Petoskey who sang "Because", "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Attending the bride as maid of honor, was her sister Cheryl Jo Shanahan of Ocean Springs. Another sister, Kay Marie Shanahan, was bridesmaid. They wore gowns of "forget-me-not" blue with empire waists and scoop necklines. They also wore a circlet of forget-me-nots in their hair and carried bouquets of white daisies and bachelor buttons.

Thomas Charles Gaputis of Boston, Mass., brother of the groom, was the best man and groomsman was Anthony M. Gaputis, Jr., of Brunswick, Maine, another brother of the groom.

Ushering the wedding guests was Kim Garrett Shanahan of Boston, Mass., brother of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Petoskey-Bay View Country Club, hosted by the maternal grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Garrett. Marie Gaputis, sister of the groom, attended the guest book. The wedding cake was served by Carol Gaputis, sister-in-law of the groom and Joanne Markuns, cousin of the groom. Connie Saunders and Debbie Garrett, cousins of the bride, served punch.

A rehearsal dinner hosted by the groom's parents, was held at the Pine Point home of the bride's parents on Friday evening.

Following a honeymoon to New Orleans, the newlyweds will make their home in Washington, D.C. The groom is a physician and is serving in the U.S. Air Force Medical Corps. (Creative Photo Portraitures by Lawrence Wojcik)

Dances held

The Bergmann Center was recently involved in two dances, one of which they sponsored and the other from which they benefited.

The center sponsored a dance on May 22 at the Charlevoix High School cafeteria for mentally and physically handicapped persons. It was attended by 120 persons from Charlevoix, Emmet, and Antrim counties.

Music was provided by Jasper and His Tagalongs from the Barnard Grange, with Dale Martin on the drums. Refreshments were also served.

On May 24, the Charlevoix Oddfellows and the Barnard Grange sponsored a benefit dance for Bergmann Center at the Charlevoix Middle School.

Total proceeds of [illegible] were given to the center for the expansion program in its new facility.

JEWELRY FASHIONS EDUCATION
DIAMOND: THE WHY OF IT
[illegible] when, where and how of diamonds. If you've been following this series of reports, you'll agree that there is a great deal of work involved in the recovery and processing of these well-loved stones.

Why are such pains taken? Well, from a business standpoint the whole painstaking process is a profitable one. People are willing to pay the price for all the work behind a fine diamond because it has come to represent very positive and sought after aspects of the human condition.

[illegible] eternal love. The diamond is the favorite choice for promise gifts as well as for the engagement and wedding rings which eventually follow. The diamond is also a favorite participant in the celebration of an anniversary or any other occasion in which deep love is being expressed.

The diamond has also evolved into a status symbol. The larger one's diamond, the more successful he or she appears. (Of course, quality is more important than quantity, but not everyone realizes that.) Even those who are not status-conscious experience a certain uplifting of confidence and self esteem from diamond ownership.

Giving a diamond as a gift has come to mean, "My love for you will endure through all time and will continue to sparkle through all hardship." If you've bought yourself a diamond, you're announcing that you consider yourself important too, and that's essential for good human relationships. You can't love others until you learn to love yourself.

Corps modifies pier rehabilitation project

The Charlevoix City Council Monday night learned that the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has made some modifications in its proposal to rehabilitate the north pier at the harbor [illegible].

The Corps is proposing to rehabilitate approximately 717 linear feet of the pier – from the pier head to the shoreline.

Originally, the Corps intended to construct steel sheet piling protection around the entire existing north pier. That plan has changed, however, instead, the Corps plans to use "stone rubble mound protection" along a 436 linear foot stretch of the project. The stone rubble is intended to act as a [illegible] inside the harbor.

Approximately 250 linear feet – by the pier head – is proposed to have a steel sheet pile wall placed around the existing timber cribs. The remainder of the pier, closer to the shoreline, will be rehabilitated by removing the existing deteriorated wood cribs and stone rubble and replacing it with new stone rubble. Part of the excavated stone would be reused in the new construction and any excess stone would be disposed of in Lake Michigan in an open water disposal site.

The Corps is not expected to start the project until next spring.

•Learned that the State Boundary Commission will rule on the sufficiency of the petition asking for the consolidation of Charlevoix Township to the City of Charlevoix. Representatives of the commission were in Charlevoix recently to determine the validity of the signatures. The commission is expected to discuss the petitions at 11:50 a.m. Tuesday, July 1.

•Approved an amendment to the zoning ordinance for an R-2A district. The purpose of the district is to accommodate the need for the construction of the new two-family residences, where slightly greater densities are permitted. The district also recognizes the existence of older residential areas of the city, where larger homes have been, or can be, converted from single family to two-family residences in order to extend the economic life of these structures and allow the owners to justify the expenditures for repairs and modernization.

In other action, council

Approved a request from Alygn D'Angelo to convert a large dwelling at 306 Petoskey Avenue to a two family [illegible].

Turned down a request by Peter Gaskin for side and rear yard setback variances to allow for a two car garage at [illegible] Avenue.

Approved a front yard variance for Robert Winchester, 209 State Street, to allow for the addition of a foyer.

Approved a parking variance for Silver Cue, 1202 Bridge Street.

Set the city manager's salary at $27,000 for July 1, 1980 to July 1, 1981.

Sent back to the Charlevoix Planning Commission a request by the Charlevoix Montessori Children's House for a special use permit to allow the child care school to operate at 201 E. Garfield (Bergmann Center).

Agreed to charge $2 per hour for use of the city's tennis courts.

Scott Morgan pitched a strong game in relief and contributed one hit

Parchment eliminates Rayders

State title hopes dashed

Flint - Parchment exploded for eight runs in the first two innings Saturday enroute to a 9-1 victory over Charlevoix in the Class C state baseball semi-finals at [illegible].

The Panthers, however, were defeated by Dundee in the championship game played Monday. Dundee eliminated Lansing Catholic Central in the other semi-final contest.

The weatherman was very uncooperative Saturday. Both semi-final games were played in a steady drizzle. The sloppy playing conditions forced officials to suspend the Dundee-LCC contest after three innings. Play was resumed Monday morning.

Parchment advanced to the championship round behind the pitching of Scott Meeker. Meeker hurled four shutout innings before David Hawkes relieved him in the fifth inning. Meeker allowed just three hits and he struck out seven Charlevoix batters.

[illegible] a comfortable lead in the early going. The Panthers tallied four runs in each of the first two innings. The key hit in the contest was a bases loaded triple by Jerold Blacken in the first inning. That hit broke the game open early.

Charlevoix hurler Mike Loper got himself into trouble right away. Loper, who is just a sophomore, walked the first two batters he faced - both on 3-2 pitches. An infield single loaded the bases for Blacken, who promptly laced a line drive up the right-centerfield gap. [illegible] Scott Morgan.

Parchment added to its lead in the second inning on a walk, an inside-the-park home run by Steven Parker, a double by Bert DeGraff, another walk, an error, and a passed ball.

Morgan, who relieved Loper after Parker's home run, allowed just one run over the next three innings. That came in the fourth inning when DeGraff doubled and Meeker singled him home. Roxy VanLoo shutout the Panthers in his one inning of relief.

The Rayders avoided a shutout by scoring a run in the seventh inning. Jim Buchanan, [illegible], scored on a single to right by Scott [illegible].

Charlevoix had several scoring opportunities in the game, particularly when Hawkes was on the mound struggling with his control. The Rayders biggest threats came in the fifth and sixth innings. In the fifth, Hawkes walked the leadoff batter Mike Zednicek. Morgan followed with a single and then Buchanan walked to load the bases. But Hawkes got out of the jam by striking out VanLoo and getting Jack Carlson to line into a double play. In the sixth, Hawkes walked Ken Speigl, Kelly and Loper to load the bases with one out. Again, the Panther righthander escaped unscathed by striking out Zednicek and Morgan.

The Rayders finished with six hits in the contest. VanLoo and Kelly led the attack with two each.

Charlevoix closed the season at [illegible]. In addition to district and regional titles, the Rayders tied for the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference crown with Rogers City. Seven players will be lost to graduation - VanLoo, Morgan, Carlson, Bob Russell, John Lachman, Phil Morrison and Kirk [illegible].

Charlevoix area buzzing with activity

Amateur underway • Historical Festival starts today

Peter Green of Franklin will try to add - yet another - Michigan Amateur title to his collection this week as over 300 of the state's top golfers converge on Charlevoix for the 69th Michigan Amateur.

Green is a two-time winner of the Amateur. Last year he upended Steve Braun of Flint by a 2-1 score. Green surged ahead midway through that match - winning four of five holes between the 7th and 12th tees - and then held off Braun to claim the victory. A bad tee shot on the 17th hole ruined any hope Braun entertained of staging a comeback. Green also won the Amateur in [illegible].

A field of 344 golfers are participating in this year's Amateur. Qualifying rounds started yesterday (Tuesday) at the Antrim Dells Golf Club in Atwood and the Belvedere Golf Club in Charlevoix. The field will be pared to 64 by Thursday. Match play will continue through Saturday with the final scheduled early that afternoon - if, of course, the tournament is not delayed because of bad weather.

As defending champ, Green automatically qualifies for match play on Thursday. Green will be one of four ex-champs participating. John Morse (the 1978 winner) of Marshall, Bud Stevens (three-time winner) of Plymouth and William Newcombe, Jr. (two-time winner) of Ann Arbor are also entered.

Several local residents will be competing, too. They include: Mike Custer, Pat Paul, Brad Parsons, Dwight Dyksterhouse, James Geis and Gerry Sandahl of Charlevoix; Fred Zinn of Petoskey; Bentley Renker, Marshall Nowlin, Jr., Dave Renker, Bill Frazier, Robert Williams and Greg Beer of Harbor Springs, Rick Shipman of Eastport; Randy Marquardt of Walloon Lake; and Russ Bohnet and [illegible] of East Jordan. Former Charlevoix resident [illegible] has also entered.

A day long train excursion between Petoskey and Mackinaw City will highlight a host of events planned for the Little Traverse Historic Festival June 18-22 in Petoskey.

The train is a key component in commemorating the area's history as a resort community. After rail service to the area was completed 100 years ago, summer resorters came to the Little Traverse Bay area by the tens of thousands. As a result, Petoskey was the center of a major resort area with a summer population of about 180,000. "That's more than twice the number of summer residents in the area today," says Joe McCarthy, Festival Director.

The train will make two daily round trips between Petoskey and Mackinaw City. At their destinations, passenger's tickets entitle them to discounted admissions to points of interest. Mackinaw passengers can receive free admission to some festival events. Petoskey passengers can receive a reduction in round-trip ferry fare to Mackinac Island.

There are two ways to travel – in coach cars or in the more intimate lounge car. The two coach cars are of 1800's vintage, recently refurbished. They will accommodate up to 160 passengers for each round trip. The elegantly renovated lounge car can accommodate up to 36 people. Both cars offer [illegible] entertainment and light refreshments are available on the lounge car.

The lounge car goes a bit further in re-creating the character of the early 1900's. Passengers are treated to two gourmet meals – a champagne breakfast or brunch on the departing trip and cocktails and an elegant buffet or full course dinner on the return trip. Tuxedoed waiters enhance the authenticity of the lounge car. "This is really an outstanding value and a unique way to experience a lifestyle that existed at the turn of the century," said McCarthy.

The coach car fare is $10 and tickets will be sold on a first-come, first-serve basis one hour before departure. The lounge car is open to individual and group reservations at $40 per person. Reservations for the lounge car can be made by contracting the chambers of commerce in Petoskey and Mackinaw City.

The train is scheduled to depart from Petoskey at 9 a.m. and from Mackinaw City at 11:30 a.m. The return trip will depart from Petoskey at 4:30 p.m. and from Mackinaw City at 7 p.m. Each leg of the trip is approximately two hours long. For more information about the excursion train or other Historic Festival events, write to LTB Festival, Box 109, Petoskey, MI 49770, or call 616-347-[illegible].

In addition, antique car and boat displays, band concerts, foot races, bus tours, and a tug-of-war across Little Traverse Bay are among activities scheduled.

Emergency plan to be tested Tuesday

Charlevoix County's emergency operations plan will be put to a test Tuesday.

A fake disaster at the Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant will be acted out Tuesday so federal officials can see how effective the county's emergency plan is. Emmet County will be tested as well.

This will be the first test exercise in the State of Michigan for county emergency plans since rules and regulations were upgraded following the Three Mile Island incident. The two counties will be graded on their performance.

Both counties have had two test drills to train personnel on emergency procedures. The last test [illegible].

School board to borrow $1.5 million in tax notes

Bids on tax anticipation notes will be accepted until noon July 10 following a recent decision by the Charlevoix Board of Education regarding the amount of money to be borrowed for operational expenses until taxes are received.

At the same time, the board [illegible] the amount to be borrowed and the tax levy for the coming year.

A total of $1,515,000 will be borrowed in tax anticipation notes.

The decision of the city council not to permit a summer tax levy for school taxes made it necessary to borrow an [illegible] realized from the early tax collection. This will result in an additional $40,000 in interest payments, school officials explained.

The monies will be borrowed to underwrite the cost of operating the school until taxes become due in [illegible].

The tax levy for the 1980 taxes was set at the same time. A total of 28.1 mills will be levied but after the roll-back as a result of the Headley amendment to the amount will be 27.77 mills. Under the amendment, the millage to be levied will be as follows: 9.1 mills allocated (8.80 mills); 1.0 mill voted for middle school renovation (.97); 3.75 voted for operating expenses (3.68); .5 voted for the public library (.48) plus the 12.5 mills renewal approved June 9 and 2.25 mills for debt retirement. The later two are not rolled-back under the Headley amendment.

4-H artists eligible for contest

"Budding young Charlevoix County artists interested in showcasing their creative skills should enter the 1980 National 4-H Poster Art Program," says Phyllis Sumner, Charlevoix County 4-H program assistant.

The purpose of the program is to encourage young people to exhibit their artistic skills and to solicit poster designs for the national 4-H poster campaign program.

To participate in the program, young people should design 14 by 22 inch posters in one of this year's categories. These include: 4-H Learning For A Lifetime, and 4-H – The Pathway to Leadership. There's also an open division, which allows 4-H'ers to create their [illegible].

Poster artists must currently be enrolled in the 4-H program. They must submit their posters by August 15 to the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service Office.

Posters may be horizontal or vertical and may be executed in any medium, as long as they are not three-dimensional. Use of copyrighted characters like those in "Peanuts" is prohibited.

From entries received statewide, one poster will be selected to represent Michigan in the National 4-H Program exhibit. At the national level, one design will be selected to serve as the National 4-H Poster for two years. This poster will be distributed nationwide.

"The poster art program is an excellent chance for young people to exercise their artistic skills," Sumner says. "Last year a Michigan 4-H'er won the national design contest and received nationwide recognition for her talents."

For more information about the 4-H Poster Art Program and copies of the program guidelines, contact Sumner at the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Service Office or call [illegible]

'Dog and Obedience Trial' Sunday at Humane Society

The 4th annual Charlevoix County Dog and Obedience Trial will be held Sunday, June 22, at the Charlevoix Humane Society [illegible].

In the past there have been over 200 entries from all over the state and some from Canada, which were shown in 40 different breeds, four obedience classes and two age divisions for junior handlers. The "Parade of Champions" has been one of the highlights of the show, with many champion titled dogs on exhibit.

The dog show is classified as a "fun match," differing from a "point show." At a point show, dogs must be at least six months of age and they compete for points towards their championships. At a fun match, like this one, a dog need only be two months old, and they compete ribbons and fun. Here the dog and the handler gain the experience necessary to compete in a point show.

Both types of shows are based on the same format. The dog first competes in his own age, sex and breed division, such as two to four month old, male, Irish Setters. The winner of [illegible] competes against all the winners of the other age groups, male and female, of the breed, for "Best Of Breed". The adults compete separately at a fun match, in the same way. All the "Best of Breed" winners then advance to the group level, to compete against all the breeds that are classified as the same type. There are six group divisions; sporting breeds, hounds, working breeds, terriers, toys and non-sporting breeds, for both puppies and adults. The winner of each group then competes for "Best In Show." So through the process of elimination, the number one dog is picked.

The obedience trial works quite differently. The dogs do not compete against each other directly, but are working for a high score. They are divided by degree of learning, each working for the best score in that class. They are scored on how well they do a series of exercises. The dog with the highest score over all, is deemed the "Best Obedience Dog," regardless of which class it competes in. So a dog that just knows the basic exercises, but knows them perfectly, will score higher than a dog who knows the advanced exercises, but makes mistakes.

All proceeds go to the Charlevoix County Humane Society. Refreshments will be available. For more information, contact Donna Wojan at 547-[illegible].

Community rallies behind CHIP

When Charlevoix Brownie Troop #264 donated $75 to CHIP Counseling center last week – from the proceeds of their Girl Scout Cookie sale, they joined a number of Charlevoix organizations and individuals who are helping the counseling center in its work.

The CHIP Center of Charlevoix needs community support to help meet the difference between fees charged and the cost of operation.

CHIPS Center was founded in 1976 with the idea that mental health counseling should be available to all who seek help, regardless of ability to pay. Therefore, the center charges clients on a sliding fee scale, according to income and other [illegible].

The Woodbury Ransom family underwrote the first three years of the center's operations.

Since last year CHIP Center has been embarked on a fund raising campaign which will enable it to continue offering the range of counseling services it has been providing to people of the area.

Medical help available to NMOA members

By Sara Gay Dammann

Ottawas and Chippewas, members of the Northern Michigan Ottawa Association (NMOA) may now use their membership in that organization to help establish their eligibility for medical help through the Indian Health Services, according to Richard McCloskey, Director of the Office of Legislation in the Indian Health Service.

This is the result of a ruling made by the agency's general counsel and reverses a situation which denied Indian Health Services to the 7,500 members of the NMOA.

The ruling most immediately means that NMOA members may use their membership to seek eligibility for medical services at the Kincheloe Indian Health Center near Sault Ste Marie.

"Membership in the Northern Michigan Ottawa Association may be used as evidence of Indian descent," McCloskey said.

The NMOA is divided into 11 units through Michigan. The largest groups of NMOA members live in the Muskegon and Grand Rapids area, with many members in the Petoskey, Charlevoix, and Traverse City area.

Until now NMOA members, both Ottawas and Chippewas, could not use the Kincheloe facility, which offers a range of out-patient, dental and optometry services, because, it was argued, NMOA is not a federally recognized Indian tribe.

Waunetta Dominic, Petoskey, NMOA President, has explained that the group considered and rejected seeking federal recognition as a tribe because such recognition would place NMOA under the Bureau of Indian Affairs jurisdiction.

Calling the BIA "paternalistic", Mrs. Dominic has worked with NMOA for 30 years trying to obtain what she says are the Indian's legitimate treaty rights while remaining independent.

"I am thrilled," she said, Tuesday, in reaction to being notified by U.S. Senator Carl Levin's office of the ruling that NMOA membership would be used to establish eligibility for Indian Health Services. Senator Levin's office had been promoting the NMOA argument for the past year.

"I feel we've made the last real hurdle," the Ottawa woman continued.

"The treaties provided for health, education, welfare, hunting and fishing rights," she said, referring to 19th Century Treaties in which the Indians ceded much of the land that later became the State of Michigan.

"This has been just like our fight for education. Our group proved the treaty provided for education, then they tried to take it away from us because we weren't a federally recognized tribe. But we could identify the descendants of the Indians who signed those treaties.

"When they opened Kincheloe it was for all Indians, but they never would serve us," Mrs. Dominic said angrily.

The NMOA got its start in the mid-1940's to settle treaty payment claims between Indians and the federal government. Since then it has been a strong voice for non-reservation Indians who do not receive the benefits of many programs earmarked for those on federal reservations.

McCloskey cautioned that the ruling does not mean a member of NMOA is automatically eligible for Indian health services.

He urged any NMOA member who anticipates using the Indian Health Service to establish his eligibility [illegible].

"It may be simple or it may take [illegible]," the bureaucrat said.

He also carefully explained that the Indian Health Service, unlike Medicare or Medicaid, is not an automatic service.

"We are meant to fill in gaps where other services are not available, which is why we are largely on reservations.

"Indians may use medicare or medicaid - as may any American citizen," McCloskey concluded.

'Wicker is furniture'

Wickerville Station-The Country Place - located in the Market Mall - will be open seven days a week between the July 4 and Labor Day holidays.

Summer hours will be 9:30 a.m. until 9 p.m. (closed between 6-7 p.m.) Monday through Saturday and 11 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Sunday.

Debbie Schmunk, John Korpela and Ron Kieft opened Wickerville Station-The Country Place in late November.

"We had two ideas and we decided to go for both instead of just one," Debbie said.

Wickerville Station carries a complete selection of wicker and rattan furniture, including chairs, tables, lamps, mirrors and, yes, even dining room sets.

"We're more than just a basket store," Debbie said. "Our business is going very well but it takes time to convince people that wicker is furniture and that it is versatile, durable and lightweight."

"It's ideal, really," Debbie added, "because it fits in so well with other types of furniture."

The furniture is imported from all over the world.

The Country Place has "something for everyone's budget." Stuffed toys, tins, wood products, cards, posters, bathroom products, candles, piggy banks, kerosene lamps, kitchen appliances, sculptures and cooper plated mail boxes are among the items a shopper will find.

Debbie, a former travel agent, manages the two stores. Ron and John, both former teachers, live near Oscoda where they have an early American furniture store.

Reading encouraged

In an effort to encourage young children to read and to utilize the facilities offered by Charlevoix Public Library, a program whose theme is "Bucky Bookworm" is being initiated by the Northland Library Cooperative of which the local library is a member.

To join the program, youngsters who will be entering any grade from the first through the sixth grade in September should stop at the Charlevoix Public Library at 109 Clinton Street and pick up their Bucky Bookworm membership card. Deadline for registering for the program is Tuesday, July 1.

Each youngster registering will receive a personal Bucky Bookworm Bookmark. And at the end of the program they will receive their reading register and achievement certificate.

Graphics and other materials used in the Bucky Bookworm program are furnished by the Northland Library Cooperative.

CETA workshop planned

All persons employed under the Comprehensive Training and Employment Act (CETA) are being told they must attend the Career Development Workshops scheduled for four Tuesdays and four Thursdays during June and July.

The sessions will last from 9:30 a.m. until 12 noon on June 24, June 26, July 1, July 3, July 8, July 10, July 15, and July 17. They will be held in the conference room of the Char-Em School District on Mercer Boulevard in Charlevoix.

CETA workers will be paid for attending the sessions on the same basis as they are for their CETA jobs.

Among the subjects to be covered in the workshops are skill identification exercises, confidence building, informational interviewing, resumes, employment letters, thank you notes, long and short term goals, and evaluation; in short, all kinds of information dealing with how to look for a job, get it, and keep it.

Bloodmobile here Tuesday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be making a visit to Charlevoix Tuesday, June 24, Mrs. David Fowler of the committee has announced.

The site of the Bloodmobile will be the American Legion Post Home at 106 E. Garfield Avenue.

Hours for the Bloodmobile will be from 1 until 7 p.m. However, the crew of the U.S.C.G. Sundew will be donating during the first hour from 1 until 2 p.m.

Quota for the drive is 125 pints. At this time there is a particular need for A-negative, O-negative and O-positive blood. Donors with these specific blood types are asked to make a special effort to donate at this time, Mrs. Fowler said.

A committee of callers is contacting previous donors urging them to make appointments. Mrs. Fowler explained that appointments assure an even flow of people through the Bloodmobile. Appointments may also be made by calling 547-9314.

Anyone 17 to 65 years of age is eligible to donate blood. Those 17 years of age must bring written parental consent with them to the bloodmobile.

As they do for every Bloodmobile, Xi Epsilon Gamma and Kappa Sigma chapters of Beta Sigma Phi sorority will organize and staff the canteen for the day.

The volunteer registered nurses are being recruited by Mrs. John Bradley. Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., is obtaining the remainder of the volunteer staff needed that day. If you are a nurse and would like to help at the Bloodmobile, call Mrs. Bradley at 547-9259 or, if you have time and would like to help in some other capacity, call Mrs. [illegible].

Others serving on the committee are Mr. and Mrs. Herman Izor, Mrs. Clifford Biddick, Sr., Mrs. Alan Towsley, Mrs. Robert Tollas, and Mrs. Fowler.

The next visit of the Bloodmobile to Charlevoix will be Nov. 4.

At Norwood

Organized sports offered

Area young people who are able to get to and from the Norwood Township Park will have an opportunity this summer to participate in three different events under the direction of the Charlevoix-Emmet Youth Activities program.

There will be organized sports (soccer, softball, volleyball-badminton) each morning Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until noon. The program will start June 23 and continue through Aug. 15, although registration may be made anytime the program is in progress. There is no cost for the program.

There will also be an arts and crafts program each afternoon Monday through Friday from 1-3 p.m. Class will start June 23 and continue through Aug. 15. Young people may enter the classes at any time they are in progress. The cost will be minimal, depending upon what is required for the projects.

Swimming classes are in the planning stage for Norwood. Starting and closing dates as well as cost will be announced in local newspapers and on the radio when plans are completed.

Others would love Medusa, Big Rock in their communities

Editor

A few days ago I was in the Otsego County Courthouse at Gaylord and was approached by a group of local citizens who wanted me to use some influence in their behalf.

"I told them that I didn't have any influence, except maybe negative influence."

Influence or not you're from Charlevoix and we were over there on Memorial Day and visited the Medusa Challenger. That cement carrier was a wonderful attraction and we have decided that we want the Challenger docked in front of the Courthouse on Main Street for the 1980 Alpenfest."

I replied, "You gentlemen have got to be kidding." The only water you have around here is in your sewage plant."

"Water or not, the Medusa Challenger is just what we need as a major attraction for the three day Alpenfest."

"Now let me point out some of the problems and why I think you all are crazy as outhouse rodents. The way I see it the first half of the trip may be somewhat possible. If Captain Bradley got a good running start up Lake Charlevoix he probably could ram the Challenger half way up the Boyne River or at least as far as the former Consumers Power hydro dam. But from there on to Gaylord by Boyne Mt. and the Elmira hills its going to be tough sledding."

"No problem, we'll skid her down highway 131 and across M-32. We've got the money to grease the skids and we'll hire a hundred bulldozers to pull her if necessary."

Letters

In the last 25 years I have driven from Charlevoix to Gaylord and Gaylord to Charlevoix at least 3000 times and I know every bump, hole and curve in the road plus a few snowbanks and snowdrifts that I'd like to forget. So I traveled the road in my mind's eye before replying.

"Now even if you can get the Challenger up the Elmira hill those curves around Martin's Lake are going to cause trouble and the four mile curve will slow you up. If you get her past the four mile curve then you've got a straight run into Gaylord. But wait a minute at the west Gaylord city limits there is the I-75 overpass and I'm sure the Medusa Challenger won't go under the overpass and I doubt if the State Highway Department will tear out the overpass just to accommodate your three day Alpenfest'"

With this information their chins dropped about four inches but they came back fast.

"You may be right about not getting the Challenger over or under the I-75 overpass but if we can get her this far we could tie her up on the Chalet Motel property right next to the Interstate and with the heavy July traffic we can guarantee at least one hundred thousand visitors."

I was already late in starting for Mio and Barton City so there was no discussion on how the Medusa Challenger would be returned to Lake Michigan.

The above is written to alert the Medusa management that they may have a delegation of visitors from Gaylord in regard to the above use of the Challenger and to suggest that many cities in northern Michigan would be happy to have the Medusa Cement Plant and Consumers Power Big Rock kilowatt plant in their communities and perhaps its time that some people quit complaining about and protesting the industries and instead count their blessings.

Sincerely,
Please withhold my name

Q/A Property Taxes

Last week we had just finished explaining and illustrating the compounding millage reduction fraction, and today we will discuss Section 11 that enables voters to comply with the tax limitation amendment and renew millage or change the millage reduction fraction.

Section 11 of the enabling legislation provides. "a unit of local government may submit to the voters for their approval the levy in that year of a tax rate in excess of the limit set by this section. The ballot question may ask the voters to approve the levy of a specific number of mills in excess of the limit, or to approve the levy of a total number of mills to be levied after application of this section and section 31 of article 9 of the state constitution of 1963, or to approve the levy in that year of its authorized millage without regard to the millage reduction required by section 31 of article 9 of the state constitution of 1963, or to approve an increase in that year's compounded millage reduction fraction of 1. If a tax levy in excess of the limit set by subsection (7) and (9) is approved, the year's compounded millage rollback fraction shall be recalculated for determining the following year's compounded millage rollback-fraction. The provisions of this section shall not allow the levy of a millage rate in excess of the maximum rate authorized by law or charter."

Note that the subsection refers to "in that year" which means that if the approval by the voters is after May 31st of that year that for that year only would they be allowed to authorize the full millage voted and starting the next year the rollback fraction would be applied again. At this point in time, the cutoff date for a fall levy is September 15th, however, lately each year, the legislatures have voted that a school district could authorize levy through certain dates up through December.

In a recent article in a local paper it was noted that the Boyne Falls School District is asking the voters to retain their full 22.24 mills that the school district voters approved for three years. Due to the millage rollback fraction created because the total of the school district increased more in state equalized value than the Consumer Price index, the mills in the Boyne Falls School District have been rolled back and this year would receive a compounded millage reduction fraction for more of a rollback. The school board felt they should explain to the voters and ask that they increase the mills back to the 22.24 originally voted. Another way – the school board could have asked the voters to vote in the millage that was being lost due to the rollback. The legislatures have provided various means to reinstate the millage or renew it, etc.

One of the changes I think you will find that the tax limitation makes is that the school districts will be asking for a renewal in their operational millage each year, so it will not come under the rollback. It will be much easier to work with and know what to plan on for the financial officer of the school district as well as the voters.

Charlevoix School District has utilized the staggered mill rate approach, which was developed some years back, by having voters approve so much operational millage each year for a specific number of years; instead of voting the total operational millage needed for a specific number of years. I observed in a recent article the school district is placing a renewal proposal on the ballot asking for 12.5 mills for operational costs for one year. The 12.5 mills is the 6.5 voted in 1977 for 3 years and the 6.00 mills voted in 1979 for 1 year and the reason they are proposing 1 year is to get out from under the tax limitation amendment. Well maybe that is not all bad either and remember – this still leaves the decision in the hands of the voters and rightfully so.

If we take a look at the breakdown of the school district millage you will glean an idea of why they are changing their proposals, and I believe you, the electorate will be able to understand easier just what the school is requesting in the line of millage and tax dollars. This is the 1979 authorized levy.

	Purpose of Millage	Date of Election	Maximum Millage Authorized	Current Year Millage Reduction Fraction	Applicable Millage Reduction Fraction	Maximum Allowable Millage Levy	Millage Requested to be Levied
Allocated	General Operating	Nov [illegible]	9.1	.9496	.9496	8.64	8.64
Voted	General Operating	Jan 1977	6.5	.9496	.9496	6.17	6.17
Voted	General Operating	Jun 1979	6.0	None	1.000	6.0	6.0
Voted	General Operating	Jun 1978	2.75	.9496	.9496	2.61	2.61
Voted	General Operating	Jan 1977	1.0	.9496	.9496	.94	.94
Voted	Public Library	Jun 1977	.5	.9496	.9496	.47	.47
Voted	Debt Retirement	Nov 1956	.5	None	1.000	Unlimited	.5
Voted	Debt Retirement	Apr 19[illegible]	1.3	None	1.000	Unlimited	1.3
Voted	Debt Retirement	Apr 1979	.5	None	1.000	Unlimited	.5

Accordingly the millage was reduced by the tax limitation amendment by 1.02 mills, but there was nothing to stop the school board from reducing the mill rate by that much either, if the state equalized value increased enough so that they didn't require all of the tax dollars to meet their budget. So who's to say without Headlee whether or not it would have been authorized at a lesser mill rate than approved by the voters? The county government has reduced their maximum authorized millage since the voters approved the frozen millage.

This gives you an idea of what could happen if the millage reduction fraction was compounded each year and the millage was rollback more each year. When you really stop and think about it, the voters have always made the decision anyway and still do. All that work the tax limitation amendment really accomplished was making a lot of work for the people who are responsible to see that the tax limitation amendment is complied with. Perhaps it was beneficial in some of the school districts or county's where the authority has levied all they can get regardless...but you people are fortunate in Charlevoix County to have conscientious people handling your finances and trying to do the best possible for you.

Did the tax limitation amendment really save the tax payers tax dollars? – I wonder. What do you think.

Next week we will discuss the City of Charlevoix's 1980 summer tax statement.

Coincidence? We had just read Bob Clock's column in this June 11th Courier – "Writers at it again" – when the mailman brought us a letter from Hillsdale, Michigan enclosing travel editor, Rick Sylvain's Free Press Article. On it was whimsically scribbled in ink, "Are you one of the 'B-B.'s?"

No, we don't consider ourself one of the "blue bloods" (though Queen Juliana of Holland is a cousin of ours); but no one could love Charlevoix more than we do nor feel more loyalty to it...We remember when the hospital was a cow-pasture and tinkling cowbells at 5 o'clock signalled the summer's day was over. And when Indian women would bring baskets with sweetgrass to the door, to sell...and children, little bouquets of flowers. And cream from the dairy got thinner, so we knew "the resorters" had come. And the air and water were clear and pure.

"What hurts the most," Bob Clock gripes, is Sylvain's ignoring the "people who punch time clocks." Poor baby! Can't he see that potential vacationers who "punch time clocks" are not seeking more "workers who punch time clocks" but rather, an escape from the workaday, hurly-burly world? And that Sylvain's word, "blue bloods" refers not to our townspeople, but to the fortunate "visitors" who do have money to spend, in our restaurants and gift shops – those coveted dollars on which our merchants rely all year 'round? An that many of these visitors become so enamored of our beauty that they do buy a condominium or locate a business here!

Mr. Clock's sneer at the inclusion of Stafford's Bay View Inn amounts to a misquote: by omitting Sylvain's exact words: "For my money, the best place to stay in Charlevoix isn't in Charlevoix at all..." As a matter of fact, Stafford's is less than 20 miles away (closer than the Acme Hilton, which Bob previously extolled in his column) and is a perfectly charming "hostelry" for those who appreciate Colonial atmosphere and the scenery driving to it. Why begrudge Petoskey a little of the glamor? We have it to spare.

So we beg to take issue with Mr. Clock: With the one exception of that word, "snooty", there could scarcely be any more complimentary bit of propaganda in behalf of Charlevoix than the snooty Clock has condemned. In fact our own Chamber of Commerce would do well to print it in handbills or a [illegible] and distribute it to all and sundry as a tourist guide.

The Free Press publicity was, indeed, free. Let's be grateful for it.

Yours sincerely,
(Miss) Florence Genevra Garden

Return of rail?

NO ONE WOULD like to see the return of railway passenger service to Northern Michigan more than I, since some of my earliest forays into this pristine wilderness were made by rail.

I remember taking a trip on the Michigan Central "Snow Train" from Detroit to Grayling in 1940 that was the high point of my boyhood.

Can you imagine what it was like for a kid from Detroit's inner city to climb on a railway coach on a raw, grimy, slushy, overcast January morning and to travel in a matter of hours to Grayling's dazzling Winter Sports Park, where snowbanks towered over one's head and the winter sun shone brilliantly in a smog-free sky?

I thought I had died and gone to heaven.

Later, during World War II, my family made summer trips by train from Detroit to Roscommon where my father rented a cottage on Higgins Lake. Gasoline, of course, was rationed and if you wanted to get out of the city you almost had to go by rail.

We always took a late night train, which arrived in Roscommon about 5 o'clock in the morning. I can still remember how clean and woodsy the air smelled when we stumbled from the train and stood shivering on the platform while the station hands rounded up our luggage, bedrolls, two dogs and my pet rabbit from the innards of the baggage car.

Dad never liked to arouse the village's only taxi driver that early, so we left our luggage at the station, tied the dogs to trees and hurried across the street to an all night restaurant built of honest-to-goodness pine logs where they served crisp "little pig" sausages and pancakes slathered with real maple syrup.

So you see, my opinion of train travel is surely biased by pleasant memories from days gone by. And nostalgia should never play a part in sound business decisions.

That is why I am a little disturbed by announcement over the weekend that a pair of Traverse City men are preparing to reinaugurate passenger rail service between Detroit and Traverse City. In fact the groundwork is already well laid and all the scheme now needs is approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

They point out that it costs in the neighborhood of $60 for gasoline alone to make the round trip from Detroit to T.C. by automobile, not to mention the cost of wear and tear on the vehicle. Having made round trips between Charlevoix and Detroit several times this spring, I can vouch for the fact that that figure is in the ballpark.

So Joel Magner and his partner Joseph O'Hara plan to sell their round-trip tickets for $70 — a figure that is fairly close to the cost of making the trip by car and a whale of a lot cheaper than the $[illegible] it would cost to make the trip by air.

However, Magner and O'Hara appear to have overlooked the fact that although it costs one person $60 to drive to and from Detroit, it hardly costs a penny more to take five passengers along. And this is where I am afraid their proposed rail line — designed as it is for family vacation travel — is doomed before it starts.

Unless memory fails, rail service during the war cost about three cents a mile, which meant our five-member family made the round-trip from Detroit to Roscommon for about $[illegible]. The same fivesome on the Detroit-T.C. line would have to pay $350. This is considerably more than most families budget for vacation travel — particularly when they can make the same trip by car in less time for a fraction of the cost and still have personal transportation at their destination after they arrive.

As much as I'd like to see a return of railroad passenger service to Northern Michigan, it just doesn't appear to be in the economic cards until automobile travel costs a good deal more than it does today.

Meet Charlevoix

By Peg Ohle

Phyllis Sumner is 4-H Program Assistant for Charlevoix County. This week she tells the Courier about some of the many activities on the 4-H schedule.

Q. What do you have planned for 4-H members this summer?
A. Right now we're getting ready for Exploration Days at Michigan State, from the 18th through the 20th. The Days are for teenagers. They will live in dormitories and take classes on subjects they have chosen. They will learn some new skills and improve skills they already have. They can bring these skills back to the county to teach the younger 4-H members. There are 177 different classes, including clowning, art, crafts such as rug-hooking, animal care, gardening, health, television performing, shooting sports, archery, landscaping, and leisure classes such as tennis and synchronized swimming. Some of the adults who attend as chaperones will be taking classes, too. It costs each person $30 for room and meals, and they must furnish their transportation and have their own spending money. Most of the teenagers have been earning their own money by saving Glen's slips, having raffles, and sponsoring dances.

Q. What's the next big event coming up for 4-H members?
A. The Conservation Camp at Ocqueoc Outdoor Center near Onaway in Presque Isle County will be held July 21 through 24. It's for 4-H members from nine through 13, but teenagers 14 and older may be junior camp counselors. Different resource people will teach classes in wildlife, wilderness, fishing, weaving, archery, and other subjects. There are still some openings for the Conservation Camp, and anyone interested should call me at 547-[illegible].

Q. What do you have for younger children?
A. We're going to have three one-day camps for kids under twelve at Whiting Park. This will give the older 4-H'ers and adults a chance to help.

Q. When do you have your Achievement Day?
A. This year it will be August 29 at Whiting Park. This is when 4-H members bring in their projects for judging and ribbons. Many of them also display their projects at the Emmet County Fair, and the horse and livestock clubs take an active part in the Fair, too.

Q. What is your particular role in all these events?
A. I help organize them, and on some projects, such as the four-county projects, I work with the other program assistants in Emmet, Presque Isle, and Cheboygan Counties. One group I'm especially proud of is our 4-H Teen Club in East Jordan. They are a service club for Grandvue. They decorate the rooms and halls for the seasons, entertain patients, help patients write cards to their families, and many other things. This summer they are planting and caring for the vegetable and flower gardens at Grandvue. One day soon they're going to help the patients make ice cream. They do this by putting a frozen fruit juice can inside a milk carton, filling the can with the ice cream mixture and surrounding it will ice. By turning the can steadily for a while, the mixture turns to ice cream. The teenagers and patients can talk while they are doing this and can gain a real rapport. Also, one day this summer, the teenagers are going to have another pet show at Grandvue. They take their dogs and kittens and other pets and show them off. Last year they even had a horse.

Q. How many 4-H Clubs are there in Charlevoix County?
A. There are 25 separate clubs. The members of some of them work on different projects, while the members of other clubs specialize in certain projects, such as sewing or livestock or horses.

Q. Where do the clubs meet?
A. At the homes of the leaders. The meetings are set up to fit the schedules of the leaders. The clubs can be made up of just their own kids, or the neighborhood kids, or kids from all over the area.

Q. How long have you been a 4-H Club worker?
A. I've been on the job since last August 15. I grew up in East Jordan, graduated from high school there, and went to Central Michigan for a year. Then I went to business school, the Northeastern School of Commerce, in Bay City. I graduated from there with a junior accountant's degree. After that I worked at the East Jordan Iron Works for about five years before I married Doug Sumner.

Q. How many children do you have?
A. Four. Sheri is 14, Kim is 13, Jon is nine, and Krista is eight. They are all 4-H members. They were active even before I took this job. I didn't belong to 4-H when I was growing up but my cousins did and I knew all about it. In those days, 4-H was only for kids who lived out in the country.

Q. Did you have special training for this job?
A. Yes. I went to MSU for orientation and also up to Mackinaw City to learn to work with the schools. I've also had some training by Betty Herrock of Rogers City, who is in charge of the four-county area for 4-H.

Q. Who pays your salary?
A. The job is funded jointly by MSU and the county.

(NOTE: In last week's interview with Chris Hoskel, it was said that Hoskel was Charlevoix High School's most recent graduate to be admitted to the Naval Academy. Principal Vane Smith points out that Charlevoix High School graduates Hubert E. Peddock and Edward Shanahan both attended the Academy – Peddock graduated in 1965 and Shanahan in the [illegible].)

New system developed for heating water

Great Lakes Energy Systems has announced the introduction of a system for heating domestic hot water that makes use of solar collectors for summer, combined with a woodstove and water jacket for winter water and space heating.

According to Gregory A. Reinhardt, general manager of Great Lakes Energy Systems, this is the first time a system which offers a tie-in between wood and solar for water heating has been available in this area.

"People are always asking if the solar water heater they might install will make enough hot water in the winter," Reinhardt said. "And it is true that while the sun will heat nearly all of a family's water in the spring and summer, the solar contribution here in Northern Michigan can fall to a low of 20 percent of the load in November."

The answer, Reinhardt said, is to combine the solar input with a woodstove, equipped with a water jacket, which circulates heated water to the 82 gallon storage tank. When the clouds roll in during the fall, the woodstove takes over to supplement the solar heater.

For convenience, the stove is usually installed in the basement, although living room installations of the system are possible. A line is run to and from the holding tank, connected to a jacket inside the stove. A pressure relief valve protects against overheating, and a circulator pump moves the water between the stove and tank. This arrangement, Reinhardt says, will more than handle the needs of most families all winter long.

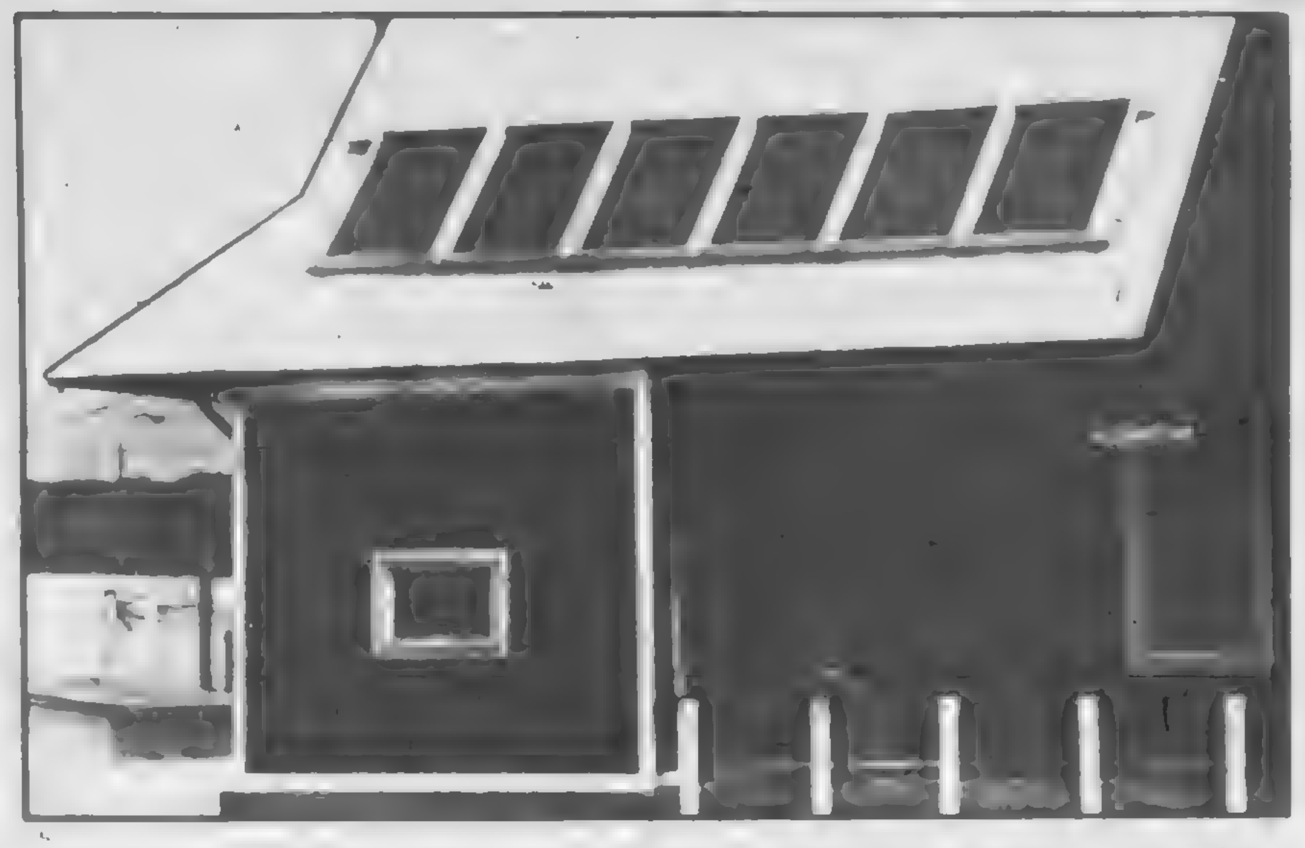
The solar end of the system features Daystar's three collector domestic hot water system, complete with tank and electric back-up, just in case neither the stove nor the sun is covering the load. Reinhardt points out that Great Lakes Energy last summer installed 10 of these collectors on the roof of Mackinac Island's Island House Hotel, where the system provides domestic hot water for 100 units during the season, and is "performing very well."

"Combining both solar and wood renewable resources to provide hot water seems like the perfect solution here in the North", says Reinhardt. "Solar can provide the bulk of summer needs, and when its usefulness fades in the fall, wood can take over, heating both the house and domestic water."

Energy Tax Credits substantially reduce the cost of the new system, cutting as much as $2,500 from the $4,300 typical installed cost of the system. This system, Reinhardt points out, "has been pre-certified by the State of Michigan" under the Tax Credit Program, greatly simplifying the paperwork.

Since most families spend an estimated $300 to $400 each year to heat water, the system can result in a considerable savings, paying for itself in about five years. "After that the system puts money in your pocket year after year", says Reinhardt. "Not only is water heating covered, but a majority of space heat as well, saving hundreds of dollars each year in fuel bills". The system features a Kalamazoo Vigilant woodstove, which will heat up to 1,800 square feet.

Both the stove and an operating Daystar Solar System are on display at the Great Lakes Energy Systems store in Boyne City.



Commercial solo installations by Great Lakes Energy Systems include the Depot Restaurant of Boyne City, shown here, which uses six solar collectors to heat water year around for dishwashing. Another installation, at the Island House Hotel on Mackinac Island, uses 10 collectors to make most of the hot water used by the Hotel's 100 guest rooms.

Scouts attend day camp

The scouts – between the ages of 6-12 – prepared and cooked their own meals (over camp fires), made crafts and learned some new songs and dances.

"The girls had a fantastic time," said Ruth Jackson, one of 17 adult supervisors at the camp.

Several people from the Charlevoix area visited the camp – located by the Belvedere Golf Club – to teach and entertain the scouts. The scouts paid $7 to attend the week-long camp. Charlotte Mills was the director and Jill Washburn the assistant director.

Leaders are needed for girl scout troops in the county. Anyone interested in becoming a leader or a helper should contact Charlotte Mills (East Jordan), Jill Washburn (Charlevoix) or [illegible] (Boyne City).

Grand opening at Brumms

A grand opening at the Norman and Judith Brumm Showroom is scheduled Sunday (June 22) from 1-6 p.m.

The spacious new showroom is located on US-31, one mile south of Charlevoix.

For several years the Brumms operated a showroom in Norwood. A need for more space prompted the Brumms to relocate their showroom.

"We were bursting at the seams in Norwood," Judy explained in a recent interview. "We feel this (US-31 South) is an excellent location for us."

The Brumms actually opened their new showroom Memorial Day weekend. And so far they have been "very pleased" with business. A lot of customers who frequented the Norwood showroom have been stopping in to see the Brumms new setting.

The Brumms are "very nature oriented" and their art reflects that. Their bird and wildflower enameled sculptures catch a shopper's eye immediately. And so does Norman's watercolors and drawings, displayed in a long, wooded gallery off the main showroom.

The Brumms also carry "colorful and exotic" stones. The Brumms travel extensively, attending shows so each stone can be selected individually. They recently acquired a large rock cutting and polishing facility where they make agate bases for their sculptures, suncatchers, lamps, clocks and stained

Yaroch named sales manager at JML

Petoskey Broadcasting Company has announced the recent addition of two men to head the WJML management team – local sales consultant John Yaroch, and West Coast sales consultant Harry Dyer.

Together Yaroch and Dyer will manage the regional and local sales in the station's 15-county listening area, which is headquartered in Petoskey.

Prior to making the move, Yaroch served as sales consultant with WVOY radio, and had been with the Charlevoix facility since shortly after that station signed on the air in 1974.

WJML station manager Ted Stevens said he's elated over the change.

"Since John has worked closely over the past five-plus years, with local and regional advertisers and has acquired a thorough background in advertising as it applies to the unique marketing position of Northern Michigan retailers, we're looking forward to utilizing his expertise toward the development of the most professional and knowledgable sales force in Northern Michigan."

Before moving to Charlevoix in 1974, Yaroch spent four years in the Saginaw market with stations WSGW and WKNX, and has been in the broadcast industry for 12 consecutive years.

"It's always difficult to make a change from one family of friends to another in the same marketplace, but I see this as a great opportunity for me to help build the kind of sales team advertisers in this highly competitive area can depend on to help them develop sound marketing strategies," Yaroch said. "Like many people I've always had a personal preference for working with live radio, and with WJML's coverage being so broad, we're committed to making the JML sales team the perfect complement to what I believe is the most popular radio programming in Northern Michigan."

Yaroch, his wife Linda, and daughter Kelly will continue to live in Charlevoix.

Dyer comes to Northern Michigan from Walla Walla, Washington where he directed the sales staff at KHIT AM and KSXT FM. Dyer brings with him seven years experience in advertising and broadcast sales in several West Coast locations.

Stevens sees this out-area experience as a valuable asset to WJML FM-AM.

"It has become obvious to me that Harry brings our sales force the kind of innovative energy and creative approach to sales that we're looking for," Stevens said. "We plan on taking full advantage of his experience, using it as the ideal complement in creating a sales force that will provide specialized advertising consultation to all of our clients throughout Northern Michigan."

Prior to moving to Washington, Harry worked as a marketing consultant in Eugene, Oregon, and Anaheim and Oceanside, California. "I see my move to the Midwest and to WJML FM-AM in particular as an opportunity to bring all of my previous experience to bear. I know the kind of first quality sound and programming that WJML brings to the greater Northern Michigan area, and I'm looking forward to an effective sales force that brings that same finesse in advertising to every potential client in the entire area."

Bob Harper

Bob Harper

The afternoon voice of WKHQ

•

"Uncle Harry first got me interested in radio. Harry's an electronics genius. He's a troubleshooter for IBM. In fact, IBM realized quite early what a sharp aptitude Harry had so they put him through college. Anyway, when Harry was 13 or 14 years old, he built his own radio station in the basement of his parent's home. It was all hooked up to the wiring (by carrier current) so you could only pick up the station in the house. But it was pretty neat. You could go upstairs turn on the radio and listen to Harry. Well, one day Harry invited me to come over and be the guest on his talk show. I was about five at the time and I thought it was the neatest thing in the world."

•

Bob Harper, the afternoon personality on WKHQ, has come a long way since starring on his uncle's radio talk show.

Harper, 36, now hosts his own show daily from 3-7 p.m. on Charlevoix's new 100,000 FM watt station - quite a contrast from such a modest beginning.

While Harper is quick to credit his uncle for getting him interested in radio, there were other factors as well that got the Pennsylvania native into broadcasting.

"I've always had a fascination for music," he declared in a recent interview. "I can remember as a kid playing the record player and pretending that I was a disc jockey. And when the record ended I would start talking until it was time to play another song. I think that's how I developed a sense of timing for it all."

Harper put himself through college, working as a disc jockey, but had no plans of pursuing it as a lifetime profession until he met George Burns.

"I wanted to be a doctor," he professed. "I worked at the radio station weekends to pay my way through college. It was an attractive thing to do. But I didn't take it seriously until I met George Burns (no relation to the actor-singer) while in York, Pa. He got me really excited about the business. In fact, when he left and went to a Cincinnati station, I followed."

To say that Harper is "well traveled" would be putting it mildly.

After leaving WSAI in Cincinnati, he worked at WKQV in Pittsburgh, WKBW in Buffalo, WGCL in Cleveland and then for TM Programming in Dallas.

It was in Dallas that Harper met Tim Moore, who is now the president of the New Broadcasting Station (WKHQ and WVOY).

"When Tim told me he was coming back here I was sort of envious," he said. "He had told me about his plans for the AM (WVOY) and the new FM (WKHQ) stations and the thought of starting a new station and turning around another appealed to me. In addition, I wanted to find a home where we (family) could settle and be happy. It has been a good match. We've really enjoyed it here. We've always felt more comfortable in small towns."

Despite his move, Harper stills acts as a consultant for TM, doing contemporary programming for the company from the Charlevoix studio.

But playing music is not everything.

"I think a radio station should contribute more than music," Harper said. "I think it's important that a station dig its roots deep and get involved in community affairs. It's important, too, that the station has a personality, that it appeals to people. And that it be considered a well informed and interesting friend. I would like people to say that we entertained them, played some of their favorite songs and that they learned something."

A Fashionable Racquet.....

By Trish Wright

The pursuit of sleek and svelte bodies during the Seventies has us jogging and exercising right into the Eighties. Americans have hit the road to tone up and trim down. A little jogger's dust seems to have settled on all of us. Fashion magazines display lithe bodies outfitted in tennis gear, jogging shorts and even racquet bras. We have been convinced that we must be in shape physically and fashionably. Before you slip on a pair of cut-offs and an oversized T-shirt, do some fashion calisthentics.

The Sports Factory, located in the Little Traverse Racquet Club, is a well stocked retail outlet that should satisfy your soft good sporting needs. Cathy James, an independent contractor, started this specialty store to serve the needs of its members. "I am an avid tennis player and when I played here I had so many requests for clothing similar to what I was wearing that I began to bring up clothes from our store in Okemos. I realized there was a need for a full service pro shop here," Cathy explained. The Sports Factory carried brand name clothing for men, women and children: Paul Sullivan, Ultrasport, Top Seeds, Paja, Keddie Kreations and Court Casuals. Cathy credits Marsha Originals, a California line, as a bestseller because it's fun for mothers and daughters. The matching skirts and shirts are 50/50 poly cotton blends with appliques, available in mother-daughter outfits.

"People are going back to basics," says Cathy. "Separates are selling better. Pastels trim women's outfits and bright, solid colored shirts are becoming more popular for men." On the West coast, women are wearing Danskin camisole tops with shorts, suits or wrap skirts that can be dropped at the beach for sunning or lunch hour fitness programs. Cathy predicts this combination may become a summer look in Northern Michigan.

The Sports Factory will get you moving off the court in velour warm-ups and on to the tennis or racquet ball court in record setting style.

On the Bay View Country Club Hawaiian Dinner-Dance

By Mary Lee Huber

A lot of time and effort goes into arranging a Mixed Golf Event, Dinner and Dance .... especially when they all happen in one spectacular evening.

The committee comprised of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Bodette Sr., Bob and Patricia Ryan and Frank and Monica Trulson helped to organize an evening of entertainment that began with the Mixed Golf event at 5 p.m. Following the game of golf dinner was served Hawaiian style that included a spit roasted pig, shrimp and other gourmet delights. Change of pace music was played by Mark and Tony of Vis-A-Vis a band from the Detroit area.

You know summer's really here when the second Bay View Country Club turns out over 150 people looking for a carefree fun summertime evening. We hope everyone enjoys the rest to come.

Shoes News

By Trish Wright

"Barefoot boy with cheek of tan ..." I recited in the fifth grade, wishing that I were not in the front of the class wearing black and white saddle shoes. The shoes that were anathema to me then now step into joyously. With age comes maturity and classics. There is a revival of white bucks, wing tips, penny loafers and patent leather

Contemporary shoe designers have embellished cobblers' wares with refined, and rugged variations of casual leathers. Textured effects from pebbly grains to huge rugged markings are evident in reptile prints and alligator types. Sound footings for men are dress casuals or Western boots. Laceless slip-ons and natural canvas wing tips are replacing "dress shoes". However, the one eyelet ghillie and four eyelet saddle will be fall favorites. The nautical looking Topsider is a Great Lakes sure-foot for men and women.

Dexter and Bass have cornered the preppy market. Espadrilles, besides being fun to say, are fun to wear. Women will have more choice in colors this summer but linen and straw are still strong. Suede sneakers are bright and bold. Covered up sandals with open toes are a variant of the classic summer sandal. Ballet slippers get a soft glove treatment for summer's stage; Bass Funjuns made of supple leather takes first position. There is no prescribed heel height. They change as capriciously as do hemlines.

*Footnote: Designer Shamask has previewed the Ayn Rand suit, with lines as straight as the author's objectivism. What shoes to wear with this ensemble? Maybe a steel grey John Galt pump.

MERLE NORMAN STUDIO IS CENTER FOR "FACE OF THE 80's" SEARCH

A worldwide search for a young woman whose face most typifies the beauty and fashion "Face of the 80's" was launched here today by Merle Norman Cosmetics and Ford Models, Inc.

"We are pleased Merle Norman is sponsoring this international search with Eileen and Jerry Ford, whose agency has been responsible for discovering such famous models and Cheryl Tiegs, Suzie Parker and Beverly Johnson," said Cheryl Stevenson, Owner of the Merle Norman Studio in Petoskey, Michigan.

The "search", which begins this month and will end in Monaco in September, is expected to uncover scores of beautiful young women.

A two-year Ford Models agency contract, valued at $50,000, goes to the young woman a jury of fashion experts identifies as having the "Face of the 80's."

We also anticipate discovering a number of potential models right here in the United States," said Eileen Ford. The search is open to all women from ages of 16 to 21, married or single, who have or have not had professional modeling experience.

To enter the search, applications must be picked up at the Merle Norman Studio. The deadline for submitting applications is July 31.

Cheryl said, "It could be the chance of a lifetime. Any young woman who thinks of herself as especially attractive with the potential to become a model has the opportunity to be judged by the experts in the business."

The original elimination will be based on photographs submitted by applicants. Two head shots (one in black and white, one in color) and one full length color in a bathing suit is required.

A "Face" will be selected from each of the 50 states. From that group, 12 finalists will be identified for a trip to New York where a panel of fashion experts, headed by the Fords, will select the "U.S. Face of the 80's."

The U.S. "Face" will receive an all-expenses-paid trip to Monaco in September where a jury of the world's leading designers and stylists will select the international "Face of the 80's."

"Beautiful young women from more than 20 countries will be involved in the final evaluation in Monaco," Ford said. "In addition to the contract with the agency, being selected as the "Face of the 80's" will bring the prestige and recognition that comes with having a face identified as the most beautiful and fashionable in the world."

"Merle Norman has long been known as the 'Place for the Custom Face.' We're excited to be a part of this search that will identify the most beautiful face of tomorrow," said Cheryl.

She added that young women who enter the search will be given a free booklet featuring tips on applying makeup for photography. Applicants may also schedule free makeup lessons at the studio.

Little Traverse Racquet Club Championship Finals

by Lizette Belanger

Local residents from Petoskey, Charlevoix and Harbor Springs swing their way into a day of thrills and some disappointments at the Little Traverse Racquet Club Championship Finals held Sunday. The tournament started May 15, and this weekend was the final showdown for the players who won in the semi-finals.

Hugh Smith and Cathy James proved to be the top contenders of the day, as they won the Men's & Women's Single Flight I division. Hugh carried the match away in a two set match of 6-1, 6-3. Later on in the day Hugh Smith along with his partner Clarke Smith won over Hans Wiemer and Steve Fischer in a 6-3, 6-2 match, for the Men's Doubles Flight I division. Cathy James took charge of the Women's Single Flight I division by beating her opponent Linda Topolsky in a 6-2, 6-2 match. Cathy joined Barb Rajmussen in winning the Women's Double Flight I division against Karen Langes and Cree Parsons. Although Cathy and Barb were the eventual winners, Cree and Karen made them prove it by holding the sets tight at a 7-6 (9 pt. tiebreaker) and 7-5. Other winners of the day were: Women's Over 95 Doubles, Donna Brenn & M.K. Zinn 6-3, 6-2. Women's Single Flight II, Heidi Middleton 4-6, 6-2, 6-3. Flight III, D. Horan 6-1, 6-4. Flight IV, Donna Siegwart 6-3, 3-6, 6-4. In the men's events other winners were: Men Over 95 Doubles, Hans Wiemer & Bob Elcoate 6-1, 7-5, 7-5. Men's Single Flight II, Bob Ross, 6-1, 6-1. Flight III, George Felski 6-2, 6-2. Flight IV, Jim Alton 6-2, 6-3.

Holtzman - Wareck

Julie Hill Holtzman of Clare and Thomas M. Wareck of Petoskey exchanged wedding vows on Saturday, May 31 at St. Francis Solanus in Bay Shore.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Hill of Charlevoix. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Si Wareck of Petoskey.

The Rev. Fr. Medard Buvala, OFM, officiated at the double ring service before an altar graced with arrangements of spring flowers.

Mrs. Herbert H. Hamlin of Boyne City, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding march and accompanied Mrs. Robert Tollas who sang "Wedding Song", "The Lord's Prayer" and "Ave Maria."

The bride, escorted to the altar by her brother, Hal Hill, Jr., of Grand Rapids, wore a gown of beige antique satin and lace, which she had made for her wedding. Fashioned with a fitted bodice of lace over satin accented with seedpearls, the gown featured a sweetheart neckline, long tapered sleeves of lace over satin and full skirt. She wore a hat of matching satin and lace banded in bridal illusion that fell in streamers. She carried a nosegay of red roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Terry Blissett assisted the bride as matron of honor and Mrs. Richard Bogart as bridesmaid. They wore identical gowns of emerald green and carried baskets of silk flowers.

Tobi Lynn Holtzman, daughter of the bride, as flower girl, wore an emerald green dress similar to the attendants. Todd Lawrence Holtzman, son of the bride, was ringbearer.

Jerry Wareck of Petoskey served as his brother's best man. Gary Ross of Petoskey was groomsman. Ed Wodek and Douglas Johns, also of Petoskey, seated the guests.

After a wedding trip to St. Albans, W. Va., the couple will make their home in Grand Rapids.

The bride attended North Central Michigan College and Central Michigan University and has been employed as a Laboratory Technician at the Clare Clinic. The bridegroom is a graduate of Petoskey High School and Central Michigan University and will be associated with Arthur Anderson Accountants in Grand Rapids.

A rehearsal dinner hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Wareck was catered by St. Francis Xavier Altar Society at the church dining room. (Aartvark Studio, Charlevoix.)

Cutler - Collins

Peggy Lee Cutler and Kenneth Ray Collins - both residents of the Charlevoix House - were married Saturday, June 7 at the Christ Episcopal Church in Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Monroe Cutler of Rockford while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Collins of South Bend, Ind.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white polyester organza gown with a stand-up collar and an empire waistline. Lace accented the ruffles on the front and back yoke and lace trimmed the sheer sleeves and cuffs. The bride wore a chapel length organza and nylon veil trimmed with lace and seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of white and lavender lilacs with accents of white spirea.

Jeanie Brewster, organist, presented a program of traditional wedding music which included "Longer". She also accompanied the soloist, Kathy Hynes, who sang "Wedding Song" accompanied by Jeoff Nelson on the guitar.

Kathy Hynes attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a pink flowered calf-length cotton peasant style gown and carried a bouquet of lavender lilacs and white spirea.

Rachel Hynes and Bridget Cutler were the flower girls. They wore pink floor length dresses and carried baskets of lilacs.

Gabriel Hynes was the ringbearer.

Patrick Hynes attended the groom as best man and ushers were David Lee Vaughan and Tim F. Hayes.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church parlors.

The newlyweds honeymooned at The Lodge and are now making their home in Charlevoix. The bride is a kitchen aid at Grandvue and the groom works at Bergmann Center and is sexton for Christ Episcopal Church. (Photo by Michael [illegible])

Egler - Lester

Kathryn Marie Egler, daughter of Audrey and the late Robert Egler of Charlevoix, and William M. Lester, Jr., son of Betty and William Lester, Sr. of Mullens, West Virginia, exchanged wedding vows recently. The ceremony was held in Silver Spring, Maryland and attended by close family and friends.

The bride is a native of Michigan, graduating from Michigan State University. She worked in public relations for several years and at present works for the National Conference of State Legislatures in Washington D.C.

The groom is a native of West Virginia and is currently studying at Antioch School of Law in Washington D.C. He is a graduate of Concord College and has worked for the West Virginia Legislature.

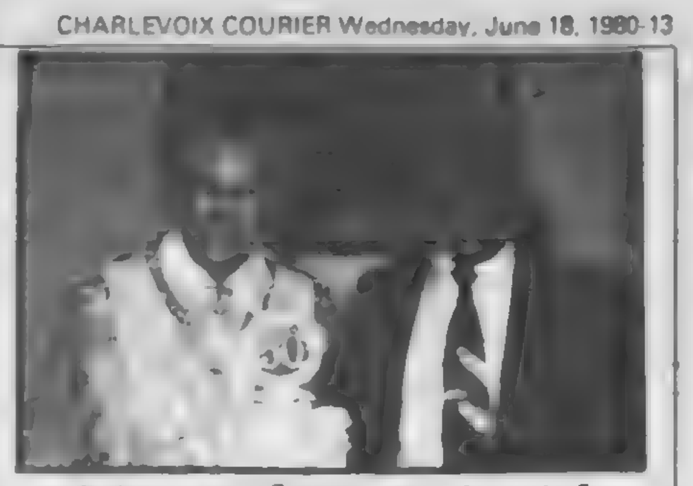
The couple will live in Silver Spring and hope to purchase a home in the Washington D.C. area soon.

Murray - Mengel

Mr. and Mrs. Max Murray of Charlevoix are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Lou Ann, to Kyle William Mengel of New York.

The wedding will take place June 28 at the Bible Baptist Church of Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is a graduate of Charlevoix High School. Her fiance is serving in the United States Coast Guard, presently stationed in North Carolina.



Mr. and Mrs. Smith

Frank and Mary Smith of Barnard celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on June 7 with a party for friends and relatives at the Barnard Grange Hall.

The couple's two children, Harold Smith and Thelma Bennett, hosted the party, at which "Jasper and the Tagalongs" furnished music for square dancing.

Among the celebrants were six of the Smith's seven grandchildren.

The couple were married June 7, 1930 in Detroit and have lived in the Barnard area most of their married life.

DIAMOND: THE HOW OF IT

The diamond you own is a miracle of nature. [illegible] its birth and its discovery, [illegible] saw the evolution of different plant and animal forms, different weather cycles, the dawn of man and thousands of years of human development. Through all that it has endured.

The diamond you won is a masterpiece of man. First, tons of rock must be blasted and put through a lengthy process to separate the diamond material from its host rock. About 3500 tons of rock must be processed to recover just one ounce (142 carats) of diamonds. Of course, out of that ounce, [illegible] portion of the crystals will be gem quality, the rest will be industrial goods. At this point, the diamonds must be sorted and graded for color and clarity before they are placed on the market.

A diamond in the rough is not very attractive. It's no wonder the stone was overlooked in the many centuries before cutting and polishing were fully understood. The rough diamond has a dull, waxy look and comes in strange shapes, usually octahedral. It takes skilled cutting and polishing to bring out the diamond's true beauty.

First the diamond is cleaved or sawed to [illegible] of the rough crystal. Then it's rounded, faceted and [illegible]. The cut and polished stone must be graded [illegible] carat selling price to the next buyer along the chain.

The work performed from the mine to [illegible] time consuming and expensive — but well worth it. Through [illegible] man has taken nature's raw material and maximized its beauty. You must agree that this is a true art.

Theater festival in July

The Lakeside Players, a Boyne City based theatrical company, will be holding a summer theater festival in July. Members of the Players are busily preparing their newly-acquired theater (located above Schaler's [illegible] Boyne City) for the summer festival. The plays that have been selected for the festival include Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie"; "The Restoration of Arnold Middleton", by English playwright, David Storey; and an evening of one act plays that will include works by Feydeau, McCune, and Williams.

The festival will run from July 10 to August 2. For further information or offers of help in putting on the festival, please contact Gary Peltier at 347-7654, or Larry Willis at 347-7934.

Rayder finish 23-9

"Where tomorrow starts today"

The Women's Guild of the Charlevoix Area Hospital recently presented $150 nursing scholarships to Joy Pettis (second from left) and Susan Bennett (second from right). Joyce Boydston (left) and Paula Thomas (right) made the presentations. Joy plans to attend North Central Michigan College and then transfer to the nursing program at Lake Superior State while Susan plans to attend Grand Valley State. Both are recent graduates of Boyne City High School. They will receive $150 each school year as long as they remain in the nursing program.

V.F.W. installs officers

Mrs. Clarence Goldstick was installed as president; Mrs. Joseph Seidel, Senior Vice President; Mrs. Albert Russell, Junior

Mrs. Farkas re-elected

Mrs. William Farkas was re-elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of the Leslie T. Shapton Post, American Legion, at the annual election of officers held recently.

Other officers elected at the same time were: Mrs. George Lochner, vice president; Mrs. Clarence Goldstick, secretary; Mrs. Lester Smith, treasurer; Mrs. Harry Pearsall, chaplain; Mrs. Josephine Bindi, historian; Mrs. Lilliam Hull, Sergeant-at-Arms; Mrs. Harlan Johnson, Mrs. Claude Pearsall and Mrs. William Bellows, executive committee. The new officers will be installed in September.

Plans were made for a tea to be held at the post home from 2 until 4 p.m. June 22 honoring the following charter members of the Auxiliary: Mrs. Clarence Heise, Mrs. C.B. Meggison, Mrs. Charles Hamlin, Mrs. Sam King, Mrs. Frank Poole and Mrs. Harry Walstead. Members are urged to attend this special event.

Mrs. Bindi, membership chairman, and Mrs. Farkas were presented with yellow rose emblems for meeting the membership quota.

Mrs. Ray Wood, Girls State chairman, reported that Sue Smith, Vicki Falting and Renee' Russell left Sunday for Mt. Pleasant to attend Girls State sponsored by the American Legion at the campus at Central Michigan University.

Mrs. Edna Miller and Mrs. Katie Curtis, Poppy Day chairman, reported that contributions of $609.61 were received. The funds are used to support veterans' projects at VA hospitals.

Refreshments served by hostesses, Mrs. Goldstick and Mrs. Farkas, concluded the meeting.

All Degree Day set

The Charlevoix Rebekah Lodge No. 293 met recently at the American Legion post home for its regular meeting according to Mrs. Eldred Ostrum, Noble Grant.

It was announced that the Round Lake Lodge No. 293 I.O.O.F. and the Charlevoix Rebekah Lodge will host annual All Degree Day for the state of Michigan on April 25, 1981. Sims Baker representing the I.O.O.F. and Mrs. Ostrum the Rebekah Lodge are co-chairpersons of the event. As many as 800 representatives of both organizations are expected here for the one-day event.

At the business session, those present voted to recess July 8 for the months of July and August. Meetings will be resumed in the fall.

The recent meeting was also a district visitation with visitors present from East Jordan and Mancelona. Among them were five former past district presidents and three district officers.

Memorial Sunday was observed recently at the United Methodist Church.

Refreshments were served at the close of the business meeting.

THANK YOU CHARLEVOIX COUNTY FOR YOUR SUPPORT

GIVE AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY

WHO WE ARE

We're lots of people. In fact, the American Cancer Society is people. More than two million people who work together to fight cancer. We want to help save lives. And we want to make those lives worth living.

Our volunteers - people like you - are the heart of the ACS. Without their time, energy, skills, we can't offer the services we do.

HOW WE HELP

The American Cancer Society first began in 1913. In those days the word cancer was rarely spoken out loud. Only one cancer patient in five could hope to live.

But today, one out of three people who get cancer will live. With what doctors know, it could be one in two.

That's where we come in. We need to show people what they can do on their own to help protect themselves against cancer.

We do it many ways - through clubs and organizations, in homes, schools, with films, TV, radio and newspapers. Our programs can help more people today than ever before.

WHAT WE DO

We fight cancer - here's how. RESEARCH: Since 1946, the American Cancer Society has spent money to find out more about how cancer works - to find out more about how cancer can be cured - or prevented. We're halfway there, so we have to keep on giving money for more research and training more specialists.

SERVICE AND REHABILITATION: We try to make cancer less of a blow. Volunteers drive patients to treatment centers. We lend sickroom supplies. And people who have been treated for cancer and "been through it" help new patients. We offer information, counseling, and support to the family.

EDUCATION: Everyone should know it's important to get a regular checkup and know cancer's SEVEN EARLY WARNING SIGNALS. We also teach doctors, nurses, and other health care workers the newest and best ways to find and treat cancer.

Please call: When you need information about learning how to protect yourself from cancer. If you're looking for a quit smoking clinic. If you want films or booklets to share with neighbors or co-workers.

When you need help. You don't have to deal with cancer alone. Call us if you or someone in your family needs information, transportation, sick room supplies.

When you want to give help - your time, your skills, or your money.

The American Cancer Society is people - people who give help to people who need help.

Official Notice

EVELINE TOWNSHIP

The regular meeting of the Eveline Township Board was called to order on June 12, 1980 by Supervisor, David Willson at 8:20 p.m. at the township hall.

Present were David Willson, Eric Beishlag, Linda Hilderbrant, John Smith and Wayne Saunders.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

We discussed putting a notice in the paper concerning the boundaries of ambulance and fire services.

Eric Beishlag made a motion to pay 10% of a construction contract with the Charlevoix County Road Commission for work on Phelps hill; supported by John Smith; motion carried.

We discussed the landfill that is in the township. Wayne Saunders made a motion to send a letter to the D.N.R. to ask questions on the landfill; supported by Linda Hilderbrant; motion carried.

Linda Hilderbrant gave a treasurer's report.

Wayne Saunders made a motion to pay the bills on hand; motion supported by John Smith; motion carried unanimously.

John Smith made a motion to adjourn; supported by Eric Beishlag; motion carried. Adjournment at 11:15 p.m.

Eric Beishlag, Clerk

☑ VOTE FOR WAYNE CHAPMAN FOR SHERIFF

SITUATION NORMAL??

For those who insist that Communism is not involved in the chaos presently upsetting our nation, we respectfully request that they consider some of the Red Rules for Revolution. These are not new rules but a repeat of a document obtained by allied forces in Dusseldorf, Germany, in 1919 in which the Communists outlined their plan for bringing about a revolution. Listen to these rules and ask yourself if anything sounds familiar. No. One: Corrupt the young, get them interested in sex. Make them superficial; destroy their ruggedness. Two: Get control of all means of publicity, thereby getting people's minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books, plays, and other trivialities. Three: Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance. Four: Destroy the people's faith in their natural leaders by holding them up to contempt and ridicule. Five: Always preach true Democracy but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible. Six: By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent. Seven: Promote unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders, and foster a lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders. Eight: By specious argument, cause breakdown of moral virtues, honesty, sobriety, continence, faith in the pledged word. And finally, cause the registration of firearms on some pretext, with a view of confiscating them and leaving the population helpless. These are actual quoted statements of a Communist document concerning rules for bringing about a revolution, confiscated by allied forces way back in 1919...frightening isn't it?

(Why Are You?)
Call 547-[illegible]

This is the second in a series of questions and answers on preserving food by Marlene Cassatt, Extension Home Economist.

Q. Marlene, sometimes liquid is lost from jars during processing. Why is this?

A. Packing jars too full will cause liquid to boil out of the jars during processing. Also, fluctuating pressure in a pressure canner or lowering the pressure too suddenly will cause loss of liquid.

Q. What causes lids not to seal?

A. Several things can cause lids not to seal. Failure to follow manufacturers' directions for using lids, a chip on the rim of the jar, food particles on the jar rim, leaving too little head space or leaving too much head space, putting screw bands on too loosely, tightening screw bands after removing jars from canner, re-using lids, and defective lids can all cause defective sealing.

Q. Can food be reprocessed if it was incorrectly processed or if lids fail to seal?

A. Yes, if no more than 24 hours have gone by. You can refrigerate the food and use it in the next day or two. You could also freeze the food. Vegetables should be drained before freezing. Or you can reprocess by emptying food and liquid into a pan, heat to boiling; pack into clean hot jars with new lids and process for the full time.

Q. Won't the quality of the food be affected?

A. Yes, the quality of twice-processed food may be poor.

Q. What causes a lid that sealed to bulge or come unsealed during storage?

A. Bulging and unsealing are signs of spoilage. The food should be discarded.

Q. Aren't green beans that have been processed in a boiling water bath and sealed safe to eat?

A. No! The sealed lids mean that a vacuum was formed inside the jars. It does not mean spoilage organisms were killed. The only safe way to can green beans is in a pressure canner.

Q. What causes brown or black deposits to form on the underside of metal lids?

A. The underside of metal lids is protected by an enamel coating. If there are any imperfections in the enamel, natural compounds in food can react with the metal to form black or brown deposits. They are harmless.

Q. What are the yellow crystals that sometimes form in canned asparagus?

A. They are deposits of rutin. This is a pigment which occurs naturally in asparagus. It is harmless.

Q. Is it all right to can strained (pureed) vegetables and [illegible]

A. No! Heat penetration of strained products is poor. Instead, can vegetables or meat in the usual way and strain them just before serving.

Q. How long may canned foods be stored?

A. One year is recommended for both home canned and commercially canned foods. However, two to three years is considered reasonable. With longer storage, the eating quality will drop.

Q. Does it matter whether you use a pressure canner or water bath canner when canning foods?

A. Yes it does. The acidity of food determines whether a pressure canner should be used or not.

Q. When should a pressure canner be used?

A. Low-acid foods, such as vegetables, tomato-vegetable mixtures like stewed tomatoes, meats, poultry, and fish must be processed in a pressure canner.

Q. Why is pressure canning important with those particular foods?

A. The most common spoilage organisms associated with acid foods are yeast and molds. These bacteria are easily destroyed at 212 degrees Fahrenheit, which is the temperature of a boiling water bath. However, that bacteria that causes botulism can survive at this temperature in low-acid foods. Botulism spores can survive hours of boiling but they are destroyed in a short time at 240 degrees Fahrenheit. The temperature in a pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure is 240 degrees Fahrenheit. This is why the only safe way to process low acid foods is in a pressure canner at 10 pounds pressure for the recommended time.

Q. What if low-acid foods are processed at 10 pounds pressure for less than the recommended time?

A. The botulism spores can survive.

Q. What is botulism? Are there any visible signs it is present?

A. Well, first of all, the botulism bacteria produce a deadly toxin which cause botulism food poisoning. The toxin can be present without any visible signs. So, to avoid any risk, it is essential that recommended canning procedures be followed.

Q. What if someone has some questions concerning the safety of canned goods. Should they throw the food away?

A. Not necessarily. It is important, however, to boil home canned low-acid foods before tasting. Bring vegetables to rolling boil. Cover and boil for 10 minutes. You should boil spinach and corn 20 minutes, as well as meats and poultry. It takes 15 minutes of boiling to destroy botulism-toxin in fish.

Q. It sounds as though it really is important to process home canned foods according to directions.

A. Absolutely! By following reliable, up-to-date directions you can safely process low-acid foods at home without fear of [illegible]

Q. Where can one get reliable information about home canning?

A. The Cooperative Extension Service has reliable publications and up-to-date information on food preservation. The phone number is 582-6232.

Plantings started

Plans for summer plantings by the Charlevoix Garden Club were made at a recent meeting of the organization held at the home of Mrs. [illegible].

Since that time, the planting have been started at the Michigan Avenue island and the Post Office. Hanging baskets in the business section which will be placed this week and the spring maintenance of the Mercer Blvd. Memorial Garden and the Pere Charlevoix Garden and Park overlooking Lake Michigan will be completed.

Plans were also made for the club's summer bazaar and for a workshop meeting in July.

Correspondence from Mrs. Erie Heerman, chairperson for the annual summer meeting of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan held recently at Mackinac Island was read. It complimented the club for the strawflower and pussywillow centerpieces made by the club for the annual banquet in the Grand Hotel.

Mrs. [illegible], Mrs. David Fowler and Mrs. Ray Wood, club president, were delegates to the meeting.

The next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. J.L. Crawford in July which will feature a workshop and election of officers.

Mrs. Donald Jadwin was co-hostess.

For Wednesday

Critique of Tuesday's exercise planned

A critique of Tuesday's test exercise of Charlevoix County's emergency operations plan will be held at 1 p.m. today (Wednesday) in the Holiday Inn in Petoskey. The public is invited.

Federal officials were present to view the exercise and they will critique not only Charlevoix County, but Emmet County, the State of Michigan and the Big Rock Nuclear Power plant plans as well.

A several day nuclear incident was simulated Tuesday and telescoped into a five hour period. The ability of local, state and federal agencies to respond in a coordinated way was evaluated by officials from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA).

Michigan State Police Emergency Services Division, Charlevoix County and Emmet County Emergency Services operations; the Federal Emergency Management Agency, the Consumers Power Co., and the governor's office cooperated in the half-day exercise.

The state departments of Public Health, State Police, Social Services, Transportation, Agriculture and their local counterparts also participated.

A state Emergency Operating Center (EOC) was set up at the Petoskey State Police Post. County EOCs were at Charlevoix and Emmet counties' sheriff's departments. A state EOC was established at the State Police Emergency Services Division in Lansing, and a Joint Public Information Center (JPIC) was set up at the Holiday Inn in Petoskey.

"This effort was one in a series of tests aimed at determining Michigan's ability to meet emergencies," said Capt. Peter Basolo, State Deputy Director of Emergency Services.

"This was the first test involving all of the parties at one time. In fact, it was the first full-scale test of this type in the nation.

"We have had excellent cooperation with local agencies and such state agencies as State Police, departments of Public Health, Natural Resources, Social Services, Transportation and Agriculture.

"We expect to continue to study, test and revise this plan as necessary."

Reminder

Potential candidates for Miss Charlevoix are reminded that the deadline for entering the annual pageant scheduled for July 26 is Tuesday, July 1, Georgia Hufford, chairperson of the Miss Charlevoix Pageant.

Two entries had been received Monday and several others have indicated they are interested and have picked up entry blanks at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

Bids on elderly project to be opened

General contractors and mechanical sub-contractors may now secure construction drawings and specifications for the 63-unit Charlevoix elderly housing project.

The Charlevoix Housing Commission reports that they are available from the architects, Daverman Associates, Inc., 200 Monroe Street, N.W., Grand Rapids, phone (616) [illegible], for a deposit fee of $[illegible].

The plans are currently on display at the Northern Plan Service in Petoskey, Gaylord, and Traverse City, and may also be seen at the Charlevoix Housing Commission office in City Hall, which is open every Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday from 2 to 5 p.m.

Bids on the construction job will be opened at 2 p.m., July 16, in City Hall. Each bid must be accompanied by a certified check equal to five percent of the bid value and successful bidders must be able to furnish a 100 percent performance bond.

A bid on landscaping the project is being solicited separately from the general bid.

Persons who may be interested in reserving an apartment in the housing project are also welcome to view the plans in the housing commission office in City Hall.

Medalist John Morse and Amateur champ Steve Maddalena

Maddalena wins 69th Amateur title

Steve Maddalena was approaching the green-gabled, white clubhouse at Belvedere. A friend opened the screen door and congratulated him on winning the 69th Michigan Amateur.

"I would get you a beer but your not old enough," Maddalena's friend [illegible].

Maddalena chuckled as he walked past his friend and inside the clubhouse to talk to a handful of reporters who sat waiting to interview the new champ - a tall, lean 20 year-old from Jackson.

Maddalena had a lot to be happy about. The University of Michigan junior had just "surprised" John Morse to win the prestigious Amateur title on a beautiful Saturday afternoon.

The questions came in flurries.

What did it feel like to be the Amateur champ?

"It hasn't sunk in yet. It probably won't until the ride home."

Was he confident he could beat Morse, his teammate at the U-M and the Big Ten's premier golfer?

"Well, it's been a long time since I've beaten John. He's a tough guy to beat. I just wanted to make a good showing. I felt if I could keep it close and then get a break coming down the stretch I could win."

Did you envision winning by a 5-4 score?

"Never. One up, maybe, but not 5-4."

Was this one of his best performances?

"I think it was comparable to the first day here (Tuesday) when I shot a 69. Everything seemed to go just right."

Has it sunk in yet?

"Not yet. But I know for sure it's the best thing that's ever happened to me in golf. It's my biggest victory so far."

The questions kept coming. And Maddalena like a seasoned veteran had all the answers.

For Maddalena, the 69th Michigan Amateur was gratifying indeed. Twice before he had qualified for this tournament. Twice before he had lost in the first round of match play.

Most observers predicted a Morse victory before Saturday's finale. And for good reason. Morse had shot a blistering 138 in the qualifying round to win medalist honors. He had been in the Amateur championships before - and won (1978). And - to top it off - he recently helped Michigan take a second place in the Big Ten by winning the individual championship. Even Maddalena admitted he was the "underdog."

"John was the favorite," Maddalena said. "The pressure was on him."

Morse started out in grand fashion. He birdied the first hole to take a one shot lead. It looked like the Morse Express was ready to roll.

But his lead was shortlived. On the fifth hole, Morse hit his drive into a bunker. To make matters worse, when he tried to chip it out he topped it. Morse eventually bogied the hole to even the match.

"I think my bogey on five was the turning point," he said afterwards. "You should never bogey a par five."

Maddalena kept the momenteum in his favor by winning the next two holes to go two up. He did it by virtue of a birdie on six and a Morse bogey on seven.

It was on the eighth hole that Maddalena started sensing victory. Right after Morse sank a 45 foot putt for birdie - that looked like it would put him back in the match - Maddalena responded by sinking a 20 foot putt for birdie. His two shot advantage remained intact.

It took Maddalena just five holes to end the match on the back nine. Morse bogied 12 and 13 and Maddalena birdied 14 by snaking in a 17 foot putt. The birdie gave Maddalena a nifty three under par score.

For Morse the loss was disappointing.

"It's tough to sniff it (title) and then lose it. I'm very disappointed. It's frustrating to lose but it's more frustrating to lose big. Maybe things will be different next year."

Morse - gracious in defeat - praised his U-M teammate on his victory.

"It's a great win for him. I know coach (U-M golf coach Tom Simon) is proud of him. Steve started slow this spring so this turnaround is really super for him."

The win capped an outstanding week of golf for Maddalena. He shot a 141 in the qualifying round to place second behind Morse. And then he won all six of his match play rounds - including a 23 hole marathon match against Dave Graulau on Thursday morning in the rain.

The defending champ, Peter Green, was upended in the second round of match play by another former champ, Bud Stevens. Stevens lost to Dan Hughes in the third round. Hughes lost in the semi-finals to Maddalena.

Charlevoix's Mike Custer made it to the "Sweet Sixteen." Custer shot a 151

For Montessori House

Planners recommend permit be granted

On a 4-3 vote, the Charlevoix Planning Commission Monday night recommended that a special use permit be granted to the Charlevoix Montessori Children's House.

A special use permit would allow a child care center to be established at 201 East Garfield (Bergmann Center building). The recommendation will be forwarded to the Charlevoix City Council.

In its motion recommending approval of the permit, the commission set forth a number of stipulations that the child care center would have to abide by. The stipulations include 1) the center operate only between the hours of 8 a.m. and 5:30 p.m. Monday-Friday and that the drop-off and subsequent pick-up of children be staggered 2) carpools be used, 3) four staff parking spaces be provided along with four spaces for drop-off, 4) no cars be parked on the grassy area, 5) snow be removed only during the hours of 7 a.m. and 8 p.m., 6) the total enrollment not exceed 40, and 7) only one (parent) meeting be held monthly. The motion also states that "95 to 98" percent of the neighbors are opposed to the issuance of the permit.

The commission added that a parking plan be provided to show angle parking.

Barb Fels, Clem Olach, Tom Duke and Dave Strawbridge voted to recommend approval of the permit. June Cross, Bill Bellows and Joe Morris opposed it.

The same motion - that was approved Monday night - was made at an earlier commission meeting. At that time the vote was 3-3 (Duke was absent). Council asked that the planning commission consider the issue again because of the deadlock.

Application for the special use permit has attracted quite a debate. At Monday night's meeting, 16 letters were submitted to the commission opposing the permit. Attorney Mike Gibbons - representing the neighbors - also presented a petition signed by 87 residents who want the permit denied.

In fact, the stipulations approved in the motion are a result of concerns expressed by area residents. Katie Donovan, directress of the Children's House, Monday indicated that complying with the stipulations would be relatively easy.

Gibbons, however, believes it could become a "troublesome" situation for local law enforcement. Gibbons said with the stipulations the city would be acting "as a management arm" of the center and that it would be up to the local police to make sure the stipulations are being met.

Most residents have indicated they would like to see the building converted to single family use. In addition to concerns about traffic congestion, inadequate parking, noise, snow removal and the number of children at the center the residents claim it would hurt property values.

The Children's House has been searching for a new location to accomodate its growing enrollment for several months. An agreement to purchase the Bergmann Center building has been reached.

"From the beginning, the building (Bergmann Center) has served a special use and has existed in the neighberhood harmoniously," Ms Donovan stated. "It was designed purposely in a home-like manner on the exterior in order to blend in with the neighborhood.

"All these factors: the locaton in town, a building already being used in for a special use, a home-like setting and a building that already met the stringent regulations for fire, safety and health codes and exactly the right size for my ultimate goal for the growth of the Charlevoix Montessori Children's House, made this the perfect and, in fact, only suitable choice for my expansion plans to a permanent home in the community."

Gibbons said it was "clearly understood (when the building was constructed) that should the Bergmann group...vacate the premises the property would be sold as a family unit residence. For the Planning Commission to recommend a permit for this use would break the faith with the neighbors who relied on this representation and these understandings.

Registration for swim classes Thursday

Sign up for the annual summer swimming program offered by the Charlevoix Recreation Department will be held Thursday, June 26, at the recreation department office in City Hall according to Dwight Boss, city recreation director.

The office will be open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. to accept registrations.

Children three years old through all age groups are to sign up for lessons which will be given at the Ferry Avenue beach Monday through Thursday beginning July 7. It is important that all those planning to take lessons register on June 26 so students may be assigned to classes.

Chris Davenport and either Bob Warner or Louise Caldwell will be teaching swimming at the Ferry Avenue beach.

Lifeguards will man the beaches daily from 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. beginning Saturday, June 21.

Lifeguards are on the Depot and Ferry Avenue beaches on Lake Charlevoix and the Grant Street beach on Lake Michigan from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily.

Boss said that lifeguards will be Debbie Tollas, Mike Streeter, Julie Rogers and Kathy Martin.

As in the past, there will be a fee for lessons including a family rate.

Weathervane listed in travel guide

The Weathervane Terrace Hotel has been listed in the 1980 edition of the Mobile Travel Guide, according to Kjell Johansson, manager.

Over 20,000 restaurants, hotels, motels and resorts are listed and rated on a one-to-five star basis in the seven volume guide, which has been compared by travel experts to the famed Guide-Michelin.

To be listed in the Mobile Travel Guide, the establishment must be personally inspected by an impartial, trained inspector, who is employed by the completely independent organization. The inspector's findings are reported to an editorial board of the organization, which has instituted a set of standards for listings and ratings.

Each of the seven regional editions provides information on local history, sightseeing, amusements, sports, and recreation facilities, in addition to the star-rated food and lodging listings. Also included are regional road atlases and detailed maps of major cities, special auto-tour routes, and helpful advice to travelers.

The 1980 Mobile Travel Guide books are available at Mobil service stations, bookstores, magazine outlets, and other places where books and magazines are sold.

Selling Your House by Gene Steele

SELL HOME YOURSELF?

I'm sure you've heard it said: "Why should I sell my home through a REALTOR? I can sell it myself and save a lot of money." Right? ... Wrong!

This kind of thinking usually turns out to be financially unwise. The prospects will usually start by mentally deducting the commission and then start negotiating from there. On the average, a homeowner saves NO money when he sells his own home. In fact, the opposite is true. Studies over a ten year period show that the net proceeds from owner-sold property are LESS than the REALTOR-sold piece of real estate, even after the payment of commission.

As a private seller you're at a great disadvantage in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-it-yourself pitfalls. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to list with a REALTOR. He'll sell it for you - without hitches - for the best price and in the shortest amount of time.

Road Commission presents report

The Charlevoix County Road Commission is big business!

The commission's annual report as presented recently to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners indicates that it received $1,585,987 and spent $1,473,135 operating during 1979.

The bulk of the receipts, $1,066,849, came from State Motor Vehicle Highway Funds. These funds are derived from state sales taxes on motor fuel and from the sale of state license plates. The remainder of the receipts came from township, county, and federal sources, as well as from the Medusa Cement Company. Medusa paid the road commission $237,443 to build the road from US-31 into the Medusa plant south of Charlevoix.

Road maintenance accounted for $1,102,868 of operating expenses. This included general maintenance, winter maintenance, and traffic controls on primary, local, and trunkline roads. There are 179 miles of primary roads in the county, and 543 miles of local roads, in addition to the federal and state trunklines.

The next largest portion of operating expenses was charged to road construction. The report indicates that during 1979 the road commission spent $73,322 on local road construction and $268,767 on primary road construction for a total construction cost of $342,089.

It cost $96,883 to administer the Charlevoix County Road Commission in 1979. This includes $3,600 in salaries for the three-man appointed commission, $3,815 in per diem for members of the commission, $45,497 in salaries for the three-person administrative staff, $6,222 in legal expenses, $2,860 for advertising, $1,934 in traveling expenses, and $3,575 for the engineer's car, among other office and administrative personnel expenses.

The Charlevoix County Road Commission employs a total of 39 people, including 33 road maintenance and construction workers, three foremen, and three administrative department workers. Most of the employees belong to the union.

Fringe benefits ("Distributive Expenses") account for $180,226 of operating expenses, and factor out to 43.715 percent of the net payroll. They were $39,258 or 10.136 percent, for vacation, holiday, and sick leaves; $49,377, or 11.066 percent for compensation insurance; $45,143 or 10.198 percent for retirement and social security; $46,447, or 10.848 percent, for hospital, health, accident, and life insurance; and $7,001, or 1.597 percent, for unemployment insurance.

The road commission also operates the Ironton Ferry for the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. In 1979, the ferry took in $35,499 in fares carrying 37,987 cars, and spent $43,943 for operating expenses, for a net loss of $8,445. In 1978, the ferry lost approximately $14,000.

Present members of the road commission are Robert L. Stowe of Charlevoix, Donald H. Graham of East Jordan, and John Kujawski of Boyne City. They were appointed by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners for six-year terms. Fred Welch serves as engineer-manager. He was hired by the commission and serves at their pleasure. Carol J. Hulett is the clerk.

Summer programs offered

The Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix will offer a "super summer Wednesday" program for children and adult women this summer.

The programs – which will run from 9:30-11:30 a.m. – will start on July 2 and conclude on August 20.

The children's program directed by Sara Price will be divided into four components, crafts, recreation, Bible study, and music. Each section of the program is taught by a separate instructor – one either with natural gifts or training to work in that particular area. Crafts for the children's program (K-6) will be taught by Lou Broak, Sherri Martin, and Fay Rostar; recreation will be led by Nancy DeHollandar and Craig Boss; Bible study and story hour leaders will be JoAnn Deckinga, Betty Potter, Millie Miller, Marilyn Izor, and JoAnn Jones. Jeanne Brewster and Pastor Larry Grooters will direct and produce the musical "100% Chance of Rain" at the end of the summer.

This year in addition to the children's program there is a complete junior high program for young people entering grades 7-9. This program will begin at 9:30 also and will include backpacking, biking, hiking, learning how to play the guitar, playing volleyball and much much more. Leading the junior high program will be Chuck and Tracey VanDommelen. Chuck has been on the staff of Young Life in Utah, in California, and in Michigan for the last seven years. Young Life is an international, nondenominational organization working with Christian and non Christian young adults in high schools, and in colleges. Next year Chuck will be a senior at Western Theological Seminary, in Holland. Tracey, a recreation therapy major, at Hope College, has worked with various youth groups and with Young Life Organizations for the last four years.

The adult program is split into two components: From 9:30-10:30 adult women may choose between taking a physical fitness class led by Carolyn Klooster or a stained glass crafts class led by Linda Brown. There will be a charge for materials in the crafts class and the class will be closed at an enrollment of 20. From 10:30-11:30 a spiritual fitness class will be offered led by Mickey Grooters and this year's topic will be The Spiritual Journey - From Division to Wholeness. Women may choose to attend both hours or to attend only one class and then leave. The program which is without charge is open to all people in the community and is set up in such a way that community visitors can come and attend only one or two weeks, and residents can attend several weeks, perhaps go away on vacation and return.

Larry Grooters, pastor of Community Reformed, stated that "super summer Wednesday" is intended by the church as a service to the people in the community, to mothers who may want a morning a week in the summer for themselves, to children who might want and benefit from a program of activities one day a week in the midst of a lot of free time, to junior highers who might want to have some organized activities, to adults who might want some enrichment opportunities this summer. The church is located north of Charlevoix on U.S. 31. If you have any questions call 547-2500 or 547-0462 or 547-6887.

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club has once again had a tree planted at the Charlevoix High School as part of its beautification program. The sugar maple was planted Friday by Site Planning along the May Street side of the school. On hand for the planting were Ron Paul, Lillian Swinton, Vane Smith, Dave Smith and J.C. Bascom.

Peggy Hosmer represents Charlevoix in pageant

Peggy Hosmer will represent Charlevoix in the 1980 National Cherry Queen Pageant and Coronation Saturday at the Traverse City High School auditorium.

The pageant will start at 8 p.m.

This year's festival will feature 17 girls in competition for the title of National Cherry Queen.

The contestants will spend Friday and Saturday interviewing with the judges, touring the cherry orchards and area attractions as well as in rehearsals for the pageant.

A change in format for this year is that a contestant for the pageant does not have to hold a title from another festival in order to compete.

Peggy is the 1979 Miss Charlevoix (Venetian Queen). She is 5'6½" tall and has ash blond hair. Peggy is a sophomore at Michigan State University.

She will be competing against: Gina Smolinski, Alpena; Cheryl Nephew, Gaylord; Sally Tillman, Houghton Lake; Beth Proefrock, Reed City; Alice Nielsen, Ludington; Michelle Dancu, St. Helen; Lori Laufersky, Bellaire; Susan Smith, Allegan; Karen Maher, Scottville; Ann Wright, Gladwin; Theresa Sanchez, Beulah; Mitzi Kaule, Kingsley; Beth Barnett, Holly; Patty Bromley, New Era; Pauline Erickson, Traverse City; and Toni Trudgeon, Grayling.

Tickets are available at the National Cherry Festival office, 108 W. Front Street or at the door the night of the coronation. All seats are reserved.

Works on data book

Way finds NASA 'exciting'

"It's exciting, it's complex and, at times, it's unbelievable" Mike Way, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Way, said of his experiences at NASA (National Aeronautical and Space Administration), where he is a student in a program sponsored by the University of Houston and McDonald-Douglas Aircraft. In the program, a student was in school for one semester and at McDonald-Douglas the second semester.

When he joined the co-op program, he had no idea that he would be sent to NASA. Until that time, no one in the co-op program had been sent to work there and he was among the first to do so.

"Just receiving clearance and being allowed in the building other than on a tour was wonderful, but to have an opportunity to meet all the great people in the program and to work there was something I'd never dreamed of. I couldn't believe it" Way said of his experience.

As a co-op student for the aircraft company, it was his job to work on the writing of the space lab operational data book which, when completed, will be in three huge volumes for use by controllers and operators.

The space lab will be a part of the next manned space ship program, the Space Shuttle Orbitor, which originally was scheduled for flight this year but which is already two years behind schedule he said.

Way said the delay, as he understood it, was due to the testing of the engines and with covering the vehicle with tiles essential to protect it from friction heat upon its re-entry into the earth's atmosphere. He said when he was there, the problem of the tiles had not yet been solved.

The Space Shuttle Orbitor, as he explained it, is to be rocketed into space and, when it reaches a certain distance into space, an additional system known as SSUS (Spiraling Solid Upper Stage) will send the shuttle farther out into space just outside the earth's atmosphere where it will begin to orbit the earth. The rockets used in the SSUS system will then be jettisoned back to earth.

Snuggled in the back of the Space Shuttle Orbitor will be the Space laboratory large enough to carry seven people in addition to the two astronauts. The most sophisticated of equipment will be found in the laboratory where scientists of every description will do their work. Until now, no scientists have gone into space.

Until now, the vehicles carrying the astronauts into space have been lost upon re-entry into the atmosphere. The shuttle, however, is being designed to withstand the friction heat by use of the tiles and landing for use on other flights. On the drawing board, it should be able to make up to 100 flights those working on the program say in justifying the cost, Way said.

He said experiments conducted last summer at Edwards Air Force Base in California where the shuttle was "piggy-backed" aloft atop a large plane and brought back to earth rather like a glider was in preparation for the space shuttle program.

He said scientists of many countries are working on the program. As each phase of the sky lab section was developed in the job of those with whom he was working to document the information for future use.

While there he met the two astronauts who are to man the first space shuttle, John W. Young and Robert L. Crippen, as well as other astronauts who are a part of the project.

"Just meeting these people and having the small role I had in the project made me feel as though I was a part of something that will become history. It is thrilling and it is sobering" he said of the experience at NASA.

Will he continue in the field of engineering and will his experience at NASA influence his future course of study? "I'm not sure" was his answer. "However, I know the experience has given me a great deal to think about. It also gives you a chance to decide if this is what you really want". When he was here Way had not yet made that decision before returning to Houston.

Way had completed a year and a half in engineering at Michigan State University, when he went to Texas to visit an uncle, liked it there and decided to enroll at the University of Houston. "Being sent to NASA when I became a part of the co-op program that the university had with McDonald-Douglas was pure chance. Even if I don't continue in it, I wouldn't have missed it for the world" was his comment about it. The enthusiasm with which he discusses the experience verifies that.

For the record....

Northern Michigan Congressman Bob Davis has one of the top voting percentages in the House of Representatives, according to figures just released by the clerk's office.

After 300 votes in the second session of the 96th Congress, Davis has an overall 94.3 percent rate. On recorded votes, which involve the most important pieces of legislation, he has a 98.7 percent rates.

How to interpret your city summer tax bill

In recent weeks we have been discussing assessments and state equalized values, what they mean and what the law provides. Remember we stated that your property taxes were computed on the state equalized value of your property and that the state equalized value is required to represent 50 percent of true cash value. It has taken since Dec. 31, through proper procedures, to arrive at the final state equalized value of your property. The state equalized valuation was finalized May 27 at the state level. Once the state equalized value has been determined then property taxes can be levied. At least that is the way it used to work, now the millage reduction fraction also has to be certified to, before the mill rate can be authorized and taxes levied

We explained how the City of Charlevoix could authorize up to 14.2005 mills for operational, out of the 15 mills authorized by charger. for 1980. The city council resolved to levy 10.5 mills for operational. This is .5 (½ mill) less than 1979. The state equalized value of the city for 1980 is 43,459,700. This generates $456,327 for the operating budget in the city

Last year 1979, the city levied 11.00 mills for operational and generated $427,050 in tax dollars. This is an increase of $29,277 or 6.89% over last year. It would appear the city council deserves a round of applause in a year of double digit inflation and the official consumer price index ratio being 1.113 The city council has seen fit to try and keep taxes down

The sewer bond debt retirement was approved by the city council to be authorized at 1.5 mills which is .5 (½ mill) less than 1979. Tax dollars generated for 1980 will be $65,190 compared to 2.00 mills levied in 1979 to raise $77,645. The city is authorizing the dollars to meet your bond obligations. This is a reduction of $12,455 from 1979

To recap this for a total look-in 1979 the city levied 13 mills generating $540,695 and in 1980 the city has authorized 12 mills generating $521,517 which shows a total increase in tax [redacted].

Now we have been rejoicing over the city's tax efforts, but remember what we talked about earlier, depending on what constitutes the city's other revenue and what effect cutting revenue sharing or other shifts of taxation could have on the city finances. Keep those thoughts in mind when you read tax cutting proposals [redacted] ..

The 1980 City of Charlevoix summer tax bill will soon be arriving at the various mail boxes in the city. The tax statement shows your 1980 assessed value an also your 1980 state equalized value. This year the assessed value and the state equalized value are the same. The city assessor increased the assessed values to represent 50 percent of true cash value as required, and after county equalization and state equalization the city's total assessed value was accepted and became the state equalized value. Therefore the assessments are not multiplied higher by an equalization multiplier as they [redacted].

The tax statement lists the general operational millage which is 10.5000 and right under this mill rate, the tax dollar is listed. The second column shows the [redacted] the taxes for the sewer fund is listed under the mill rate. Over in the far column on the right, where the total shows, is your total tax due. The statement also prints out the total of the [redacted].

If you are surprised that your tax bill [redacted] will note that the city is not collecting any school taxes on the summer collection, but do not despair, as the [redacted].

Also, on the tax statement you will note, that the city is not collecting the 1 percent collection fee this year Originally, especially in townships, the collection fee was the treasurer's salary. In fact, there was a few treasurer's in Charlevoix County that was paid that way, until a very few years ago. The collection fee kept increasing as taxes went up and the [redacted] other officials, so the township board [redacted]

The unit of government has always had the authority to waive all or part of the collection fee as long as the treasurer received a salary. The law also states the collection fee will be credited to the contingent fund of the city or township. It has been the feelings of the units of government, that the collection fee helped to defray the cost of tax billing. However, it is a revenue and the budget does have to show it as anticipated revenue.

It might behoove you to take note of the fact that the penalty is 1 percent per month for unpaid taxes after Sept. 1.

Gerald Staublin of the Medusa Cement Company presents a check to the Charlevoix Band Boosters to help buy new band uniforms. Dave Fowler, activities chairman, receives the check while Dr. Merle Plagge, president, Mike Filkins, director of bands, and Dale Boss, Charlevoix County Michigan Week chairman, observe. "The Band Boosters are grateful to the Medusa Cement Company for their generosity in bringing the Medusa Challenger to Charlevoix," Dr. Plagge said. "Not only have we been able to pay completely for the band uniforms but it provided a wonderful focal point for a great, fun weekend that will be talked about for many more Memorial Days to come."

Why be jubilant about bailout?

Bob Clock

I am sorry I was unable to join in the general jubilation in the auto industry and the federal government Friday when word rippled out across the nation from Rockford, Ill., that the American National Bank and Trust Co. had knuckled under to an avalanche of pressure from Big Business, Big Labor, Big Government and Big Depositors and would no longer stand in the way of the federally sponsored $1.5 billion Chrysler Bailout Program.

Chrysler, Corp., you see, already is in [redacted] to know when and if they are going to be repaid before agreeing to additional indebtedness by the foundering auto [redacted]

But the pressure to climb aboard the Chrysler Bailout bandwagon, was "enormous," according to American National President David Knapp. The arm-twisting included telephone calls from Chrysler suppliers; from politicians at all levels and personal visitors from Detroit bankers and Chrysler executives.

Furthermore, thousands of United Auto Workers members in Rockford and nearby Belvidere - home of Chrysler plant, threatened to withdraw their money from American National.

The bank even received a bomb [redacted].

But it was probably the telephone call from Treasury Secretary G. William Miller to Knapp that turned the trick. Miller reportedly told Knapp that survival of Chrysler Corp. was in the [redacted]

Knapp and his board of directors had had enough - and another sorry chapter in the history of American business was [redacted].

From this corner it appears that Knapp and his board had reached a sound business decision, based on Chrysler's recent financial performance and the prospect of the company ever getting back on its feet in [redacted].

The company itself admits the immediate future is bleak, with projected losses for 1980 growing more ominous every month. However, it hopes that is much-touted K-Car, due to [redacted].

But the K-Car is still tooling around Fantasy Land, insofar as the board of [redacted]. All the board has to go on is the bottom line on Chrysler's recent financial statements and the prognosis for the [redacted].

Board members made their decision based on cold, hard facts - but the Big Brothers of American business and government wouldn't let them stick to it. Their capitulation now puts them in a compromising position with all the bank's other borrowers. "If you did it for Chrysler, why can't you do it for us?"

The whole Chrysler Bailout gives me a strange feeling, because, in a way, it is a repudiation of the entire free enterprise system. In the old days, if a company couldn't make it financially, it went under. Heartless, perhaps, but it kept both management and labor on its toes. Either the company turned a profit, or there soon would be no [redacted].

However, the Chrysler Bailout scheme was spawned on fertile ground. For the past generation, smaller companies which found themselves in financial trouble could always turn to the Small Business Administration which was waiting with an open checkbook. It is significant that in order to qualify for an SBA loan, the borrower must be turned down by three bonafide [redacted]. In other words, the feds will jump in with money only when the loan is extremely risky, which certainly is true of the Chrysler refinancing scheme.

But it's still a helluva way to run a [redacted].

In one sense, the Chrysler Bailout is just another SBA loan - only on a grander scale. If Chrysler doesn't make it, the federal government will cover the loans with the abundance of tax dollars it has at its disposal.

Whether or not to drive a Chrysler, you might end up paying for one.

Don't get me wrong. The collapse of Chrysler Corp. would be a national tragedy. But the Big Brotherism inherent in the Chrysler Bailout and the [redacted] National fall in line is nothing less than a national calamity, since it strikes the very heart of our economic system.

Cemetery needs sprucing up

When I grew up in Charlevoix and years before that, Brookside Cemetery was not only the pride of the town but people from all over used to talk about its beauty. Well for the past 4 years now it sure has not been kept up the way it used to be and this year I think was really bad. I have been upset the past few years because where my folks are buried all the grass died off and it is just plain dirty sand. I put grass seed out sometime back but it didn't take I guess because I just can't get over there that often to take care of it, but I thought that when you had a lot in Brookside that it was perpetual care and that I should not have to worry about it, that who ever gets paid to work out there would see to it that new grass was started if the other died. I called out there a couple of times, even called the city manager, last year and this year but nothing ever came of it. This year it really made me mad. The whole cemetery looked bad. It looked like the only place they fixed up was where the important people were going to speak for Memorial Day, but to me the important people are the ones who are buried out there. I would like to know why it is not being kept up. Maybe people just don't care any more but I care very much and would like to know what I can do to have my folks grave look nice other than move them to a [redacted].

Q. What else are you all doing this summer?
A. Well, Jeff and Dean are taking driver's training.
Q. Don't you do anything just for fun?
A. Oh, yea, we come downtown and eat pizza
Q. When do you think you'll be ready for playing engagements?
A. Probably pretty soon, maybe even now. We'll take any kind of job we can get
Q. How much will you charge for playing at a party?
A. We'll probably charge by the hour. We haven't thought about it much
Q. Are you going out to Castle Farms to hear some of the entertainment there?
A. Probably, if there's someone we like
Q. How long have you known each other?
A. Mike and Mark have gone all through school together. Jeff and Dean moved here about five years ago.
Q. What school activities do you participate in, besides band?
A. We play football, basketball, baseball, golf.
Q. Do you think you'll have a musical group when you grow up?
A. We hope to stay together

EQUAL PROTECTION FOR ALL

1. I believe a change in the present law enforcement is inevitable, there is no room for the type of law enforcement we have today.

2. First make no mistake, I believe in honest and impartial law, as the record will show I have worked for over three years for equal protection of the law for all citizens and I need your support.

3. I will work with all citizens to earn their respect and in turn regain the dignity and honor of the Dept.

4. I will propose a program that will request young citizens to accompany certified police officers on patrol and in some cases make it mandatory for young violators.
The results would be efficient potential police officers and adequate emergency unit.

5. I will extend an open invitation to all citizens for suggestions for the Dept. and complaints against the Dept. and together arrive at a fair conclusion.

6. I will not knowingly allow any one in the Dept. to harass, threaten, intimidate or use his authority for any [redacted]

Morin - Coleman

Jeannie M. Morin and Stewart E. Coleman were married Saturday, June 14 at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey.

Fr. Nicholas Meyer officiated at the ceremony before 250 wedding guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Allen Lordson of Petoskey and the late Bill Morin. Mrs. Stewart (Marjorie) Coleman of Charlevoix, is the mother of the groom.

Professor August Huybrechts, organist, presented a program of traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Patty [illegible].

Given in marriage by her step-father, the bride wore an empire waisted sleeveless gown with a Queen Anne neckline trimmed with venise lace. Her fingertip veil of illusion was edged with matching lace and attached to a Juliet cap. She carried a colonial style bouquet of daisies, white roses, stephanotis and tropicana roses.

Laurie Morin attended her sister as maid of honor and Dawn Cindrich of East Lansing, was bridesmaid. The attendants wore apricot colored gowns with empire ewaists and blouson tops. They carried bouquets of daisies, cushion mums, zinnia and [illegible].

The groom's brother, Charles Coleman, was best man and groomsman was Dan McKenzie. Ushers were Bill Morin and Todd Lordson, brothers of the bride.

A reception followed at Nub's Nob, given by the parents of the bride. Mary Morin, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake and Tuesday Lordson, sister of the bride, attended the guest book.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Canada and will make their home in Interlochen after June 21. The bride attends Michigan State University and the groom, who is a graduate of Alma College, as a sales representative for Scott Paper Co.

The groom's mother hosted a rehearsal dinner at Vic's of Petoskey on Friday vening. (Photography by Arthur Hilton)

Rothenberger - Drost

Danya Lyn Rothenberger and Chris Allen Drost exchanged their wedding vows at a double ring service solemnized at the Assembly of God Church Saturday, June 14.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Rothenberger and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Drost, Both families are from Charlevoix.

Arrangements of white daisies tipped in melon and baby's breath and lighted candelabra decorated with Branches of English hawthorn from a tree in the yard of the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. Clarence Heise, interwoven with white carnations formed a setting for the service at which the Rev. Fred Spring officiated in the presence of 300 guests.

Mrs. Duane Thomas of East Jordan, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding march and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Robert Klooster, who sang "If", "Longer" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride chose a period gown of peau d'ange and lace for her wedding. Fashioned with a fitted bodice, the gown featured a Seymour neckline, peer sleeves and a flowing skirt that ended in a graceful train. A band of the matching lace secured her fingertip veil. She carried a white Bible her mother had carried at her wedding topped with an arrangement of white daisies, carnations and baby's breath.

Aimee Elzinga assisted the bride as maid of honor and Leslie Fruin of Richmond, Kim King and Beth Carey were bridesmaids. They wore identical gowns of melon polyester and chiffon styled with chiffon cape collars. They carried small hurricane lamps set in arrangements of tinted daisies and baby's breath.

Mark Byard served the bridegroom as best man. Jerry Keie, Robert Drost and Gene Drost, brothers of the bridegroom, were groomsmen. Carl Rothenberger, brother of the bride, and Deano Drost, brother of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

Mrs. Rothenberger selected a yellow mogic knit gown styled with a crocheted top for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Drost, mother of the bridegroom, wore a light blue chiffon gown fashioned with an empire waist.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed at the American Legion post home. Teresa Bearss served the wedding cake which she had made. Heather Drost was in charge of the punch bowl. Cathy Spence tended the guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent Gray were master and mistress of ceremonies.

In attendance at the wedding were four generations of the bride's family including her mother, grandmother, Mrs. Dan W. Genest and great-grandmother, Mrs. Clarence Heise.

After a wedding trip to Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee, the couple will be at home at 1001 May Street after June 23.

The bride is a student of North Central Michigan College. Mr. Drost is employed at Charlevoix Machine Products.

Revoir - Doutre

Rhonda S. Revoir became the bride of Donald J. Doutre, Jr. on Saturday afternoon, June 14, in the Horton Bay United Methodist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin H. Revoir of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Doutre, Sr. of Atlas.

The Rev. Glen Fitzpatrick, uncle of the bride, performed the double-ring ceremony before the altar decorated with white gladiolus, white carnations, white Fugi poms, and baby's breath. The service also included the lighting of Unity Candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of polyester organza fashioned with a high neckline, cameo yoke, long tapered sleeves trimmed in Venice lace, a lace-edged A-line skirt, and attached Chapel train. Her Juliet cap and fingertip veil were also trimmed in Venice lace, and she carried a colonial bouquet of white sweetheart roses, white miniature carnations, and baby's breath.

[illegible] Revoir served her sister as maid of honor, and two other sisters, Gail and Beth, served as bridesmaids. They wore voile gowns of baby blue and orchid print and carried colonial bouquets of white miniature carnations, blue Fugi poms, purple statice, yellow sweetheart roses, and baby's breath. Their headpieces matched the bouquets.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Revoir wore a long gown of seafoam green polyester with a lace overlay. Mrs. Doutre, Sr. wore a polyester gown of off-white with a pink floral top.

A catered buffet reception at the Revoir home followed the ceremony. The rehearsal dinner, the evening before the wedding, was also held there.

Following a wedding trip to the eastern part of Canada and the United States, the newlyweds will be at home in Atlas.

Keie - Boss

Sally Ann Keie and Kenneth Scott Boss exchanged wedding vows Saturday, June 14 at the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

Pastor Walter Hastings performed the double ring ceremony before 50 wedding guests.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Keie and Mr and Mrs. Kenneth J. Boss. Both families reside in Charlevoix.

Wedding music was offered by the organist Mary Lyn Cummings, who accompanied the vocalist, Susie Boss.

Given in marriage by her parents, the bride wore a full length cream colored gown of Qiana with sheer sleeves, empire waist, and a V-neckline. With her ensemble she wore a wide brimmed picture hat to match and carried cream colored sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

Mrs. Kathy Meggison served as matron of honor and bridesmaids were Mrs. Linda Mack, Brenda Boss and Terri Stapleton. They wore matching powder blue full length gowns with hats to match and carried bouquets of light blue and cream colored daisies with baby's breath.

Cindy Boss, flower girl, wore a floral gown and carried two red roses that the bride and groom gave to the mothers of the couple during the ceremony.

Gordon Russell served the groom as best man and groomsmen were Danny Boss, Bud Klooster and Mat Doan. Ushers were Mark White and Bryan Williams.

Foster homes sought

The Michigan Foster Parent Association recruitment project will host an information and recruitment meeting on Wednesday, July 23, in the meeting room at the Consolidated Gas Company, 1294 N. U.S. 31 Highway, in Petoskey. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. and is of "great importance" to all concerned residents of Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

As a result of a statewide needs survey which indicated a critical shortage of foster families available to meet the current foster care needs of these two communities, recruitment project staff will be actively seeking families who are willing to share their homes and lives with children who are in needs of temporary families.

DIAMOND: THE WHERE AND WHEN OF IT

Diamonds were formed millions of years ago, under intense heat and pressure deep within the earth. But it was not until about 2500 years ago that they were first discovered.

The initial discovery of diamonds took place along the banks of rivers in India where, through erosion and other weather conditions, the diamond crystals tore loose from their host rock and were washed away into streams and rivers. Although some diamonds are still lodged in their place of formation, most are found buried in river beds and along river banks.

Diamonds were first found in Brazil in the 18th century. The supply at that time was substantial but today South America supplies little more than 1% of the world's production.

The first diamond in South Africa was stumbled upon in 1866. Since that time the African continent has developed into the world's major diamond producing nation.

A more recent diamond producing country is Russia. It is estimated that Russia produces 20% of the diamonds currently coming onto the market.

A brand new source of diamonds is Australia, however, the [illegible] on the market is not yet known.

Diamonds are not a renewable source. When your diamond was mined, it left a gap in the earth's make up that will never be filled. Yours is a truly unique stone.

Watch for my next article in which I discuss how diamonds are mined and processed.

AMENDMENT TO MARION TOWNSHIP
OUTDOOR GATHERING
ORDINANCE NUMBER 4, AS AMENDED,
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN
THE TOWNSHIP OF MARION,
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN

THE TOWNSHIP OF MARION ORDAINS:

An ordinance to amend the outdoor gathering ordinance Number 4, as amended, of the Township of Marion, and to create a revised application and license procedure for an applicant who proposes to conduct more than one (1) outdoor assembly during the calendar year 1980.

SECTION 4E: Application for license by applicant who proposes to conduct more than one (1) outdoor assembly during the calendar year 1980.

Notwithstanding anything within this Ordinance to the contrary, where a prospective applicant for a license to conduct an outdoor assembly proposes to conduct more than one (1) outdoor assembly during the calendar year 1980, such applicant may:

1. Submit one annual application to the Township Supervisor prior to the date of the first proposed assembly of the calendar year. The annual application shall contain all information required of the prospective applicant by Sections 4, 5 and 10 of this Ordinance and shall be made in writing on such forms and in such manner as prescribed by the Marion Township Board.

2. After approval of the annual application by the Township Board, the prospective applicant must submit a supplemental application at least 10 days prior to the date of the proposed assembly. The supplemental application shall contain any information required by Sections 4, 5 and 10 of this Ordinance which would differ from information contained in the annual application. Such supplemental application shall be accompanied by a non-refundable fee of Two Hundred and no/100 ($200.00) Dollars per supplemental application.

SECTION 17: Effective Date: This Ordinance shall be effective immediately after publication.

I, Tracy Curtis, Clerk of Marion Township, hereby certify that this Ordinance, as amended, was adopted by the Marion Township Board at a Regular Meeting held June 17, 1980.

Charlevoix Council Minutes

8:00 P.M. [illegible]

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Deputy Mayor Wood presiding.

Councilmen present: Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff and Wood. Absent: Mayor Supernaw.

Moved by Councilman Porter and supported by Councilman Timms that the Minutes of the June 2, 1980, regular meeting be approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned to the Board of Appeals.

Following the Board of Appeals Meeting, roll call of the Council was again taken with all members being present.

A Public Hearing was held on the proposed R2-A Ordinance. The City Clerk read the Ordinance for the benefit of the General Public present.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Muma that the following Amendment to the City Zoning Ordinance be adopted.

Ordinance No. 380

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY ADDING NEW SECTIONS, WHICH NEW SECTIONS SHALL BE DESIGNATED AS SECTIONS 5.46, 5.47, 5.48, 5.49 and 5.50 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

R-2A Two Family Residential

5.46 Purpose: The purpose of this district is to accommodate the need for the construction of new two-family residences, where slightly greater densities are permitted. This district also recognizes the existence of older residential areas of the city, where larger homes have been, or can be, converted from single-family to two-family residences in order to extend the economic life of these structures and allow the owners to justify the expenditures for repairs and modernization. Conversion shall be made in so far as practicable without altering the external appearance of said structure.

5.47 Use Regulation - Land and/or buildings in "R-2A" may be used for any use permitted in the "R-1" Zone District. All provisions of the "R-1" Zone District shall apply, except as herein provided.

5.48 Area Regulations - No building or structure nor the enlargement of a building or structure shall be permitted unless the following lot areas, building coverage, and yards are provided and maintained in connection with such buildings, structures, or the enlargements thereof.

1. The minimum lot area for use in this zone shall be nine thousand (9000) square feet and shall have a minimum width of ninety (90) feet at the building line for new construction and seventy-five (75) feet at the building line for conversion of large homes. The building and/or structure shall not use more than thirty-five (35%) of the usable lot area.

2. Front Yard: There shall not be less than a twenty-five (25) foot yard in this zone district.

3. Side Yard: There shall be a side yard of not less than ten (10) feet on each side of any dwelling, except the street side of any corner lot, which must abide by the regulations of this zone district for front yard area.

4. Rear Yard: There shall not be less than a thirty-five (35) foot rear yard.

5.49 Floor Area - Each single family unit shall have a minimum of eight hundred (800) square feet, exclusive of porches, garages and basements for a one (1) story building and one thousand, two hundred (1,200) square feet for structures with more than one (1) story, exclusive of porches, garages and basements.

5.50 Height Regulations - No building shall exceed thirty-five (35) feet or two and one-half (2½) stories in height, whichever is less.

Ordinance was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Timms and supported by Councilman Porter to accept and file the City Planning Commission Minutes dated June [illegible], 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

A written request from [illegible], [illegible] High School Principal, to ban parking on those portions of May and Garfield Streets adjacent to the school from [illegible] A.M. to 4:00 P.M. was referred to the [illegible] for further study and recommendation.

The City Manager reported that the State Boundary Commission [illegible] A.M. in Lansing to rule on the sufficiency of petitions asking for the consolidation of Charlevoix Township and the City of Charlevoix. The Manager further stated he would be in the area at the time and will attend the meeting.

Council discussed a Public Notice from the Corps of Engineers regarding the rehabilitation of the North pier at Charlevoix Harbor. No objections to the proposed project were voiced.

Council postponed any action on a Resolution regarding the transfer of the liquor license at the Weathervane Inn pending a report from the Chief of Police and official notification of the proposed transfer from the State Liquor Commission.

Bill Schroderus and Rocky Freed of the auditing firm of Hill, Woodcock, and Distel presented their report on the City's 1979-80 audit and discussed the audit and their recommendations with Council.

Moved by Councilman Muma and supported by Councilman Timms to increase the City Manager's salary from $24,000.00 to $27,000.00, effective July 1, 1980.

Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote.

Yeas: Councilmen Muma, Whitley, Porter, Timms, Roloff, and Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Moved by Councilman Whitley and supported by Councilman Muma that the fees at the City tennis courts be raised to $2.00 per hour, effective immediately.

CHARLEVOIX CHURCH DIRECTORY

IF YOU'VE NEVER FAILED, THEN YOU'VE NEVER TRIED

One of the major stumbling blocks on our road to progress is the fear of failure. Too often we are held back from trying something new because we dread the thought of an embarrassing mistake on our record. Yet we should remember that the greatest inventions were achieved only after repeated failures and bitter disappointments because someone wasn't afraid to take that first bold step. Naturally we are not all destined for this kind of greatness, but we do have the ability to enrich our own lives with writing, painting, crafts, etc. which can often provide us with a new career as well as an enjoyable hobby. In your House of Worship you will receive the inspiration and encouragement to walk down some untrodden path and let your fear give way to what could be the most rewarding experience of your life.

Official Notice

PUBLIC NOTICE

The following Ordinance was unanimously adopted by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix at their regular meeting on June 16, 1980.

ORDINANCE NO. 380

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY ADDING NEW SECTIONS, WHICH NEW SECTIONS SHALL BE DESIGNATED AS SECTIONS 5.46, 5.47, 5.48, 5.49 AND 5.50 OF CHAPTER 51 OF TITLE V OF SAID CODE.

"R-2A" Two Family Residential

5.46 Purpose - The purpose of this district is to accommodate the need for the construction of new two-family residences, where slightly greater densities are permitted. This district also recognizes the existence of older residential areas of the City, where larger homes have been, or can be, converted from single-family to two-family residences in order to extend the economic life of these structures and allow the owners to justify the expenditures for repairs and modernization. Conversion shall be made in so far as practicable without altering the external appearance of said structure.

5.47 Use Regulation - Land and/or buildings in "R-2A" may be used for any use permitted in the "R-1" Zone District. All provisions of the "R-1" Zone District shall apply, except as herein provided.

5.48 Area Regulations - No building or structure, nor the enlargement of a building or structure shall be permitted unless the following lot areas, building coverage, and yards are provided and maintained in connection with such buildings, structures, or the enlargements thereof.

1) The minimum lot area for use in this zone shall be nine thousand (9000) square feet and shall have a minimum width of ninty (90) feet at the building line for new construction and seventy-five (75) feet at the building line for conversion of large homes. The building and/or structure shall not use more than thirty-five (35%) of the usable lot area.
2) Front Yard: There shall not be less than twenty-five (25) foot yard in this zone district.
3) Side Yard: There shall be a side yard of not less than ten (10) feet on each side of any dwelling, except the street side of any corner lot, which must abide by the regulations of this zone district for front yard area.
4) Rear Yard: There shall not be less than thirty-five (35) foot rear yard.

5.49 Floor Area: Each single family unit shall have a minimum of eight hundred (800) square feet, exclusive of porches, garages and basements for a one (1) story building and one thousand, two hundred (1,200) square feet for structures with more than one (1) story, exclusive of porches, garages and basements.

5.50 Height Regulations: No building shall exceed thirty-five (35) feet or two and one-half (2½) stories in height, which ever is less.

Dining and Entertainment SPOTLIGHT

Buckley at Interlochen

Geoffrey Buckley, the world-renowned British mime artist, will perform in Kresge Auditorium at 8 p.m. July 10, as part of the National Music Camp's Interlochen Arts Festival. General admission tickets, priced at $3, will be available at the door.

Trained as both a dancer and an actor, Buckley studied at the Lecoq Mime Academy and Commedia dell'Arte in Paris, and with Eduardo De Filippo in Italy. In 1974, he represented England in the World Mime Festival in this country. He is the performing director of the Gelosi Troupe, now based in the Midlands Art Center in Birmingham, England. Tutor to several eminent British theatre groups, he has appeared frequently in films and on television.

Buckley's seven year relationship with the National Music Camp has been a long still satisfying one for Interlochen audiences. He has portrayed typical human actions in his unique style of pathos, comedy, drama, and silence – and yearly, his following grows larger. As in past years, Buckley will also be teaching master classes with NMC students in both drama and dance, and several high school-level campers will join him in his Kresge performance.

ANTON MUTZ, who lives out on the Marion Center Road, is happy once again.

The old school bell that has graced his yard for many years is back home. It was returned by the Emmet County Sheriff's Department, which "intercepted" it.

The 250-pound bell, which once called the students of the Marion Center School to study, was taken from Mutz' property and was missing for some time before being located by the law enforcement officers. It is believed to be about 110 years old.

Whoever took the bell must really have wanted it, Mutz points out, because it was imbedded in concrete, which added considerably to its weight.

"We used to use the bell to call the kids and neighbors," Mutz said. "Now we just use it for an ornament."

Emergency plan passes with flying colors

Michigan has become the first state in the northeastern United States and the second in the nation to field test and pass the exercise phase of its Nuclear Emergency Preparedness Plan.

Patrick McCollough, a director of Plans and Preparedness for the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) announced Wednesday that Michigan passed the first full-scale test of its emergency plan with "flying colors."

McCollough, who is also chairman of the Regional Assistance Committee for the Michigan plan, led a 17-member federal inspection team which monitored an exercise in Emmet and Charlevoix counties Tuesday, testing the state's plan through a simulated incident at Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Plant near Charlevoix.

The test – an exercise in which a two-day problem resulting from a loss of primary coolant at the nuclear plant was telescoped into five hours – called for a coordinated effort involving Governor William Milliken's office, the state's Emergency Services Division, the emergency services operations of Emmet and Charlevoix counties and the Consumers Power Company, operator of the plant. The state effort also involved such state agencies as the Department of Public Health and its Radiological Health Division, the Michigan Department of Agriculture, the Department of Natural Resources and State Police.

The federal team included representatives of FEMA, the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Transportation and other federal agencies.

"Michigan proved it can do what the plan indicates should be done in the event of an incident at that or any other plant," McCollough said. "The people we saw demonstrated a real sense of competence, were knowledgeable, well-trained, and had the right answers when we asked them questions.

"They successfully demonstrated that if there were an accident, the people of Michigan would be protected. It was an excellent exercise. Michigan passed with flying colors and can be proud that it is the first state in this region – which includes Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Minnesota and Wisconsin and contains 27 percent of the nation's nuclear power plants – and perhaps the first state in the nation – to pass the exercise phase of its plan," he added.

McCollough was particularly impressed with Earl Muma, Charlevoix County's emergency services coordinator, and John Theisen, Muma's counterpart in Emmet County.

"They provided well-informed leadership," McCollough said. "Their EOC's were very organized and the people there knew what they were doing. I was impressed."

McCollough said security at the EOC's - which was a problem at Three Mile Island - was "excellent at every point."

He added that Charlevoix's telephone system was "good" but that a back-up system should be developed in case telephone lines are damaged and not in use during an accident.

In the test scenario, Big Rock experienced a leak in its primary coolant system. As the leak worsened, a general emergency was declared, causing an evacuation of up to five miles.

"I think it went as well as anybody could have expected," he said. "We had some deficiencies, but I think they were minor ones.

"Overall, I was pleased."

Theisen echoed Muma's feelings.

"I think we did a very good job," he said. "Everybody pulled together to make this work. Because of this exercise Emmet County is better prepared now more than ever to react in a disaster. It was a benefit not only to us (those involved) but to the community, too, because we will be able to better serve them."

Following last year's accident at Three Mile Island nuclear power plant, the states were directed by the federal government to institute, or update, nuclear emergency plans.

"Since then," Milliken said, "Michigan has been in the forefront nationally in developing a plan. Now we are one of the first in the nation to test those plans successfully.

"The credit goes to the Emergency Services Division, the Michigan state Police and the counties of Michigan – all of which had to draw up plans to mesh with the state's.

"The credit for Tuesday's successful exercise also goes to the emergency services personnel and the sheriffs of Emmet and Charlevoix county, the Consumers Power Company, the Michigan Department of Public Health, whose radiological monitors in the field play a key role in any exercise of this kind – whether real or simulated – and the DNR.

"The number of agencies involved indicates the complexity of the problem and of the plan. That we were able, in the first full 'dress rehearsal' to bring all these elements together and to do it in such a way that it won the approval of a critical team of federal observers is a great tribute to all of those involved," Milliken said.

Kevin McDonough

Captain of the ship

The sky is overcast. The wind – whipping off the lake – is chilly. The cabin is crowded. A lot of passengers are sipping coffee. Finally, the boat [illegible]. [illegible] And the Beaver Islander is on its way to the Emerald Isle.

• • • •

Kevin McDonough is the skipper on this trip. He's one of the few Island natives who went to college and returned to find work.

McDonough went to Ferris State College in Big Rapids. He wanted to become a draftsman. But the opportunities he thought existed when he the started the program, where not there when he graduated, although he was able to find employment with an architectural firm in Traverse City. A year later, he moved back to the Island to work as a captain for the Beaver Island Boat Company.

McDonough's connection with the boat company dates back several years. His father, Lawrence, was a captain for 18 years, bringing passengers and supplies to and from the Island. Lawrence eventually became the manager of the boat company.

"I enjoy this kind of work," McDonough said. "I think it's very satisfying…and I like the three months off in the winter."

But to get the three months off, McDonough has to work long hours the other nine months. Summers are particularly hectic and often times he has to spend his nights in Charlevoix, away from his wife, Linda, and two [illegible].

McDonough is very active on the Island – when he is there. He presently serves as president of the Beaver Island Board of Education.

• • • •

McDonough said enrollment has accelerated "greatly" in the past couple years, especially at the grade school. About 75 students attend school on the Island.

"We're about bursting at the seams," the slender, 27-year-old said. "But we've got to be cautious about a building program because we really don't have any accurate way of telling if this growth rate will continue. We don't know, for instance, how many families are going to stay on the Island."

The school is getting a new roof this summer, which, along with 12 inches of insulation, will save the district about 1,400 gallons of fuel oil per year.

McDonough is a 1970 graduate. Plans are in the works to reunite the classes of '18, '69 and '70 in August.

"There were five in my graduating class," McDonough recounted. "Two of us went to college."

Concerts could cause 'headache'

Two popular rock bands - the Doobie Brothers and Alice Cooper - are scheduled to perform at Castle Farms this month, and local law enforcement officers are gearing up for what could be a big traffic snarl on roadways leading into and out of Charlevoix.

The Doobie Brothers will appear July 4th and Alice Cooper will follow about three weeks later on July 26, the Saturday of the Venetian Festival weekend. Both concerts could easily draw upwards to 15,000 people.

"We'll have a full crew on duty those nights," Charlevoix Police Chief Jack Mol said. "In addition, we've put in a request for help from the state police."

Asked if he was concerned about the possible traffic problems on Venetian weekend, when traffic is normally heavy in Charlevoix, Mol replied.

"Of course I'm concerned. We have about 20,000 people who come here Venetian weekend. You put an additional 20,000 or so people on top of that…"

Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater indicated that "the majority" of his officers will be on traffic control July 4 and July 26.

Lasater said he is consulting with Mol about traffic control on those nights. He said the situation has the potential to turn into a 'headache.'

The first concert of the season, featuring the Marshall Tucker Band, attracted between 6,000-7,000 people, according to Lasater. Although traffic did not seem a problem, Lasater said 16 persons were arrested, which is relatively high, he added, in comparison to previous concerts.

Of the 16 arrested, six were for minor in possession, five were for drinking on a public highway, two were for possession of marijuana, one was for possession of cocaine, one was for trespassing and one was for disobeying a police officer.

The sheriff indicated that he was taking a "more hard-nosed" approach [illegible].

Six new docks are being installed in the city harbor in Round Lake. Four of the new docks will be 60 feet in length and two will be 45 feet. The docks will be spaced equally apart so boats can get "in and out faster," according to Dockmaster Jim Ance. The steel structured, wood planked docks are being installed by the King Co. of Holland. They are expected to be completed this month. Despite the construction, Ance indicated that boat traffic is up 15 to 20 percent this year. "Since the Memorial Day weekend, we've been jampacked every weekend," he said. "We usually don't fill up that fast until mid-June." Ance added that weekday traffic has been exceptional, too. Asked why business has been so good, Ance replied, "more free time, perhaps."

Parades scheduled

Champagne Cruise Friday

The motor ship Beaver Islander "ups ancher" for the annual Champagne Cruise of Lake Charlevoix on (Friday) July 4.

The boat will leave Charlevoix at 8:30 p.m. and head toward Boyne City, where, after dark, a "fantastic" display of fireworks will be set off.

In addition to the fireworks, those aboard the boat will be entertained by "Summer Storm", a group that will provide contemporary music for listening and dancing.

A cash bar will be available.

The boat will sail regardless of weather because there is an ample enclosed area for protection from rain and wind.

Tickets for the cruise must be purchased in advance. They are available at $7 per person from the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, 408 Bridge Street, phone 547-2101.

Charlevoix does not have a parade on the 4th of July because all efforts are directed toward the Venetian Festival which occurs later in the month.

However, there will be three parades elsewhere in the county on the 4th and it is possible for real parade lovers to see them all.

Parades

The Boyne City parade starts at 10 a.m., the Horton Bay parade is scheduled for noon, and the East Jordan parade begins at 2 p.m.

On Beaver Island a carnival is planned from 1-3 p.m. at the waterfront next to the boat dock. The carnival will include a watermelon eating contest and a pie (shaving cream) in the face contest. Fireworks start at 10 p.m. The carnival and fireworks display is sponsored by the Beaver Island Civic Association.

On Sunday from 5-7 p.m. Holy Cross Church will have a fish fry (whitefish).

Bank applies for branch

Michigan Bank-North has made application with the Michigan Financial Institutions Bureau for permission to establish a branch office in Charlevoix.

However, two banks in Charlevoix are protesting the application, according to Ron Reed, president of Michigan Bank-North.

Although no immediate comment was available from attorneys representing the two banks, Lou Hollow, president of First State Bank, said that part of the debate is whether or not a city the size of Charlevoix has a need for more than four banking institutions.

Reed said the competition would be "good" for business in Charlevoix. In fact, he said, "it should help improve banking service in the community."

The banks protesting the application will be given an opportunity to present their reasons to the Michigan Financial Institutions Bureau and Michigan Bank-North in return will be given an opportunity for "rebuttal," Reed said.

If Michigan Bank-North is allowed to establish a branch office in Charlevoix, Reed indicated that it would most likely be on US-31 North. Rumors have persisted the bank is interested in the Expressions Unlimited building. Reed acknowledged the bank's interest in that location, but said no final site has been selected.

Reed said he is hopeful a decision on the bank's future in Charlevoix is reached by September.

Michigan Bank-North is affiliated with the Michigan National Bank Corporation, which has approximately [illegible].

Camp starts fifth season

Camp McSauba, a day camp sponsored by the Charlevoix Recreation Department, has launched its fifth season, according to the Director – Jack Gebott.

The camp, which operates at a 50-acre city-owned site north of Charlevoix along Lake Michigan offers a full program of waterfront activities, recreation, crafts, archery, riflery, and a once-a-week camp-out (every Thursday). The program has been extended to seven weeks this year, Gebott said.

Campers may attend for any number of weeks (one to seven). The camp is open to boys and girls five to 13 years of age. Each session lasts five days from 9 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and 9 a.m. Thursday until noon on Friday with an overnight camp-out Thursday night. The camper brings his or her sack lunch and beverage Monday through Thursday. A cook-out is held during the camp-out.

Camper's parents are responsible for transportation to the camp site on Mercer Blvd. at the foot of Mt. McSauba.

The camp staff this year will include Susan Elzinga of Ellsworth, an education student at Lake Superior State College who will transfer to Wayne State University for her senior year; Colleen Elzinga of Ellsworth, a senior at Central Michigan University where she is majoring in physical education and recreation; Jan Bolser of Ellsworth, a sophomore who is taking a liberal arts course at North Central Michigan College; and John Grooters, a recent Charlevoix high school graduate who has enrolled at Hope College for a major in communications and broadcast journalism.

Selling Your House by Gene Steele

WHAT GOES WITH HOUSE?

Real estate is usually defined as the land and everything attached to it, such as: buildings, trees, shrubs, etc. The buyer normally gets all of the real estate, but none of the owner's personal property. The problem arises when personal property has become a part of the real estate. This is called a fixture and does pass with the real estate.

There are three usual tests which must be satisfied. Has the personal property been permanently annexed to the real estate? Is it intended to become part of the real estate? And finally, what is the local custom? Usual fixtures might include: shades, heaters, ranges, screens, storm windows, lighting fixtures, etc.

It is important that the seller spell out specifically in his sales agreement exactly what he intends to give to the buyer as part of real estate. This will save misunderstanding at the closing, and sometimes save a sale.

Bus system starts operation July 21

By Peg Ohle

Some of the money that Charlevoix County residents have paid in gasoline sales taxes will come back to the county soon in the form of a public bus transportation system being underwritten by the Michigan Department of Transportation.

The seven-bus system is scheduled to begin operation on July 21. It will replace the two-bus system now operated by the County Commission on Aging for the benefit of elderly and handicapped people.

Although the Commission on Aging will operate the new system, the buses will be available for use by everyone regardless of age or physical condition. At least two of the buses will be equipped with mechanical lifts for wheel chair riders.

There will be no specific routes of travel for the buses. They will respond to telephoned reservations and provide service from the rider's home to the requested destination.

All reservations will be handled through the dispatch office of the bus system – it is being called "Charlevoix County Transit" – located at 319 East Lake St., Boyne City, phone 582-6900.

Reservations must be made 24 hours in advance. They will be noted on a call sheet showing the time of pickup, address, and destination. However, unlike a taxi service, the bus system will not be able to accomodate every rider's time request. Trips will have to be combined in the interest of economy and bus availability.

The buses will be in service from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. Mondays through Fridays and eight hours on Saturdays, probably from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday hours have not been determined.

Fares have been set at 40 cents for rides within the city, 75 cents for rides within the county, and $1.50 for out-of-county rides. Senior citizens and children under 12 will ride at half fare.

Several months ago, when the bus system was first announced by the Michigan Department of Transportation, the department set up a schedule of "Projected Ridership", which indicated they expected a total of 70,130 riders the first year the system is in operation, with expenses totaling $297,540. It is anticipated that $31,500 of this amount will come from passenger fares and donations, with the remainder coming from "other funding sources", none of them local.

Commission elects new officers

Martin Paul of Boyne City was recently elected chairperson of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging. He succeeds Raymond Giffin of Charlevoix, whose term had expired.

A. D. Cunningham of Charlevoix was elected vice-chairperson, Thora Kotowich of East Jordan was elected second vice-chairperson, and Florence Stucker of Charlevoix were re-elected secretary.

The Charlevoix County Commission on Aging is charged with administering services to senior citizens under the Older Americans Act. The two largest service programs are the Nutrition Program, through which meals are served to senior citizens in four different locations in the county, and the Transportation Program, which provides bus transportation to senior citizens withinthe county.

In addition to those mentioned above, persons serving on the Commission on Aging are Eleanor Squire of Boyne City, Joy Oliver of Charlevoix, Mildred Bathke of East Jordan, and George Newson of Boyne Falls.

Art Saworski of Boyne Falls is the paid director of the commission, and Marving Leding of Boyne City, is the representative of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

Auction Tuesday

The Charlevoix Historical Society will be holding an auction sale on Tuesday, July 8, at 6 p.m. This will be held at the Harsha House at 103 State Street, next to the Congregational Church. This auction is re-scheduled due to the fact that there were 14 auction sales between Charlevoix and Traverse City on the day the original auction was scheduled.

These articles are not those which are donated for display in the museum, but are things which were left in the attic of the Harsha house by the former owners. If you would like to make a contribution to the building fund, you may bring any articles to be auctioned, to the site that evening, and the proceeds will be used in our building fund account for the new addition that is to be put on the building this fall.

Two honored

The immediate past presidents of the two local Beta Sigma Phi Sororities, Mary Lou Smith of Kappa Sigma and Thelma Ditlow of Xi Epsilon Gamma were honored at a party on Sunday, June 22. Sixty people attended the event which featured a pig roast and potluck dinner and volleyball games at the home of the Steven Smith's at Birdland Estates. Gifts were presented to both presidents in appreciation of their leadership this past year.

Officers for the 1980-81 year for Kappa Sigma are: Dianne Coolman, Jackie Smigiel, Kerr Tallberg, Susan May, Kay Beatty, Suzi Rees, and Lucille Ingram. Kappa Sigma is celebrating its 10th anniversary this year.

Four generations gather at shower

The bride-elect will be married to David Cahill of Quincey, Mass., at the Ironton Congregational Church July 5.

Because all the guests were relatives of the bride-to-be, the theme of the shower was centered around cherished family possessions.

Those present were Mrs. Agnes Fairbanks, great-grandmother of the bride-elect, Mrs. Ronald Fairbanks, her grandmother; Mrs. Charles Fairbanks, her mother; Mrs. Lee Fairbanks, Mrs. Clifford Riley, and her daughters, Mrs. Jerry Anderson and Mrs. Gary Spencer and daughter, Kimber, Mrs. Percy Brown, Mrs. Ernest Brown, Mrs. Ivan Thomsen, Val Thomsen, Mrs. Kim Thomsen and her guest, Mrs. Michael O'Mara, all but the latter aunts and cousins of the honor guest.

Lights... camera... ...action

While the band played old western tunes and dancers responded to the "al-a-man left" and "do-si-do" of the caller, the director barked directions and cameras ground out the action under the glare of klieg lights.

The principals in the action were the national Grange prize-winning country music band, Jasper and his Tag-alongs, Jasper Warner on the banjo, Bill Stevens the guitar and Delores Pease at the piano along with Clair Stevens of Ypsilanti, a former resident, who joined the group as the fiddler and Bob Spinner of Elk Rapids, widely known dulcimer player. The caller was Lloyd Cummings who has been calling old-time square dances at the Grange for years and the dancers, all Barnard Grange members or members of their families.

Why the filming of an old-time square dance that features quadrilles, reels and jigs to music by an old-time band, both typical of by-gone days? It is to be used as a segment of a documentary film which will relate the story of early musicians and singers who were the entertainers of an era long gone.

It all started a couple years ago when Bob Fleck of Detroit became interested in recording on film the entertainment of other years. A fiddler himself, he has traveled throughout the country filming these entertainers and recording their stories and songs so they might be preserved for all time. Since square dancing was a part of that era, he decided to include two types of this old-time event.

Fleck, because of his interests, and his wife, Jane, are members of the Michigan Association of Fiddlers whose membership is composed of musicians who play any string instrument. Jasper and his Tag-alongs are also members of this group. So, when he started planning the filming of a typical country square dance it was only natural that he seek out a band he knew.

But what about the square dancers? "That's easy" he was told by the Tag-along group. "We play for square dances at our Grange at Charlevoix all the time."

After the tentative plans were made, the group returned from southern Michigan Ann Stevens approached the members of the Barnard Grange and told them of the offer he had received. The members were receptive to the idea, Fleck came north to explain what was expected of them and made the final arrangements for the filming. Rehearsals were held to perfect the dances..."after all, we wanted to look good," Stevens said.

Saturday was the day set for the filming. On Friday, Fleck and his wife arrived, accompanied by a producer, assistant producer, two cameramen and sound technician, all professional, equipped with cameras, klieg lights, a generator to power the equipment ready to "shoot" at the Barnard Grange hall the following morning. However, Friday night was confined to personal interviews with some of the principals, members of the band, the callers and the lead couples in the two square dances.

With the band playing favorite old-time country music and the dancers going through their steps, the action started shortly after 10 a.m. Saturday with brief breaks every half hour and a 45 minute luncheon break and continued until after 6 p.m. until the director was satisfied with the results.

At noon, the visiting film crew had an opportunity to see what Grangers think is a lunch as they joined them for a picnic-style luncheon on the lawn at the Grange hall.

Though the participants did not receive union wages for their efforts, they did receive some compensation which they have contributed to the treasury of the Barnard Grange.

The dancers in the two sets were Clyde and Anna Warner, members of the Grange organization for more than 60 years, Bill and Bertha Parsons, also Grange veterans, Lawrence Bergmann and Betty Currey, Dudley Stevens and Mary Plagge, both 15, members of the first set, and Rod Stevens and Sara Cummings, Tom and Pat Dillon, Clayton Smith and Marge Warner, Carl Dhaseleer, 10, and Kathy Pease, eight, who made up the second set.

The dancers were selected to show that square dancing was for all ages.

The film taken here Saturday will now be finished, edited and incorporated into the completed picture to be known as "Save the Last Dance." Eventually it will be made available to schools, colleges and libraries studying the history of this country's entertainment of yester-year.

The making of the film has been financed by a grant made available to the Flecks for this purpose and underwritten by the Michigan Historical Society, J.L. Hudson Co., Ford Motor Co., General Motors and others in an effort to preserve of record of entertainment fast disappearing from the scene.

Stevens said that when the film is completed, it will be returned to Charlevoix for a preview before being made available to the general public.

For those unfamiliar with the Grange organization, it was founded in this country in 1867 following the Civil War and came to Michigan in 1873. The Barnard Grange No. 689 was chartered June 28, 1889. Because only seven percent of the U.S. Congress represented the farmers, the organization was formed to get better representation in order to obtain fairer farm prices and better treatment by the railroads, the main mode of travel in the early days.

However, with changing times it is now more as a social group.

Fish confiscated in Charlevoix

Michigan DNR (Department of Natural Resource) officials in Charlevoix are serving notice to fishermen that the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati has - at least temporarily - given the state the right to regulate fishing on the Great Lakes.

The court directed federal District Judge Noel Fox to review his ruling which allowed Indians unregulated fishing. Fox ruled that Indians have the right - through treaties - to fish without regulation.

DNR officials confiscated 870 pounds of lake trout and 120 pounds of whitefish Tuesday from four Indian fishermen. Two of the fishermen were stopped at a gas station with 640 pounds of lake trout and 70 pounds of whitefish while two others were stopped at Fisherman's Island State Park with 230 pounds of lake trout and 50 pounds of whitefish. About 2,500 feet of gill net was also confiscated.

On Wednesday, DNR officials stopped five more Indian fishermen but no fish or gear was confiscated.

My father - the farmer

What do you give your dad for his birthday? If you're a farmer's daughter, like Tamara Wieland of Charlevoix, you let him know that he's a very special person. That's what Tammy did for her dad, Tom Wieland, president of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau, with her tribute:

"My Father is a Farmer"

It takes a special kind of man to be a farmer, and my father is one of those special men.

Some men make a living in a world of man's inventions, but my father has the courage to work with seeds and soil and sunshine; plowing and planting, trusting God for the good weather and rain that will bring a good harvest.

Some boys' fathers work with computers or machines but mine was given the special understanding that enables him to deliver calves and to let my brother's puppy help him with the chores.

My dad is one of those special men who doesn't become discouraged when it doesn't rain for weeks on end, or it does rain – but on three fields of freshly mown hay.

He doesn't lose patience when people gripe about the price of milk, or when all the cows decide that the grass is greener on the other side of the fence.

My father once said that if you gave him a million dollars, he would farm until it was all gone. Although he meant it to be a joke, that statement is true to the kind of determination he has.

Everyday, my father practices his trust, compassion, patience, perseverance and determination, and provides for us an example to live up to of hard work well done. An example of not only a special father, but of a special man, because my father is a farmer.

Winners named

First State Bank of Charlevoix has announced the winners of the three drawings held Saturday, June 21 at the Bank's Diamond Jubilee celebration.

Byron Wright and Thomas Hodgkinson won the two diamond pendants while Marjorie Kurner won the diamond ring.

Band to practice

The Charlevoix High School Marching Band will be practicing at 7 p.m. Mondays, July 7, 14 and 21 in preparation for the Venetian Festival parade the director, Michael Filkins, announced.

The practice sessions will be held at the high school.

All new members of the band should plan to attend and the Class of '80 band members are welcome to perform.

If anyone has any questions or problems, they are asked to call Filkins at his office between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday. Members should remind their employers that the parade is at noon on July 26.

McDonough

* * *

Despite the sagging economy, the boat is crowded. It has been most of the year, McDonough said.

"We've had a real good spring," he said. "It seems we're hauling more this year than last."

The Beaver Islander can carry up to 200 passengers. The South Shore - its counterpart - can handle 120. If it's expediency a passenger desires, the Beaver Islander is the boat to take. The Beaver Islander cruises at a speed of 16 miles-per-hour compared to the South Shore's 12 miles-per-hour. The difference - about 8 minutes.

In addition to McDonough, Russell Greene (senior captain), Mike Greene and Jerry LaFreniere are the other steady hands who guide the two boats across the Lake Michigan water.

Saturday mail

The possibility of Congress eliminating funds for Saturday mail delivery from the 1981 Postal Service budget is still up in the air

Although the recently-passed First Concurrent Budget Resolution contained the original recommendation to cut Saturday service, there's a move afoot in the House of Representatives to restore the $500 million necessary to continue six-day [illegible]. Also, the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee has taken aggressive opposition to any elimination of Saturday mail service

On first glance, it appears that stopping delivery on Saturday would cut one-sixth of the Postal Service's budget. Unfortunately, it isn't quite that simple. I'm convinced the drawbacks heavily outweigh the advantages

A Postal Service task force has outlined some of the potential problems. Certainly a large number of postal employees will be laid off their jobs. Another problem is the tremendous build-up of mail over a weekend, all of which would have to be delivered on Monday. It has been estimated that one-third of the week's delivery would be waiting at the Post Office when the mailmen returned from their weekend, and that can only clog the process

If there was no Saturday delivery by the Postal Service, private firms would undoubtedly move in to take up some of the slack. Those private firms would reduce revenues coming to the Postal Service, eliminating some of the cost savings and making additional funds necessary for operation

It seems to be a losing proposition The mailmen would be overworked at the beginning of each week, and the customer certainly would receive less efficient service. And if my guess is correct, the main goal - money-saving - might not even be reached to any significant degree

[illegible]

Recently, the Senate approved the funding for draft registration, and that, following the House passage earlier, makes the actual registration nearly a sure thing

This isn't a draft. It is merely a registration. This process could cut 90-100 days off the time it would take to prepare for an emergency mobilization, and that amount of time could make a crucial difference in any combat. What we're doing here is just a practical precaution

Dates will soon be publicized for the registration, which will take place at 34,000 Post Offices around the nation Men - [illegible] - who were born in 1960 and 1961 must register, and after the first of next year, all young men must register on or near their 18th birthday The forms are simple and require only a few basic pieces of information. Hopefully, we'll have four million men registered by the end of this year. At a time when our defense capacity is being questioned, this will be an intelligent step in the right direction.

Reader protests release of radioactive gas

Letters

Secretary of the Commission
U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission
Washington, D.C. 20555

Dear Sir:

You have decided to allow radioactive Krypton gas to be released from the broken Three Mile Island reactor. I protest!

Krypton concentrates in the ovaries and lungs, and emits dangerous beta particles. It has a ½ life of nearly 10 years. As you know, there is no safe level of radiation. Nearly every study done on low-level radiation has shown this, including the Mancuso study of atomic workers in Hanford, Washington. In the light of facts, I find it astounding that you expect psychological stress to be the only health effect of releasing radioactive gas! May I remind you that the effects of radiation exposure are cumulative, and the people of Three Mile Island have already been exposed to high and unpermitted doses of radioactivity

The releases are being allowed despite wide opposition in Pennsylvania. This strikes me as being [illegible]

Alternatives to venting exist, but have been ignored. For example, the contaminated atmosphere in the reactor building could be pumped out, compressed and held in tanks. This of course, would cost the utility more money, which appears to be of greater [illegible]

Antrim Charlevoix Board of Realtors is urging concerned citizens to participate in a write-in campaign aimed at, "convincing Congress and the Carter administration that something must be done immediately to correct the nation's problems "

It also contains a coupon which readers are encouraged to fill-out and mail to the Michigan Association of Realtors in Lansing, indicating their support

We will make sure that all coupons received will be delivered to the White House and Congress," Bieganowski said. Safe evacuation is a fantasy built on assumptions

Members of the Concerned Citizens of the Charlevoix Area were allowed to observe the test exercise from the key command posts established during the drill.

Members of the group received permission to observe from the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board on Monday

In a statement read at Wednesday's critique, JoAnn Bier, a member of the [illegible]:

"The work of local law enforcement, civil defense, health departments and social services is to be highly commended. However, Consumer's Power must be condemned for blatant and premeditated irresponsibility to the citizens and civil servants in Emmet and Charlevoix County

The biological dome at Big Rock is unshielded. It is insufficient to contain gamma radiation.

The main containment isolation valves have not passed leak tests in 3 years. They have never functioned properly

In the event of a Class 9 accident, movement around the site would be prohibited for up to 21 hours according to a document from Consumer's Power Company dated March 14, 1980. In the event of an accident, operators could not change shifts for 21 hours because of deadly levels of radiation

Workers compensation bill could save taxpayers millions

Ralph Ostling

A workers' compensation bill that would save Michigan taxpayers an estimated $230 million while increasing maximum monthly benefits by $100 was introduced in the Michigan House last week

Offered by Southwestern Michigan Republicans Lad Stacey, Carl Gnodtke and Nick Smith, the legislation would reduce present abuses of the system and provide higher benefits for claimants at a lower cost to employers

This is a bill that is good for injured workers and good for employers Adopting the proposal is one of the best things the Legislature could do to keep jobs in Michigan and attract new ones

The measure would make comprehensive amendments in four areas of the present workers' compensation system to reduce costs to employers and provide four changes in the benefit structure to increase benefits.

First, the bill would prevent retirees from collecting benefits for claims that result from the normal aging process and offsets retiree benefits by social security and other benefits that the employer pays

In addition, the bill would provide a workable statute of limitations requiring a written notice to employers within three years of the injury; provides for a 50 percent loss of benefits if a claimant refuses to be evaluated for vocational rehabilitation training; and tightens eligibility standards to prevent individuals whose injuries are not job-related from collecting benefits.

A national insurance rating firm that prepared statistics on Michigan's workers' compensation system said that the cost of the system would be reduced by $230 million next year if the [illegible]

The bill also takes positive steps to see that injured workers who are eligible for benefits receive more than they're getting now. The maximum monthly payment would be increased by $100 and people who are receiving workers' compensation payments already would be eligible for the benefit [illegible]

The bill also provides for immediate training of injured workers. This is an important provision because it would help men and women get back into productive employment as quickly as possible. Obviously that means a substantial cost savings and a fuller life for the injured person.

In my opinion, the bill is well balanced between employer and employee and I hope it gains the support of my colleagues.

Our efforts to reform workers' compensation are bogged down in the Legislature. A bill like this could get us off dead center and help the employees who aren't receiving adequate compensation and the employers who are burdened with undue costs.

Visiting the island

Many leagues ago while I was editor, [illegible] located directly across Bridge Street from the [illegible] Lake. It was only natural that many vacationers in search of an impartial opinion should stop at the Courier office to inquire about the island before deciding whether to make the trip.

Everyone in the office had to be an authority of sorts on Beaver Island and we could rattle off statistics relative to population, distances, restaurants, bars, overnight accomodations and points of interest.

But the prospective visitors' [illegible] "Do you think we'd like it?" was considerably more [illegible]

It goes without saying that Beaver Island is not for everyone. If you enjoy [illegible] every corner, strings of fudge shops, battalions of ritzy clothing stores and ankle deep carpeting in your hotel suite, – forget it.

Beaver Island offers excellent accomodations and some fine dining facilities, but the glitter that so many vacationers demand – well, it just isn't there

Sometimes I would have to do an in-depth interview with the prospective island traveler before I could seriously recommend a trip to America's fabled [illegible]

Did the visitor expect to fill every moment of the trip with frenetic activity? If so, he should stay on the mainland.

Did the visitor enjoy hiking or bicycling? If so, he might like the Beavers.

Was the visitor conversant with Northern Michigan history? If so, he [illegible] America's only "kingdom" under the scepter of the late Mormon prophet, James Jesse Strang?

Had he ever heard of Dr Fyodor Protar, the Russian aristocrat who [illegible] liberal opinions he was exiled to Siberia by the czar? Protar eventually fled to the United States and finally settled on Beaver Island in the [illegible] islanders' aches and pains until his death in 1927. His log home and his tomb are both landmarks.

Whenever I encountered a candidate for Beaver Island, I would usually suggest that he spend at least one night "overseas."

For my money, it is not until the last [illegible] can begin to experience Beaver Island's splendid isolation in the misty reaches of Northern Lake Michigan.

But isolation on the island has nothing to do with loneliness, because Beaver Islanders and their visitors enjoy a camaraderie that is alien to the mainland.

What do you do on Beaver Island?

Skip stones in the lake or hunt for seashells and Petoskey stones.

Tour the old Mormon print shop downtown. It's now a museum.

Have a leisurely dinner at the Circle M, the Beaver Lodge or the Shamrock.

If you left your car in Charlevoix, hitch a ride out to the high dunes on the western shore, take off your shoes, climb to the top and watch the sun go down over Donegal Bay and High Island.

Wind up the evening at one of the local pubs, dancing, drinking and singing until the last dog is hung and the rope is put away

It's a vacation you'll never forget.

In outbreak proportions

Grasshopper epidemic strikes Charlevoix County

Grasshoppers are in superabundance in many northern Michigan counties, a situation that may be [illegible] of the state within a few weeks.

"They are in outbreak proportions and we have a potential problem that could be the worst in 30 years," says Robert Ruppel, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service entomologist [illegible] grasshoppers in Otsego, Kalkaska, Antrim, Montmorency and Charlevoix counties, with slightly lower numbers in Emmet, Presque Isle, Alpena and Grand Traverse counties.

The standard recommendation is to spray insecticide when eight or more grasshopper nymphs (young grasshoppers) are found per square yard. Ruppel and his team of entomology scouts have been regularly counting more than [illegible] grasshopper nymphs per square yard

"I am very worried that if farmers don't start checking their croplands immediately, a lot of crops will be severely damaged, if not destroyed, by what should shortly be an adult grasshopper horde," Ruppel says

[illegible] applied immediately Within two weeks the adults will emerge and will be much more difficult to control than the young grasshoppers

Ruppel says the grasshopper nymphs are currently being found [illegible] They are already damaging some pastures and alfalfa fields, [illegible]

The grasshopper found in northern Michigan is the migratory grasshopper Though this is the same kind that is found in the West, where it flies long distances, this species moves only from field to field in Michigan.

If we can't get control of this right now, it won't be just the farmer who suffers. When they become numerous enough, they'll attack vegetables and flowers in the backyard as readily as they'll go after lush field crops," Ruppel warns

Growers in the rest of the state, from about Clare south, can rest on their sprayers for about a month. The type of grasshopper found in the southern part of the state is the red-legged grasshopper. Though it is not a migratory species, it can cause substantial damage if not controlled. Ruppel says that farmers should be checking croplands regularly and preparing to take [illegible]

Generally, grasshopper nymph populations are substantially reduced during cold, wet weather that fosters bacteria that kill the insect. That didn't happen this year, Ruppel notes

Considering the population buildup we've had throughout the state the past three years, I'm afraid we are going to see some real damage by grasshoppers this summer," he says.

Growers who are not sure about detection and control of grasshoppers are urged to get in contact with the MSU Cooperative Extension Service director [illegible] county

In Charlevoix County, the MSU Cooperative Extension Service is recommending the use of Sevin (at one pound per acre) Sevin [illegible] be notified in time to protect their hives in case it is used

"It was hoped that our recent cold wet weather would favor fungal diseases that would reduce the hoppers," Ed Rebman explained. "It did not happen and we can expect the problem to [illegible] season progresses

"The time to control hoppers in this area is now and during the next 10 days or two weeks."

A special grasshopper control demonstration was offered [illegible] sprayer that is considered useful in rough areas

New techniques in recording history

Persons interested in researching and preserving local history will have an opportunity to learn modern techniques at a workshop to be held for three days in July in Traverse City

Called "Echoes from the Attic", the session is described as "A shirt-sleeve, how-to-do-it workshop on oral history and photographic history, teaching the techniques of the tape-recorded interview and the process of copying old photographs." Among the subjects to be covered are How to Interview, Legal Aspects of Taping, and Effective Ideas for Sharing the Heritage and Future of your Community

The workshops will be held on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, July 15, 16, and 17 from 8 a.m. to noon at Northwestern Michigan College. The fee will be $30.

Glenn Ruggles, who grew up in Elk Rapids and later graduated from the University of Detroit, will conduct the workshop. He has been a teacher of high school history for 21 years and is the author of two Michigan folk histories, "Something for Nothing", a Grand Traverse history, and "Beside the Golden Door", an account of Irish settlers in Oakland County. He has also co-produced two 16 mm. motion pictures on Michigan folk history, "The River's the Same", and "From These Stones".

Advance registration is required and may be made with the Director of Continuing Education, Northwestern Michigan College, 1701 East Front St., Traverse City, 49684, phone (616) 946-5650.

This is the third in a series of questions and answers on preserving food by Marlene Cassell, extension home economist.

Q. Why is it important to package foods for freezing in moisture-vapor proof or moisture-vapor-resistant materials?

A. These materials keep the food from drying out. Rigid plastic containers and glass jars are examples of moisture-vapor-proof packages, and laminated freezer papers and heavy aluminum foil are examples which are vapor resistant.

Q. [illegible]

A. [illegible]

Q. [illegible] limited to 2-3 pounds per cubic foot of freezer space?

A. The unfrozen food should freeze within 24 hours. [illegible]

Q. What is the recommended freezer storage time for most fruits and vegetables?

A. Eight to 12 months.

Q. When is it safe to refreeze frozen foods that have thawed?

A. [illegible] or if they are still cold – about 40 degrees Fahrenheit (refrigerator temperature) – and have been held at this temperature no longer than one or two days after thawing

Q. Why are some fruits treated with ascorbic acid before freezing?

A. To prevent darkening

Q. Most vegetables are blanched before freezing. What does blanching do?

A. Blanching stops the action of enzymes. If enzymes remain active during freezer storage, they can cause undesirable changes in flavor, texture, and color as well as [illegible].

Q. How much boiling water should be used for blanching one pound of vegetables?

A. At least one gallon.

Q. When should you start to count the blanching time?

A. As soon as the vegetable is lowered into the boiling water

Q. How long should the vegetable be cooled in cold water after blanching?

A. For about as long as it was blanched.

Q. Why are blanching times for corn-on-the-cob longer than for cut corn?

A. To destroy enzymes in the cob that can cause undesirable flavor changes in the corn kernels during freezer storage.

Q. What would you tell someone who asks if it is safe to eat green beans that were frozen without blanching?

A. Although the quality of the green beans may be poor, they are safe to eat.

Q. What advice would you give someone who wants to freeze raw tomatoes?

A. Raw tomatoes do not freeze well. It is better to [illegible] tomatoes before freezing them.

Q. Where can people go for more information on canning and freezing?

A. The Cooperative Extension Service office will answer questions and send booklets upon request. In Charlevoix County, the phone number is [illegible].

Eric Lundteigen

Bad habits are tough to break

If you want to be a good tennis player, take a tip from Eric Lundteigen: Play at least two to three times a week.

"Timing is one of the most important aspects of tennis and you can only develop it by getting out and playing," said Lundteigen, a blonde, 21 year-old tennis instructor. "You've got to play two to three times a week to keep in the groove. You can't expect to be consistent by playing just once a week or once a month."

Another important element in tennis, Lundteigen said, is concentration.

"Tennis is a mental game. If your head is somewhere else then your game will be somewhere else, too," he said.

Lundteigen keeps sharp by playing in tournaments and by teaching classes. This summer - through the Charlevoix Recreation Department - Lundteigen offers lessons Monday-Thursday. From 2-3 p.m. he has the 8-13 year olds, from 3-4 p.m he has the 14-18 year-olds, in the evenings from 6-7 p.m. he has adults (beginners) and from 7-8 p.m. he has adults (advanced) On Thursday, he has children under 8 years of age from 4-5 p.m

The lessons are for six weeks and, according to the Michigan State junior, vacancies still exist. Anyone who would like to register should do so at the city tennis courts.

Teaching the intricacies of tennis is old hat for Lundteigen.

"I taught last year and everything went real well," he said. "If you're going to play tennis, then have fun playing it. I don't think it matters how good you are as long as you enjoy it."

The former Charlevoix High School standout, has "enjoyed" tennis since he was seven years-old.

"While everyone else was playing baseball I was playing tennis," he said. "It was a game I liked and that I felt I could play for the rest of my life."

He just recently returned from a 10 day tennis camp in Virginia.

"It was Dennis VanderMeer's tennis camp," Lundteigen said. "He's one of the leading authorities on tennis. It was intense and it was also very beneficial because we covered just about every aspect of tennis."

Lundteigen likes to stress the basics when working with his students

"Once you develop bad habits they're hard to break," he stated. "It's important you learn the fundamentals."

Some of the basics Lundteigen stresses include: eye contact, footwork, positioning, racquet preparation, serving and the swing and subsequent follow through.

Lundteigen, who hopes to go into coaching after college, emphasizes that tennis is a game that "anybody can play."

"It's inexpensive, it's quick and it's good exercise."

Sailing lessons offered by club

The Charlevoix Yacht Club will be offering sailing lessons again this year.

[illegible] (Monday through Friday) - are offered. Two class times are available - 10 a.m. until noon and 6 p.m. until 8 p.m.

Registration will be held every Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. at the Yacht Club. Classes are offered through August.

Rates are: all children (10-16) $15, Yacht Club members $30, and non-members [illegible].

No children under 10 will be allowed to take lessons. People taking lessons are asked to bring a life jacket.

Wedding

Olmstead-Klix

Micki Sue Olmstead and Gregory Alan Klix were united in marriage on Saturday afternoon, June 21, in the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Austin Olmstead of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom's parents are Howard Klix of Livonia and Mrs. Stewart Olmstead of Harrisville.

The bride, who was escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a gown of polyester chiffonette fashioned with a sleeveless [illegible] bodice and double-tiered skirt accented with ruffled lace. Her Juliet cap of lace held a fingertip imported illusion veil which was edged in lace, and her bouquet was made up of burgundy roses and baby's breath.

Music for the service was provided by Robert Best, who sang "If", "Sunrise, Sunset", and "A Tribute to God", and by Jim Boggs, pianist, who played Lohengrin's Wedding March and accompanied the vocalist.

Leanna Mosoryak assisted her sister as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Kim Blanchard, Barbara Pope of Wheatfield, Colo., Rochelle Lanterman, and Karen Klix, sister of the bridegroom, of Harrisville. They wore identical gowns of dusty pink polyester knit accented with lace, and carried bouquets of burgundy roses.

Teresa Lanterman, as flower girl, wore a dress of white polyester trimmed with pink which had been made by her grandmother, Mrs. Eldred Ostrum. Matthew Mosoryak, nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

[illegible] of Livonia served as best man. Groomsmen were Scott Olmstead of Petoskey, Michael Bickham of Hessel, Brad Klix of Detroit, brother of the bridegroom, and Tracy Olmstead, brother of the bride.

A reception, hosted by the bride's parents at the American Legion Hall, followed the ceremony. Music was provided by the "Four Fifths". The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at Leutheuser's Restaurant.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Olmstead wore a pink gown featuring a chiffon cape. The bridegroom's mother wore a green print ensemble.

Following a wedding trip to Canada, the newlyweds will be at home in Traverse City, where the bridegroom is stationed with the Coast Guard.

50 years ago

Senator laid cornerstone for health department

By Peg Ohle

Over 50 years ago, James Cousens, a junior United States senator from Michigan, created a philanthropic trust that laid the cornerstone for District Health Department Number Three.

This bit of information is included among many other interesting facts in the 1979 annual report of the local Health Department, which commemorates 50 years of service to the area.

The report was presented to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week by Frances Hooper, director of nursing.

About $2 million of Cousens' trust was used for the establishment of rural health departments. In January, 1930, Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego counties agreed to form a district Health Department, and since they were the third such group to be founded in this manner, they became "District Health Department Number Three".

Because of the problems caused by the depression of the 1930's, much of the effort of the Health Department during those years was directed toward relief functions rather than preventative practices. Services included school nutritional projects, eye and physical examinations with related treatments, and dental services.

And, in 1934, the Health Department provided seven and a half barrels of cod liver oil to the children of the district! By 1935, the amount was reduced to four barrels.

Over the ensuing years, the Health Department devoted much of its time to communicable disease control, including tuberculosis, which was a particular concern from 1930 through the mid-forties. Each year, between 20 and 40 new cases were identified, about half of which resulted in death.

Then came outbreaks of polio and the fortunate development of the Salk vaccine, in 1954. Along with Health Departments throughout the country, Health Department Number Three began administering the Salk vaccine to local school children, giving over 62,000 shots in 1959.

Mrs. Hooper became director of nursing in 1966, the first full-time person in that position. Since that time, many new programs have been added to the department, especially the Home Health Care Program, through which nursing, physical therapy, and speech therapy services are provided in homes throughout the district.

Also added in recent years were classes for expectant parents, pre-school vision and hearing screening programs, expanded immunization programs, family planning services, physical screening services for underprivileged children and senior citizens as well as hypertension screening for senior citizens.

Examples of the changing role played by Health Department nurses are many. In 1934, department staff members made visits for certain communicable diseases as follows: Typhoid fever, 103 visits; measles, 20 visits; scarlet fever, 216 visits; whooping cough, 60 visits; and infantile paralysis (polio), five visits.

In 1979, there were no cases of typhoid fever, only two cases of measles, 64 cases of scarlet fever (including strep throat), and no cases of whooping cough or polio.

In 1934, tuberculosis was the eighth leading cause of death in the district, with 13 deaths. In 1979, only two new cases of tuberculosis were reported in the district, although five other cases had been previously diagnosed and were visited by public health nurses. So, there were seven cases of tuberculosis in the district and no deaths attributed to it. All seven cases were treated at home, which is in contrast to the 6,185 hospital tuberculosis patient days in 1934. The cost to the four counties in the district that year was $7,751.02 in addition to the costs paid by the state.

Persons who have not had contact with District Health Department Number Three through its personal health care services, may well have become acquainted through the department's Environmental Health division.

Back in 1934, the Environmental Health division consisted of one individual who administered programs for schools, resorts, municipal water supplies, and dairies. A total of 1,155 services were performed in these areas. All school buildings were inspected once a year, and it was found that 80 to 90 percent of the schools were served with a safe water supply, as were 85.8 of the general public. However, only 40.3 percent were served with proper sewage disposal. These were the days when hand pumps and outdoor toilets served not only homes, but the many one-room school houses that existed then.

The Environmental Health sanitarian made regular visits to dairy farms which distributed milk directly to the consumer. Only 17 percent of the milk supply in incorporated villages was pasturized in 1934.

A major part of the sanitarian's job in 1934 was visiting resorts. He visited and evaluated 76 of them, nothing their water supply, sewage disposal, milk, food handling, garbage and rubbish facilities, fish entrail disposal, and bathing.

Environmental legislation during the 1960's brought about the adoption of sanitary codes governing installation of individual sewage systems, licensing requirements for eating and drinking establishments, the Groundwater Quality Control Act, Solid Waste Disposal Act, Subdivision Control Act, laws relative to Public Swimming Pools, Air Pollution Control Act, Ambulance Licensing Act, and requirements for campground licensing. By the late 1970's, the Environmental Health division was involved in more than 20 program areas, with major emphasis on on-site sewage and land use related programs.

A summary of permits issued by the Environmental Health division in 1979 accompanies the District Health Department's annual report, and provides an overview of its activities.

Wells, 817 permits; septic tanks, 1,395 (34 rejected); well drillers licensed, 40; mobile home parks licensed, 18; septic tank cleaners licensed, 14; refuse hauling vehicles licensed, 83; campgrounds licensed, 44; food establishments licensed, 428; nursery schools inspected, 16; recreation camps inspected, eight; nuisance complaints evaluated, 210; land evaluations, 427; FHA-VA appraisals, 134; plats, six; lots, 93; swimming pools licensed, 59; DSS foster home requests, eight; ambulances licensed, four; schools inspected, 16; state forest campgrounds inspected, seven.

District Health Department Number Three also provides services in the field of Substance Abuse. In 1979, the staff

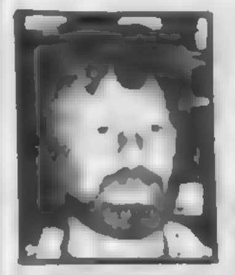
MEET RUBY CORUNDUM



John Reusch
Ruby Corundum is one of the loveliest of the lovelies. Unfortunately gentlemen, ruby is not a woman. Ruby is a gemstone, the variety of the mineral corundum that possesses that marvelous rich red color. Ruby is one of the top three gemstones in value and popularity. (The other two are diamond and emerald.)
Why is ruby so valuable? Basically, because of supply and demand. Although the demand for fine ruby is high, this quality is exceedingly rare. As a matter of fact, large rubies are more rare than large diamonds.
Why is ruby so popular? Ruby's velvety red color has an unequaled appeal to the human eye. Red has often been identified as a royal color. It is also known to stir one's emotions.
Fine large rubies are a rare breed, but there are some exceptional specimens on display in museums throughout the world. The 167 carat Edward Ruby is in the British Museum of Natural History in London. The 138.7 carat Reeves Star Ruby is in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. The 100 carat Long Star Ruby is in the American Museum of Natural History in New York.
If you were born in July, ruby may have added significance for you since it's the official birthstone for that month. It has been said that when a person wears his or her birthstone, the stone's special powers exert their influence. Ruby symbolizes charity, dignity, freedom and divine power.

Concerts start Thursday

The Charlevoix City Band will present the first of a series of concerts in the Park at East Park Thursday. Michael Filkins is director of the band.

Clarence A. Odmark, who directed the band for many years, will be the guest director at the opening concert scheduled to start at 8 p.m.

The program for the concert will include: "Americans We", Fillmore; "The Klaxton", Fillmore; "The Thunderer", Sousa; "Night and Day", Cole Porter arr. by Yoder; Grundman's Fantasy on American Sailing Songs, climaxed by the stirring "Stars and Stripes Forever", Sousa.

The band is composed of musicians from throughout the area, according to Filkins who will play with the band in the opening concert.

The personnel of the band will be as follows: Patti Cook, Laura Dziedzic and Lisa Fiedler, flutes; Joan Cook, Vern Schilter and Murphy Wa[illegible], clarinets; Kathy Cook, Patricia Dilworth, Gail Janis, Dan Lucenko and David Taylor, saxophones; Michele Allard, Susanne Dye and Keith Lehman, horns.

Mary Horton, oboe; Mary Dye, Steve Eggleton, Wayne Hoffman, Bill Horton, Eric Rayner and Jeannie Stetz, trumpets; Frank North, David Patric and David Staabsin, trombones; Warren Shapton, baritone; Ann Sullivan, tuba; John Crimmins, drums.

Filkins said others may be joining the band as the summer progresses. Present members come from [illegible], Petoskey, Bay View and Ellsworth as well as Charlevoix.

The band will present concerts in East Park every Thursday night throughout the summer months.

The concerts are sponsored by the City of Charlevoix in cooperation with the Charlevoix Public Schools for the entertainment of local residents and visitors to the community.

Both the Beaver Islander and South Shore were docked at Beaver Harbor in St. James Friday afternoon. The Beaver Islander brought over 100 passengers to the island while the South Shore brought supplies.

Calling all...

Members of the Treehouse Amateur Radio Club of Charlevoix recently participated in the American Radio Relay League's Field Day exercise.

The exercise tests the ability of amateurs to communicate under simulated emergency conditions.

On Bloodmobile visit

114 pints of blood collected

The recent visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile to Charlevoix resulted in 114 pints of blood, according to Mrs. Davis Fowler, representing the committee.

The total is 11 pints below the quota of 125 pints set for the visit.

A total of 129 persons responded to the call for blood. However, it was necessary to defer 15 for various reasons. Twenty-nine others who had made appointments failed to keep them, Mrs. Fowler said.

Among the donors were 25 members of the crew of the U.S.C.G.C. Sundew who responded to the call.

Eleven of the 115 donors were first time donors.

Mrs. Fowler commended the donors, all the volunteers, the Xi Epsilon Gamma and Kappa Sigma Chapters of the Beta Sigma Phi sorority who stocked and manned the canteen and the American Legion post No. 226 who donated the use of the building, for making the drive a success.

Antique store opens

The Walking Lion Antiques and Art store will be celebrating its grand opening over the July 4th holiday.

The store - owned by Diane Pace - is open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday and "by chance" on Sunday. It is located on U.S. 31 North, adjacent to Expressions Unlimited.

In anticipation of the grand opening, Mrs. Pace has been attending several local auctions and garage sales to stockpile her store with antiques. The emphasis is on furniture.

"I've always loved the craftsmanship of the older furniture," Mrs. Pace explained. "I don't think you get that kind of quality today. Most of the furniture is solid wood and it will appreciate in value."

Most - if not all - the furniture at The Walking Lion Antiques and Art store is in good condition and "ready to put right into the home."

The furniture ranges in price from $100 to $2,500.

"When I buy something I want it to be in good if not A-1 shape," Mrs. Pace [illegible].

Mrs. Pace hopes in the future to carry wicker furniture as well. First, she said, she wants to see "what the people [illegible]."

Diane Pace of The Walking Lion Antiques and Art

In addition to furniture, Mrs. Pace carries a variety of silver, copper and brass antiques. Some of her favorites include copper boilers, copper milk pails, copper sauce pans, brass candlesticks and brass irons. She also has glassware, quilts and paintings.

"The paintings are mostly American works," Mrs. Pace said. "And they're all originals."

Mrs. Pace is an avid collector. She's been "personally" accumulating antiques for 13 years.

Diane and her husband, Pete, have three children: Christie, 12; Nomi, 11; and Lauren, 10.

Ceramics: A relaxing hobby

Teresa Bearss has purchased The Ceramic Place - now known as Ceramics Fun - from Dave and Debbie Kimble.

Ceramics Fun is located on US-31 South near Village Car Care.

Teresa will be teaching classes at the shop at a charge of $1 per week.

"You can come in as often as you want during the week," Teresa said. "You work at your own pace. I'm here primarily to answer questions and to offer pointers."

Ceramics Fun is open from 1-5 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, 1-5 p.m. on Saturday and 6:30-9 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Classes will be held from 1-3:30 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday, 9 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday, 1-3:30 p.m. on Saturday and 6:30-9 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Greenware, tools and paint can be purchased at Ceramics Fun. Teresa has over 100 greenware molds in stock and can order more "right away" if need be.

Teresa has had an avid interest in ceramics for the past year. She has taken private lessons and has done "a lot of reading and studying" to keep up on the latest techniques.

Teresa Bearss of Ceramics Fun

"It's getting to be a real popular hobby, especially in the winter," she said. "It's a way of relaxing and getting away from it all."

Christmas projects are the big thing right now, Teresa said. Lots of people are already working on nativity sets, Christmas trees, Santa Claus houses and platters.

"It's a good hobby to get into," Teresa added. "People like the idea of making something themselves. Besides it makes a gift more unique if you make it yourself."

Health Department

provided 1,065 hours of consultation-education services to over 1,300 people. The outpatient staff provided 1,485 hours of therapy and 703 hours of screening and referral services to 1,578 clients. The services were provided by individual, family, and group counseling and alcohol-highway safety classes.

The Health Education division of District Health Department Number Three is concerned with educating the public on health matters through newspaper and radio releases, posters, pamphlets, and conducting classes on a variety of subjects, including venereal diseases, cardio-pulmonary resuscitation, and first aid certification.

Today, there are over 50 people working for District Health Department Number Three in the four-county area it serves. As the saying goes these days, the department has "come a long way, baby" from 1930 when some of Sen. Couzens' money was used to set up a staff consisting of a health officer, a dentist, a sanitary inspector, and four nurses.

Historic Beaver Island

When commercial fishing in northern Lake Michigan was in its heyday, nearly 2,000 people called Beaver Island home.

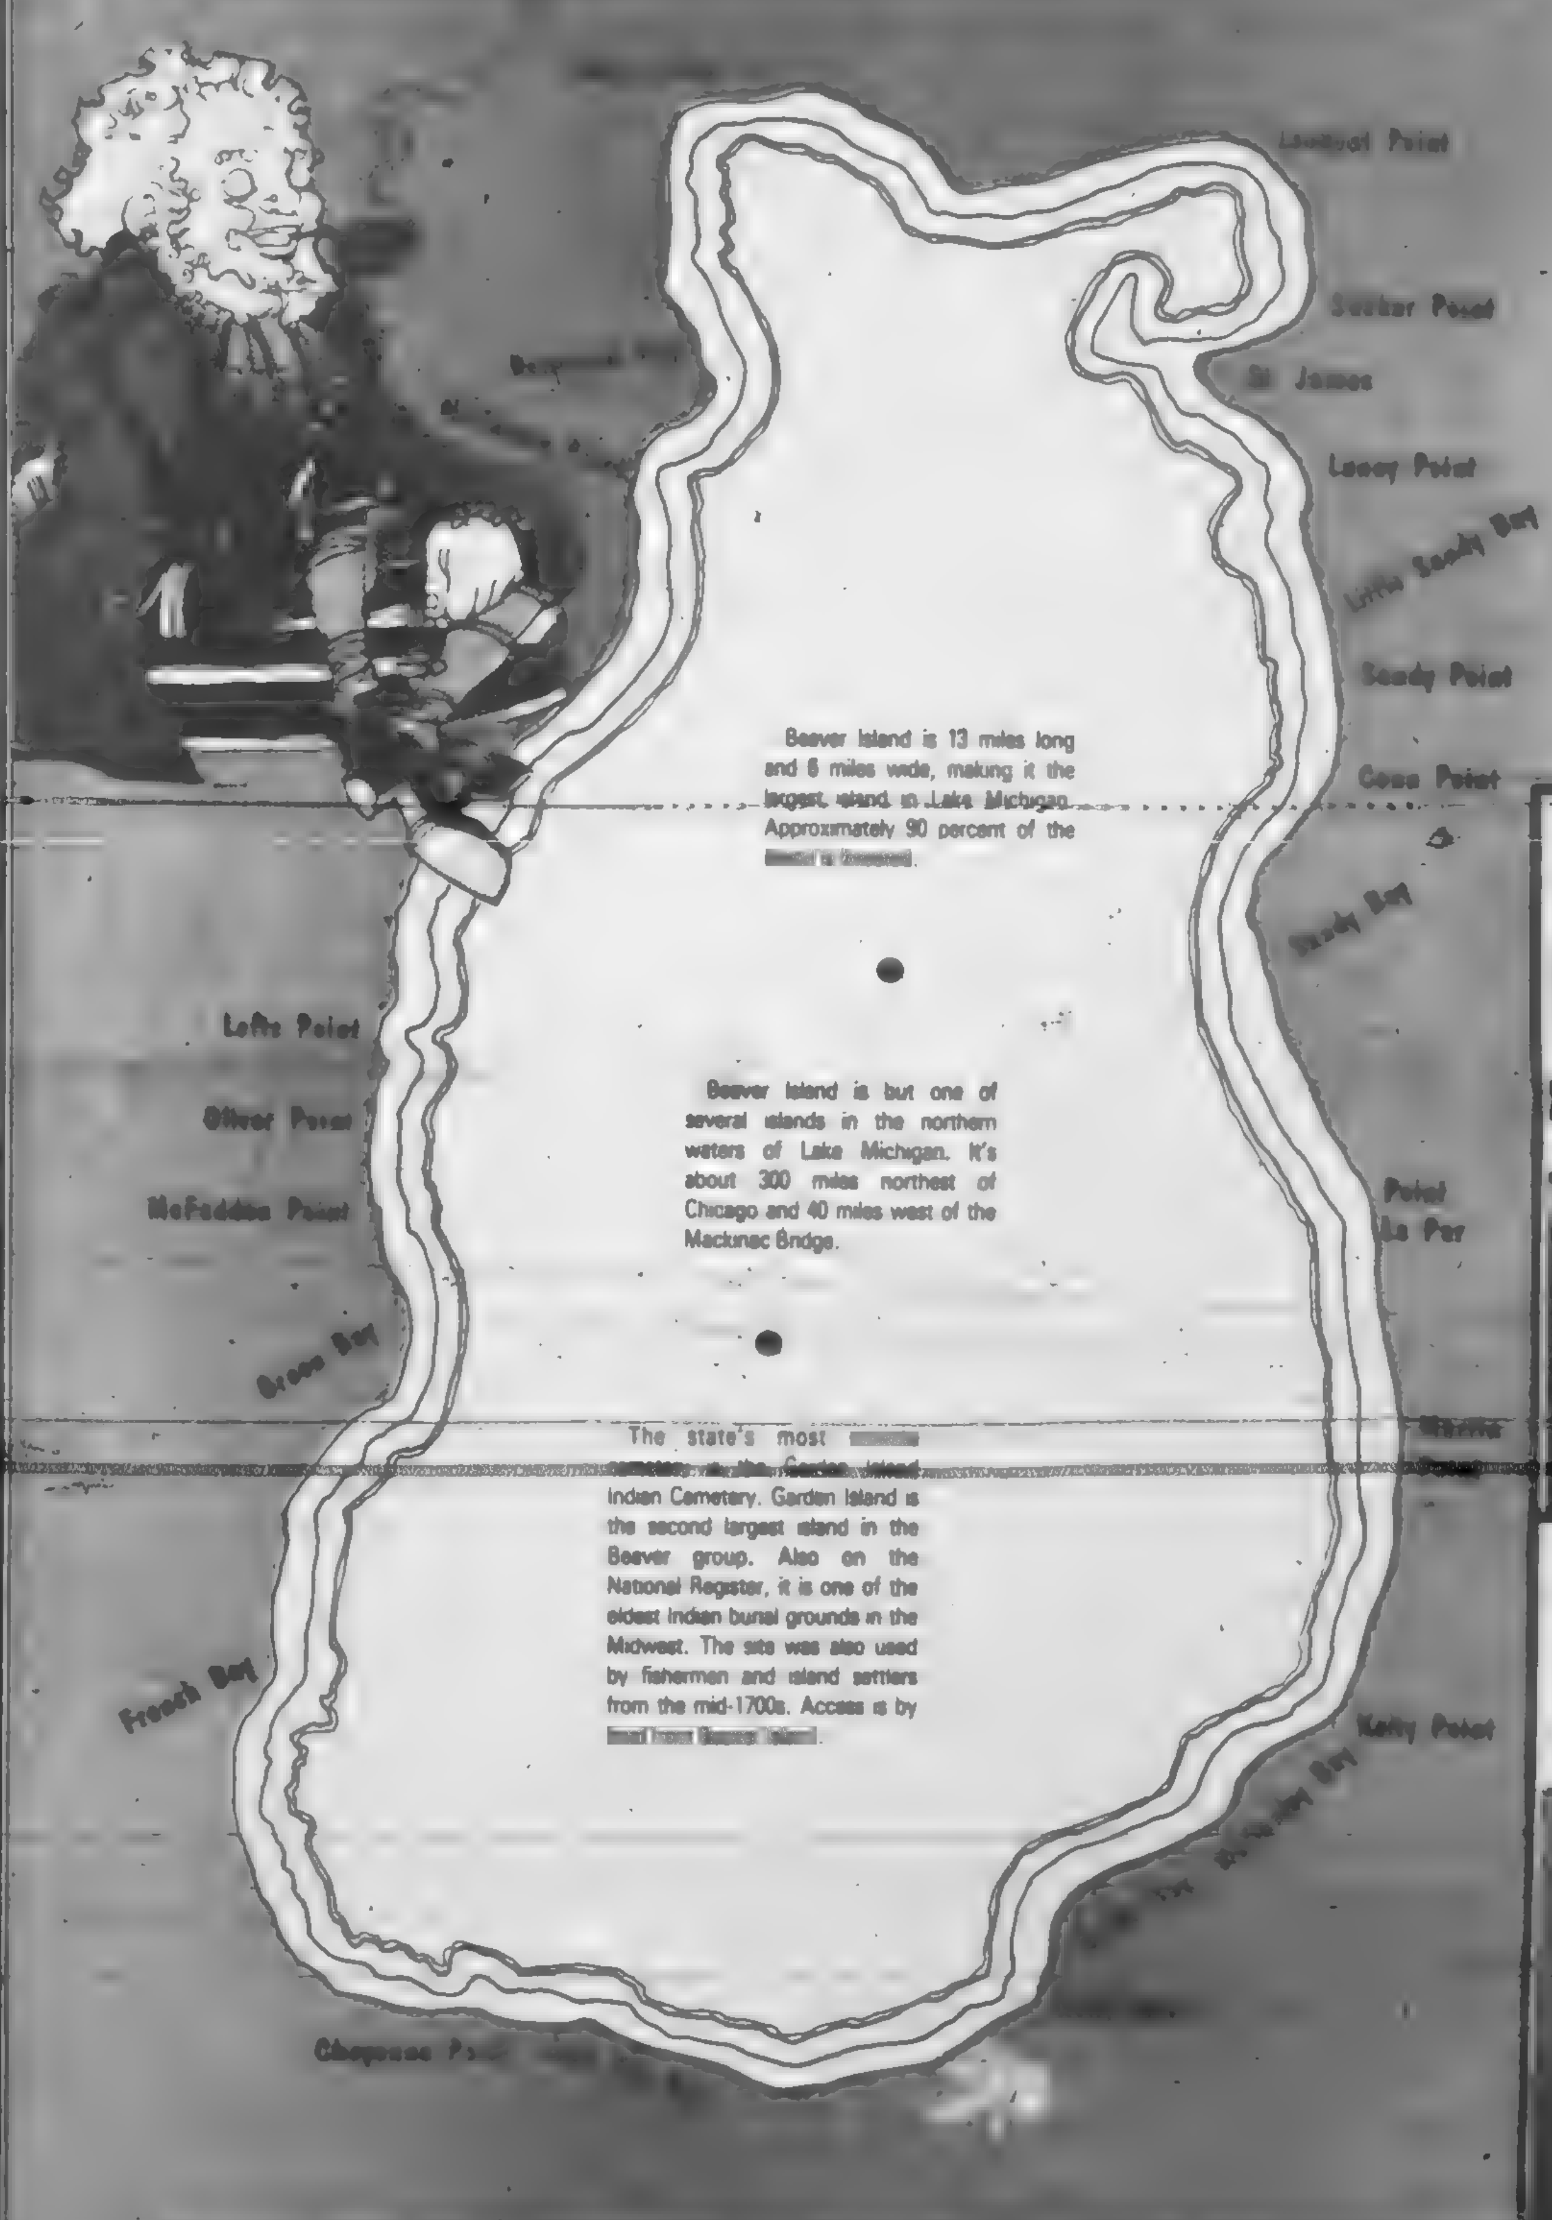
That was about 100 years ago. Today, fishing is still popular in the waters that surrounded the island, but not to the extent that it was in the 1880's.

The Beaver Island area is primarily known for its smallmouth bass fishing. Little Sand Bay, French Bay and Greenes' Bay are fertile fishing [illegible].

Garden and Hog Islands also offer good smallmouth bass fishing. Pike and perch fishing are good, too. Northern pike can be found in Beaver Harbor as well.

Four of Beaver Island's seven inland lakes provide good fishing. Font Lake, at the north end of the island, is a large, shallow lake that is known for its largemouth bass. Perch and bluegill are abundant, too. Barney's Lake, three miles south of town, is a small, protected lake that abounds with pike and bluegill. Fox Lake, near the center of the island, reaches a depth of 20 feet and is stocked with rainbow trout. Lake Generserath, in the southeast corner of the island, is the largest of the inland lakes and has a variety of fish including – large and smallmouth bass, pike, sunfish, perch, suckers and sturgeon.



Beaver Island is 13 miles long and 6 miles wide, making it the largest island in Lake Michigan. Approximately 90 percent of the [illegible].

Beaver Island is but one of several islands in the northern waters of Lake Michigan. It's about 300 miles northeast of Chicago and 40 miles west of the Mackinac Bridge.

The state's most [illegible] cemetery is the Garden Island Indian Cemetery. Garden Island is the second largest island in the Beaver group. Also on the National Register, it is one of the oldest Indian burial grounds in the Midwest. The site was also used by fishermen and island settlers from the mid-1700s. Access is by [illegible].

School board makes two debt retirement payments

By Fran Martin

The Charlevoix Board of Education last week approved payment of debt retirement obligations on two bond issues, approved change orders in construction at the middle and high schools, accepted a resignation and heard two reports.

Payments of $122,740 to the National Bank of Detroit on the 1968 (Elementary School [illegible]) to the City National Bank on the 1959 high school [illegible] were approved.

Change orders in the construction at the middle school required the changing of a door to meet code at a cost of $1200 and the addition of a roof drain, additional carpeting in the enlarged library and safety glass in doors at the high school at a cost of $[illegible] were approved.

The resignation of Plas Presnell was accepted with regret. He is leaving the faculty to accept a position at CMU.

Hal Evans addressed the board on recommendations for improving the reading program in the school. He advised the board that though the recommendation proposed earlier were extensive, most could be implemented by utilizing existing facilities and personnel.

David J. Smith, assistant principal, advised the board that the drop-out rate during the 1979-80 school year was 5.6 per cent of the student population in high school or 33 students. He added that though this seemed high it was below the state and national average. He also discussed absenteeism in the high school and said that the majority of this was due to students accompanying their parents on vacations and for appointments made by parents with orthodonists.

Lottery luck continues

Charlevoix area residents continue to do well in the state lottery.

Barbara M. Skeel of Charlevoix and George L. Patton of East Jordan recently won $5,000 each in the lottery's "Michigan Baseball" instant game.

Each "Michigan Baseball" instant ticket has nine baseballs, or playing spots, representing nine innings. Under each baseball is the score for that inning. If the player's total score (the sum of the nine innings) is greater than the opponent's score (found under "Their Score") the player wins a cash prize. If the two scores are identical, the player wins a free ticket.

The "Michigan Baseball" instant game features a grand drawing with a top prize of $1,000 a week for life. Winners of $50 prizes who file a claim within 10 days after the announced end of the game qualify for the grand drawing elimination.

Addition approved for center

Lansing — East Jordan Family Health Center has received approval from the state health director to construct an addition to the facility at an estimated cost of [illegible].

When the center was built in 1977, [illegible] examination rooms were included in phase I with six of them serving as office space until the phase II expansion was needed.

The addition will measure 1,600 square feet and will provide office space for two physicians, one physician's assistant, two nurses, a room for medical transcription and the medical library, administration, an X-ray change room and office, and an elevator.

The six rooms in the original structure which now serve as offices will be furnished as patient examination rooms. Plumbing for these rooms was installed in the Phase I construction, so the rooms will need only the appropriate furniture.

Although no new services will be added to the clinic, the project will expand the capacity of the primary care facility in a medically underserved area.

The state health director's decision coincided with the recommendation of the Northern Michigan Health Systems Agency.

Hobbycraft Show July 12

More than 100 hobbyists and craftsmen from the State of Michigan and the Midwest will exhibit their designed handcrafted items at the 12th annual Lakeside Hobbycraft Show, Saturday, July 12.

The show promises to be "the finest to date" with a wide variety of exhibits entered, organizers say.

"The show attracts outstanding hobbyists and craftsmen whose work surpasses that seen in juried and even larger downstate hobby show," organizers add.

The show - to be held in East Park - will get underway at 9 a.m. It will last until 8 p.m.

Those people visiting the show will see a wide variety of crafts including jewelry, handcrafted pewter, wind chimes, antique doll reproductions, custom made signs and cypresswood clocks to name just a few.

The Lakeside Hobbycraft Show is one of Charlevoix's top summer attractions. It is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce.

Religious program aired

"Streams In The Desert," a half-hour inspirational radio program featuring top quality easy listening music, is a regular part of WVOY AM and WKHQ FM programming each Sunday at 7 a.m. on WKHQ and 7:30 a.m. on WVOY.

The show is produced by the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission. Gary C. Smith, a professional disc jockey, is the program's host.

"By using a professional announcer we have eliminated the pastoral tones that earmark many religious programs," said Jack Norris, "Streams In The Desert" producer.

"Smith voices a mixture of essays, poetry and thought provoking comments in an appealing mixture designed to find family-wide acceptance."

The music is chosen mainly from commercial albums, but a Christian-music selection is also featured each week.

Listeners may write in for free "Streams In The Desert" booklets which contain the show's messages for [illegible].

"Streams In The Desert" is the commission's newest program. Currently it is heard on 131 stations throughout the U.S.

Diocese collects $1,098,413

Reverend Thomas M. Dominiak, executive director of the Gaylord Diocese Catholic Services Appeal Campaign, has announced that $1,098,413 has been pledged to the campaign thus far.

The campaign funds various charitable, religious and educational programs of the diocese which comprises the parishes and mission churches in the 21 county area of northern lower Michigan.

Area parishes and missions who have contributed include Holy Cross (Beaver Island), St. Mary's (Charlevoix), St. Matthew's (Boyne City), St. Augustine Mission (Boyne Falls), St. Joseph's (East Jordan), Holy Childhood (Harbor Springs), St. Francis (Petoskey), and St. Francis Solanus Mission (Bay Shore).

Father Dominiak reported that 19,380 pledges, at an average of $55, have been given by members of the diocese. This represents a participation factor of 80 percent, he said.

The contributions so far are six percent higher than in last year's campaign and 83 of the 83, or 100 percent of the parishes and missions, are over targeted goals. Solicitation of gifts is continuing in the parishes for the next several weeks.

The Community Church of God before...

Centennial observed

By Fran Martin

The Community Church of God recently observed the centennial of the founding of the Church of God with a special service that included a homecoming of former church members (who now reside elsewhere) and the return of one its former pastors, the Rev. W.D. Wood.

Rev. Wood, who now resides in Belding, delivered the centennial message and the church choir - directed by William Purdy - sang hymns and anthems reminiscent of the early days while wearing costumes of that era.

Some of the older members of the church, including Mrs. Robert Dickie and Mrs. Amos Towsley who still attend services regularly, received special recognition. A potluck dinner at Fellowship Hall followed the ceremony.

The Church of God was founded in 1880 at Anderson, Ind. That same year the Church of God was established in Michigan.

The Church of God is no newcomer to Charlevoix County. The first Church of God came to the area in 1892 at campgrounds located on the east shore of the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix across from Holy Island. In 1899, the church was moved to Ironton in Eveline Township and in 1906 to the present camp grounds located off Loeb Road in Marion Township which is still in use during the summer. In 1917, the church was moved to Charlevoix and constructed at its present site at 202 West Hurlbut Avenue on property donated to the church by the late Mrs. Mary Wyers. The construction was done by members who volunteered their services with their teams of horses hauling loads of fieldstone to the site for use as the exterior of the building.

As the congregation of the little church, now known as the Community Church of God, increased it became necessary to expand to allow space for Sunday school rooms and church activities. Thus, in the late 1940's Fellowship Hall, which is still in use, was added to the south of the church during the tenure of Rev. Wood who served the church from 1942 until 1952.

The continued growth of the congregation made it necessary to enlarge the church from its 120 seats in 1975 an extensive remodeling and expansion program was initiated under the Rev. William Seibert. As a result, the church now has a seating capacity of 350 seats and additional rooms including the pastor's study that the first structure did not boast. In the remodeling process, the field stone, that had brought it the name of "Stone Church" in its early days, was replaced with a wood exterior. Entry to the church is now through doors contigious with Fellowship Hall, creating a facility under one roof.

Today, the 350 seats at the present church are usually filled at worship services, a far cry from the tiny church which served the few dedicated parishoners in its early days in Charlevoix.

The Rev. Hastings has served as pastor since 1968.

The Rev. George Majors, now of Fairbanks, Alaska, was pastor from 1952 until 1969.

...and after expansion in 1975.

TAX ANTICIPATION NOTES
(General Obligation Limited Tax)

SEALED BIDS for the purchase of tax anticipation notes of Charlevoix Public Schools, Counties of Charlevoix and Antrim, Michigan of the par value of $1,383,000.00 will be received by the undersigned at 208 Clinton Street, Charlevoix, Michigan until 12:00 o'clock noon Eastern Daylight Savings Time on the 10th day of July, 1980 at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

NOTE DETAILS; INTEREST RATE; PAYING AGENT; AND DENOMINATIONS: The notes will be dated July 10, 1980 will mature March 31, 1981 and will bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 9% per annum. Both principal and interest will be payable at a bank or trust company located in the State of Michigan to be designated by the original purchaser of the notes which paying agent qualifies as such under the Statutes of the State of Michigan or of the Federal Government, subject to the approval of school district. Denominations and form of notes to be at the option of the purchaser. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such notes must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

PRIOR REDEMPTION: The notes shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity.

[illegible] NOTES. For the purpose of awarding the notes the interest cost of each bid will be computed on a 360 day year basis by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from July 10, 1980 to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest dollar interest cost to the municipality. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the notes or at a price less than their par value will be [illegible].

SECURITY: The loan is in anticipation of the operating portion of the School Tax for the fiscal year July 1, 1980 to June 30, 1981 which tax is due and payable December 1, 1980. The School District is required to establish a special fund to be used solely to pay the principal and interest on the notes when due, and to set aside in said fund an amount sufficient to repay the principal and interest on the notes when due. A portion of each dollar of taxes remaining to be collected for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1980 shall be set aside in an amount not less than 125% of the percentage that the principal amount of the notes bears to the amount of taxes to be levied and to be collected for operating expenses, anticipated delinquency in collections being taken into account, until the amount so set aside is sufficient for payment of the notes.

In addition, the notes will be a General Obligation of the school district and if tax collections are insufficient to pay the notes when due the school district has pledged to use any and all other resources available for payment of said notes. The school district does not have the power to levy taxes for the payment of the notes in excess of its constitutional and statutory tax rate limit.

GOOD FAITH: A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2% of the par value of the notes, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the notes. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned.

[illegible] DELIVERY OF NOTES: Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of the purchaser's attorney approving the legality of the notes to be secured at the purchaser's expense. The purchaser shall furnish notes ready for execution at his expense. Notes will be delivered at a place to be agreed upon with the purchaser.

THE RIGHT IS RESERVED TO REJECT ANY OR ALL BIDS.

ENVELOPES containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposals for Notes".

CHARLEVOIX CHURCH DIRECTORY

The design and color scheme of a flag are never arrived at by accident, but they represent the recorded history of the nation with each color and pattern motif recounting a chapter in the story of blood, hardships and sacrifice that gave birth to it. Therefore those who ridicule patriotism and decry the flag as a worthless piece of material have evidently not grasped the significance of their very right to speak out in this manner. It would be difficult to depict such blessings as freedom, justice and equality without some form of symbolism, and ironically, those detractors are the very people who most need to be reminded of them. So, fly your flag, be ready to defend its meaning, and in your Church, thank God for your right to do so.

Con artists.
They'll tell you the trip is free and then take you for a ride!

Funny thing about con artists. Every year, millions of people are talked out of their life savings. There are lots of ways to be conned. I think you should learn about them—so you won't be. Write to: Crime Prevention Coalition, Box 6600, Rockville, Maryland 20850. Help put these crooks out of business, and you'll be helping to...

Dining and Entertainment SPOTLIGHT

Eat and be healthy

Owners Barb Druffel and her husband, Guy Peters, offer a friendly casual dining atmosphere with which to relax and inviting selections on the menu – prepared by chef Gary Nelson – that will "tickle the tongue of even the person with the most discriminating taste."

Highlights on the menu include their well known Mexican dishes, a Lassie (a yogurt drink blended with fruit), a Cosmo salad (watercress, celery & mushrooms with a mustard dressing), and Quiche and Lamb Kabobs (marinated lamb cubes served with fresh vegetables on rice & yogurt dip).

Mercado's is open for dinner Thursday-Saturday 6-9 p.m. and for lunch Monday-Saturday 10:30 a.m.-4 p.m.

Mercado's is located on Howard Street behind the Grain Train, in Petoskey.

Weekend Fun at J.D. & Company...

... celebrating their second anniversary July 5th.

J.D. & Company has always been a fun place to eat, but this weekend it will be the restaurant to visit.

Chris and Roxanne Spohr, owners of this popular lunch and dinner spot, plan to have lots of fun and excitement for kids of all ages, with clowns, balloons and free prizes given to their guests all day long. To make this day even greater, their "make your own sundae" buffet will open at 10 a.m. So if you want to skip your eggs and order blue moon ice cream and peanut butter sauce, better get there early!

J.D. & Company, a restaurant with imagination, 201 Howard St., Petoskey, 347-5422. Open Friday, July 4. adv
